GENERAL DECREASE IN REGISTRATION

Many Students Have Succumbed to Effects of Raised Standards

Now that the term is well under way, and the results of the Supplemental Examinations have been announced, certain very apparent conclusions may be drawn from a comparison of this year's registration in the leading faculties with that of last year.

The registration in Arts (which includes University College, Trinity, and Victoria) now totals only 7028, as compared with last year's total of 7531. The detailed statistics are as follows:—First year registration—last year 482, this year 355; Second year—last year 416, this year 275; Third year—last year 266, this year 221; Fourth year—last year 239, this year 177. The number enrolled in the first year in University College is about the same as last year, but the numbers at Trinity and Vir. have decreased.

The number of students registered in the Faculty of Medicine is also considerably lower than that of last year. This is especially noticeable in the first and second years. Last year's enrollment in the first year was 130, whereas this year's list has not as yet reached the 50 mark. The present figures for the various years are as follows:—first year—105; 2nd year—82; 3rd year—178, 4th year—130.

The falling off in the numbers of the first and second years is largely ascribable to the fact that the course was last year increased from four to five years. Then, in addition, there has been a very real raising of standards both of entrance to the faculty and of passing to upper years.

The length of the Applied Science course has been increased to four years, and consequently it is not surprising that the registration here also stands slightly lower than that of a year ago. The freshman year numbers 215, whereas last year's was 271 strong. In the second year 200 have registered, as compared with 230 last year. The present third year figures are 135. Last year's were 173. The 4th year is about the same numerically as the first year of a year ago, the present total being 70.

The enforcement of any new rule which imposes upon the students a more rigid time of requirement is inevitably strikes rather hard at first, as is borne out most emphatically by the case of the present year's raising of standards throughout the University. The new matriculation standard has greatly cut down the number of students eligible to enter university courses. Moreover the courses of two of the leading faculties have been lengthened; and, finally, the increased difficulty of the examinations within the Colleges has checked the progress of a great many students. The rule which states that on one having stars of two years back may enroll in a new year, is another case in point. Undoubtedly, some of whom have completed three years of their courses.

THE REINCARNATED HUSTLE

University College—The new Arts building, after the fashion of the various forms of torture which might be inflicted on the innocent freshmen, have come to the conclusion that the hustle could be better than the form the hustle took last year, which was an athletic evening held between the two years. It was decided that, although this might not have had as bustling an effect as the old hustle which, at least, created a stir, it could be carried out with less danger to skin and clothing and without causing any undue annoyance to students on outside faculties or the campus.

This evening will be held in the gym on Friday, and will consist of a kick-back, wrestling, basketball, roller hockey and other friendly contests to show which year is the better. It is well known that, being what they may have arisen, both years, instead of punishing one another with a punishment of refreshments offered, and those who enjoy the fragrant weed will have an opportunity of indulging their taste.

PRESEDENT FALCONER OPENS YEAR WITH SPLENDID ADDRESS

"Become a Law unto Yourselves," is His Advice to Students of All Faculties

The outstanding academic function of opening week was President Falconer's address to the men and women of all years and faculties, delivered in Concertation Hall on Wednesday afternoon in spite of inclement weather conditions, the attendance of students and instructors was very large, and it required no keen sense of vision to perceive that the splendid address had a deep impression on the audience.

The President opened with a reference to the outward signs of the work of expansion that had been steadily going on at the various departments of the University during the past summer—the completion of the new Thermodynamics building, the strengthening and improving of the old S-P-S building, the Library extension (which will be completed in a year's time), the commencement of the erection of a Faculty Education building, and the buildings for the Faculty of Household Science and the new museum on Bloor street. He also extended to the newly-appointed members of the staff a most hearty welcome, and expressed the belief that they would materially strengthen the teaching part of the University. "For," said he, "the part of our work which is really most important, is to endeavour to afford our 4,000 students the very best of instruction in all branches of study."

Dr. Falconer then gave a most interesting review of his impressions of several great educational gatherings which he attended during the summer—the meeting of the British Association of Science at Winnipeg, the Darwin Centenary held at Cambridge in June, the 350th anniversary of the University of Geneva, and the 500th anniversary of the University of Leipzig.

"One was struck at Leipzig," said the speaker, "by the conviction of the German people that the Universities have contributed immensely to the life of the nation as a whole. Also the Germans have recognized that through the universities, a great contribution has been made to the marked modern progress of the German Empire, that results have amply justified the outlays put on these great seats of learning." Continuing, the President referred to the sense of the commonwealth of learning far wider than any national boundaries, which was so apparent in all these assemblages of learned men. "And," said he, "one came away with a great hope for the future at the hands of this commonwealth of men. I thought, which aroused no national jealousies but aimed at an ultimate goal that is not seen in the clashing of nations."

The remainder of President Falconer's address was an impressive personal talk to the great mass of students before him. And the outstanding note was summed up in the significant affirmation, "Be a law unto yourselves." He expressed gratification at the action of the Athletic Association in deciding that an institution should be permitted to fill places on first teams. "Von have here set a law unto yourselves," said he, "showing the true line between the use and abuse of athletics. And further, I think that you have set a law unto the University life of the Dominion." He exhorted his hearers to observe at all times the real honourable rules of the game.

"Remember that you are individuals and not a mere crowd," said the speaker. "The life of the crowd is a life of sameness in which imitation is strong. The strong too often overpowers the individual. The danger is that you may lose your sense of responsibility. And this is your test—up-pose. Of the effort here is to prevent the individual from being lost in the multitude. The individual students should be developed and not all turned out as finished products exactly alike. They should be discover themselves."

"The aim and function of the University," continued Dr. Falconer, "should be to produce an intelligent democracy with itself. We should criticize our own opinions and not merely transmit things as we receive them. We should become a law unto ourselves. The man who is competent to stand and give some help to others is the man who has a more steady view of the order without him—a reasonable order of life to which he must owe allegiance. In the University we look to the man of that stamp. The more of the universal he sees, the less arbitrary will his thought be. Embodying universal principles he becomes a law unto himself, and so aids and leads others. In the University we have men and women who can distinguish between a fixed star in the moral heavens and a mere wandering meteor."

In weakening the freshmen, the President referred to their first enrolment in academic ranks as a great crisis in their lives—a crisis which was fortunately now no longer in any way a physical one. He impressed upon them that it was their duty not merely to do as others do, but to do as they themselves think right, themselves by reasonableness and intelligence, and to show to the province and the Dominion that they are individuals of a multitude assembled here for a reasonable purpose—individually, moreover, who are "a law unto themselves."

GO-EDS HAVE MADE A GOOD START

Y.W.C.A. CONFERENCE HELD LAST WEEK—AUTUMN
TEA THIS WEEK

An Intercollegiate Workers' Conference of the Y.W.C.A. was held on Saturday, October 2nd, in the Y.W.C.A. building. Representatives were present from the Normal School, Faculty of Education, Medical College, Victoria, McMaster and University College.

The Conference was presided over by Mrs. Falconer. Miss Hedinger and Miss Little assisted in Bible reading and prayer after which Mrs. Falconer gave a brief opening address. Miss Macdonald, the representative of the Dominion Council of the Y.W.C.A. at the World's Christian Student Federation Conference held at Oxford last July, outlined the work of the Conference. After a solo by Miss Olive Graham, Mrs. Anderson spoke of the Student Volunteer Conference to be held at Rochester next December. Some minutes of the Nashville Convention were given by Miss Schaeffgen of McMaster University, Miss Parguel of McGill University, and Miss Dumit of Victoria. The Conference then broke up into several meetings, in which the work of the year was discussed. Tea was afterwards served and at the conclusion of the meeting, the fragments were taken down to the Haystack Cafe, in connection with which the Y.W.C.A. of University College will do special work this year.

FRESHETTES TO BE RECEIVED

The Autumn Tea of the Women's Literary Society, which is a reception to the Freshettes and which is also the first regular meeting of the Society, will take place on Saturday, October 9th, from 4:30 to 7 o'clock, in the East Hall of the Union Building. Invitations will be sent to the wives of the Faculty, graduates in Toronto, and the Freshettes. All other women students regularly enrolled are expected to be present to help make the Autumn Tea as great a success as possible.

The meetings of the Women's Literary Society are held on the second and fourth Saturdays of each month. The programme for this year's activities will be announced at the Autumn Tea.

COLLEGE GIRL NOTES

During the summer Queen's Hall has been redecorated.

The number of Freshettes this year is somewhat smaller than usual. The registration to date does not reach exceed seventy-five. A number of new students are entering the other years.

A larger room than the one in use last year has been secured for the women students who patronize the Dining Hall. The new room is 12 by 12 feet.

The new regulations of Queen's Hall applying to starred students go into force this year. No such students can now obtain accommodation in the Hall.

The preliminary arrangements for the tennis tournament are under way. Several entries have already been made by the women students.

VARSIITY HAS GROWN

As old subscribers will notice, the Varsity has grown in size and scope. The present sheet, while it possesses no more pages than formerly, affords about seven columns of additional news space. The hearty co-operation of the undergraduate body is all that is required to render this year's publication acceptable to all the faculties.

THE POLICY OF THE VARSITY

In the file of the University, The Varsity serves two purposes. Its first object is to fulfill the function of a newspaper for the University, just as the largest dailies serve as the newspapers for the broader fields.

It was only last year that the recognition of the fact that The Varsity should serve as a newspaper rather than as a magazine led to a radical change in The Varsity's policy and the establishment of a bi-weekly paper. An outlet for the literary ability of the undergraduates is afforded in the University Monthly, but the bi-weekly paper exists essentially for the distribution of news which should be interesting to the undergraduates. Last year this scheme of organization of The Varsity was merely an experiment. This year the aim of The Varsity is expansion. There are faculties which have contributed little to Varsity and have taken little interest in the change which has taken place. It is our aim this year to extend the circulation of Varsity to these faculties and to publish news which should be of interest to those for whom Varsity as a magazine had little interest in to whom The Varsity of last year did not appeal.

Besides aiming at the expansion of the paper, we hope to give it a better organization. The duties of The Varsity staff must be made more specific and their work more clearly defined. But, in the past, the paper itself must be systematized. To serve as a newspaper for so large a field is a difficult task for a bi-weekly paper. Conditions are such that while we hope some time in the future to establish a daily, such as exist at some American universities, it is impossible to accomplish this at present. But what we intend doing is to organize the news. The School of Science shall have certain columns, the Faculty of Arts certain others, the Faculty of Medicine certain others, and the space given to faculty news shall be in a certain proportion to the circulation of The Varsity in that faculty. An organization which it has not known before and which is given to The Varsity.

The second object of The Varsity is to serve as a unifying force in the University. When we look at the universities of the old world, and even at those of the United States, we feel instinctively the presence of a University spirit which the University of Toronto does not possess. We have not the traditions of the older universities, while our political connection may tend to coloring constitutional standards upon us, to destroy that spirit which we might otherwise possess. The result is that we have no united action on the part of the undergraduate body. The Students' Parliament, while time is inefficient, is a step in the right direction and an attempt to realize a good ideal. But perhaps the greatest force towards unifying the various faculties and thus constructing a University spirit is Varsity.

WELCOME ALL!

These are days of hearty greetings about the Halls of the various faculties. After an absence of over four months, the great student body has returned to launch out on a new academic year. Last year's seniors have obtained their sheepskins and half-heartedly passed out into the lower world; and the gap has been filled—numerically at least—by the incoming freshman classes. An auspicious start has been made, and everything augurs for a most successful year, from the standpoint of the University and of the individual student. To all newcomers, as well as to the men and women of the other years, Varsity extends a sincere welcome.

OLD COUNTRY NOTES

From our own correspondent

Politics in this country have probably never been so confused or so bitter since the days of the first Home Rule Bill. Everybody has the gift of prophecy, but few any charity. Neither party can be said to have a clear-cut programme, and I earnestly suggest to our leaders. Well-informed Liberals, who stand aloof from the hurly-burly, have told me that the combination of three and powerful and dissimilar minds—Mr. Asquith, Mr. Haldane and Sir Edward Grey—is the dominating force in the party; to imagine that such men are led by Mr. Lloyd-George and Mr. Churchill is ridiculous. This is probably true, but three last year the popular figures, and from careful study of his speeches and his actions, from attendance at the debates, and from private information, I venture to offer some portraitures of the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Here is a man whose upbringing has been a vivid contrast to all the English political traditions, a man self-made and a born fighter. He has had to escape over more than a Birmingham mob during the war; the most tender of men, he has lost a dearly-loved child and sister during his term of office; his private life has been attacked, and he is not distressed. In the House he is courteous and polite; before a large and sympathetic popular audience he seems to lose control of himself, and to lower the dignity of his office. He is nervous, but breaks every day; he is exceedingly sentimental, but open to reasonable conviction on the whole not the "woolly denigrator," as one Minister described him to me, but an impetuous, honest man, whose letters are hardly to be criticised except by himself.

The effects of Lord Rosebery's speech will only appear at the general election as an ex-Prime Minister, still more as twice winner of the Derby, and perhaps most (though this is contrary to conventional and constitutional ideas) as one very high in the confidence of the Sovereign. He is the weight with the silent voter. Meanwhile the Unionist party is rent in twain; Lord Hugh Cecil has since certainly been returned for Oxford University, which will gain his greatest friend since Mr. Gladstone while Lord Robert is being hailed by the Tories as a man of no constituency. The fact is that hardly any one part of this Budget is in itself utterly repulsive to imperialists, the general drift of it is the deciding factor.

As prophecy is so common and so cheap, perhaps I may indulge in one that can be fulfilled only at a distant date; it is that the greatest danger of the future is the unholy alliance of Labour and Protectionism. The Trades-Union Congress just over resolved that direct employment be established in all Government departments, "to obviate the necessity of giving work abroad"; for commentary see the History of Australian Socialism passage.

Family ties are being revolutionized in England; contrary to scriptural warrant and to general experience, the mother-in-law and the daughter-in-law are joining hands to get the voice of England does not love enemies.

Canadian arrivals expected shortly: Mr. G. N. Smith, Miss Maud Allan.

AROUND THE HALLS

A number of Varsity representatives have not returned as yet, and consequently there are not a few facilities which are not represented in the news notes of this issue. We trust that this unavoidable omission will be remedied in all succeeding numbers of Varsity.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The opening of this year reveals the fact that Mr. Snowball, professor of poetry, is still in the way of science, and his place is now filled by two formidable-looking "shoe-shine" machines. The editor has not yet collected enough nerve to place his feet among the machinery, and is unable to speak for the efficiency of the machines. He hopes to persuade one of the staff to make the attempt before long and will then be in a position to make a detailed report.

S.P.S. NOTES

The bulletin boards are already crowded with notices, official and otherwise. Among the notices, it is a regret that mounting frequency pay their respects to the gentlemen of other years, and a reminder that smoke, etc., respectfully solicited (demanded).

Word is received that Bargey, who has been confined to hospital care as a result of investigating high tension work, is, already, is able to be with us. Worried for his fourth year, Bargey who was similarly injured, is also around again, but with several conspicuous trademarks.

Many a "soup-strainer" is disappearing at present with alarming rapidity. In most cases the circumstance borders on pathos, when one considers the careful fastening necessary for development, even in air and sunlight, miles distant from a shaving rack. However, the fact remains that they must be renewed to enable their food owners to get nearer their work during the coming term.

A leap into the thermodynamics and Hydraulics building assures us that someone has labored during the summer almost as earnestly as we ourselves did months ago when the college put was our only companion.

The finger of disdain no longer points regrettably at the north wing of the engineering building. The students may raise their voices above a whisper, once more or vigorously slap little Willie on the back, as in days before the Meds sought to upbraid our kingdom with pills of snow. The building has been carefully reinforced with steel. A splendid system of ventilation is also in evidence, providing an exit for over-worked air and ideas. The whole building has been repaired, and ordinary card tables have been replaced by two-candlepower tingles.

Really, though, when we hang up our hats and venture farther than the halls in search of the "value to be received," we find a pleasant incentive in the rearrangement of the various electrical fixtures. Reports need no longer occupy our "spare" evenings. As soon as an experiment has been completed, we may recapture in a study room (provided with individual lockers), and incidentally make a record of our observations and a record of our labors. A demonstrator to supervise and assist, there is a machine shop, too, where repairs will be promptly effected. Reports need no longer occupy our "spare" evenings. A demonstrator to supervise and assist, there is a machine shop, too, where repairs will be promptly effected.

Judging from personal experience, it is deemed unwise to ask Prof. Graham if he had a good time during the summer. He is a good fellow, obliging as he gets younger. He has announced his intention of providing a few chairs for members of the fourth year.

FORESTRY

Registration in the Faculty of Forestry has been going on for the past three days, and shows a decided advance over last year. Owing to the lack of new calendars, some of the new students are remaining away until to-morrow, which was an announced the opening day in the old literature. It is expected that ten or twelve at least will be on hand for Monday lectures.

Dr. Fernow is providing an excellent course of study for the students, and it is expected under the able guidance of Dr. C. D. Howe, Mr. A. H. D. Ross and Mr. J. H. White, that your students will be indeed a credit to their Alma Mater. Mr. White has recently been appointed to the position of Assistant in Forestry, and the Faculty will doubtless show increased strength as a result.

During the past summer many improvements have been carried out in the Forestry Building. The ground on the south side has been re-landed, two lecture rooms on the ground floor have been thrown into one, and a new outside entrance to the basement has been constructed.

In addition, a new shipment of loggery tools has been placed in the museum, and the number of volumes in the library has been considerably augmented.

The Foresters' Club, of which Mr. T. W. Dwight is president, will soon hold its initial meeting for the year, when an interesting course of evenings will be arranged out.

KNOX COLLEGE

Knox opened wide her doors to the students this week. Wednesday will see all of the men back to the lecturers, which commence at 9 a.m. The rooms will all be located on Tuesday, 5th. There is a very large and promising freshman year.

The annual conference held last week was largely attended. The papers were delivered in splendid style and were much appreciated by the men. The address of Rev. J. D. Cunningham deserves special mention.

A number of last year's class have been settled throughout the Province during the summer. Mr. A. C. Cameron at St. Perry, J. E. Thompson at Cheltenham, E. Clingstone at Goshen, C. A. Little at Kenora, J. B. Kay at Tara, Mr. H. M. Paulin has been called to Chalmers' Church, Woodstock.

Mr. N. A. MacEachern will be missed in the college this year. He is completing his course at Montreal.

During the conference a football match was played between the "grads" and the men in residence. Three to one in favor of the "grads" was the end of it.

The tennis club is holding a tournament this week which is very popular with the members. There are two trophies for individual play, one for singles, the other for doubles. The courts are in excellent shape and some good tennis is expected.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

In they come, the Bloomin' Freshmen.

Ridley College seems to require many of our strongest men. We regret their temporary absence from our halls, but we have a few "stars" left.

Our freshman's year is a large one. It is to be hoped that the advantages offered to our men by the University will be more thoroughly appreciated and utilized by the class of '13 than by many of the preceding years.

The accommodation of our College, spacious as it is, can scarcely meet the demand.

It seemed as though the first of October would never come. The dining hall opened on that day.

From east and west, from north and south, still they come. Every train brings some of the boys returning to the halls of Wycliffe.

We are glad to note the smiling countenance of our beloved "Teddy Bear" once again. He has been roaming about in the wilds of New Brunswick for a year, haunting the precincts of a government survey party.

The formal opening of our College takes place on Oct. 5th. Rev. Prof. Wright, M.A., will deliver a lecture on Erasmus. The chair will be taken by Dr. N. W. Hoyle, at 8:15 p.m. sharp.

Wycliffe College Alumni will meet on Tuesday, Oct. 5.

DO YOU WRITE?

The Varsity, as a students' paper, heartily solicits literary contributions from the students. It matters not what may be the faculty or year to which the contributor belongs or what the subject of his theme will be; he will be gladly received, and carefully perused by the editor, and where it is deemed advisable and found possible, published. A large box, attached to the wall just outside the Varsity office, exists for the purpose of receiving contributions, and items sent in by mail will be promptly delivered from the janitor's office. Of course, the comparative size of the Varsity and the extent of its field, obviates the possibility of publishing all matter submitted. Contributions can only be published according to their importance, although all will be gladly received. The freshmen is especially urged to submit items.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS ARE VERY BRIGHT

Big Squad of Promising Players are Hard at Work

The Rugby season of 1930 is now fairly well under way. Practices were begun two weeks ago and each day brings with it a larger number of candidates for the various positions which are vacant. Outstanding is the third line; at contention, last year's men on both the first and second teams being out of the first team. For this position on the senior team, last year's spares and a number of second team men are fighting it out, and both among the freshmen, who, by reason of the new regulations are debarred from playing and the first team, it will in all probability be possible to select two first-class wings for the seconds.

There have been good practices every night since the beginning of last week in which the first and second teams have opposed each other. Both teams are showing steady improvement, the tackling and running far better especially now, and while the members of the back divisions are still in a little uncertainty in their tackling, they are showing better form every day.

The prospects were never brighter, and unless there are an unusually large number of injuries, the first and second teams should certainly win out in their respective series.

The invader, in fact, out with the third line up to the present have been considerably smaller than in the last few years. These have not been enough out so far to make two teams out of them, and they are, therefore, and we may say, good grounds in hoping to see them repeat their performance in the last two years and gather in another championship.

With the experience he gained last year, Dixon should be a more valuable man than ever to the team.

Tawson is showing all his former ability and the opposing teams will have all kinds of trouble stopping him.

Gall gives promise of having a better season than last and should not have to live up to the reputation he made for himself last season.

Jack Newton's tackling has been the feature of the practices and he will undoubtedly make one of the best. Captain the team has ever had. Jimmy Bell has been doing some fine tackling in the practices and ought again this year to prove himself one of the finest centre scrummers in the game.

Foulds, the quarter-back of last year's second team, is making good with a vengeance with the seniors. His passing is perfect and his running and tackling could hardly be improved on.

Muir and Kingston are both showing fine form and should be able to hold their own against any wing line in the country.

Thorne is this year being tried out at middle wing and he will certainly be a hard man to hold.

Among those trying for positions on the senior line are: Gage, McIlwain, Henderson, Lajoie, J. Dickson, Cruickshank and Jones.

Gage is big, husky, and a hard tackler and is making a strong bid for a place on the firsts.

Jones, Gage and Lajoie are all possibilities for the scrumming, though Gage may make outside wing.

Jack Dickson is putting up a fine game this fall and looks pretty good for outside wing.

Cruickshank is certainly a hard worker.

Henderson, the captain of last year's seconds, is this year trying for the firsts. There are few men faster on their feet than he is.

Van Allen is a beautiful tackler, though he may be a trifle light for the firsts.

Ritchie arrived back last week. He is heavier than ever and in good shape and will be a tower of strength to the team.

Gerald Green, the captain of the seconds, is putting up a fine game. He is splendid luck.

Ferguson, at quarter for the seconds, is showing up splendidly, and should more than make good.

Maynard, the T.C.S. graduate, who has been playing half-back for the seconds in the practices, should have no difficulty in holding his position. He is a sure catch, a splendid runner and lodger, and a good tackler. (Well, last year's quarter-back of the seniors, is this year captain of the Argonauts.)

Those of last year's champions who will this year be absent from the team are Corbett, Lee, Hall, Duncan and Ramsay.

Of last year's intermediate team, Hopkins, Carroll, Milton, Hay, Malone, Roberts, Patterson and Evans are out of the game this season.

TENNIS

The Tennis Tournament started last week and is now in full swing. The weather has not been nearly so favourable as in the last few years. However, there are a large number of entries and the tournament will no doubt be an entirely successful one.

PRESIDENT WILL PREACH THE FIRST SERMON

Y. M. C. A. Entertain a Large Number of Students

The Y.M.C.A. has been a centre of enthusiasm in the past week. Then of all years, freshmen and seniors have taken advantage of the assistance of the Association. During the week hundreds of students have been located in suitable rooms, while many have been assisted in other ways. An active committee has been engaged in assisting the first year men of all faculties to register in their various courses. On Friday the hand-out book was placed in the hands of the students, there being a separate book for each faculty. The map has been improved and the whole book has been enlarged, reflecting credit on the management.

The Public utility campaign is now fairly under way, a large number having already committed. Prospects are bright for the coming year. A conference of leaders will be held on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 9th and 10th. A detailed programme will be given in Friday's issue.

President Falconer will preach the first of the College sermon series on Sunday next, Oct. 10th, in Convocation Hall. Tickets for these sermons will be given out on Thursday, and may be procured up each Faculty. The committee are holding these services every Sunday morning instead of fortnightly as heretofore. It is hoped that the students will take advantage of this opportunity of hearing the most talented preachers of the day. The series will continue weekly throughout the year at 11 a.m. in Convocation Hall.

Receptions are the order of the day, or rather of the evening. The School men had their temporal wants satisfied last night. The "Old" will break all their good resolutions at their "stag" this evening. The Arts men will have a party on Wednesday, at 8 p.m. Apples and grapes will be a minus quantity for a day or so.

RESIDENCE

The popularity of the residences is being strongly attested by the rapidity with which the rooms are being taken up. The South house is quite full, and the east and north houses afford only a few seats which are open to students.

As last year, Mr. E. J. Kytle will be the member of the staff in South Hall, and Dr. V. E. Henderson and Mr. A. D. McLan will be in the East and North buildings, respectively.

In addition to the cleaning and scrubbing of the quadrangle, the authorities have undertaken the finishing-up of rooms in the basements of the various houses for the use of the capable staff of attendants.

Arts students are in the majority this year, as are the first year men. The figures are: Arts, 61; Science, 37; Med., 16; Forestry, 4; First year, 85; second year, 34; third year, 29; and fourth year, 16.

A meeting of the men of the South House was held last Friday to organize for the year. It was decided to elect a house committee of six, one from each corridor. This house will have charge of the home and draws up what few rules are deemed necessary. A fee of seventy-five cents was also levied to defray the expenses of a picnic, treecrossed, etc.

'ENGINEERS ARE BORN, NOT MADE'

Says Mr. W. J. Francis, C.E., at Opening Meeting of Eng. Society

The first meeting for the session of the Engineering Society, on Wednesday afternoon, breathed of music, congenial good-fellowship and advice. President Black occupied the chair. In his opening address he dealt largely with the factor of co-operation, reminding his hearers that the success of the Society did, in past, and will, in future, depend upon the hearty co-operation of the students, being as they are, members of the Society.

The subject, "Character, Training, and Personality, in the Work of the Engineer," was ably dealt with by W. J. Francis, C.E., of Montreal, a graduate of the "School." Mr. Francis treated his subject in a manner that was characteristic of successful engineering. He brought the name of our worthy (and modest) Dean before us as a living example, and we may well look to Mr. Francis with the usual "You're another smile of admiration. He explained the superior equipment of the trained man, and did not hesitate to assert his belief that "Engineers are born, not made." As to our training, we receive it in two schools. First, the University, from which we graduate into the School of Experience. In the former, Mr. Francis would advise, the three R's are not receiving due recognition—referring, of course, to the old three R's that we studied long before we substituted the "Rah! Rah!" of present days, in their stead.

Dean Gallorath was present, and imparted some valuable advice to the freshmen, illustrating for the benefit of all, the ever-widening gap between old and modern methods of training engineers.

President Falconer sent his regrets at not being able to attend. His name, however, was sung and cheered in a manner sufficient to evidence the welcome he will receive when his labours allow him to be present at one of the meetings.

The chairman declared open for nominations the several vacant offices in the society. Burns, Secretary. Hyatt and Jones are in line for the office of Assistant Secretary. Gallorath and Webster will fight for the responsibilities of first year representative. Voting will take place on Monday afternoon.

PROGRESS IN THE SOCIETY

A renewal of energy in the work of the Engineering Society has been contemporaneous with the beginning of another session.

There have been those who have defined the engineer as "He whose designs could be departed on in every part but cost." True, however, is rapidly eliminating this condition. The engineer of to-day must give the same attention to his estimate of probable cost, and his keeping of detail of the same during the progress of the work as he does to the other departments of estimating for which he is responsible. The design of a bridge will mean more to him than a calculation of stresses and strains, and in a conduit or a canal he will need to consider issues other than those involving coefficients of friction.

This widening of view should manifest itself in the every day life of the student body. Among the men of the Engineering Faculty this is the case. To be convinced of this one need but casually examine the business interest that the executive of the society are entering in every department of their work.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT

This is especially noticeable in the Supply Department. This year finds the sales in this department in excess of those for a similar period during any previous year, and at the same time beyond the most hopeful forecasts of those in charge.

The salesroom has been rearranged so as to give almost twice as much room for the sale of supplies. A permanent sales clerk is being hired and the room will be kept open all day for the handling of supplies. A cash register has been installed and has greatly facilitated the handling of the first rush of business. The rearrangement of the salesroom has given greater ease of access to the table of technical magazines, as well as giving a separate office to the editor of "Applied Science." Both these changes are decided improvements over the previous arrangement.

The prices in every line have also been carefully revised and are in every instance the barest advance on cost. The aim in introducing this department was to furnish students goods of first quality at the lowest possible cost, and those in charge have always kept this goal in view. An example will illustrate. Last year while the Society of Civil Engineers was in session in this city, a number of them from Montreal purchased instruments and supplies from the Engineering Society on account of the exceptional values offered.

The great demand of the student body in the Engineering Faculty at the present time is that the Society handle text books on a co-operative basis in addition to the lines already carried. For the past two years the Society have been handling in printed form the work given by a number of the professors. This year a still for-

TO BE ORGANIZED AS FIRE FIGHTERS

University Employees Instructed By Fire Department Official

On Monday evening of this week a talk was given in one of the rooms of the main building to the University employees by Mr. Craig, head of the electrical department of the city fire brigade. This talk was the preliminary step in a plan of Superintendent Campbell's to have the employees organized for any emergency of fire.

About 150 were present and listened with interest to Mr. Craig's advice and suggestions. After his lecture, Mr. Craig took the employees out to the fire boxes on the University property and explained their workings. He pointed out the advisability of using these boxes-alarms instead of "phoning to the Department in case of fire.

Mr. Campbell intends to have all the University employees thoroughly acquainted with the location of the fire-fighting apparatus in the different buildings. He has profited by the fire this summer in the Parliament Buildings, and it is not his intention to have a repetition of it enacted in the University.

Under the present system there are fire-alarm boxes scattered throughout the grounds, the keys of which are kept in the various buildings. A call sent in from these boxes means a general alarm and summons the whole brigade. On this account it has been decided that the keys not have keys at the boxes left a student in a happy mood, or some other irresponsible person, should turn in a false alarm, which might result seriously if a fire was to occur simultaneously in some other part of the city.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA A GREAT ORGANIZATION

First Rehearsal of Present Season Held Last Evening was Largely Attended

The University Orchestra, in its rehearsal last evening, entered upon its second season. Its success last year, while yet in its infancy, augurs well for its future, as does also the appointment of such men as Mr. Easter Smith, P.C.V. London, Eng., Dr. A. E. Sample, Mr. P. J. Mills as assistants to Mr. H. G. Meir, the conductor.

This organization deserves the attention of the student body, offering to each, as it does, an opportunity of getting an efficient training in orchestra work and a chance to study music of pronounced merit within his capabilities. It is therefore with the greatest confidence in the merits and advantages of the organization that the committee urge upon all interested in orchestra music to join with them and make this season's work a still greater success.

Two concerts will be given this year, the date for the first having already been set for December 8th. The first rehearsal was held in the gymnasium, Thursday, Oct. 7, at 8 p.m. The conductors were on hand at 7.30 to receive the numerous applications and to start applicants.

PRESIDENT FALCONER AT HARVARD

President Falconer has spent the past few days in Cambridge, Mass., taking part in the ceremonies connected with the inauguration of Harvard's new president.

ward move is being made, and on Monday, Oct. 4th, the Society will place on sale a text book of "Applied Statistics." This will be found especially useful in conjunction with the lectures on this subject. The matter of text books is a pressing need, and the society must not neglect this matter if they are to properly regard the interests of their members.

Following is the list of University sermons which will be delivered in Convocation Hall each Sunday morning throughout the present term.

25th ANNIVERSARY

Women First Admitted to University of Toronto a Quarter of a Century Ago.

Yesterday (Oct. 7th) was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the admission of women to the lectures in Arts of the University of Toronto. Previous to 1884, women had been allowed only to write on examinations, in which they had won scholarships which they had not been allowed to hold.

In 1884, however, by an act of Parliament, the University was thrown open to women, and several ladies entered the third year, the courses chosen being Classics and Moderns. It would be interesting to trace the course of the early struggle for the higher education of women, and its subsequent extensive growth, which has done so much to bring additional glory to our University.

It is unfortunate that this important historic fact is not more widely known, and that no steps have been taken to celebrate the significant anniversary.

Y.W.C.A. RECEPTION TO THE FRESHETTES

Opening Meeting of the Association A Pleasant Function—New-comers Welcomed

The first regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. took the form of a reception to the freshmen, in the Y.M.C.A. building, from 4 to 6 o'clock on Tuesday. The guests were received by the President, Miss R. Russell, the Honorary President, Mrs. Chant, and Miss Bedinger, the Inter-Collegiate Secretary.

About five o'clock a short programme was given, consisting of brief addresses of welcome by Miss Russell and Mrs. Chant. Miss Chapman then played a violin solo, after which Miss McKay, convener of Bible Study, and Miss Robinson, convener of Mission Study, spoke a few words. The programme was brought to a conclusion by Miss Hamilton, President of the Women's Lit., who joined with the Y.W. in welcoming the new girls to college.

While refreshments were being served, Miss Culham sang a solo that was very much appreciated. After some time spent in social intercourse, the guests departed, quite convinced that the Y.W.C.A. is the finest institution in the land of college.

The Bible Study rally will take place next Tuesday at 5 o'clock. The special speaker will be announced in the next issue.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

On the opening day of the term the Membership Committee of the Y.W.C.A. was on hand, assisting the freshmen in their registration and enrolment with professors. The girls' luncheon in the Main Building will be open early in the week. Tea and cocoa may be obtained there.

The work of the Y.W.C.A. will be shaped along somewhat different lines this year. The new plans include the holding of a social meeting at least once a month, to which all women students of University College are invited. It is hoped that this meeting will help students of all years to become better acquainted with each other. More practical work will be done in the Ward. This will include visiting, reading and teaching. The opening meeting next week will take the form of a Bible Study rally.

HAVE WE A DISTINCT TYPE?

When we consider the graduate of the University of Toronto do we see any distinctive features or any striking characteristics that mark him off from the graduates of other universities or from the general world in which he moves? The graduate of Oxford can be distinguished by his cosmopolitan culture; the graduates of other universities, too, have their respective types. But when we consider the graduate of the University of Toronto we find no distinctive markings which set him off from an undergraduate have left on him, to make one who does not already know, instinctively feel that he is a graduate of the University of Toronto.

For this unflattering conclusion there seem to be but two explanations. We have no traditions to band us together, no past in which we take a wholesome pride. We lack the quick enthusiasm of the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge or Leipzig or Paris. We lack the more vigorous enthusiasm of the Universities of Harvard and Yale. There is no force so potent and no power so unifying as a pride in tradition of the past.

Far in the background as the political connection and financial dependence of the University may be kept and clearly as it may be disguised, the effect of that connection is nevertheless present, and its influence clearly felt. The fact that each year the people of the Province pay for the support of the University a half-a-million dollars leads to the inevitable adoption of utilitarian standards. "The greatest good to the greatest number" is not the desideratum, but it is the condition in the University of Toronto. The result is a low standard. The average undergraduate is not capable of taking a mature interest or forming a mature opinion in matters connected with his University life. In short, he is not and cannot be "a law unto himself." Such is the second cause for the fact that there is here no distinct type.

A VERY URGENT NEED

It requires but a brief visit to the basement of the gymnasium, any afternoon between five and six o'clock these days, to convince one how very urgent is the need of a new swimming pool and a newly-equipped shower room. The bath department is always regarded as one of the most important of an up-to-date gymnasium's equipment, and the University of Toronto is sadly behind in this regard. It is the earnest hope of the Varsity's athletes, as well as of all who realize the importance of properly-conducted athletics, that the much needed improvements will be effected at a very early date.

THE STROLLER

The Freshman is an uncertain quantity with an idea of his own importance. True, he can't help thinking he is somewhat huge when the Prof's tell him to drop in to see them, when he feels in the least inclined. This is poor policy on the part of anyone, because the freshman has a notorious habit of taking himself very seriously. When asked to join the Union or to pass on a few checks for the College paper, he waves himself up and questions whether or not he will have the time. This same old jolly has been handed out all the time. Business Manager is in danger of an early grave. What do men come to college for? To say they have no time for this or that? Forget it. The University is not a cure. It is so strenuous that many fall by the wayside. Even men who are worthy. Prof's. have let us see details worry them for several years at a stretch, and have turned grey and postural under the strain. What's the use of letting these little details worry us on the side? We can console ourselves with the thought that May is months away. No time to read The Varsity. As well think of closing week without the "Show" or a day sans a cigarette. The man who comes to Toronto merely to plug, the man who has no time for anything else, looks like to become the most unpopular man about the institution. True citizenship in the University is, or should be, the ideal of the college man to-day. That is pure education which tends to make a man better fitted to fill his place as a necessary part of a working organism. The greatest men, strange to say, do not all come from the ranks of those standing highest in the class. What becomes of the great collegians who graduate as head of their class? Many of our great men were distinguished as blockheads in school. Daniel Webster's case was hopeless. Franklin could not learn arithmetic. Henry Ward Beecher was a dunce in the eyes of his teachers. Why not content ourselves with taking in as much as possible of all the good that's going instead of as much as we can of one thing alone? A legion of facts and data is useless to us. Do we add to the sum of human happiness when we devote ourselves to the mere acquisition of knowledge? Emerson held that the study of ancient languages was a waste of time, because the richest thought was already expressed in our own. We are heirs of the great who have labored and thought, all in the past, and we must not ignore that heritage! But we cannot afford to occupy ourselves so completely in picking up trifles that we will have time neither to enjoy our vast estate, nor to add to it for the benefit of the living and posterity.

AROUND THE HALLS

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

Mr. Murray Gordon, B.A. ('09), after spending the summer on the Muskoka Lakes, returned acquaintances in the Union and Around the Halls last week. Many a jealous eye was cast upon this newly-acquired waxed hairdo admiringly.

Mr. "John" Bull, B.A. ('09) paid a flying visit to his friends in the Kestons and at the Residence, a few days ago.

A well-known senior thought a stylish new full overcoat a few days ago and wore it to Quince on Tuesday afternoon. Yesterday afternoon a friend of his borrowed the coat (without making known the fact) and went down town, where he was seen by several students of both sexes. The latter are now quite naturally wondering who is the real owner of the coat or whether its ownership is a joint arrangement.

Prof. Mavor has contributed a gratifying addition to the Darwinian theory by stating in a fourth year lecture on Wednesday, that "the 'Hesperian' was not only a money-bag, but a diseased one."

Mr. Walter H. Curran, formerly a member of the class of '10, and well-known throughout the University, has recently joined the Toronto Telegram's reportorial staff.

Mr. Ned Sheppard has discontinued his Arts course to take a place on the Toronto Star.

The following interesting notice adorns the bulletin board in the Union: "Will the person who called a well-known senior a freckle the other day, please come and apologize?"

APPLIED SCIENCE

The Peary-Cook controversy, and all pertaining thereto, has passed the period of interest. However, one is still blessed with the privilege of expressing an opinion on the subject. Prof. Steeger thought and did the other day in Spherical Trig., when he replaced "Pole" by "P" to designate the North Pole on one of his many blackboard inventions.

When our own "Dicky" Sara pulled off his face, the suddenness and intelligence, into our midst for a brief spell the other day, not one of us ever thought to exclude the usual "Pull Sara out." We regret that we are not to have him with us, but we all try to be first in wishing him the best of success.

The many gentlemen of the fresher years, who are seeking daily for an opportunity of appearing in the limelight of senior respect, should consider that to maintain a position forever more next the same senior heart, requires only a little assiduity and towards compiling half a hundred theses.

Oh, how dear to my heart are the old-fashioned notebooks. The old, well-worn notebooks we all used to wear.

With a sketch on each page of the charming professor, who often incited our shimmering.

Mr. L. R. Thompson, '06, of the faculty, is confined to his house on account of an attack of typhoid fever.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Several of our stalwart freshmen are to be seen daily indulging in the unbecoming of Rugby on the Varsity campus.

Our "Horse" returned last Tuesday morning to wait upon those who are unimpaired to ride. One of our men attempted to pull himself up the elevator shaft; when the latter refused to rise, the rope refused to move. Fortunately, it was one in whom the monkey instinct was not wholly lost.

Mr. Ferguson, a graduate in Arts of Dalhousie University, has arrived to pursue his course in theology.

The formal opening of the College took place on Tuesday evening. Rev. Professor Wrong delivered a most interesting and instructive lecture on "Erasmus and his place in the Reformation Movement."

Our "Bell" has once more returned and is again inhabiting the "Saints' Rest." His library loves are enthusiastically lending in the corridors.

On Wednesday night the sophomores held a calisthenic parade, and incidentally the freshmen got badly "stumped."

Mr. J. L. Cotton has returned to the College, after having spent the summer on a temperance campaign throughout Western Ontario.

The alumni meetings are being well attended this week. Each day addresses by most prominent men are given at the several meetings. On Thursday evening the annual meeting of the Canadian C.M.S. was held in Convocation Hall.

KNOX COLLEGE

Lectures were resumed on Wednesday with a fair attendance in all classes. The work in New Testament has not been started, as the newly-appointed professor, Rev. Robert Lowe, will not be on hand till Nov. 1st.

Mr. P. MacLeod has returned to complete his course at Knox. For the past year he has been studying at Hallifax. C. M. Wright, who has kept the summer at Westminster Hall, Vancouver, will also be at Knox this year.

Mr. W. A. Cameron, '10, was elected president of the House Committee for this year. Peace and quietness will be absolutely essential under his regime. He will be fully supported in the administration of justice by Mr. J. H. Martin as vice-president. Rev. S. H. Meyer and W. P. Lane are around the halls for a few days. Rev. J. W. Gordon was here on Tuesday.

The formal opening of the College took place on Tuesday evening, Prof. Gaudier delivering the annual address. His lecture on "The Ministry of the Church" was appreciated by a large audience of friends of the college.

TRINITY COLLEGE

The capacity of the College buildings has been again somewhat taxed in order to accommodate all the men. Several improvements have been made during the vacation, the best of which is, perhaps, the throwing open of two ground-level lecture rooms. The various societies are all renewing their activities, introducing such new features as they see fit.

The Athletic Association is busy arranging its programme. On Saturday a football match was played with the graduates, which resulted in the defeat of the latter by 8 points to nil. A second game was played on Wednesday, the College winning by 2 points to nil.

There are rumors of the elder tennis-court being replaced by a concrete court. We hope they will materialize.

Two new lecturers have come to the college. The most important addition to the staff has been the appointment of a Vice-Provost. This new office is being filled by the Rev. Dr. Lewis, from Seattle. We congratulate the students very fortunate to have secured his services and extend to him a warm welcome.

RESIDENCE NOTES

The grounds about the residences have been levelled and sown with grass seed. They present a big improvement over last year, and the cooperation of the students is asked in keeping them looking well. They can do so by refraining from cutting across the terraces and newly-planted grass and confining their pedestrian efforts to the beaten path. It is the intention to lay out four tennis courts in the quadrangle before the residences.

ON SUNDAY EVENING

Mr. Clayton S. Cooper of New York, who has visited the educational centres of Asia and this continent, will address the grand student body in Convocation Hall on Sunday at 7 p.m.

TEAMS SHAPING UP FOR SATURDAY'S GAMES

THE FIRSTS' LINE-UP ALMOST COMPLETE THIRDS ELECT CAPTAIN AND MANAGER

Soccer Team Also Busy—M. W. Wrong Wins Novice Tennis Championship

In this week's practices both first and second teams have made excellent progress and should be in championship form for their games on Saturday.

The probable line-up of the first team for their game with Queen's is: Full, Dixon, Jones, Lawson, Newton, Gall, quarter, Follis, scrumman, Ritchie, Bell, Jones, inside, Muir, Kingston, outside, Hume, Lajovic, Cruijskamp, outside, McDonald, Gage, or Dickson or Mulheisen or VanAllen. Captain Newton certainly ought to have a team to be proud of.

The thirds will be every bit as strong as last year.

Gage ought to make the team in some capacity.

The return of McDonald to the game makes things look brighter than ever.

There are a couple of second team men who might make the firsts were it not for the rule shutting out freshmen.

There certainly is a great fight for outside wing. McDonald will no doubt be one of the two, for the other, Dickson, Henderson, Gage, Mulheisen, and Van Allen are fighting it out.

Lajovic and Cruijskamp are both strong contenders for middle wing.

SECOND TEAM NOTES

The team has been much strengthened by the return of Hopkins and Carroll, scrimmage men of last year's champions.

Meynard continues his good work at half-back. He should have no difficulty in making the firsts next year.

Clarke, the full-back, seems to be better every day. He could hold his own on any team.

Captain Greene's kicking is in a class with Gall's.

Ferguson has been doing fine work at quarter. He will fill this difficult position nicely.

Harvey Douglas, the popular manager of the seconds, is to be congratulated on his success in gathering together so promising a team.

It looks almost as if there is enough material for another senior team.

Allan Ramsay is showing up well at half. He, Dales and Wood are the candidates for this position.

Gordon Rankin is making a strong bid for a place on the wing line.

Bob Thompson is always one of the hardest workers in the practices.

Grass is showing up well.

WITH THE THIRDS

The third team's prospects have brightened up within the last few days. A large number of men are turning out and everything points to a most successful season under the management of Bert Symmes.

At a meeting held on Monday afternoon, Bert Symmes was appointed manager of the thirds, the vacancy being caused by the resignation of Mr. N. A. McArthur, whose time was too occupied to permit of his holding the position.

McPherson was last evening elected captain of the thirds.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

The soccer season opens on Saturday with the first intercollegiate match, Varsity vs. Queen's, at Queen's. Though several changes will be made in last year's lineup, the team will be fully as strong as last year's, and should bring the championship to Varsity again.

On account of the season opening too early, Varsity was unable to enter teams in the senior and intermediate divisions of the city league, which means that Varsity will have only one team this year.

Langford and Weicher have been elected captain and manager, respectively, to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of Blackwood and White.

The first of the inter-year games for Arts championship takes place on Saturday morning between freshmen and sophomores.

SWIMMING CLASSES STARTED

The swimming classes at the gym, swimming pool have started in this year with a rush, and between the hours of five and six p.m. the crowd of swimmers is so great that the art of dolping is becoming a well-known thing. Without exception, all members of the Athletic Association expressed great disappointment at the promised new pool has not materialized. The present pool is away out of date in every way.

LAWN TENNIS

The Tennis Tournament is now fairly well advanced, and it has brought forth some very interesting games. The ladies' events started on Wednesday morning, considerable interest being displayed in them, especially in Mrs. Hannan's and Mrs. Moyes' games.

Among the men playing a strong game this fall are Paul Armstrong, J. D. Cumming, Frank McEachern, M. W. and B. V. Wrong and Wiegand.

The novice championship went to E. M. Wrong, on Wednesday afternoon, after a very close contest of sets with his brother, H. V. Wrong. The score was as follows:—6-4, 1-6, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

The ladies' events are still in progress and some excellent games are being played.

AVERAGE MORALITY IS NOT SUFFICIENT

President Falconer Delivers an Excellent Sermon on Christianity

"The discernment of truth" was the subject of an address in the opening service of the College sermon series delivered by President Falconer, before an audience composed largely of students, that filled Convocation Hall to the doors. There was a large attendance of professors and friends of the University. The devotional exercises were conducted by Professor Wong.

Taking as his text the words of the Epistle to the Hebrews, 5 and 14, the President spoke of the relation of the Epistle to the Greek and Hebrew thought of an early date. "Deep moral perception," said he, "is a result of training preceded by a long period of time. In business, the man who discerns what is good succeeds. In morals, the man who can discern the difference between good and evil is a leader. True also in the case of the student. It is the man who can perceive good who is able to lead others. Life is the expansion of a larger hope. I conceive it to be of essential value in any department of life to have a trained faculty to discern what is true."

The discernment of truth is the daily task of man. It may be spoken of as a fine art. The untrained senses cannot be easily used, and thus the moral judgments of many become mere guesses or approximations to the real facts. The days are gone when the consideration of many "intentions" can be taken as any gauge of right and wrong. The question is rather, what has given rise to the moral acts of men? This average morality is not sufficient for a healthy moral growth. "Take the discernment of what is good as Christianity," continued the speaker. "It is pitiful, simply pitiful, to read the articles in modern magazines on Christianity. People try to tell us what Jesus was and what Christianity is. The day, they say, is simply hazy. We have only begun to see what Christianity is. The threshold has not been crossed." The address closed with a strong appeal to the men of the University to get in touch with the real things of life by first coming into communion with the Great Spirit of all life. The aim of every man in the University is to follow what is good, to follow leaders, for only so shall they attain to that truth which is also the life in Christ Jesus.

AN UNFORTUNATE OMISSION

Up to the time of going to press, the customary contribution of Co-Ed news had not arrived. The editor feels safe in assuring disappointed subscribers of both sexes—that the ladies' column will re-appear as usual in Friday's issue. The Autumn Tea was given on Saturday afternoon, but that of course has nothing to do with the non-appearance of the College girl items.

BE PROMPT WITH NEWS

Contributions intended for insertion in Tuesday's Varsity should always reach the office before 9 a.m. Monday—or, if possible, earlier. Items for Friday's issue should be dropped into the contribution box, by Wednesday evening, or at the very latest before 9 Thursday morning.

FORESTRY IS GROWING

The enrolment of new men in Forestry has now reached a total of twenty-one, a marked increase over last year. Owing to the departure of Mr. T. W. Dwight, President of the Foresters' Club, to join a timber survey in Maine, Mr. L. M. Ellis will take the chair. The initial meeting of the Club will take place on Thursday evening next.

ANNUAL AUTUMN TEA A PLEASANT FUNCTION

Large Attendance of Students and Graduates at Ladies' Lit. Reception

The annual Autumn Tea of the Women's Literary Society of University College was held on Saturday afternoon in the east and west halls, nearly 300 gathering for this pleasant reception.

The President of the Society, Miss Myra Hamilton, assisted by Miss Lawlor, received the guests, amongst whom the gowns and koots made a distinctive bit of color. Tea was served from small tables gay with autumn leaves and geraniums. Miss Lawlor, as toastmistress, gave the following toasts:—"His Majesty the King," "Wives of the Faculty," "Freshies," "Graduates," "Cricketing Class," "Athletes," "W.C.A.A.," "Sister Colleges," "Literary Society," and "The Press," all of which were responded to by graduates or budding speakers, in whom the fires of oratory were encouraged by the brilliant chorists of those more accustomed to the somewhat trying ordeal. The function was most enjoyable to all present.

FRESHMEN HAD TO CHASE THE GREASY PIG

Arts Sophs. Afford Newcomers a Lively Evening of Rare Enjoyment

On Friday evening last, the freshmen and sophomores tendered the modern substitute for the barbaric kattle. The substitute took the form of an athletic and social evening, which was very much enjoyed by all who were fortunate enough to be present. Whether it was because of their peculiar forecast in anticipating the quality of an evening's entertainment, or merely through idle curiosity, we do not know, but many students who were not "Fresh" or "Sophs" were present to enjoy the genial hospitality of the class of '12. Messrs. John Cowan, John Hodgson and E. G. MacMillan, all '12, were present, and contributed to making the evening the success it was by ungrudging most impartially in the various events.

The first contest was the three-legged race, which was won by Messrs. Percy Mulholland and J. M. Wood of '12. Then came the wheelbarrow race, which resulted in a win for the freshman, represented by Messrs. Cole and Brown.

Probably the most exciting event of the evening was the "pick-a-back" wrestling, in which the champions won the honors. A. P. Park and his mount, R. A. V. MacCormick, being undefeated, and F. G. Richards and his mount, B. M. Fitch.

After the wrestling was over, the gym floor was cleared off except for some eight or ten freshmen, who were told that they were being reserved for a running contest. Great was the surprise and amusement of all when a young porker was rushed in and dumped on the floor for the worthy freshmen to chase. "Poor piggie, however, was too scared to run, and the event was threatened with rain, until H. M. Taylor appeared on the floor. Then the animal did run, and it was not till after an exciting chase that he was finally tackled and brought low.

The basketball match resulted in an easy win for the first year, the score being too large for expression on paper. The year of '12 have an all-star team, which should win from almost any of the academic teams.

A roller hockey match proved to be very exciting, and resulted in a draw—four all. A feature of the game was the phenomenal work of Dawson, playing goal for the first year.

The next event was one into which more contestants entered than in any of the previous ones. It was the scramble for cups of hard-boiled apples which were dumped on the middle of the floor. They were soon disposed of, through much to the dissatisfaction of owners of Derby hats.

The closing event was one of the best exhibitions of boxing seen in the gym for some time. The "artists" being Mac Dowson '12, and Ken. Burgess '12. Although Burgess had been in the basketball and other events earlier in the evening, he gave Dawson a hard fight, and the result was a draw.

For the success of the evening, particular credit is due K. H. McCormick and H. M. Taylor, who organized the whole affair, also Constable Christie, who kept the order up to the required standard and made many friends by the way he doled out the two hundred boxes of cigarettes, and Prof. Williams, who made an efficient master of ceremonies.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER UNION

Invitations are out for the 13th annual reception of the Student Volunteer Union of Toronto, which will be held to-morrow (Wednesday) evening in the Assembly Hall of the Toronto Bible Training School, 110 College Street. All interested in the movement are invited to attend by the president, Mr. Jas. M. Meunier, and the secretary, Miss Hockey.

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB

This Years Membership of Chorus Promises to be Over 600

The first rehearsal of the University Glee Club will be held on Thursday evening, Oct. 14th, in the north theatre of the Medical Building at 7:30 o'clock. All members of last year and those qualifying this year are requested to be present. The repertoire for the coming concerts will commence at this rehearsal. The Massed Chorus practices commence on the following Monday, Oct. 18th, at 5 p.m., in the Medical Building.

Many students are not yet clear as to the object of the two choruses. The Massed Chorus will teach the students the best of the college songs in part singing. The Glee Club, in addition, will take up songs more in line with concert work. Last year 437 were enrolled in the Chorus, 137 of whom constituted the Glee Club. This year it is expected that there will be from 600 to 700 in the Chorus, 200 of whom will be chosen for the Glee Club.

Mr. J. H. Tripp, conductor of both organizations, judging from the material and the results of last year, believes the University Glee Club will rank with the best of the local musical societies.

To obtain the best results it will be necessary to have as many first and second year students singing as possible, as with their experience they will make the backbone for the Club in their senior years. Voice tests will be held on the following dates in the Y.M.C.A. Building: Men, Oct. 11th, 5:15-6 p.m., and 7:30-8:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Oct. 12th, 7:30-8:30 p.m. Every student should have his voice tested, and since the tests are strictly private, no one need hesitate to at least obtain a good opinion of his voice. Previous experience is not necessary.

The Glee Club and the male chorus were only in their infancy last year, and the present season seems likely to open with quite a burst of enthusiasm. It is proposed to give at least one or two concerts this season to be held in Massey Hall or some large auditorium such as Convocation Hall.

WHAT SOME OF THE '08 ARTS GRADS. ARE DOING

A Few Personal Notes Which Will Interest Many Undergraduates

Mr. P. J. Bryce ('08 Arts) is this year completing his final year in the Faculty of Forestry.

SOME MED. FRESHMEN ARE GREATLY RELIEVED

Senate Has for the Present Waived Rule Affecting Starred Matriculants

The Senate met on Friday evening and have since made an announcement which will bring joy and relief to a considerable number of prospective medical students.

In line with the general movement towards the establishment of higher standards, a new rule was recently issued to the effect that no student might register in first year medicine until he had successfully disposed of a considerable number of prospective medical students.

Consequently the matter came up as the chief item of business at Friday evening's meeting. In view of the facts presented, the Senate decided that the new rule shall not be enforced until next year. This, for the present term, incoming students will be permitted to register in medicine although they may be hampered by matriculation stars. The rule will go into effect with next year's freshman class, however.

The Senate further enacted that the rule to the effect that no student may register in second year medicine until he has successfully passed examinations in all the matriculation subjects, shall be literally enforced from the present time on.

HUGH GALL

The star Varsity half-back, who scored the first try of the season, after a splendid run, in Saturday's game with Queen's.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

Several well-known Arts men were seen in the vicinity of University College on Saturday evening about 7 o'clock. One precautionary sophomore has volunteered the suggestion that the fact that the Autumn Fete was drawing to a close in the Hall above may have had something to do with their mysterious presence there at such an hour.

Mr. J. J. McLaughlin, '10, who was captured in Friday's practice a week ago, is said to be about one week more. The injury to his ankle will prevent him from getting into the game again this fall.

Mr. J. S. Allan, '11, who spent the weekend at his home in Guelph, reports that Saturday's rugby game between Trinity and O.A.C. was a mediocre affair, and that on the form shown, Varsity '11 should have no difficulty in winning the Western district.

APPLIED SCIENCE

There is no doubting the fact that work has commenced earlier than usual. The men of the first year settled down seriously about ten days ago, and have not been heard from since. Other years are actually falling in line. In fact, we seem threatened with an epidemic of voluntary self-choir.

We are pleased to see A. B. Campbell back from the north to begin his third year studies. Andy was class president of '09 two years ago, after which he enjoyed a year's absence. Crosby, last year's president of the same class, also returned several weeks before returning. Indeed, this mighty silence must have been a palace of laughter.

Look, who's here? Our own monarch in the world of Innere, Mr. Kettle, induced with more other than University spirit. Mike has a somewhat tale for tell of stocks and padlocks, and feels that he needs the experience of another year among us. He does not carry a notebook yet, but it's rather early anyway.

T. A. McElhenny, president of the S.P.S. Y.M.C.A., may be seen hustling around, filling his important office in the interests of us all.

In the supply department of the Engineering Society there are many flaws. When not judging scraps of paint that are bent on adhering to the new office of the Editor of Applied Science, the men who cater to us so satisfactorily are "taking stock" and installing an approved system of bookkeeping. A customer may notice their complete line of hardware and dry goods, but he fails to notice, as yet, the boundaries of their grocery department.

Attention is called to the notices regarding a meeting in room 12, Engineering Building at 4 p.m. on Friday next to organize the School Rugby Association and to elect officers for the junior and senior teams. Everybody attend.

Next term's social affairs is E. J. McCall, just returned from a military survey party in Quebec. He will resume his work in the second year.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

The first meeting of the Literary Society was well attended on Friday night. The principal gave his first address of the year to the men and extended a hearty welcome to the class of '11. Among other items of business our representatives to the Undergraduates' Parliament were elected. '11's Honor promises an interesting programme for the year. Lectures opened on Monday.

The sophomores are evidently intending to find amusement for the freshmen during their idle moments. The signs of the times indicate a year which will recall some of the events when we began their long series of invasions against the hives of Ouellet-Naught.

Sorry, Gander, but the result of these weary months of watching and of rare misty moon oil.

The open meeting of University College Literary Society will be held on Friday evening next. We particularly urge the men of the first year to attend, that they may early take an active interest in the Lit. Remembrance, that while our Literary Society is a good one, the University Lit. is better.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Two new lecturers have been added to the teaching staff, one in classics and the other in English. Dr. Kirkwood, the classical lecturer, graduated from the University of Toronto with the highest honors in his subject, and after a few years practice in the elements of teaching at Ridley, he left school work to study Archaeology in Greece and Asia Minor. He worked for the School of Archaeology at Athens, and carried on excavations in Greece and Smyrna. At the latter place he also taught in one of the schools, and no doubt, had the opportunity of seeing many things beside "Cicero jam dimittit" and "Gallus armatus nasutusque carnis." On returning to America, he took a post-graduate course at Harvard, and last summer won his Ph.D. He was also Vice-President of the Canadian Club at Harvard.

Mr. L. C. Martin has left his post as lecturer in English at Kettle College, Oxford, to succeed Mr. G. S. Stevenson at Trinity College. He is a graduate of Oxford, and took a high degree in "Greats," working under Professors Raleigh, de Schreiner, and Koper. At present he is preparing an edition of Thomas Vaughan, the demagogue and writer on Natural History.

The first meeting of the Literary Society was held on Friday. The chief business was the nomination of freshmen.

The football team went to Guelph on Saturday and played O.A.C. The Guelph team was a heavy one and in the first quarter it scored nineteen points, but better continuation enabled the Trinity team to press its opponents hard for the rest of the game and score six points. Besides, the Trinity captain, had the misfortune to break a finger, but it did not hinder him from continuing to play. Kingston sprained his ankle and had to leave the field. The return match will be played here next Saturday.

A CONTRIBUTION

O CANADA!

(To be sung to the stirring tune of Caliente Canada! O Canada!)

O Canada! best heritage of old
Our sacred trust, by grace of God, we hold.

We'll sing thy praise from shore to shore,
And be no nation's thrall.

We're strong in peace, and prompt in war
To answer Empire's call!

Rise Canada! Strong for your King,
And with Britannia's sons your anthem sing.

Hail Canada! the first-born of the Five Great loyal lands whereon brave Britons live.

Inspire us Lord with love divine
To bind with strongest tie

"Ours," "Flour-de-lis" and "Maple"
In words that never will die.

O Wondrous Love! Strong in Thy might Impart Thy seed, enrich us with Thy light.

Almighty God! let nations doubt no more
Our loyalty as in the days of yore.

Our fathers bought and died for lands
We now possess in peace.

Separation will not stain our hands,
Nor will devotion cease.

For Canada, where vapors ring
To antlers loud for empire, huns and king.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The line-up on Yonge street for the football games always interests passers-by. Yesterday morning two newbies could not restrain their curiosity. They went up to one of the men, a prominent senior, and asked, "Say, are youse fellows waiting for a job?" Just imagine E. G. McMillan, B.A., Gordon Slaver, B.A., and other notables "waiting for a job!"

The fourth year's opening class meeting will be held early next week, to nominate candidates for the year's executive offices and to transact any other business connected with the commencement of another term. In accordance with the decision reached at the closing class meeting last spring, this year's executive committee will consist of only five elements. It is likely that the lower years will follow the good example of the graduating class in this respect.

The senior Arts rugby team was organized at a meeting of students from the third and fourth years in the Union C. Room, Wednesday, Gordon Kennedy was elected manager, and a workout of candidates for the team is called for this morning on the four campus.

A few of the Arts freshmen have demonstrated the fact that they possess considerably more energy than some members of the more advanced years. One of these young players, Gordon Kennedy, came in from the front of Love's at 2:30 Thursday morning and patiently awaited through the long chilly hours until the football play opened at 8:30. He secured two good seats for his own use, and four more for a couple of dignified seniors, whose diplomacy and powers of persuasion secured for them their usual night's rest.

APPLIED SCIENCE

At an enthusiastic meeting of the class of '13, the following executive was elected:—Pres., J. A. Galbraith; Vice-Pres., C. Webster; Sec.-Treas., C. Ross; Councilors, Torrance, Rankin, Fellows, Reps. to Students' Parliament—McCauley, Tackaberry, Fergie, Lester; Rep. to Athletic Association, C. W. Ferris.

The men of '10 held their reorganization meeting Thursday, and it holds one on Tuesday, Oct. 19. The results of these meetings will be published in Varsity.

H. W. Tate, '09, of Cobalt, has returned after another smiling autumn in the same north country.

Val Gourlay, '09, is among the latest to reappear. Val has been decorated from the multitude of medals and means to devote his evenings to writing.

Van Asten, '11, has just arrived to co-edit the Fort William news, and phrases with those already registered.

The opinions that are aired concerning 8 o'clock lectures are varied and decidedly picturesque. In connection therewith, some of the freshmen do not hesitate to display a remarkable vocabulary. "Nail so!"

The class of '12 intended holding a theatre night—the time, to-night (Friday), the place, Princess, the girl, Fritz Schell.

Words were said to the freshmen that they may think that the freshmen, the sophomores, were planning a concerted attack on their domicile. Bad preparations were made, and a good stock of the usual was laid by. But the "Campbell's didn't come," much to the regret of '12. The extract from the "Cornell Alumni News," published in the last issue, may have prevented ink stains after all.

"Jack" Hemmell and "Bob" Campbell, who both belong to '09, will not return this fall. They are at the "Soo."

Silvester, '10—we all know Carl—broke through the door the other day, on his way home for Dad's blessing and cheque. He is coming with his notebook, Carl is.

At the rifle ranges last week, the prize went to C. N. Stewart, W. S. Steele, '11, kept the pace cards busy, scoring 94 points one afternoon.

The buildings which he closed this afternoon, affording us all an opportunity to be present to root for our team in the Field Day sports on Athletic Field. Everyone should turn out with plenty of color.

According to the dictionary, S.P.S. is a contraction for "Sine prole superstitie" (without surviving issue). This is a great mistake, and steps will be taken to have it rectified.

The freshmen are said to have compiled a yell which suffices all. No opinion can be formed, as yet, by those more experienced in that line, as the yell sound has not yet penetrated further than their own ranks.

MEDICAL NOTES

The Medical College has hitherto received far too little consideration in the make-up of Varsity. It certainly is not the editor's fault, because he always manages to squeeze in a few words for every faculty, if there is any space at all. The neglect, then, must lie at the door of the reporter, and he is willing to shoulder the blame for the unchronicled past. Let's get busy, though, from now on. Every Med has some idea which would make a bright little item of interest for his fellows, so just make your thoughts known to the reporter. We will do his best to put it into words—and print.

The class of '11 deserves to be congratulated with regard to the results of the recent supplementals. Every student, even though he got floored completely at the spring exam, sprang up during the summer and landed on his feet at the second trial in September. It's good to see this "never-say-die" feature in our midst. It shows that even though blunk seems to dim our prospects, we can surmount all difficulties with a little added effort. Congratulations to all alike, whether you passed the second-year exam in April or September.

Ernie Caven's summer, spent on the farm at Fridvale, hasn't had such bad effects after all. He's going into the rugby game with vigour, and thinks his present strength is due to the strenuous months out among "the tall ones."

Everybody wants to know if W. M. Cody's mousetake is real. We think it must be, for it never gave a quiver on Tuesday afternoon in the street, when Prof. Cameron spoke about "the fall of the leaf."

In the medical later-year baseball league, the sophomores defeated the freshmen last Friday by 12 runs to 9.

At the first meeting of the Women's Medical-Literary Society, Miss Guest, the president, gave an interesting lecture on the "Reading-room," where the pleasant function took place, was made very effective with vines and flowers. Everything points to a successful year for the society.

TRINITY COLLEGE

A College meeting was held on Wednesday, at which it was decided to hold a smoking concert on the 21st inst. These very interesting concerts were inaugurated last year and have become very popular. As they do not begin till late in the evening, they do not run away with too much time.

The football team has suffered a serious loss owing to Allhouse having broken a bone in his foot. We hope it will mend rapidly. Owing to a mistake, Klugman was reported in the last issue to have sprained his ankle; it should have read Bishop.

Rev. A. L. Reed is leaving Toronto to take up his duties as associate-rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, Syracuse.

The College Chapter of the St. Andrew's Brotherhood has begun its meetings and arranged its program.

Good reports are to hand of the progress of Dykes ('12), who is in hospital with typhoid.

MULOCK CUP SERIES WILL OPEN MONDAY

Much Better Prospects Under New Arrangements—Swimming Club Notes—Ladies' Tennis

A new system has this year been evolved for the Mulock Cup series. Instead of a foot race at the bulk end of the regular season being played, as in past years, this year the games will commence Monday next, October 15th.

Teams will enter from Senior and Junior Arts, Senior and Junior School of Science, Senior and Junior Medicine, Victoria, Dental College, and Trinity. The teams are divided into three series and the winners will play off for the championship.

In past years, any man who had not competed in two games would not be eligible to compete in the Mulock Cup games. This year, however, the rule has been changed. A man who has played two games on either the first or second tennis is not eligible, so the series will no doubt bring out much unexploited material.

The board of referees has not yet been decided upon.

The schedule is as follows:

GROUPE A

Senior

Mids at Arts—Oct. 18
School at Mids—Oct. 21
Arts at School—Oct. 27
Arts at Mids—Nov. 7
Mids at School—Nov. 14
School at Arts—Nov. 18

GROUPE B

Junior

Mids at Arts—Oct. 19
School at Mids—Oct. 25
Arts at School—Oct. 30
Arts at Mids—Nov. 4
Mids at School—Nov. 11
School at Arts—Nov. 18

GROUPE C

Victoria at Bents—Oct. 20
Trinity at Bents—Oct. 26
Bents at Victoria—Nov. 1
Bents at Victoria—Nov. 4
Bents at Trinity—Nov. 7
Victoria at Trinity—Nov. 14
Benders at A at winners of B—Nov. 18
Final—Nov. 18 at winners of C.

SWIMMING CLUB

Large numbers are turning out every evening to make places on the Varsity swimming team. The team which promises to be even stronger than that of last year, both in polo and speed swimming. Of last year's aquatic experts, all are back with the exception of Edwards and Macdonald, and there are many good freshmen to take their places. The rule permitting freshmen from being inter-collegiate athletes, so first-year men can be eligible to compete against elite teams. Mackenzie, the star man of last year's team, will only be permitted to play again although he is repeating his first year.

A strong contingent will be sent to McGill in December, and it is expected that McGill will compete in a return series here in January or February.

The Toronto Swimming Club are talking up the desirability of organizing a water-polo league to include the Y.M.C.A. and the Varsity. It is also highly probable that several swimming, diving, and polo tournaments will be held during the fall and winter, in which these three clubs will compete.

LADIES' TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

The intercollegiate ladies' tennis championship will take place at University of Toronto courts next Monday and Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Each college is represented by a picked team of six girls, and the winning team holds the cup for the year. Last year the cup was won by University College by a large margin and the prospects are very bright for the cup may be won another year with University College. Misses Fairbairn and Ireland will hold their positions on the team as first and second, respectively, and the remaining four will be picked from Misses Long, Macdonald, Polton, Wright, Knapp, Becker, and MacKay.

It is probable that a team picked from the three colleges will go to Queen's next week to play with a team there.

KNOX COLLEGE

The opening meeting of the Miscellaneous Society took place on Tuesday evening, Mr. H. Dickson, '10, reported for his work in British Columbia during the past summer. Arrangements are under way for a good year's work, including an open meeting to take place early in the fall. Two of the men of the first year are at present in Grace Hospital with typhoid fever. Mr. Boyd is expected out in a few days, but it will be some time before Mr. Maclean will be able to return to lectures.

At present it looks as if Knox might have a very large number of students. Already more than can be well accommodated are taking their meals here.

The "lat" will hold its initial meeting on Thursday evening of next week. There will be an election for the office of president, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. N. A. MacEwen, who has gone to Montreal. The speaker of the evening will be Mr. J. A. Macdonald of the Globe.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

When the call came for the freshmen to be introduced to the spectators of initiation, they were brought forth a scheme which will lead to greater interest in physical training. The history of our society records the names of a few men who have aided in bringing glory, not only to our college, but to the University, but the numbers are by far too few, considering the college enrollment. The cause seems to be in the fact that, after the first and second years, the more strenuous physical exercises are neglected. It is surprising how many promising athletes grow up so quickly.

In junior years there is a great tendency to limit physical training to the first two years. A description requires a stick to accomplish even this. The true spirit of athletics cannot be attained where the higher years do not cooperate, nor can we hope to acquire that degree of physical endurance, so necessary for our future work in advancing new fields of labor, when the athletic training of our college life is confined to the first two years. It is not the lack of our representative, but the lack of our athletic spirit, that we have not been in training for the annual games of the University team. But executive should at least spare no efforts in making our own field day a success.

We hear so much of that bond of love which exists among students of a theological college, and we sometimes wonder whether it really exists in the realm of fact or merely in theory. The problem was definitely settled at luncheon on Wednesday, when the Principal announced, for that afternoon, the marriage of Rev. J. E. Purdy, a graduate of '09, to Miss Morrison, a deaconess who received a portion of her training in these halls.

Y.M.C.A. ENTERTAINED ARTS' FRESHMEN

The reception tendered by the University College Y.M.C.A. to the men of the first year was a decided success. About one hundred and thirty men crowded the assembly hall of the '07, and were entertained in good style by the upper years. After a short time spent in introductions, the guests were formally welcomed by Acting Principal Alexander Mr. Norman Lambert, an old-time favorite, delighted his audience with a vocal solo, while Harold Hartney, '11, followed with a selection on the cornet.

In the hall of the various student societies, Mr. E. G. Kyle, explaining the objects of the various organizations, emphasizing in particular the work of the Y.M.C.A. After an instrumental by Chester Smith, '11, the usual lunch was served. This was provided by the kindness of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The success of this reception promises well for a good year in the work.

VARSITY WON EASILY FROM OLD MCGILL IN RUGBY

Game Fast and Interesting with Final Score of 18-1—Seconds and Thirds also Won

On Saturday afternoon, under very unfavorable weather conditions, Varsity defeated McGill in a splendid exhibition of football. The result of this game was watched for anxiously as McGill are generally considered to be Varsity's most dangerous opponents in the senior series. The very apparent superiority of the Toronto team, that of McGill in almost all departments makes the prospect of another championship very rosy indeed.

Varsity's scores were made chiefly in the first and third quarters. In the second they made only one point, while in the final quarter there was no scoring. Shortly after the commencement of play, Gall gained the first point for Varsity by a kick to the goal. The first half of the game followed up fast, secured the ball on a fumble by the McGill quarter-back and got over for a try, which Ritchie converted from a difficult angle. End of first quarter—Varsity, 7; McGill, 0.

In the second quarter the play was fairly even, the only point being made on a kick by Gall to the dead-ball line. End of second quarter—Varsity, 8; McGill, 0.

The third quarter Varsity ran up ten points and in this period McGill added their solitary score. This in this quarter Varsity got another try, which Ritchie converted to goal line, to MacAvoy, who fumbled, Ball falling on the ball.

Three of the other five points gained by Varsity were kicks over the dead-ball line by Gall. The other two were made on kicks by Gall and Goulds to McGill backs behind their own line. The last following up of the Varsity wings forcing them to rouse. McGill's single tally was registered on a kick to Lawson, who was run into touch-in-goal. End of third quarter—Varsity, 18; McGill, 1.

Though the fourth quarter was characterized by offensive work by Varsity, the ball being kept in McGill territory most of the time, no scoring resulted.

NOTES ON THE GAME

Jimmy Bell hurt his shoulder again and will be out of the game for a few days.

Muir played a very strong game, his following-up being a feature of the afternoon. He was always down with the first men.

McGill had a very strong line, but her back division suffered from stage-fright. However, the team is composed practically of freshmen and in another year or so will take some heating.

Murray Thompson, while a little green, showed good form and should have no difficulty in holding his position. But he has to learn that the idea is to run towards his opponents' goal, not away from it.

In the first half McGill showed skill in handling the ball in mass plays, and repeatedly crashed through Varsity's left wing.

Lawson was watched very closely, but managed to tear off several line runs. And when he got started it usually took about six McGill men to bring him down.

Varsity's back division caught up with McGill's. This was very clearly creditable in view of the fact that the ball was out most of the time.

VARSIITY II, 11, MCMASTER I.

Varsity II defeated McMaster by the score of 11-1 on the Athletic Field Saturday morning in a fast game. In the first half the play was very even, McMaster scoring the only point on a kick to the dead-line by McCormick.

In the third quarter Varsity was kicking with a strong wind and ran up all her points. Green kicked continually and scored the first point by kicking into touch-in-goal. Shortly after Kyrie was forced to rouse, and then Green again kicked to touch-in-goal. The play then went to Varsity's end, but by good work the ball was brought back and Crane was forced to rouse. Shortly afterwards, Maynard secured on an outside kick and ran twenty yards for a touch-down, which he converted. Play again went to Varsity end, but Clark following up his own kick, dribbled through a broken field and Kyrie again roused.

In the fourth quarter there was no scoring. This period was marked by several fast runs by Maynard. The game ended with the ball on McMaster's twenty-yard line, with the score 11-1.

For Varsity II, Clark, Maynard, Rankin and Van Allen played star games, while for McMaster, McCormick and Hirdbrook were best.

The teams:—

Varsity II.—Pall, Clark; halves, Maynard, Green, Wood; quarter, Ferguson; scrum-half, Curriel, Bell; forwards, Rankin, Thompson, Grass, Willson, Milneque, Van Allen.

McMaster.—Full, Kyrie; halves, Grove, McCormick, Ashmore, quarter, Hirdbrook, scrum-half, Gray, Haddow, Sayles; wings, Wearing, Robertson, Whan, Veale, McKenit, Poole.

THIRDS MADE CRICKET SCORE

Varsity III. ran up a regular cricket score against McMaster II. on Saturday morning. The final score was 62-10, with Varsity III. always well in the lead. In the third quarter they scored three times in four minutes, which is a remarkable achievement. The whole Varsity team played well, but Frith and Keith were the particular stars. With the present team, Varsity III. should have no difficulty in again winning the junior championship.

The Varsity III. line-up.—McPherson (Capt.), Frith, Alexander, Keith, Gardner, McDonald, Wood, Ferris, Bowman, Knox, Tripp, Reid, Macaul, Linsey, Beatty, Berman, Sinclair, Reilly.

AVOID ALL SLANG, SAYS HON. G. W. ROSS

Splendid Programme at Open Meeting of the Lit. of University College

To say that the programme of the open meeting of the Literary and Scientific Society of University College addressed by Hon. Geo. W. Ross, President of the University, and Mr. J. L. Ross, as well as several excellent literary numbers, obviates the necessity of stating that the audience of students and friends of the Society spent a most pleasant evening.

In opening the meeting, Prof. Alexander referred to the Lit. as "the most venerable Society in the University," a society which had been in existence for over fifty years.

The next speaker was Mr. J. L. Ross, B.A., the retiring President. He briefly spoke of the value to be gained from attendance at the society's meetings, and expressed the hope that the special meetings of the present year should draw particularly large audiences.

Mr. Castrucci, a first year student, contributed an excellent piano solo, which was enthusiastically received.

President T. A. Russell is already very popular with the undergraduates. When he rose to deliver his inaugural address, he was heartily cheered. In opening, he humorously referred to the fact that a prominent senior had assured him that his popularity was assured in the University, since he was the man whose autograph had been stolen at the Lit.

President T. A. Russell is already very popular with the undergraduates. When he rose to deliver his inaugural address, he was heartily cheered. In opening, he humorously referred to the fact that a prominent senior had assured him that his popularity was assured in the University, since he was the man whose autograph had been stolen at the Lit.

The University of Toronto now ranks next to Oxford and Cambridge in point of attendance in the British Empire, he said. But he thought that such a large plant of buildings and equipment represented in a sense a certain economic waste, since it was in use for only about six months in the year. He hoped that arrangements could some day be made to have all the buildings and laboratories available in the summer and in the evenings to outsiders not so favorably situated as the present student body. He urged upon his audience the importance in the University, as in all departments of life, of distinguishing between the essentials and the side-issues. He also pointed out the need of accuracy, thoroughness, and precision. The student's mind in preparing to enter a profession should be not at merely a general knowledge but at perfection in the essential details.

Regarding the common question, "Does a University course fit or unfit for a business career?" the speaker stated that if a graduate would enter business as he entered law or any other profession, ready to serve his apprenticeship, there would be no doubt about his progress and ultimate success.

Mr. Hargrave contributed a splendid cornet solo, which was encored.

In commenting his masterly address, Senator Ross stated that he had never done anything in his public career more pleasant than his association with the University of Toronto. He traced the growth of the University from the time that the staff consisted of 16 members all told up to the present, when there are about 400.

He could remember, he said, when it was moved in Parliament that students be admitted to the University. "While the motion was read," he said, "some of the members actually turned pale." Sir David Wilson, the President, thought that to have the doors opened to women would be embarrassing to the faculty and also concerning to the male students. "You had shivered, however, that the step taken had been a very wise one."

The speaker regretted that too few University graduates had found their way into Parliamentary life in Canada.

Senator Ross outlined what he believed to be some of the purposes of the Lit. as follows:—"To widen the student's reading course, to teach the habit and facility of correct oral expression. In this connection he deplored the modern tendency to indulge in 'verbal and etymological homicide,'" and advised his hearers to avoid slang as they would a viper. Another important habit to be gained in the Lit. was that of an orderly marshalling of one's case. When the speaker sat down at the conclusion of his address, he was wildly cheered.

President Falconer spoke briefly and forcibly. "Senator Ross," he said, "has driven home to you ideas long a part of my own convictions. He urged the students to attend the meetings of the Lit. as often as possible. "One learns almost as much from his fellow-students," he said, "as from the professor. There is something in the meetings and discussions of him and man which cannot be got in any other way." He urged all the members to throw their energy into the Society and make the present year the most useful and successful on record.

The meeting closed with a piano solo by Mr. Castrucci.

FRESHETTES ENTERTAINED BY QUEEN'S HALL GIRLS

Lively Paper-Chase Followed by Tea at St. Hilda's—Items of Interest

On Friday evening Mrs. Campbell and the students in residence at Queen's Hall were at home to the women students of the first year. The guests were received in the drawing-room by Mrs. Campbell. Afterwards the common room and drawing-room were thrown open for dancing. Between dances, the guests were shown through the rooms, which were open for inspection. Refreshments were served about half-past nine by the seniors and sophomores, and about ten o'clock the guests took their leave, delighted with their first experience of the hospitality of the Hall.

COFFEE AND CRUMPS

On Saturday last St. Hilda's College gave the first of the intercollegiate paper-chases for women. About sixty girls set out from Sunnyside early in the afternoon and followed the trail through High Park, up and down hills of tremendous height. The larks were caught on Bloor street, near Dundas, Miss Elton, a teacher in St. Hilda's, winning that honor.

After the chase, all repaired to St. Hilda's for afternoon tea. The St. Hilda's were the most charming hostesses, and all did ample justice to the delicious coffee and crumps, and about six o'clock the girls were justly lauded. After tea the college songs were sung, all college and class songs known were given, and each one left feeling that she had one more thoroughly enjoyable afternoon to add to her list of college pleasures.

ANGLICAN WOMEN'S CLUB RALLY

The Anglican Women's Club of the University field its opening rally for the year on Thursday evening, at the Deaneaues hall. A variety of enjoyable musical programme, the Rev. W. L. Vance gave a most interesting lecture on "The life of a sixteenth century man in England and Ireland. At the close, refreshments were served.

A business meeting of the Club, to elect new officials, will be held in a few days.

The other day a certain student was astonished to learn that Mr. Christie, our revered constable, was not the conductor of the University orchestra. Perhaps Mr. Merr may persuade him to join.

Miss M. V. McNelly, '08, has recently gone to Shanghai, China, where she will assist in the translation of English literature into Chinese. Her linguistic ability will no doubt be of service in this important and interesting work. She has this, perhaps, the most remarkable position of the women graduates of '08.

Miss J. E. Rothery has been elected to take Miss McNelly's place as secretary of the Student Volunteer Band of University College.

Dr. Jensen, of the Department of Philosophy, has returned to Germany.

THE HALLOWEEN DANCE

The third Halloween dance of the University College Alumni Association will be held in the Gymnasium, on October 30th, from eight to twelve o'clock. It will take the form of a ball-pourée. The fancy dress sets, which were a feature of other years, have been abandoned in favor of a more to playing graduates and undergraduates on the same footing. The Committee are making a special effort to have the floor in good shape, and have secured the best orchestra in town. It is expected that graduates and undergraduates, both men and women, will turn out in large numbers to help make this dance a success.

AROUND THE HALLS

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The Fourth Year is holding its annual meeting for nomination of the Executive for this year on Tuesday, Oct. 19, at 4 p.m., in room 37. According to the resolution passed at the last meeting of last term, there will be a reduction of the heretofore unwieldy executive to five—president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and two councilors.

Quite a number of Arts men intend going home over the Thanksgiving holiday, and as a result, there are several pairs of rugby season tickets on the market for next Saturday's game at the Athletic field. If some of those desirous of leasing their tickets for this week would go to the minor trouble of missing a night's rest and getting seats marked, they would have no difficulty in finding eager buyers.

Mr. Charles A. Laverby, B.A., formerly of the staff, a well-known figure around the Halls, the Union, and the dining hall, has sailed for England. He contemplates going ultimately to India.

The favored few from University College who attended the Victoria Rob report a wildly exciting and enjoyable evening.

APPLIED SCIENCE

J. B. Refferni, '10, will be absent for a few days, having a "dear." That's what he said, anyway.

T. H. Croxley, president of '09 graduating class, is with the B.C. Electric in Vancouver.

Among the first to acquire the registration card is MacLachlan, '09, who has arranged for a trip from the Yukon, lasting from Sept. 26th. Our friend from Dawson City spent the summer in a hydro-electric plant of 200 ft. head. He should have something interesting to tell us. So, Sigma Engineering Society! See him, Electrical Club!

Speaking of heat in waterfalls, Dr. Ellis might be able to give us some interesting data, if we only dared to ask.

By the way, that reminds us of all the social event in the C. & M. Building on Friday morning. The freshmen became interesting objects in the eye of '11. Both years acquired a mutual interest in decorative design, dealing exclusively with living models. They sang as they worked, and various members of the staff joined in. Prof. MacLachlan urged an increase of vitality and intemperately lent his strength. J. Roy jumped into the field of activity, strewn curved lines all over the plane of projection. Everyone sang and secured a half-point, and his dark green hyperbolic of revolution received many a severe jolt. Ellis joyfully reached for an armful of falling water and bounded up a flight of stairs, giving his class yell. Louis H. made several helpful suggestions, and so did Secretary Leung. The Dean undoubtedly regrets his inability to have been present. In short, everyone had a delightful time, and the occasion ended favorably with the exception of that one little hitch. There are extremely sorry about those unlooked-for drops of water, and we hasten to assure ourselves that Dr. Ellis is the very center in the faculty whose cherished enthusiasm we would desire to dampen.

The following line of the second year have been elected to the Students' Parliament:—G. Hamilton, W. S. Steele, R. H. Chandler, R. H. Madill, J. P. Sills, O. J. Commins, W. J. Ferrin, L. Doncaster.

At the rifle ranges last week, some excellent scoring was in evidence, considering the unfavorable circumstances. Steele with 99 points, followed by Carlyle with 94 out of a possible 100, means accurate shooting on a windy day.

Faculty of Science Rugby football club.—Hon. President, T. K. London, B.A., Sec.: President, Hugh Ritchie;

Vice-President, W. Foulds; Sec.-Treas., F. S. Milligan; Manager Sr. School team, James McNeven; Manager Jr. School team, N. H. Lorimer.

Two rugby teams are to be entered in the Mallick Cup series, one from third and fourth years, and one from first and second years.

Faculty of Science Association football club.—Hon. President, Prof. C. H. C. Wright; President, W. Blackwood; Manager Senior team, A. D. Campbell; Manager Intermediate team, W. H. Wylie.

Two teams are to be entered, one in the Senior Association series, and one in the Intermediate series, the players for both teams being chosen from the whole faculty.

MEDICAL NOTES

The second year Med. baseball team defeated the "freshy" team on the campus last week by a margin of five runs in a good exhibition of ball. Neither team had much advantage over the other and there were several times when the "freshies" came very near to tying the score. But Clark, who pitched for the "Soph" team, was really steady and did good work, and so did Smith for the first year team. A good crowd of "fans" witnessed the "little royal," and considerable cheering was done.

If weather conditions are good, the final race between the third and second year teams will come off early this week, when the championship of the Medical Faculty will be decided. The odds promise to be a good one and much prophesying is being done as to who will win.

At present the boys are down to good hard work. Physiological Chemistry is the theme now, and eighteen hours a week are devoted to this subject in practical work.

The "freshies" and "Sophies" had a friendly tussle after the firstology lecture on Friday last. Both sides claim victory.

The second year took the first year to the Royal Alexandra theatre Friday night, and all those who turned out had a good time. The two years met at the Medical Building and paraded to the theatre, and after the show they joined forces with the S.P.S., who were at the Princess, and together marched quietly up Yonge street.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

When Hyer is invited for an afternoon tea he first betakes himself to his sister's and has a meal. It is hoped his many friends may be kind enough not to press an invitation on him too suddenly.

Ryan and Barnes, two of our heaviest sophomores, are back. They will undoubtedly make their presence felt when they sit on the freshmen.

Though Anglicans are predominantly Conservative in their political views and did not desire to portray the remarks of Senator Ross that his elections did not pass uncontented, Wycliffe turned out en masse to hear what was generally considered one of the best addresses for students which many of us have been privileged to hear.

Jack Kerr, who won the cup at our field day last year, has returned to college after spending his vacation searching the archives of his native Irish town for evidences of a family connection with "Hobby." With training, Jack should make his mark in the broad and the high jump, and hurdle race.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Although the freshmen with singular unanimity pleaded that they were unworthy of so great an honor, yet they were admitted one by one to the Literary Society, and were introduced to the President and Secretary on Friday night.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

Varsity won their second game in the four-league series on Saturday night by a score of 2 to 1. The game was not as fast as the one a week ago in Kingston. Play commenced with Varsity attacking. McGill goal, and after some fast counter-attack, Cameron scored for Varsity with a lovely shot at close range. During the remainder of the first half, the play was even, until McGill scored from a foul kick. Varsity hit-and-run, Gardner; larks, Blackwood and Whit, larks, Silks, Wiley, Mordard, Foran, Cameron, Gifford, Galbraith, Robertson, Harte.

VARSITY RECORDS BROKEN
Many Students Tapped and Painted at the Games

The tenth annual game of the University Track Club took place Friday afternoon at the athletic field. Lou Schell met his first defeat in the 100 yards, and in the 200 yards, both the two yards and the two yards, giving a record of 10.1 seconds in the 100 yards race.

A. D. W. Kay took away all the prizes in the contest for strength and succeeded in breaking his own record for putting the shot by four inches. I. A. Wright clipped a minute off the half-mile record, doing it in 2 minutes 25 seconds. The Arts and S.P.S. men turned out in force and indulged in a free fight at the conclusion of the games. The School men far outnumbered the Arts, and a result a good many of the Arts were given a beating. After their loss, they had sneered with lumps black and ink. The scrap was the most satisfactory in years, and as far as all who wanted to indulge in their hearts' content, while on the other hand, practically no property (excepting a few collars) was damaged, and the public was not interested with.

THE STROLLER

Those who have attended the University sessions have felt no doubt the need of an organ to keep up the dignity of the Hall. We are assured that a pipe organ is on the way, but how soon it will come we do not seem to know. But how about the choir? Everyone will agree that a good organ or orchestra without good singing. While not pretentious to spend a great deal of time and energy on such an organization at present, it might be well to lay the foundation for a future choir. At the services held, the singing could not be heard by all that was desired, but where lies the difficulty? Could not the Glee Club or the Orchestra be persuaded to help out, and thus save the way for an organization which must become a factor in the services? At the same time, these services being held weekly, there is a good deal to be said and as much to be gained out. Looking back just for this year, we feel that many whose names might be expected to appear. Can it be possible that there is a delusion to numbers at the expense of other considerations? The popularity of this innovation will depend on the students, many of whom feel that they would like to attend that on which much more is visible instead of listening to an address more or less audacious.

Passing through the town on Monday afternoon, the Stroller was hurried to see a staggering mass in front of the post office. Who are these and where come they? Robert kindly volunteered the information that they were first year men waiting for the mail train line. What a lot late in the afternoon, Robert has not been out in the world. The day was cloudy and the rain was darker than usual except in the same district vicinity of the creek.

Among the "lights that failed" there is more conspicuous by his absence from our front than Trinidad; not that anyone has been subject to melancholia in a result, but it is too bad to deprive the first year of the privilege of nominating him for class orator. He has been nominated for this office so often that the habit has become a habit. After his experience as leader and sole support of the third party in the "Lits," he should be all the more valuable to an executive group. Recognition will not be in the least exciting this year since it will be absent. The question of the day is how can the Orchestra possibly put in an existence without our friend and his beloved instrument?—The Stroller.

Saturday. Again the O.A.C. proved to be too much for us, though our team is undoubtedly the best we have had for three years. The feature of the game was the combination of the O.A.C. half back and the Varsity half back, which did not stand their credit, they did not gain much ground on their backs. Moorehouse (centre half) was a disappointment for the O.A.C. while Boyle (quarter) and Reid (half), and the whole wing line played an excellent game for Trinity. The final score was 19-7 in favor of O.A.C.

A step has been taken to keep the spring freshets out of the gymnasium.

WATER FLOWED AT VIC. BOB

The 35th annual Bob was held in the main hall of Victoria College, Friday evening, October 15, and freshies saw themselves face to face with the great stage. The first scene, entitled "Phantasma," proved to be a gipsy scene in which the distracted Chancellor appeared to the persons of darkness to reveal the past and future of the disrupting forces of ignorant freshmen. The Chancellor did not mind the test, while each freshman was brought in by an old cliché. One freshman living in St. Catharines was revealed to have travelled from Welland to St. Catharines on a stolen handcar, having been seduced by leucine chains.

Second Scene, A "District Meeting." The treating with only thoughtless men was an examination into their fitness for the ministry. One height of freshmen had travelled all the way from Alberta to see whether the Bible was still to be used as a text-book or whether they were to get a new one.

The faculty scene followed, revealing the weaknesses of the powers that be. Rev. Geo. Jackson was acquitted on the trial for heresy. A motion, listing the three most ancient members of the faculty to resign, failing the result, led to their resignations, and departing left the three venerable fathers asleep at the foot of the bed. The whole scene, meeting with the usual closing exercises, the faculty left.

The curtain was again raised and the younger men who had resigned gave three ringing cheers for Mr. Jackson, which were echoed by the audience.

Then a boarding-house scene opened with a freshman asleep at his prayers. The obligation of remembering in his applications all the freshmen was too superficial. After many clever remarks, the scene closed with a parody on the freshman yell.

The last scene, A Slave Market, in which freshmen were auctioned off for anything between 3 and 10 cents, was started by the School of Science yell at the door. But there was no more of this. The scene of the School was gradually quenched by four or five lines of fire hose, regulated by special fire apparatus, which was exceedingly disconnected to the yelling freshmen. Water has great persuasive powers, and soon the School of Science men and the Nicks, retired more drenched than they would like to admit.

The Bob came to a tranquil close, and the Bob committee invited the college upstairs for a short reception. But somehow the greater part of our refreshments had mysteriously disappeared. Nobody knows who did it except the doctor.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER UNION

The thirteenth annual reception of the Student Volunteer Union was held last week in the Assembly Hall of the Bible Training School. About 250 students and their friends assembled, and a large collection of money was raised. The collection was supervised by one another. In the course of the evening an excellent musical programme was given. Brief addresses were delivered by volunteers who expect to sail during the year, by the Rev. C. D. Abbott, of India, and by the President of the Union, Mr. J. M. McCreary, D.D., and the Vice-President, Mr. J. Beaton of Victoria. The serving of refreshments brought the pleasant evening to a close. This reception was undoubtedly an unqualified success, and augurs well for the Union. An extensive campaign among the city churches, and the second annual conference (Nov. 26, 27, 28) are two prominent features of this year's policy.

THE STUDENTS' PARLIAMENT
ONCE MORE

It is difficult to endure a conclusion, the premises of which have been omitted. But Mr. Duncan's remarks on the scheme for the reorganization of the Students' Parliament, which formed the substance of an editorial of a week ago, are neither logical nor convincing nor correct. The gist of his first paragraph may be summed up in the last sentence, "The statement that the large number of the members, while it acts as a weak force for justification, destroys efficient executive work." Is, I would submit, preposterous. It is not as plain as the part of the statement Mr. Duncan takes objection. It is preposterous to assert that a body, of whose membership not 25 per cent attends its regular meetings, and into the discussions of which is thrown the diverse interests and the divergent views of the various faculties, is a weak force for justification.

It is not to the first part of the statement to which Mr. Duncan takes exception, he must consider the statement that "The large number of members destroys efficient executive work." Is preposterous. But in his next sentence he remarks that "the executive is, of course, the life of the society." Now as the executive has merely the power of recommending to the parliament, and as the parliament meets only once a month, is it preposterous to believe that executive action is retarded by the unwieldy nature of the parliament's composition? Is it preposterous to assume that executive efficiency is nullified when the executive is responsible for an ill-regulated, ill-attended and disunited body, whose meetings are held only once a month under circumstances which demand the promptness which is necessitated by the brevity of the academic year? But Mr. Duncan's statement is merely a personal opinion, and before we can discuss it thoroughly we will have to discover what are his premises, or, rather, what are his prejudices.

Mr. Duncan justifies the present large membership of the Students' Parliament by a comparison with that of Great Britain. But does he realize that it is impossible for the members of the parliament to be represented in the same proportion as the students of the University of Toronto they would need to elect over two million representatives. A representation in such proportion would no doubt, in Mr. Duncan's mind, secure him the parliament of Britain that degree of efficiency and confidence which he sees among the undergraduates. But to compare the Imperial parliament with the parliament of the undergraduates is to ridicule the one and to misunderstand the other. The work to be done for the student body is of a nature which demands an efficient executive rather than a deliberative parliament.

To quote Mr. Duncan once more. "Or we may give expression to a pious hope, the men of weight and influence will devote their energies to the solution of its problems rather than to the playing of party politics." We are not a little surprised to know that Mr. Duncan regards his attitude on the Undergraduates' Parliament as one of piety. But while he would have to offer the playing of party politics, we would advise him not to pin a laudatorial seal on an institution which, as he says, "has been only three years in existence," and the inefficiency of which is becoming more and more apparent as the problems with which it has to deal increase.

PALMAM QUI MERUIT FERAT

The idea seems to be gaining ground among the public and even in the student body itself, that the University of Toronto is no far superior to Queen's, McGill and Uthman in athletics that the winning of intercollegiate championships by Varsity teams is but a foregone conclusion and not deserving of any particular bestowal of praise on the successful athletes.

Now, as a matter of fact, Toronto's immense enrollment does give her a big advantage over the other universities in the various departments of sport. But this advantage has been offset by the enforcement here of the new rule preventing football from engaging in senior intercollegiate athletics—a rule which does not obtain at Queen's, Ottawa or McGill. This regulation is this year depriving the Varsity first football, swimming, track and hockey teams of the services of several championship men, while a mere glance at the McGill football line-up will show that a large proportion of the pick of the undergraduate athletes there have been located in the first year.

Since it is clear, then, that the freshman rule counterbalances Toronto's numerical advantage over far sister universities, it is to be hoped that the efforts and success of our athletes will evoke a merited appreciation at the hands of the undergraduates.

THE BOOK OF CHRONICLES

Book I.

CHAPTER I

1. And it came to pass in the days of old, that there came a voice saying, Our old men do see visions and dream dreams, speaking of the men, mighty of old, of Baldwin, a man who feared the Lord and was other, how he had redeemed Toronto from the land of bondage.

2. And the old men and the scribes and certain of the faculty said to one another, Let us choose one Newton to be king over us.

3. Now the man Newton was mighty in stature and the measure of his chest was two cubits. And he clustered together all his strong men to fight. And the men of McGill said, Lo, these he easy marks. Let us kick them from the land.

4. And it came to pass that a great multitude assembled to witness the trial. And there was a prophet in the land, one Loxeney, and being filled with the spirit of prophecy, he lifted up his voice and said, And it shall come to pass that a great light shall shine and the children of Toronto shall be victorious, and the one thereof shall be eighteen goals to one.

5. And Newton hearkened unto the saying and pinned the parchment in his bosom even with a safety pin. So they all mumbled round slugging psalms and spiritual songs. And the children of McGill marvelled much and said, Peradventure it will go with us this day. Let us make a wager of the cash that we possess, and here be two shekels. If McGill shall prevail, this and thine shall be long to us. But if the children of Toronto shall prevail, go thou on thy way rejoicing. For it be said in "The World" the odds be 2 to 1 on Toronto. And they said, Verily this is a catch.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The enforcement of new regulations has robbed the senior years in Arts of some of their best fun. It is very much regretted that trifling pass subjects have made it necessary for several men to drop their Varsity courses entirely, some to repeat their years, and a few to register in other universities.

The Toronto Council Board requests that the members of the graduating year have their photos taken, as soon as possible, at Lyndale, 101 King street west. All photographs and biographies must be in the hands of the editor-in-chief before November 15th.

Mr. H. V. Pickering, '10, returned to Varsity this week. The summer's strenuous work seems neither to have robbed him of any of his manly strength nor to have deprived us of his genial smile.

The elections to the Historical Club vacancies caused by the resignations of Messrs Ramsay, '10, and Ward, '11, resulted in the appointment of Messrs. McPherson, '10, and Bristol, '11.

The many friends of Mr. Gilbert E. Yule, '10, will regret to hear that he may not be able to complete his final year in Arts this year.

The first regular meeting of the Literary Society will be held in the Gym on Friday evening. The awakened interest in party politics and group programmes will undoubtedly make this society's meetings very interesting.

The Modern Language Club, of which Mr. C. V. Massey, '10, is president, is undergoing a great change. The men who are greatly in the minority, and who are tiring of the petulant, governing majority, are seceding from this club with the intention of forming a new society for the criticism of literature and history. This secession of the sheep from the goats will eventually result in the formation of the new English and History Club.

An Arts freshman, who subscribes himself "C.C.H." has composed and handed in, with a request for publication, the following proposed yell for the first year.

Varsity Arts, ninety-three,
Keano Kimo, Kimo Kee,
Auno Donna in U.C.
Nineteen Hundred and ninety-three,
Rah! Rah! Rah!

APPLIED SCIENCE

Referring to the color scheme participated in by the freshmen and sophomores on Friday morning, Prof. Rosenbergh likens the incident to the stand taken by the average daily newspaper regarding criminal cases.

"A man committed a crime; therefore he was insane; hence he was not guilty."

The following are the officers of the University of Toronto Electrical Club:—Pres., Porter, '09; Vice-Pres., Treason, '09; Sec.-Treas., Thompson, '09; Councilors, Schweitzer, '09; Lawler, '10; Dean, '10. Mr. Thompson is prepared to enrol members of the third and fourth years as members of the club. The first meeting for the session takes place on the evening of November 5th.

Some men there are of old '09, Who think it rather "tuyere" That Metallurgy should foster them, All over again this year.

"Be optimistic," says Cor. See. Burns. "If you see a Rah, Rah, Rah, Varsity Mel going down the street leading a dog, don't blame the dog. He is chained to the company he keeps."

The class of '10 have elected the following executive:—Hon. Pres., Dr. Ellis; Pres., E. A. Jamieson; Vice-Pres., D. A. Campbell; Sec.-Treas., McCreedy; Councilors—City of V. A. Newhall; Miners, J. T. King; Medics, M. N. White; Elects, A. G. Cook, Chemists, and Architects, J. H. Craig.

In less than two weeks representatives from the various faculties will compete for the Be Lary trophy. School has the material to win the shield this year, but the eyes and nerves in connection are not attending rifle practice regularly enough to allow for any display of confidence as yet. Many crack snipers these years have not glanced along a barrel this year (rifle barrel, of course).

The executive of the second year is as follows:—Hon. Pres., A. D. Le Pan, B.A., Sec., Pres., R. J. Fuller; Vice-Pres., W. A. O'Flynn; Sec.-Treas., F. L. F. Rowe, Councilors, H. A. Wilson, R. B. Chandler, W. W. Chadwick.

W. G. Swain, B.A., Sec., gave a very interesting and practical talk before the Civil and Architectural sections on railroad location work. He described the make-up and work done by the different survey parties on location, outlining the many difficulties to be overcome, and giving a good general idea of the work done.

MEDICAL NOTES

It mightn't be a bad idea to suggest to the medical faculty that the crack students would be better off at the exam, on the subject, "How to run your particular clinic, without running up and down the hospital stairs three times, and peeping into every ward." Even with the practical experience we've already had on this subject some of us might get "starred" if we went to describe how we did it.

"The S.P.S. wallpapered the everlasting daylight, out of the Media," said an evening newspaper in commenting on last Friday's scrap at Varsity field. Yes, but it was only a case of nervous excitability on the part of the "School," trying to get back at the Media for winning nearly all the points in the games. Besides it's not all over with the S.P.S., and even in a scrap the fortunes of war may change. Good School!

Dr. Malloch deserves a medal for the interesting manner in which he conducts his surgery clinics. It's not his thorough knowledge of the disease, so much as the wit and sarcasm with which he flavors his technical remarks, that keeps his class interested. It doesn't matter whether it's a high dignity of the church or a two pound attendance intimate asylum that reference is made to. There's a joke connected with them all.

W. D. Smith seems to be a natural ball player, but "Jacob" Emmsy should try him out at first "hinc voce."

Coach Griffiths of Varsity rugby team is well spoken of wherever he goes. When one of the Mads '12 was leaving the old honestest this fall to return to his studies, somebody told him that "Griffiths is kind and gentle and of grand physique."

"Mary" Cadwell and Lizzie Halliwell have got to be quite chummy this year.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

The long suspense under which the freshmen have been living was broken on Tuesday night. The initiation was one of the most successful within the memory of the present students. After being shaved and massaged with Ryan's carbomated preparation of needles, flour and lamp black, they were put to a series of tests before being admitted to the Green Brotherhood. The history of their ancestors, the diseases of the flesh to which they were subject, and the ailments of the heart were thoroughly scrutinized. A precedent, very questionable to senior students, had to be followed in order to admit them into the society, for remembering the solemn vows and promises to which they had agreed, on leaving their old land, they could not lend their consciences towards even an evasive answer, and frankly confessed they were in love. And the very grace with which others of them kissed the human skull, in token for the awful fate in store for those who should prove disloyal to their order, was strong proof that in their evidence the whole truth had not been revealed. Prohibitions and refreshments were served, and of the long speeches which followed, the Irish wit of F. Tobin was much appreciated. Among the honored guests who were present to assist in the evening's ceremony were Saint Bede, the Prince, Beethoven, and Hon. S. H. Blake (in eulogy). In our respect at least last year's performance was not surpassed. When freshmen know the initiation is coming, the charm of "pouncing on them in their dreams" is largely lost and the "bait" of initiation is found in commencing at an early hour.

KNOX COLLEGE

The main feature of the opening meeting of the "Lit." held on Tuesday evening, was a humorous and practical address by Mr. J. A. Macdonald of the Globe, on the need of the student availing himself of the training in public speaking afforded by this Society. The president's

Junior Arts Win

SR. MEDS, 17; SR. ARTS, 0

The first McGill Cup game of the season was played on the athletic field on Monday between Senior Meds and Senior Arts. The Meds were the heavier team and had more system to their play. Kelly, Spaul and Harris, carried the load of the Arts wing line repeatedly for large gains.

The score at half-time was two and at full time, two in favor of Senior Meds.

For the winners, Kelly, Spaul and Harris played star games, while for the losers Kelly was best.

The teams

JR. ARTS SMOTHER JR. MEDS

The second McGill Cup game, played on the athletic field on Tuesday between Junior Arts and Junior Meds, resulted in a hollow victory for the former. The Junior Arts team showed championship form, their back division pulling off some fine combination runs, while their half and mauling was practically faultless. The Meds team lacked system and were very weak in tackling.

The final score was 2-0.
For Junior Arts, Fritz was the bright particular star. Ramsay, Smith, Dawson and Rolfer played fine games. For Junior Meds, Grier and Scott were best.

The teams

Junior Arts—Full, Smith; halves, Fritz, Ramsay, McNeil; quarter, Bullen; scrumming, Barry, Taylor, Langley, wings, McCormick, Cory, Dawson, Latta, Platt, Cull.

Junior Meds—Full, Grier; halves, Smith, Galbraith, McIntyre; quarter, Knight (Knox); scrumming, Longwell, Hodder, Keaton, wing, McKay; pine, Russell, Knox, Scotson, Scott, Butters.

Referee—Jim Person. Umpire—"Tony" Evans.

down, and one Ritchie, a youth of good promise in the line, did kick therefrom a goal.

8. And they lifted up their voices and sang and danced, singing of Variety and of Falconer, and predicting much increase of work for the under-taker; that all hope was banished from McGill.

9. And it came to pass that the ball was kicked to one McGill and that he, through his hands as though they had been buttered.

10. But Lawson, seeing the ball, began to run with it and was as a lightning bolt coming out of his chamber and roaring as a strong man to run his course. And the children of McGill were like a freight car that belched a banner bullet.

11. And they strove mightily and laid—Lo, it be easier for Hugh Ritchie to go through the eye of a needle than to go through the men of Toronto.

12. And when the sons of McGill gathered together in a huddle, there were many men of Toronto among them. And the ball was as a mustard seed hid in three measures of meal.

13. And about the fifth hour Ritchie did kick the ball and when the hoop of Ritchie did strike the ball, the angle of incidence was equal to the angle of reflection, so it is written in the geometry of Albert E. Grist.

14. And the ball did go through the air even between the goal-posts, passing over the bar, and then it fell suddenly even to Colton's stocks.

15. So Toronto triumphed over McGill that day that the words of the prophesied near might be fulfilled. And all do raise a shout and praise the name of Newton even unto this day.

chair, rendered vacant by the absence of N. A. McEachern at Montreal College this year, was filled by the election of H. J. D. McKinnon, M.A. The positions of first vice-president and corresponding secretary, also made vacant by the withdrawal of McKinnon, were filled by the choice of J. R. Sanderson and D. J. Lane, respectively.

Our representatives in the Students' Parliament this year will be W. A. Cameron, E. R. McLean and G. G. D. Kilpatrick.

"Fossils" are almost extinct and a new collection of sports is to be revived. For the last two years Knox has failed to take part in the T.C.D.F. This year it has been unanimously decided to take our old place on the roster, and C. F. McIntosh, M.A., is our representative on the Inter-collegiate Committee.

The members of the year '07 (U.C.) at attendance in the College had a grand time last Thursday at the home of Rev. B. B. Waddell, 132 Juniper street. "Bert" is the first of their number to be ordained and to enter the "perilous sea of matrimony," and in token of good wishes and old fellowship, his chums presented him with a handsome silver brooch of "mission" oak, engraved "Born the Boys of '07."

TRINITY COLLEGE

On Monday night there was a general meeting of the Students' Missionary Society. This is the first year that it has not been associated with the N. A. A., which is now confined to the Episcopal Church of the United States. The Society is consequently left with a free hand and is adopting an entirely new policy. In the place of the weekly mission study circles, such as have been with so much success in other colleges, The missions of Leaside and Earlscourt have been applied to the Society for financial assistance. The applications were referred to the executive committee.

Association football is now the order of the day on the campus, and there are rumors going about that the inter-year football game is to be Association this year.

A large proportion of the students are going away for Thanksgiving this week. There will consequently be no service in the College Chapel at 11 o'clock on Sunday, although there will be the usual celebration of the Holy communion at 8 a.m.

The Chapel Warden this year are Messrs. Collip and Gilbert.

A completely new arrangement of the Greek course for the Divinity class has been put into operation this week. It is intended by the new plan to ensure greater thoroughness in the work, and to avoid the difficulties, sometimes encountered formerly, of a man with scarcely any knowledge of the language having to do work which was too advanced. The examinations will be stiff, so as to ensure good practical results.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

J. A. McCague, '12, was taken to the hospital Wednesday with appendicitis and was operated on, Thursday. J. E. Lovering, B.A., '08, has been called home by the death of his brother.

A certain writer of a lug letter to the front page of Varsity, a week ago, replying to "Stretley," has been duly tapped.

The annual tennis tournament of the college is already in full swing under the management of F. E. Herdington, 11, Sec.-Treas. of the Tennis Club.

Wednesday afternoon saw a lively game of rugby on the Victoria campus and the Victoria defeated the Deuts in their first game of the Blackcup series by 29 to 7. The Victoria line-up was as follows:—Cox, centre; Wilson, centre; Morrison and Newton, scrumming; Ely and Batlogg, middle wings; Steenson and Morrison, middle wings; Coulter and Campbell, outside backs; Duggan, three-quarter; Redstone, centre; Livingston, right; McKenney, back.

In a practice match the night before, Victoria won from the Faculty of Education, 4 to 0.

CHESS CLUB EXECUTIVE

TORONTO ATHLETES WIN BY BIG MARGIN

Intercollegiate Athletic Meet a Great Success—Many Records Broken

The eleventh annual games of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union were held on the University of Toronto athletic field last Friday afternoon, and were in every respect a success.

All the events were keenly contested, the finishes in the track events being all very close. Six intercollegiate records were broken during the afternoon. The hundred and two hundred and twenty yard dashes were the most exciting races of the day, the former resulting in a dead heat between Halfhaus and Sebert in ten seconds flat, while in the latter Halfhaus won by two feet in 22.1-5.

Varsity had little difficulty in winning the championship, scoring 66 points. McGill was second with 24, and Queen's third with 18.

As the detailed results have been published in the downtown dailies, and as the space is very limited in to-day's Varsity, the summary of the various events is not given.

LECTURE BY MR. H. FISHER

Mr. Herbert Fisher will deliver two lectures at the University, in the Physics Building, on Monday, Nov. 1st and Tuesday, Nov. 2nd, at 8 o'clock. Subjects, "Napoleon," and "England's Place in History." The lectures are open to all.

Mr. Fisher is Fellow and Tutor of New College, Oxford, Fellow of the British Academy, a distinguished historian and lecturer, author of "The Medieval Empire," "Bonapartism," "The Political History of England from 1815-1871." He is now on his way to Boston to deliver the Lowell lectures.

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB

The University Glee Club and Massed Chorus are to be congratulated upon having secured the services of such a capable and distinguished conductor as Mr. J. B. A. Tripp, whose photo will appear in Tuesday's issue.

Mr. Tripp is known as one of the foremost of Canadian musicians. For twenty years he has conducted the famous Toronto Male Chorus, an organization which has never been equaled in any Canadian city. Mr. Tripp expresses himself as well pleased with the material in the Glee Club and Massed Chorus and hopes to complete the voice-testing this week. He regards the proposal to make a tour this season favorably and has no doubt that it will be a great success musically and financially. It is some years now since the Glee Club made a tour, but many a graduate recalls with pleasure the times that were spent on the annual tours.

In deference to the wishes of many who insist it impossible to attend the Massed Chorus rehearsals the time will be changed. The Glee Club rehearsals will be held as before, on Monday evenings at 7:30 during the season.

TORONTO, 63, OTTAWA, 21

It was a shame, wasn't it?

The Ottawa team was made of all-star players, and when the "big fellow" started down the field, most of their stout ones to watch him go.

And yet that team beat Queen's the week before in Ottawa. They must like to own him, don't they?

Hugh Gall was easily the best all-round man on the field. His work was consistent and some of his running catches were wonderful.

Hugh Ritchie's back was a great success. It was "Buff's" first try in two years.

In the second half it was simply a case of pin-pointing it to a touchdown. Gall and Lawson became so bored that they passed a couple of their tries to Bill Foulds and Jones.

When Gall tackled an Ottawa man around the neck, some fans in the stand remarked: "Gall never could learn to tackle." Evidently he never watched Hugh in the old High School league.

Frank Park did some fine tackling. These outside wing positions that were causing so much trouble seem to be pretty well looked after.

The outside back was the best play Varsity had. Foulds and Gall have this play down to perfection now, and with the line holding should gain repeatedly with it.

It was claimed after the McGill game, that while Varsity was a great team, it was not a good scoring one. Perhaps the critics will change their minds now.

Capt. Jack Newton is certainly a hearty man to have around. He is always working a little harder than anyone else on the team and his tackling is beautiful.

THE COLONEL'S DOG BARKED ANGRY PROTEST

Arousing Interruption in First Regular Meeting of the Lit.

The first regular meeting of the "Lit." at University College, for the current academic year, was held in the gymnasium on Friday evening. President T. A. Russell occupied the throne, while Mr. T. R. Harrison made his maiden appearance in the capacity of recording secretary. The members present of the Old Lat. party occupied the chairs on the east side of the room, while the Unionist clans held down the opposition benches. Messrs. A. I. Fleming, leader of the Unionists, and N. A. McCarthy, the Society's Old Lat. vice-president, were both on hand and led in the discussion.

The musicians did not turn up, so the musical part of the programme did not materialize. There was no dearth of discussion, however. In fact, Critic Dan Lounsbury felt constrained to advise the members of the Society, in his closing remarks, "not to speak at all, unless they had something to say, and when they had said it, to sit down."

One amusing incident varied the extreme gravity of the meeting. Mr. McCarthy was just reaching the climax of a mystery intimation, when the tense atmosphere of the room was broken by an inebriated husk of a hark from Colonel Hagan's fox terrier, on the floor below. "The opposition is usually keen this evening," remarked the speaker, as soon as the prolonged laughter would permit him to continue his address.

The vice-president gave notice of motion to the effect that the Society place itself on record as favoring the adoption of the British system of party government, as outlined in the proposed new constitution which the Old Lat. party will endeavor to introduce. It is therefore useless to say that this evening's meeting will be uninteresting in the extreme. A Unionist plank, involving the appointment of a committee to investigate the advisability and possibility of forming an Athletic Association at University College, was almost unanimously carried. The committee consists of Messrs. J. B. Thompson, J. M. Wood, Frank Halfhaus.

COMING SOCIAL EVENTS

Alumni Dance (Bal Poudre), at the gymnasium to-morrow evening, commencing at eight o'clock.

Union Dance, in the Gymnasium on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 4th.

Rigby Dance, in the Gymnasium, on the evening of Friday, Nov. 10th.

Reception Dance, in January (date not announced as yet).

SIXTY-THREE—TWO

A CORRECTION

To the Editor of The Varsity

Dear Sir—Will you permit me to correct a paragraph which appeared in The Varsity of last Friday. In the notice regarding a change in the constitution of the Modern Language Club, it was said that the men of the club had resolved to withdraw from the organization because of "petiticoat government." This is true but for two minor particulars—the men have not as yet decided to withdraw, and there is no "petiticoat government."

The actual situation is that the club in the last few years of its existence has developed a membership with a proportion of about ten women to one man. This, of course, is the inevitable result of present conditions in University College, but the consequence of such a state of affairs is that the women have ceased to be adequately represented on the Executive Committee (they could not be properly represented unless they held nearly all the offices), and that the club falls short of being either a five men's or women's club or an association of equal numbers of either sex. Its stagnation cannot be remedied by a limitation of membership, because in securing a proper proportion of eligible men, scores of eligible women would be excluded. In short, there is a hopeless male minority which is impeding all progress, and it seems that the most expedient and the most graceful thing for this minority to do is to secede and leave the club under that management which is most likely to make it a successful organization. In course of time it may be that men will recover his lost prestige under the control of the prevailing sex. I remain,

Yours very truly,
C. VINCENT MASSEY

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

The University sermon will be preached on Sunday by Prof. J. Clark Murray, late of McGill University. Prof. Murray needs no introduction to this University, and a large attendance is expected.

MEETINGS OF WOMEN'S LIT. AND Y.W.C.A.

Interesting Addresses and Papers— Delegates to Attend American Convention.

The first regular meeting of the Women's Literary Society was held on Wednesday evening, Oct. 27th, and proved highly successful. The nominations for the first year representative took place and Miss Wright was elected.

Mrs. Torrington addressed the meeting on "The National Council of Women," outlining the history and aims. The programme also included the following:

Piano solo—Miss Murphy, 13.
"Professions and Careers for Women"—Miss Conn, 10.

At the close, refreshments in the form of fruit and home-made candies were served.

The weekly meeting of the Y.W.C.A. of University College was held on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 26th. The President, Miss Russell, in the chair. The meeting was occupied with the presentation of various phases of the activity of the Y.W.C.A. chiefly for the benefit of the new members. Miss Matheson gave a brief account of the two foreign secretaries, Miss MacDonald of Japan and Miss Cook of India, and appealed for contributions to their support. Miss Biedinger of Miss Ball, Miss Biedinger explained the aims and work of the Extension Committee. Miss Anderson, of the Dominion Council, addressed the meeting on the International Student Volunteer Convention, to be held at Rochester, N.Y., during the Christmas holidays. A committee was appointed to choose the women delegates and make all necessary arrangements; it is to consist of the President of the Y.W.C.A. and representatives of the Women's Literary Society, Athletic Society, Y.W.C.A. and each year.

Current opinion regarding the showing in the Modern Language Club seems frequently to differ from that expressed in "Around the Halls" of last issue.

UNIVERSITY DRAMATICS

Within the memory of most present fourth year men there sprang into existence a University of Toronto Dramatic Club. Its enthusiasm was unbounded. It was immediately resolved to put on a play at the Alexandra Theatre—the Princess was far too small. The piece was selected and the cast was chosen. This was the zenith of the club's career. It was thought that perhaps a down town performance was too much to attempt and Convocation Hall was suggested as the scene. A new play and a new cast were talked of—and were still being talked of when May arrived and the sterner drama of life began to occupy everybody's attention.

It is to be deplored that the project has not been resurrected. There is, however, no time better than this very light-working Michaelmas term for a revival of the historic spirit. Hundreds of freshmen are hauling time lying heavy on their hands, and thousands of freshettes are experiencing similar crises. The other years have not yet begun to think of May, and meetings and rehearsals for many weeks would find no one too busy.

Something may come out of the Literary Society dramatic competition worthy of presentation, but, hailing that, we can always fall back on those unfortunate playrights on the walls of Toronto University. Shakespeare we would not recommend. Julius Caesar has endured so much unnecessary suffering at the hands of High School dramatic clubs, and Lady Blanche has received so much more than her legitimate agency in a similar position, that it might be well to leave these worthless to a well-earned repose. Strictly modern drama is indubitably beyond the abilities of most amateurs, and, besides, we have many opportunities of seeing the plays of today put on in an almost faultless manner. With a compromise between Shakespeare and the present, we find ourselves in the XVIII century, and a University Dramatic Club could find abundant material in plays of this period: as an example, Sheridan's "The Rivals."

The play we would suggest as an eminently suitable piece for such a performance. If we are not mistaken, the last dramatic effort of the University as a whole was a production of "Antigone" about fifteen years ago, that a Greek play would hardly be fitting for the inauguration of a new era of University dramatic activity, which one considers the fact that most of us have no closer acquaintance of Greek than a knowledge of the letters on half a dozen terra cotta houses. A well-known play presented in Convocation Hall would be received with tremendous enthusiasm, and we hope that this year we will see our hopes realized.

THE STUDENTS' PARLIAMENT

The Editor, The Varsity:

Dear Sir,—When The Varsity devotes to eliminate personal references from its editorial columns I shall be glad to continue a just and uncoloured discussion on the Students' Parliament.

In the meantime, which discussion has, in our view, a tendency, it may not be too great an optimism to expect that those members of the Literary Society who have been hovering in the House of Rimmon will do so no longer.

Yours very truly,

J. L. DUNCAN

(The editorial to which Mr. Duncan has reference was a criticism, not of himself, but merely of the opinions expressed in his last open letter to The Varsity. Consequently, the above plea for the elimination of "personal references" seems rather irrelevant and unwarranted. The matter of the Students' Parliament is still open for discussion, and we shall be glad to have from Mr. Duncan's pen at any time. We confess with shame that the significance of Mr. Duncan's allusion to the "House of Rimmon" has been lost upon us. We have resolved, however, to borrow a volume of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, and worry the thing out. Ed.)

OLD COUNTRY NOTES

From our own correspondent

Canadians who take interest in the fortunes of the mother country should realize that the political developments of the next few years will probably be far-reaching. The outstanding fact is that all parties advocate programmes of a very drastic character. Broadly speaking, there are two, and two only, logical clear-cut concepts of things holding the stage: the one is frankly Tory—a protectionist England, a huge creation of peasant provinces, the other is an avowed socialism, the other is an avowed socialism—national or municipal control of most things. Each party will employ its own powers of the State to carry out its purpose—each aims at the defeat of free competition, but the first advocates the weapons of old England, the second calls for a new age. Politics, in short, are returned to their first principles. The issues at stake are fundamental. How the immediate struggle turns out is of secondary importance.

It is the youth of the nation, "the trustees of posterity," who are the ultimate people, and their environment, that will repay the study of any thinking man. The Congress of the Church of England, lately concluded, was in this respect of extreme interest. The Bishop of Southwark, one of its greatest heads, came out for Socialism, the beloved Bishop of London was not far off it. Oxford is breeding High Churchmen who have great sympathy with the cause.

Nonconformity shows many of the same symptoms; the amazing revival movement of Evan Roberts pointed that way.

But the issue lies largely with the present class of the great cities, if they are Socialists, they may win the next election for the government, if they are Tories, they may win it. If the Tories are returned to power, Mr. Balfour has a card up his sleeve which might alter the whole face of English life. If he can hold his party to the line he advocated at Birmingham—the use of State credit to settle small proprietors on the land—then we may see in England what the last hundred years would seem to have proved true of France—that the small farmer will keep his fingers at Socialism. The old Victorian Liberalism is dead as a door-nail, and the back-to-the-land policy of the present government has failed. It is important to note that a large proportion of the Socialists who put rural population in the front of their programme, if they get into power, it is highly probable that they will find that this is impossible without protection. They will find out that the Englishman will not consent to live under his big tree again, if it is barren. Meanwhile hear these facts in mind, that 60 per cent of the population of England and Wales live in cities with over 10,000 people in them, that 90 per cent only of the population over 16 years of age are employed in agriculture, that the townsman has his characteristic vices. Fresh air, no crowding, health, vigor, simplicity—these are England's needs.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The members of the class '11, University College, are justly proud of the fact that four of their men, Dixon, Muir, Gage and Thomsen, are on the first rugby team.

The fourth year elections held on Friday resulted as follows:—Pres., A. R. Hartung; Vice-Pres., Miss I. W. S. Campbell (a.c.); Sec'y., H. W. Lyons (a.c.); Treas., A. Fry; Musical Director, Miss K. B. Russell (a.c.).

The first regular meeting of the Philosophical Society of University College will be held on Friday, Oct. 29th, at 4 p.m., in room 6. Prof. J. Clark Murray of Montreal will be present and deliver an address on the subject, "Immortal Can." All those who are interested in philosophy are invited to attend this meeting.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The University College Y.M.C.A. has taken charge of the Hayter Street Mission, conducting a Boys' Club on three evenings each week. Lessons in boxing, wrestling, and other sports will be given during the year.

The formal classes for leaders in Bible study will start on Friday evening in the Y.M.C.A. Hall. A special feature of the Bible Study work this year will be a class of fourth year men held by Prof. W. S. Milner of University College. The book discussed will be "The Social Significance of the Teaching of Jesus."

APPLIED SCIENCE

About thirty-five of the fourth year men are to try to Niagara on Friday last to investigate the various hydro-electric developments on the Canadian side. Prof. Angus and Messrs. Kiddle and Trill accompanied them. The men carried away a host of ideas in their private car, but it was a pleasant surprise to them afterward that they were expected to hand in descriptive notes on the outing.

The next meeting of the Engineering Society, on Nov. 9th, will in all probability draw a record attendance. President Falconer will address the society. So also will T. Leonard Thomsen, C.E., of New York, a graduate of '86, who comes to Toronto today to give us the benefit of a valuable lecture.

Josh Wise says "It's the achievements of our rivals that make aviators start."

L. R. Wilson, '09, was a visitor in the city during the holiday. L. R. is making good with the Dominion Bridge Co.

The trip to Lacanauville, to have taken to the town, has been postponed until later in the season.

Autumnal haze, gorgeous colors, bracing air, harvest moons and things. "Rah for October!"

The October issue of Applied Science may be expected to appear in a few days. In it Prof. Angus described in detail the many interesting features of the Thermochemicals Building, which is to give us his formal opening in December.

The opening meeting of the Science Debating Society was held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall last Thursday, 23rd inst. A joint, a goodly number of students present. The subject under discussion was one most interesting to every S.S. man—"Should the Engineering Society discontinue running their mass annual excursion to some outside town of engineering interest?" The Government party led by their capable and enthusiastic leader, Mr. Fairfax, and the Opposition was ably led by Mr. Dolson, both of the third year. The debate which followed was one of keen interest and interest, and the first best speaker delivered by some first-year fellows indicated what achievement in debating may be demonstrated before the close of the Eastern term. After the crisis, Mr. J. C. Stiles, whose encouragement and aid, vice is always much appreciated by the Society, had finished his remarks, the decision was given by the Speaker, A. G. McLeish, in favor of the Government. To the Science Debating Society of all School years we welcome every Thursday, at 4 p.m. Come and enjoy the short debates.

MEDICAL NOTES

The sympathy of the students will go out to Ward Redick, '13, in the loss he is called upon to sustain in the death of his mother.

All the medical students have been invited to attend the annual Halloween reunion in Convocation Hall on Saturday night, Oct. 27th. These gatherings are all right. Frank Yeigh will give another of his famous picture-talks on "The New Canada." There will be orchestral selections, and, best of all, refreshments. The boys remember the good time last year and a good representation of students is expected.

Junior Meds played Junior School in the Junior Hockey Cup series yesterday afternoon.

"Orie" Finch has resigned his position as manager of Junior Meds—football club owing to health.

Nominations for Medical officers on Friday night.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Our athletic society is greatly handicapped for lack of grounds—tennis court for ninety men being all we can find room for. But we have only ourselves to blame for coming here in such numbers. We can hardly expect the council to have foreseen in purchasing this site in 1890, which was at that time ample, that in a few years almost the whole grounds would be covered with buildings. An extension is now a very difficult problem.

Professor Wronig gave an address in chapel Wednesday morning on Christian Education, the kind of address which students need.

The freshmen furnished the programme on Friday evening last for the Literary Society. A quartette endeavored to perpetuate the memories of initiation in song. The words may live, but it is hoped the music will not.

The following yell for '13 is submitted by a first-year man:

"Tertius decimus Varsity,
His et stupae unity-three,
Tritus decimus Kraitista,
Quety-three Varsity, Ra, Ra, Ra!"

TRINITY COLLEGE

The meeting of the Literary Society was held on Thursday (instead of Friday). The election of officers resulted in Baker being elected vice-president; Wilson, secretary; J. G. Widdifield, treasurer; J. P. Clarke, ex-officio, and Bishop, first year representative.

The smoking concert, on Thursday was a great success, about one hundred students and about attending. The "Marching Closets" quartette, the very popular. Perhaps one of the best numbers was Mr. Martin's pianoforte solos. Andrew's magnificent gramophone gave two solos by Caruso and other selections.

We are glad to know that the rumors about the inter-year football game were not correct. Rugby football will be played, but on the "golden death" scheme.

The punching-ball platform has been removed from the gymnasium so it interfered so much with basketball. It will be replaced by a proper punching-ball bracket.

CHESS

The Chess Club will hold its first open meeting on Monday, Nov. 1, at 8 p.m., in the Union, when Dean Brown will play simultaneous games with all present. Any chess player in the University, whether he belongs to the club or not, will be welcomed.

THE THREE TEAMS WILL PLAY TO-MORROW

The firsts at Ottawa, Seconds at Guelph, and Thirds at Home

The Varsity team leaves for Ottawa at noon to-day and will play Ottawa College in the capital to-morrow afternoon. After the victory of last Saturday, little doubt is expected in winning the game, but the Toronto team will take no chances. Ottawa College is a very different team at home from when playing away, and can be counted on to give Varsity a hard argument. The game will be played at all levels, and will probably be played at left middle wing. Otherwise, the team will be the same as last Saturday.

The second team plays Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph to-morrow and should have no trouble in repeating last Saturday's victory, when the seconds won by the score of 29 to 6. In this second round points round, and with a lead of 23 points, it looks like Varsity II will win the championship of the western district of the intermediate series.

In the eastern district, McGill II and Royal Military College are playing off. R.M.C. won last Saturday by a score of 19 to 7, but McGill II protested the game. Varsity II, if they win the western district, will play home and home games with the champions of the eastern district for the intermediate championship.

Varsity III play a return game with A.C.C. II, on a athletic field at 10 to 30 to-morrow morning.

SR S.P.S., 27, SR ARTS, 6.

In an uninteresting game on Wednesday afternoon, Sr. S.P.S. defeated Sr. Arts by the score of 27 to 6, in the first round of the Mulock Cup series. In the first quarter, Sr. S.P.S. scored 8 points, in the second 1, in the third 12, and in the fourth 12. Sr. Arts scored 6 in the second quarter.

For Senior School, Smith, Harvey and Chestnut were the stars, while senior Arts, Smith, and McPhedran were best. The teams?

Sr. S.P.S.—Full, Mar, Harvey, Smith, Harvey, McLeod, Warren, Douglas, Scrimmon, Ebdon, Waddington, McManis, wings, McNiven, Jeffrey, Milligan, Harris, Christy, Grant.

Sr. Arts—Fall, Conn, Halvax, Keith, Anger, Varcoe, quarter, Mollat (Key), scrumage, Bryce, Allen, Brown, wings, M. Hart, M. Phedran, Shett, Kennedy, Oosterberg, Tyler.

RELAY TEAM WON A CUP

On Thanksgiving Day a few of Varsity's champion track team journeyed up to Woodstock to take part in the athletic meet there. They all succeeded in amassing over 100 more of the valuable prizes offered.

Lois Schert ran well in both the 100 and the 220 yards races, but Bobby Kerr was also present, so Lois was satisfied with second place in both these events. "Dude John" Gibson registered second place in the high jump. In the pole vault, R. S. Sheppard and "Dude John" had a grand struggle for second place. This was a sudden appearance of each in this event, and, although neither could get over the lowest height, still they won their prizes. (The pole vault was the first event in the relay.)

In the hurdle race, J. A. Wright finished first and Sheppard third. Al Cameron of Central V.M.C. won A was about five yards ahead when he fell on a hurdle and allowed Lois to win the race.

In the one mile relay race (four men to a team), Varsity ran an excellent race and won by about two hundred yards. This entitles them to hold the handsome challenge cup for one year. The team was made up of Clunahan, Sheppard, Wright, and Schert, and ran in that order.

FENCING

The classes in fencing are now being formed and will meet every Tuesday and Thursday evening throughout the year. They are led by Sgt. Instr. Williams, champion of Canada, and late champion of the British Army in India, under whose guidance many of the best Canadian fencers have been drilled. In order to derive the full benefit from these classes it is necessary to join early and obtain the preliminary practice which is important. The club have this year seen it to remove the fee, so that any who are members of the gymnasium may avail themselves of the privileges of the club without curtailing their expense.

SWIMMING NOTES

The life-saving classes will start on Tuesday, Nov. 2nd. Life-saving instruction is a class work, while instruction in swimming is individual work. A freshman's swimming team will be formed this year and they will surprise the old boys by their speed. Four have already handled in very many names: MacIntyre, Poole, Clarkson and Montgomery.

A challenge will soon be received from the Toronto Swimming Club. Archie MacIntyre, a last year's Varsity boy, is joining this club. Keith and Harvey Douglas are in splendid shape for the big contest with McGill, as are most of the winter polo players. Douglas is also going to be operating. Five p.m. is the hour for polo practice.

The annual meeting of the University Curling Club will be held this afternoon at five o'clock in room 854, North Brinsford. Officers will be elected and the prospects of the coming season discussed. All those who wish to curl this winter are invited to be present.

THE STROLLER

The innocent words of the Stroller in a few weeks ago have excited a number of comments never dreamed of before. From Victoria College comes an epistle that would do credit to any pupil provided such were suitably rephrased from civilization. Trinity College also has a hand in the game, but it is to be hoped that they will stop here. The Stroller has not the slightest intention of stirring up strife in this way, and it is to be hoped that these differences may be happily reconciled. We are sorry, however, to note in the items from Victoria that the gentleman from that college has been subjected to the "rest cure." Rather, put him in a glass case as the one good boy who did not do the young, as they are wont to do in the lary tales.

The ex-president of the fourth year in Arts is the champion of the rights of his year. He even goes so far as to demand compensation which the class never possessed as a privilege except as granted for one year. The vice-president of the "Lit." made clear the case and there is no need for misunderstanding. The Literary Society is looked upon as the representative of University College, and in that capacity has a right to elect representatives to the Students' Parliament.

The third year in the faculty of Applied Science showed their good sense by "bumping" a man who happened to come late to a lecture. A rigid application of this in all faculties would lead to good results. The stragglers who come in at 10.15 and 10.20 are certainly not fair to the professor or to the class. We would hesitate to prescribe anything for a professor, but could not do something he does for those of the faculty who have not much regard for the time of closing the lecture.

It is a trifle late we know. The goal-posts will soon be in storage and the white live-yard lines will soon be in the hands of the autumn plowman. But for all that, the remark does not apply for all that, the remark does not apply. To be exact, he is the ground that it is in violation of all the principles of art and compares it most unfavorably with poets who are "the school of poetry." Football not artistic! How could anyone conversant with the game and dwelling in its atmosphere make such an awful statement? Does he mean to say that Hugh Ritchie is not a work of art? Surely we can. We can stand the sight of a poet, but we will say that football is the truest art. The truest art is poetry and indisputable. The Principal notwithstanding. Could anything, for example, for more artistic, aesthetically, even than an effective right tackle and hook from Hugh delivered in a serene and done so deftly as to be out of the annals of the right tackle. We think not. Thus there is the happy art of stunting the heaviest man in one team at the highest moment of the other and sending him, crashing, to the ground. Poetry! It is not the very poetry of music with meter flowing and rhythm all at once? This line is lated at every turn. What alas the Principal, anyway?

OVER 200 ATTENDED MEETING OF THE "LIT"

Radical Measure Carried by 7
Votes—Party Feeling
Very Keen

The largest and in many respects the most interesting meeting in the long history of the University College "Lit." was held in the Students' Union on Friday evening. One may gather some idea of the keenness and excitement of the discussion from the statement that over 200 members were present, and that the motion which was largely responsible for the phenomenal interest and attendance was carried by a narrow margin of 7 votes.

The Old Lit. party is aiming at the adoption of an entirely new system of Cabinet government in place of the old Constitution which has governed the Society for over 50 years. At the preliminary meeting was taken by the introduction by Vice-President McArthur of the following motion: "That the Society place itself on record as favoring the adoption of the Cabinet system of government as outlined in the proposed new Constitution." The measure was warmly supported by J. M. Mitchell, T. R. Harrison, W. M. Johnson, J. W. Kennedy, and the Vice-President. The speakers were A. L. Picking, the Unionist leader, Sibbald, H. P. Picking, and H. W. Lynde. All of the addresses were earnest and well delivered and had the effect of increasing many independent voters to the opposition. The motion was carried, the executive was making the count, the executive was almost at election height.

As the adoption of a new constitution calls for a two-thirds majority, the Unionists say that the ultimate victory is bound to theirs. The Old Lit. men, however, continue to express confidence in the complete success of their cause. The new constitution will be discussed in detail at next Friday evening's meeting.

The Stag Night Committee, consisting of D. A. Warren, chairman, G. A. Keith, secretary, and McCrimmon, Hensler, and Dixon have fixed November 9th as the date for the stag party.

The new membership committee will consist of Messrs. Harrison, Picking, and Tyler.

W. C. H. Vance, C. V. Massey, and J. L. Duncan were appointed to judge the submitted University plays. Nov. 26 was fixed as the date for the Mock Parliament. The committee: A. S. Oron, A. B. Taylor, G. A. Macdonald and S. D. Tyler. G. D. Kilpatrick, Speaker.

The Arts Dinner, of which G. W. Culver is chairman and J. J. McLaughlin, secretary, will be held at the Hotel Marlborough. The committee are: J. L. Duncan, G. N. Kennedy, C. V. Massey, W. M. Sage, E. H. Bond, J. McClelland, E. P. Robinson, "11, G. M. Wood, G. H. Hunter, E. G. Whitaker, "12, H. M. R. B. Johnston, W. H. Martin, "13.

The Arts Dance will be held on Friday, Jan. 20th. E. C. Geyer was appointed chairman and R. E. Evans, secretary. The committee: N. D. Tyler, A. Gilmore, F. M. McPherson, E. H. Smith, J. W. Lynde, M. L. Ellis, C. B. Henderson, W. C. McNaught, "11, P. L. Armstrong, V. K. H. McCrimmon, "12, N. D. Lynde, D. Scott, F. Houser, "13.

To fill two vacancies on the executive caused by withdrawals, P. E. Gane was appointed treasurer, and McGillivray secretary of committees. E. H. Haulton and H. W. Lynde, and Old Lit. nominees, were elected first year councilors on the executive, by acclamation.

NEW PROFESSOR AT KNOX

Knox College's new professor, Rev. Robert Law of Edinburgh, arrived in the city last week. He comes highly recommended both as a professor and a preacher. His formal induction into the professorial chair took place last night and began at 7:30. The student welcome will take the form of a dinner given in his honor in the dining room on Thursday evening.

ALL FOR THE SAKE OF A LADY

MOB OF COWARDLY FRESHMEN DISGRACE THE ENTIRE UNIVERSITY

Indignation of Faculty and Students alike is High—The many must bear the Stigma which should attach to a few.

Seldom, if ever before, in the history of the University have the prevailing opinions of authorities and undergraduates coincided so completely in an emphatic denunciation of students' misconduct as at the present time. To state that the outrages perpetrated on Saturday evening by the mob who have sullied the whole student reputation, were disgraceful, is to put the case very mildly indeed. Some comfort may be drawn, of course, from the fact that practically all of those who indulged in the so-called "fun" were freshmen, possessed of a very distorted conception of propriety and common decency. But this will not serve to prevent the public from attaching a stigma to the entire student mass for some time to come.

If the issue on the street could only appreciate the fact that Saturday night's outrages were the work of a very small proportion of the students of the University, and that the consensus of undergraduate opinion is most indignant in its condemnation of this misconduct of some of its meanest members, the present state of affairs might not be so vital. But public opinion, once hastily formed in such a case, does not readily distinguish between the guilty and the innocent. The acts of a few are adjudged as being indicative of the general student attitude, and consequently by the University rulers.

To unnerve all the unpleasant details of the occurrences that took place on the campus, outside Convocation Hall, and especially in front of the main building, on Saturday night is unnecessary. It is quite sufficient to know that ladies and gentlemen going to and coming from the Alumni dance were jostled and insulted (most of the male escorts being painted with shoe paste), that at least one lady fainted, that a peaceable citizen passing through the grounds was assaulted, and that considerable amount of property was wilfully damaged.

Constantine Christie did all that could be expected of him, and more. But one man, he is ever so able and judicious, can do little with a horde of half-trained rowdies. One young fellow would undoubtedly have been trampled underfoot had he not been at hand to rescue her from the mob. Among the miscellaneous property destroyed was a lawn roller belonging to the Toronto Cricket Club, valued at about $150.

The Alumni dance was a great success, and the guests left the building. The ensuing outrages, however, did not conduce to the pleasure and peace of mind of the homegoing couples.

At the time of going to press, the Capot is in session, taking evidence and making a thorough investigation into the whole disgraceful affair. What the result of their meeting will be is uncertain. It has been learned on fairly good authority, however, that its members are seriously considering the advisability of doing away with all University social functions. The mass of students would, of course, deplore such a move, and it is to be hoped that the very reasonable and very real indignation of the fair-minded students (which is, of course, the great majority), towards those who participated in the disorders of Halloween, may be turned into such channels as will render such a radical step unnecessary.

PROF. CLARK MURRAY DELIVERED THE SERMON

Enjoined His Hearers to Decide Aright at Parting of the Ways

A large number attended the service in Convocation Hall on Sunday morning. The devotional exercises were conducted by Prof. Gilmore of McMaster, and Prof. J. Charles Murray, late of McGill University, was the speaker. The latter clinched his text, I Corinthians 15:22—"For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ all shall be made alive." This antithesis between Adam and Christ was typified by two incidents, the temptation of Adam in the Garden of Eden and the temptation of Christ at the outset of his ministry. They represented the two sources of pious human tragedy, man overcoming and man overcome by circumstances. When we pierced through the oriental setting of the temptation of Christ, its significance, we would find that they present to us events taking place very far from the scenes of our lives.

The picture of Adam expelled from Paradise by his own act was one only too familiar to us. Temptations often presented themselves to us in deceptive forms in which there seemed no hurt of evil. Results which seemed to make for righteousness turned out to be but excuses for enjoyment of forbidden fruit, and we are overtaken by a terrible consciousness of evil.

But in this gospel tragedy there is a ray of hope. The blissful state of innocence is irrevocable, but the Creator has for us a grander test in the struggle with evil that we must go through. Hope of victory lies for us in the fact that another than Adam was tempted in like manner as we are, and triumphed. Just as Jesus was forming his first plan for the redemption of the world, He was confronted with a terrible temptation.

The speaker outlined the three forms in which Jesus was tempted, and showed how He resisted them: first, was the devil that there is something in man higher than animal instincts, a soul-hunger more insistent than hunger of the body; second, by refusing to violate the laws of nature, in the ignoring of which so many students wreck themselves; third, by refusing to accomplish his purpose by bowing before the forces of evil, thus showing us that the end does not justify the means.

The significance of these two stories lay in the momentous importance of the decisions made in each case. Even the minutiae realized that great consequences follow from seemingly insignificant choices. On the choice of beauty, leaving a mere comparison of the Greeks and Trojans.

Prof. Murray enjoined his hearers to recognize the terrible necessity of making the right decision when they came to the branching of the ways. We may be sorely tried, we have Christ's triumphant words: "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

MEOS. HELO ENJOYABLE REUNION ON HALLOWE'EN

Addresses in Convocation Hall by the President, the Dean, and Others

The reunion of medical students in Convocation Hall on Halloween evening was successful. Every student in point of attendance, which was not quite as large as the previous year.

President Falconer, ex-Dean Reeve, and Dean Clark, who made his first appearance to many of the students in his official capacity as dean, gave short addresses. The president spoke briefly but to the point; ex-Dean Reeve, always a fervent, spoke of the influence of superstition, and read one of "Hobbs' Burns" poems on Halloween. The ex-dean's Scottish accent needs a little coaxing by the way.

Dean Clark made one significant announcement, which met with the approval of the students, when he said that these gatherings would be considered as an annual event henceforth.

Frank Veigh's illustrated address on "Greater Canada" enlightened everyone on Canada's greatness. An attempt was present and gave several selections, which were thoroughly appreciated, especially the French horn.

But the grand finale was the re-freshment part of the programme, and the Meos. lived up to their reputation in getting on the outside of many kinds of cake, ice cream and snow apples.

Y.W.C.A. TO HEAR — AN ADDRESS TO-DAY

Guy Fawkes Party for Freshettes
Next Friday—Interesting Items

The annual Guy Fawkes party for the Freshettes will be given by the Y.W.C.A. in Queen's Hall, on Friday evening, November 5th. Women students in University College in all years are cordially invited to be present.

Miss Latter, who has been visiting the eastern colleges in the interests of the Student Volunteer Movement, comes to the University of Toronto this week. Miss Latter will address the Y.W.C.A. of University College at its regular meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Building this afternoon. During her visit in Toronto, Miss Latter will stay at Queen's Hall, where she will be glad to meet students. Miss Latter is passing through Toronto on her way to Vancouver. She sails from Vancouver in December for South China, where she will take up mission work under the Student Volunteer Movement.

The paper-chase, which was to have been held last Saturday, was postponed on account of the unfavorable weather. It will probably be held next Saturday. Afternoon tea will be served in Queen's Hall afterwards.

The first business meeting for the year of the Anglo-Japanese Society was held on Thursday, at four o'clock, with the retiring President, Miss L. Robinson, in the chair. The very first thing the president, that of honorary vice-president, should be created. The election of the new Executive Committee will take place. The following were elected:—

Hon. Pres.—Mrs. Halliwell, B.A.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—Miss C. McLeod
Pres.—Miss L. Robinson
Vice-Pres.—Miss C. Singer
Sec'y.—Miss N. Belcher
Treas.—Miss Todd
U.C. Rep.—Miss Maguire
St. Hilda's and Fac. of Ed. Reps.—to be elected.

AN OPEN LETTER

To the Editor of Variety:
Dear Sir—It seems to us unfortunate that the letter which we have written, "Letter from a Freshette," should have appeared in the issue of Variety of October 29th. On inquiry we have learned that this was an anonymous letter found in The Variety box. Presumably, the writer of the letter is well acquainted with Addison's Essays, on the curriculum for third year pass English. Moreover, first year students, with scarcely any exception, are quite unaware of the existence of seminaries.

The writer of this article has evidently been misinformed as to the number of women students who wish to take the Historical Science course. To be explicit, there are seven fourth year and ten third year women in the history, and all three of whom are entitled to the use of only Testimonies; not, as the writer states, to the Romance, the Classical and the Philosophy room, or to the "Modern Language room," which exists, we believe, in "Clio's" building. The only persons who are at the University is to the women students what the Union is to the men. It is the only place where they may meet for "social intercourse." It is possible, to be sure, to study at home, but there is not access to the necessary books.

Yours sincerely,
M. C. GOSSE,
R. B. REEDEL.

A RELAPSE TO BARBARISM

We had thought that the days of rowdiness and childish conduct on the part of the students of Toronto University were past, but such seems not the case, to judge from the contemptible conduct of a large number of students on Saturday night last. We hope for the sake of the University that the majority of them were freshmen, for they may improve and come to a certain measure of discretion and common sense after the childish exuberance of youth has passed.

Not only was the nuisance done to a large extent spoiled by these hoodlums, but considerable damage was done to the property. Even the presence of ladies did not bring any respect, for they too were insulted by this mob. In fact, the conduct of the crowd was such that it makes every man there a disgrace to this University and unworthy of the name of gentleman.

Individually, the students would not have acted in such a manner, but when with the crowd they were moral cowards enough to yield to the mob influence. Then the only property they have any respect for is their own, for the property or persons of other people they have no consideration whatever.

A joke is a joke and a fight is a fight, and both are splendid things in their own place, but the affair of Saturday night was too lacking in wit for the one and too lacking in manliness for the other. If some of the participants were sent down to Magistrate Denson to receive summary justice at his hands, it would in all probability have a most salutary effect in doing away with such occurrences in future, and this latter is a commendation devoutly to be wished, both for the sake of the good name of the University and of its students as a whole.

THE TEST OF EDUCATION

A capable English investigator of our colleges and universities has come out for the University of Wisconsin as, on the whole, the very finest American type, with various other large but not celebrated western "institutions of learning" as close to it. He finds that several eastern colleges have better governed and larger faculties, more apparatus, more of the facilities for learning, but he is inclined to think these western institutions produce the best results. There are several important truths to which this Englishman calls attention. The first is that education is not learning, though the two are often confused.

Given the desire for knowledge and the ability to use it, what is more inevitable than the possession of knowledge? Yet how many of our colleges and universities persist in trying to be "institutions of learning" pure and simple—that is, places where men trained to use knowledge can acquire it? Instead they should be primarily training schools, where right ambition and ability are acquired in preparation for the adventure into the world, that vast storehouse of knowledge, vaster than all the seats of learning and their libraries combined.

The second important truth is that character—democratic independence and self-respect—is the very foundation of education. Nothing—not even fine dormitories, not even football prowess, not even the ingathering of all the old and all the rich American landings—will take its place.

OLD COUNTRY NOTES

From our own correspondent

The latest political rumour is that the Government intend to draw up a Grand Remonstrance against the House of Lords, pass it through the Commons and submit it to the King. The last Grand Remonstrance was drawn up in 1681, in somewhat similar circumstances, in so far as it too was intended to act as a reply to the government's supporters in the country. This is undoubtedly needed now, for the papers teem with libelous protests against Mr. Lloyd-George's language. While he was speaking in Welsh to his compatriots, Lord Hugh Cecil at the Church Congress was denying the existence of a Welsh state or people. The flower of all the Ceelbs is still living in Tudor atmosphere: to see the facts as they want to have them—do believe that Irishmen or Welshmen are only undeveloped Englishmen,—has been the madness of none of our greatest and cost us millions.

It is not perhaps a thing that attracts much attention in busy Canada, but the amount of Englishmen that now spend a holiday in Canada is amazing. I know myself of seven fellows of our college at Oxford who have been in the last year. Should it be possible, Toronto people should try to get some speaking out of Mr. H. L. Fisher, who has not only been to the Oxford history school. This willingness to learn is a new thing in England. Likewise they would well not to exaggerate the Englishman's faults: he may be narrow or stupid, but to accuse the governing classes of wilful neglect of imperial interests is utterly ignorant. We all of us generalize too easily from the particular. I have heard an English professor condemn the whole Canadian people as rude, entirely owing to painful experience with a telephone clerk at Montreal. But if the clerk was an exception, I assure you that the professor was unjust.

A new light was thrown on the Suffrage movement at the inaugural proceedings of their new organ, "The Vote." Mrs. Beupre, sister of General French and herself a very general, declared "Men are too respectful and must be educated." The able and most Je libérateur. The frame of mind that makes respectability the antithesis of education perhaps explains the Suffragette incapacity: you can have it as you please—be respectable or be educated—both cannot be. If we are to take the fruits of education as shown by the use of brackets, kebabes and hatchets, then give us respectability: let the respectable lady fight in the forefront of the battle, and Uriah be relegated to the rear. He at least never washed his dirty linen in public.

UNIVERSITY MINING CLUB

At the last meeting of the Engineering Society, Mr. A. D. Campbell, to, presented a proposal to form an organization to be called the University of Toronto Mining Club, with a view of becoming affiliated with the receiving the benefits of the Canadian Mining Institute.

The members of all years of the mining section of the University of Applied Science would be eligible for membership of the new club. The proposal will receive due recognition at the next sectional meeting of the Society.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The members of the third year Civil section, in charge of Mr. Murton, took a trip to the Island of Saturday for the purpose of investigating the filtration plant.

The fourth year have elected the following executive:—Pres., Tate; Vice-President, Redfern; Secretary-Treas., Munro; Councilors—Bergeson (Mech.); MacPherson (Civil); Davis (Miners); Blackwood (Elect.); Adelle Reil, Thoms.

The Engineering Society meeting for Wednesday afternoon, at which President Falconer and T. Keenan Thomson are to speak, will be held in the auditorium of the Physics Building. A record attendance is expected.

There is music in the heart of the School man. Indications bubble up in every laboratory, while in the draughting room a student who is not molested by the irruption of a series of merry whistle tunes, would appear unmovable when imposed upon a sheet of drawing paper. It is little wonder, then, that the Engineering Society has decided it expedient to secure a piano for use at its meetings. The instrument is coming in a fact, and this in itself is sufficient to endorse our anticipation of having musical selections a part of every program, in addition to the already enthusiastic singing en masse.

The third year "Old Home" Committee is as follows:—Chairman, Jamieson; Councilors:—(Mech.), Wright; (Elect.), Hastings; (Civil), Paul; (Miners), Green; (Chem., and Arch.), McBride.

The members of the Electrical and Mechanical sections of the fourth year are taking forward steps in connection with the faculty the question of the distribution (or rather non-distribution) of honors at the close of the course. The fact that silence still of course need not suggest inactivity or enmity on the part of the staff members concerned, and it is to be expected that they will exhibit their characteristic candour in speedily bringing to satisfactory light this mysterious and apparently impudic but of ruling.

MEDICAL NOTES

There promises to be a lively contest on Friday afternoon when voting takes place to decide "who will" and "who won't" he sent to the various faculty deans to represent the Medical Faculty. In some instances, three and four are after the use "grat," and the week is being devoted to delecting.

There promises to be a battle royal between Senior Meds. and Senior Arts when the two teams clash in the Group A Mulock Cup games on Tuesday night, Nov. 2nd. The Meds. have to win the game, and the course they will heat the Senior School when they meet them on the 5th.

KNOX COLLEGE

The annual open meeting of the Missionary Society will be held in College Street Presbyterian Church on the evening of November 11th. Professor Kilpatrick will address the meeting on the subject, "The Mission of Knox College." A. A. Mustard, the student speaker for the evening, will relate his experiences as a "sky pilot in the Kingdom." A musical programme is being prepared.

"The Lit." meets to-night. The question of the nature of our annual "At Home" will be brought up, after which the meeting will be thrown open for the discussion of the subject, "College Kinks."

Tennis has been very popular at Knox this year. This is partly due to the improved condition of our courts and partly to the energy of the winning couples. The season is being closed with a singles tournament. The trophy is a handsome silver cup and the games are being hotly contested.

One of our most grave and studious seniors, while delving deep into the mythology volumes far beneath the library, discovered what appears to be a new edition of the Book of Genesis. By contact, rivalry and frequent consultations with learned friends, its contents were deciphered, and last Thursday, at 11:45 p.m., it was presented to the public for approval.

In it the other records seem to be strangely confused and altered. The striking of the lute and the doorposts, and all other accompanying noises, appear to have been omitted, and the waters of the Red Sea did not flow in either upon the Egyptians or the Israelites. The plague, however, was not less severe. The angel of Death, masked and bearing a candle, entered not to smite the eldest but to carry away the latest born babies. From what we can learn they seem to have been wrapped in swaddling clothes and borne away to the judgment hall far below, where they were tried before Judge Beelzebub. The innocence of the little ones seems to have been so apparent that even this fiendish court could not convict them. They were consigned to the nethermost dungeons of the earth, so much so that they could plan their escape. In the least that celebrated their deliverance, "cellery" was the first item on the menu.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

The fourth annual field day was held on Friday afternoon. Some of the events were well contested, others very easily won. The championship went to Ball of the first year. Some dispute arose regarding his time in the 100 yards—finally resulting in a decision of 10.2-5 sec. The 200 yards was won in 24 sec. by Geddes, also of the first year. Gates, a first year Meds., won the 100 yards hurdle race in 18.3-5 sec. W. Ellis scored second highest number of points.

After the Wycliffe Lit. was finished, which happened to be unusually late owing to the persistent activity of the leader of the Opposition and his supporters, several of the men went, as is their custom, to the Varsity Lit. Their presence seemed to be "a thorn in the flesh" to the left wing of the house.

TRINITY COLLEGE

At the meeting of the Literary Society on Friday night, the program consisted of an open debate on the subject of student control of the student's department.

The series of inter-year football games have been begun. The first game was between '10 and '12. The game was a walkover for '10, and '12 did not succeed in scoring at all. The next game between '11 and the trade men was better contested. Burgess played a good game for the former, and the tackling by '13 was in favor. The final score was 19-0 in favor of '11. On Friday '10 played Trinity, the latter being beaten 18-0. Divinity probably had the stronger team but lacked leadership, the victory of '11 being largely due to Bussley, the captain.

CURLING

The University Curling Club was reorganized for the coming winter, at an enthusiastic meeting held in the Residence on Friday afternoon. Plans were discussed for the starting of rinks in the various city and provincial competitions, and everything points to a most successful season. The student curlers will, as in previous winters, use the rink of the Prospect Park Club. Several of the present spoke most gratefully of all that the Prospect Park members have done to foster and assist the young University Club.

Officers were elected as follows:—Hon. Pres.—President Falconer. Hon. Vice—E. J. Kyle, B.A. Pres.—A. D. LePau, B.A. Sec. Vice—Hugh Ritchie. Treas.—John W. Byrd. Secy.—A. J. Terman. Committee—Redd Evans, C. B. Henderson, C. R. Redfern.

RUGBY CHAMPIONSHIP IS NOW ASSURED

Varsity Won From Ottawa Easily —Seconds and Thirds also Winners

Varsity had no difficulty in again defeating Ottawa College last Saturday, and while not running up quite so large a score as a week ago, the team showed in no uncertain way that it was easily the best in the intercollegiate union.

On Saturday it was simply a case of a big fast team, perfectly drilled and conditioned, against a team weak in all respects, but especially in tackling.

Varsity started in with the whistle to run up a score, and two minutes after the start, Lawson galloped across the College line for a touch-down. After that it was simply a procession with Gail and Lawson alternating in the scoring. In the first half three touchdowns by Lawson, a goal from the hand, and a touch-down by Gail, a touch-down by Murr, and four converted goals by Ritchie gave Varsity 34 points. Ottawa were unable to score in this period.

After half-time Varsity eased up, and in the third quarter did not score, while in the same period Ottawa got four points on rouges. In the final quarter, Lawson and Gail each added another touchdown, and Ottawa was forced to rouge, making the total score 40-4.

The whole Varsity team played championship rugby and fully lived up to Ottawa expectations. Their offensive work, led by Lawson and Gail, was wonderful, while their defensive work was faultless. This latter feature has been marked all season. Varsity has yet to have his line crossed, the eight points so far scored against him being rouges.

The team:
Varsity—F. H. Dixon, halves, Gail, Newton, Lawson, quarter, Foulds, scrummen, Jones (Crickhank), Bell, Ritchie, wings, Murr, Kingston, Gage, Lajoie, Park, Thompson.

Ottawa College—Pill, Gilligan, halves, Gattaway, B. Chantreau, M. Chantreau, quarter, blazette, scrummen, Fleming, Lottus, backs, wings, Whibbs, Sullivan, Vinity, Smith, Brown, the team.

Referee—Dr. Wright. Umpire—Dr. Patterson.

Varsity III, 20, O.A.C. II.

Varsity II, played the return game in the finals of the western section of the Intercollegiate Union on Saturday at McGill and defeated the cultural College by 25 to 13. Varsity scored 6 points in the first quarter and 6 in the second, making the half-time score 12-0. In the third quarter, Varsity were again unable to score. In the fourth quarter, however, in the while Varsity played poor work by the Varsity backs allowed O.A.C. to score a try, and they succeeded in kicking over for another, which was converted, while Varsity added 22 more, making the final score 20-11.

ATTUMN

(Translated from Lamartine's poem)

I hail! I woodland crowned with verdure's remnant fair!
I hail! I meadow's crown with yellowing corn!
I hail! I fields of beauty! Nature's dream!
Of morning is becoming to my grief.

With pensive step I trace the lonely path,
Well pleased to see—this time but never more—
That waning luminous where faunlight
Seize penetrates the shadow to my feet.

Yes, on these autumn days when Nature dies,
In her veiled looks I find a greater charm;
It is a friend's farewell, the latest smile
From lips that death will soon give close.

Prepared to leave the horizon of this life—
Lamenting vanished hopes of many days—
I turn again, and with a yearning look
Review the blessings I have never enjoyed.

Earth, man, and vale—the Nature fair and sweet.
I owe a parting tear beside my grave!
So perfumed is the air, so pure the light
So beautiful the sun to dying eyes!

Fain would I empty to the very dregs
This chalice with its nectar and its gall;
Perhaps this cup from which I draw my life
Continued a drop of honey in the lees.

Perhaps the future had in store for me
A time of joy, all hope of which is lost!
Perhaps within the crowd a stranger soul
Would sympathize with mine and give response.

The flower falls surrendering sweet perfume
To life, the sun, the breeze,—such its farewell:
For me, I die; my soul as it expires,
In freshened forth like a sad melancholic south.

For Varsity, Alexander's tackling and Green's kicking were the keynotes. Grass, Thompson and Maynard played good games. For O.A.C., Madden and Hunter were best.

In the last quarter, Maynard was hurt and was replaced by Ramsay.

Varsity III, 17, O.A.C. II, 0.

Varsity III, defeated O.A.C. II, on the athletic field Saturday morning by the score of 17-0 in the junior intercollegiate series. The half-time score was 6-0.

For Varsity, Gardiner, McDonald, McPherson and Keith were conspicuous, while for O.A.C., Fisher and Gaudier were best.

RIGHTFOUS INDIGNATION

Most of us had indulged in a sincere indignation that the Hallowe'en outbreaks among University men had become a thing of the past. Since the inauguration of the new regime everything people had been doing to impress undergraduates at large that they are under the strongest obligations to support in every way the good name of their University. As an inspiring climax to this movement for correct behaviour among students, which has been carried on for the last few years, we see a crowd of undergraduates in a presumably divided community acting in a manner that would be repugnant to a tribe of South Sea Islanders after a marauding expedition. Surely the demoralized chivalry of even a Jiji warrior would recoil from waylaying frightened youths in the middle of the night and reducing them to hysterics with pin-pricks and general horseplay.

There seems among half-developed people to be an innate desire to be thought really quite wicked. The war paint of the Indian, the cigarette of the little-forn boy and the unchivalrous antics of one type of Varsity's sons are all closely related. The misadventure of individual comes up to the University with the long nurtured idea that "college boys" always "kick up." Secure in darkness the numbers of both, he proceeds to make a complete and thorough going as of himself. His personality in his college is a matter of perfect indifference to him, and his University career—governing only very short ones—is one of the least of his "real devil." He may be pathetic, he may be disgusting, but he is never funny.

Many who have this spirit in small quantities, and perhaps it appears unconsciously. But whether sincere or otherwise, it will be realized by every man with college or his country, that such an affair as that of last Saturday night can do nothing but bring into disrepute the good name of the University of Toronto, and very seriously injure the reputation of her sons both individually and also as a body.

STUDENTS STOOD IN LINE FOR OVER FIFTEEN HOURS

Interest Very Keen in Tomorrow's Football Match with Queen's

Saturday's game is the last chance the Toronto people will have to see the Varsity team play before their division, who, in the event of a loss, being called on to play, may be relied on just as much as any of the regular backs.

Every man on the team may be looked for to play to the best of his ability, as the players' chances for a place in the Dominion championship games depend largely on their performance Saturday.

The team looks stronger every day. The return of Laing to the game gives them a spare man for the back division, who, in the event of a loss, being called on to play, may be relied on just as much as any of the regular backs.

Reason has turned out with the first the last couple of nights. He is valuable as a spare wing man, as he has lots of weight and strength.

Heard has been back in uniform lately, but has not as yet done any very strenuous work.

Park and Thompson, the outside wings, are keeping up their good work. No one can find any fault with their playing.

In this week's practices, Blair, Reid and Leavelle have been tried in three-man backs. Such a combination ought to be able to smash through any team in the country. Kingston has all season put up a splendid game for his team. His work is not shabby, but he is in the game from start to finish and is most effective.

Newton shows excellent judgment in the manner in which he handles his team, and in addition is playing a magnificent game himself.

Foulis is playing a perfect game at quarter-back. His inside kicks are one of the team's best ground games.

The team this year owes its success not so much to any one star as to the fact that it works like a well-oiled piece of machinery. It is the perfect combination of a bunch of individual stars which has gained for it the place it now occupies.

The interest taken in the team may be seen in the line-up for seats at Lord's last night. Tuesday afternoon at a quarter to five saw the first man line up for the opening of the plan the next morning while for Thursday's sale the first one arrived about a quarter after six Wednesday night, and long before the plan opened on both days there were fifty or more enthusiasts waiting, each one of them wanting the maximum number of tickets.

The second and third teams are both practicing as they have never done before. Each of them play the first of their final series on Saturday morning. Much depends on their success on Saturday, as points come on the line, so both teams are making every effort to be in the best possible shape.

MR. FISHER'S LECTURES

The lectures delivered this week by Mr. Herbert Fisher of Oxford, on "Napoleon," "England's Place in History," and "The Study of Political Economy," have been a rare intellectual treat. President Falconer, who presided at the Tuesday lecture in Convocation Hall, called attention to the fact that the attendance was a record one for a lecture of the kind.

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

Prof. E. C. Moore, of the Department of Oriental, Harvard University, will preach on Sunday morning. Prof. Moore has an international reputation as an authority on "Comparative Religions."

STUDENTS RESPOND TO APPEAL FOR FUTURE GOOD BEHAVIOUR

Consensus of Undergraduate Opinion
Condemns Hallowe'en Occurrence—
Student Organizations are Ready and Determined to Stand Behind the University

Anyone who attended Wednesday's mass meeting of the students of the University in Convocation Hall could not fail to be impressed with the fact that the general undergraduate feeling is emphatically down on such occurrences as that of Hallowe'en.

President Falconer's address, which was heard by about 2,000 men of all years and faculties, and has been published verbatim in the city dailies, was impressive and to the point. He stated that he believed nine-tenths of the students felt deeply humiliated at what had occurred on Saturday night and were thoroughly indignant with the individuals who had brought this disgrace upon their University. The prolonged applause which followed this statement did not appear well for the popularity of the members of the Hallowe'en mob.

"Do not misunderstand me," said the President, in reconciling such a popular view with his own. "I am not condemning the disorders," "I do not lay it as a charge. A few men in the University have got here by mistake and it is on them that the burden lies." Continuing, he stated that the culprit did not promise to punish the guilty with the guilty. Nevertheless, they did not feel that they could submit to the spectacle of a student body of reputation of such an occurrence. "It was their duty to retain the social life of the University and they hesitated to let the city police or plain clothes detectives."

"I believe, gentlemen, that there is a way out of my dilemma," said Dr. Falconer. "I believe that you as students can control this thing. The culprit treats you. You have done well in the past, and as soon as you give us any reasonable assurance that we shall not be subjected to a repetition of such an occurrence, we shall be perfectly willing to allow these social functions to proceed. But we must have security."

"Do you wonder," said the President, after enumerating some of the cowardly acts of Saturday night, "our indignation at this would be relaxed. For punishment," said he, "we trust the students of this University."

In closing, President Falconer stated that as soon as the desired guarantee from the students were forthcoming, the tendency towards a curfew ordinance would be relaxed. "For punishment," said he, "we trust the students of this University."

The faculty and your organizations are already at work, and it is expected that a big budget of the desired guarantee from the students of all departments will be in the hands of the Undergraduates' Parliament very soon.

It is highly probable that several guilty students whose names are being secured will be very sternly dealt with by the authorities. The damages will likely be met by a general levy on the students.

Up to the present the sole dealers in forest products have been the lumbermen, who have taken away the stored-up treasures of the forest and have done nothing to encourage future growth. The forester is more than a fireman, in that he not only harvests his product, but makes preparation for a continuous crop in perpetuity. To do this he must be equipped in many branches of knowledge. To quote Dr. Fernow—

"He must, of course, know his trees, where and how they grow, their life history, and how much they produce. He must be able to survey, to describe, to measure and to estimate timber. He must know the character and use of wood and by-products in the various industries. He must be a consummate logger, he must know what the saw miller can produce from his logs, what the manufacturer does with his products. He must know how to market it, and be familiar with transportation problems. He must know more than his own narrow world in relation to forest products and their supplies. He must understand the economic of matters which may influence the future, for he must be a seer into the future, for which he works. He must know how to handle men. Most important of all, he must know how to reproduce his crop in better condition than he found nature's crop, and this knowledge is the most difficult to attain, and calls for superior judgment, for it is not merely by planting, but by managing the cutting, the harvesting of the old crop, that this must be done. He must know how to protect his crop against damage by fire, insects, fungi, frost and drought, and how to advance it in growth. Lastly, he must be a financier, for the ultimate object of his business, like that of any business, is the earning of a revenue; hence his operations must be shown to produce a profit. Since the long-time element in the production of the forest goods, the harvest to a period which is so distant as to change all economic conditions, he is confronted with a compound interest calculation, requiring a great deal of judgment in the choice of the factors to be used."

Forestry is a long art and a pioneer work. It is a man of character alone who will survive.

LADIES WILL PRESENT A PLAY IN JANUARY

Modern Language Club Elect a New Executive—Women's Swimming Club Organized

The opening meeting of the Dramatic Club was held on Monday afternoon in the Margaret Eaton School. The President, Miss Rothwell, outlined the work that will be done this year. During the fall term the club will study voice culture and dramatic technique. About the end of January a play will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Roff. Rehearsals for this play will begin immediately after Christmas.

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. of University College on Tuesday afternoon was addressed by Miss Latta. Miss Latta gave a very interesting account of her visit to go into mission work, and particularly into the foreign field.

At the meeting, tea was served in Queen's Hall on Thursday afternoon, in order that the women students might have an opportunity of meeting Mrs. Latta.

The swimming club for women students has been finally organized. A large membership class was taught by Mr. Carson will be held in the Young Women's Christian Guild. Mr. Carson will give eight classes, and after these are over, members of the club will have the use of the pool at two ten-stated hours a week until Christmas.

The postponed paper-charge will be held a week from Saturday.

At a meeting of the Modern Language Club on Monday afternoon, a new executive committee was elected by acclamation to take the place of the one which resigned. The personnel of the new committee is as follows:

Pres.—Miss Whyte, '10.
1st Vice-Pres.—Miss Nelson, '10.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss Wallace, '11.
Secy.—Mr. Hamilton, '11.
Treas.—Mr. Jeanneret, '12.

PRES. FALCONER AND KENNARD THOMSON, C.E.

Instructive Addresses at General Meeting of Engineering Society

The auditorium of the Physics Building was crowded to the doors at the general meeting of the Engineering Society on Wednesday afternoon. President Falconer was in attendance, and delivered a short address which, like every address of his, was full of interest. He had the honor of privilege of hearing, was full of inspiring ideas and of advice that never ceases to be appreciated. He reminded the members of the Society of the prerogative they well possess of studying and handling their own work, that each should pursue some course of study aside from his professional work, observing that astonishing results occur from the "little bit of study" that is within the reach of us all. "Always cultivate some study outside of the life of the people round about you."

Mr. T. Kenneth Thomson, C.E., of New York, then addressed the meeting, his subject relating to the local national work of bridges and buildings. (Since his graduating from the school in '80, Mr. Thomson has made work of this nature what it is today in New York.) He explained the use of concrete and air in construction, its advantages and its dangers. His address was aptly illustrated by two or more views with slides revealing the method of sinking 75 or 100 feet into the earth the foundations for skyscrapers, handicapped every side by walls and crowded streets, and beneath by quicksand and hardpan. His slides illustrated the "ground heave" working beneath the surface in an atmosphere of compressed air and under an insidious weight of concrete and pig iron.

Directly after the close of the meeting, the members of the faculty and men of the fourth year attended the dinner of the Alumni Association at the St. Charles. Mr. Carter acted as chairman, and after he had been cleared, called upon the guests of honor, Pres. Falconer and Mr. Thomson, each of whom delivered short speeches. Mr. Callan then read a most amusing "Retrospection by E. Z. Easy, C.E., on India Inks," referring to the tedious grinding of the ink sticks, necessary in former years, to produce a suitable fluid to "irrigate" the pen of a draughtsman.

The question of post-graduate scholarships in research work was lightly dismissed by the chairman, President Falconer and Dean Galbraith.

FACULTY OF FORESTRY MAKING GREAT STRIDES

Infant Faculty Developing Rapidly Under Dean Fernow's Care

All is life in the Faculty of Forestry this year. In spite of the heavy entrance requirements laid down at the inception, namely, honor matriculation in English and Mathematics, there are forty-four students enrolled.

The infant faculty has advanced remarkably in its "two years' life." The increase from five to the present number of students has necessitated the opening of a new University building on the corner of Grosvenor and Queen's Park, and the addition of two members to the staff. The University can be justly proud of the immense strides which the Dean, Dr. B. E. Fernow, has made.

Forestry as a profession is as yet very little practiced in Canada. That there is need for the forester there is no doubt. When lumber is doubling in price every ten years, and when it is realized that Canada will have probably five-fold her present population in the time it takes to grow timber of merchantable size, the call for the scientific management of timber lands is indeed imperative.

THE FUTURE REMEDY

The sentiment which President Falconer expressed in his address to the students meets with the unqualified approval of the vast majority of the undergraduates. The considerations which he showed in placing upon the student body the responsibility of seeing that no such conduct disgraces the University in the future, places upon the undergraduates the ones of finding some effective method for its prevention.

There are four courses which it is possible for the undergraduates, through their parliament, to advise: First, the calling in of the city police to protect University grounds. Second, the increase of the University force of police. Third, the organization of the students in some body effective enough to prevent such conduct in future. Fourth, the formation of some student tribunal with power to deal with all such offenders in the future.

The last course has some obvious objections which seem to make its adoption inadvisable. In the first place, it is placing a responsibility on the students which their best men would refuse to shoulder. Furthermore, it will not restore the confidence of the public, which has been so rudely jarred.

The third course would lead to even greater difficulty, as a body of students large enough to be effective in quelling any such disturbance would be large enough to precipitate a greater disturbance than would otherwise occur.

Acting on the impulse of the moment, the majority of students would advise the University authorities to call in the city police. But in the first place, the city police are sadly ignorant of and have little sympathy with the student body. To call in the city police is a step which may some time have to be taken. There is a course which the students would desire to see very cautiously and deliberately tried.

The last course is the one which has the greatest advantages and which would be the most easily adopted. An increase in the number of University policemen is, unfortunately, sadly needed. If a few of those who insist on disgracing the University, as was done on Saturday night, were summarily dealt with, the necessity of a student tribunal, or of calling in the city police, would vanish as the mist. For there would be no duties such a student tribunal and no work for the city police. The lesson which ought to be learned from the disturbance of Saturday night is that the University police force ought to be increased in efficiency by increasing the number of its members. Any such proposal, however, of course, the rational and hearty support of all branches of the undergraduate body.

The editor has received an anonymous epistle, signed "One of the Hoodlums." The writer, whose convictions are apparently not backed by sufficient courage to permit of his subscribing his name to the scree, endeavors to make a case for himself and the others who took part in Saturday evening's very unfortunate outbreak. Even if he had handed in his name with the letter, it is highly improbable that it would have been deemed worthy of publication. Contributions and written opinions from readers are, of course, gladly received, but some must be inevitably consigned to the oblivion of the editorial waste basket.

THE STROLLER

One of the best things in the way of student organizations at the University is the Debating Club in connection with the Applied Science Y.M.C.A. The club meets weekly and is presided over by a speaker in the person of Mr. A. C. Stiles. Many and varied are the styles of oratory indulged in, as varied in fact as those exhibited in the University College "bat." But unlike the latter, they have not, as yet, left the need of party politics and seem to be getting on immensely without. And at the close, when Stiles gives his affectionate criticisms, there is not a murmur of dissent, but all begin to sit up and take notice, each realizing the true dignity of the occasion. All the club needs to complete the meetings is an address by Mr. C. A. Lazenby on the question, "What am I?" The School revels in metaphysics.

At the "bat" on Friday night, things were done. The Vice President introduced his motion and asked for an expression of approval to his proposed scheme of reorganization of the Society. This was a signal for hostilities of oratory and sarcasm on both sides seldom equalled. The leader of the Opposition quietly bided his time and begged his men to descend to the place of common sense and camp on the trail of the Government forces. The speaker made some very caustic remarks which caused the Secretary of the Union to explode like a new-scheduled geyser.

The President has a difficult role to play. Once he was called on to lead a big struggle in the library. The Registrar also figured in this even though he was outstripped hands down. On Saturday night he found it necessary to turn "crazy" a few minutes and chase away the boisterous fellows who had designs on the shopkeeper prepared for the Meads. A little later in the evening, according to the evening papers, he went across to the "gym" and watched the "young people" enjoy themselves. Some may say he does not earn his money, but if it is not the fact of his coming to know that he is at a loss to know why they put Christie on as a regular. Some of these side lines must amuse the President very much.

THE STROLLER.

ANOTHER KEEN SHAFI AT ROWDYISM

Dear Mr. Editor,—In view of what happened on Saturday night, may I be allowed to make a few statements?

There is a saying that the tail wags the dog. This might be interpreted in university life that men who act on impulse occasionally lose loose and act as they would not if they stopped to think. They destroy property, break fences and hold up automobiles. At the time this seems to them clever. When the fever wears off they are ready to take up a collection, to pay damages, and even to convey their apologies to those whom they have injured. The psychology of this is peculiar. But the fact is that during the time of the disturbance the mob rules. The mob is not the highest factor in university life. It is the result of lack of balance. There is a charge which university men as a body do not wish to have levelled at Toronto University. But such occurrences as Saturday night do do great harm in the eyes of the citizens of Toronto. Possibly three per cent. of the University ever indulge in rowdyism, but the whole University suffers. If not a law of logic that ninety-seven per cent. should suffer for what three per cent. do, it is a law of logic. Why should we tolerate it?

Yours sincerely,

W. N. SAGE.

RIFLE TEAM WIN INTER-COLLEGIATE HONORS

Detailed Scores of the Successful Toronto Marksmen

The University of Toronto Rifle team for the Inter-Universities trophy made the following scores.—H. E. Leitch, 88; J. P. S. Cathcart, 87; W. M. Carlyle, 84; J. A. Dickson, 84; J. A. Scott, 83; P. I. Mills, 83. Total, 426, average, 85.2.

In the match for the Dr. Lucy Shield the following teams competed, and made the following scores. It was very plucky of the Dental College to try to retain the shield in view of the fact that most of their good shots graduated in the spring, and that the college session has not as yet opened. University College and Medicine both occasioned some surprise by the good showing that they made. It is very unfortunate that Knox and Trinity were not represented at all by teams. Pharmacy, Wyllie and Victoria are to be congratulated on the shooting of their representatives. But why were there only one or two in each case and not a team?

Applied Science—H. D. Ditch, 88; W. M. Carlyle, 84; F. L. Mills, 83; R. T. Carlyle, 84; W. S. Steele, 80.—Total, 415.
University College—H. E. Leitch, 88; J. A. Dickson, 84; J. A. Scott, 83; P. I. Mills, 83; J. J. Stewart, 82.—Total, 426.
Medicine—A. Pinn, 92; J. P. S. Cathcart, 87; G. C. Campbell, 77; W. L. Cooper, 75; J. L. McLean, 56.—Total, 387.

Dental College.—K. E. Stone, 65; C. E. Wright, 53; N. L. Moore, 43; T. W. Blackley, 40; A. L. Clark, 37.—Total, 237.
St. Mary's College, R. A. Campbell, 71; J. M. Pritchard, 69; J. A. Stewart, 68; for Pharmacy, C. W. Stewart, 71; F. R. Evans, 69; for Wyllie, A. E. Bell, 70; for Victoria, A. R. Cooper, 60. Pharmacy and Education had no representative.

The Challenge Cup was won by the Undergraduates' team from the Staff. The graduates were not represented by a full team.
Undergraduates.—H. E. Leitch, 88; J. A. Pinn, 92; A. L. Ditch, 88; J. P. S. Cathcart, 87; W. M. Carlyle, 84.—Total, 449.
Staff.—W. L. Mills, 96; L. B. Stewart, 88; W. H. Clouston, 81; F. R. Robinson, 81; J. R. Cockburn, 77.—Total, 433.

Professor W. L. Miller won the O.R.A. medal for the best score during the day. Hartney and Pinn being the runners up.
The extra series prize at 200 yards was won by H. R. Hartney, Mills being the runner up. Pinn, Pinn, R. W. Hartney, score 24, won, Pinn next; at two yards, Hartney won, with a score of 22.

HARRIERS

The University Harriers, which was organized last spring, holds its first annual race to-morrow. The chief object of the competition is to pick representatives to run against McGill and Queen's, but the race will have a strong intercollegiate interest. It is hoped that each of the departments of the University will send in a team of at least five men, and Mr. John Brotherton has put up a handsome challenge cup to be won by the faculty which secures the five best places. There will be, besides, a number of individual cups and medals. The course is from eight to ten miles along the road, but with a couple of steep hills, and is calculated to give about equal chances to "track" men and cross-country runners.

The "New Harriers" Club has been busy organizing paper races and runs during the fall, but something more was needed if the long-distance running of the University of Toronto is to reach a high level. It is hoped that next Saturday will give an impetus to one of the most manly sports, and also discover runners worthy to represent our University against McGill and Queen's.

S.P.S. WON SOCCER GAME

In the senior inter-collegiate soccer football series, on Thursday afternoon, Senior Science defeated City Teachers by 2 goals to 0.

The winning Science team were:—Bill King, Blackwood, Barr, Wells, Mills, Grassie, Lamb, Evans, Woodley and Campbell.

MEDALS FOR SCIENCE MEN

In the Brotherton inter-collegiate cross-country race to be held Saturday, the Applied Science Athletic Association will present medals to the first two Science men finishing, and in the event of the Science team winning the Brotherton Cup, they will present medals to the first four Science men finishing.

VICTORIA, I. MACMASTER, O. The first game of intercollegiate inter-collegiate soccer series, in the group to which belong Depts. MacMaster and Victoria, was played on Victoria College campus on November 5. There was some difficulty in securing a field at Varsity, so MacMaster kindly consented to play on their own field. They had the kick-off and started with a rush, which was checked by the Vics. defence. The Vics made play with much more life after half-time, and in a short time Madden scored on a pass from the left wing. Growing darkness interfered with last play in the latter part of the game. MacMaster forward line went down, a number of weak combination rushes, which might have been disastrous for Victoria had it not been for the coolness of goalkeeper Gouldard. There was no further score on either side.

Line-up of the winning team.—Goal, Gouldard; backs, Johns, Smith; half-backs, Jevitt, Vane, McArthur; forwards, Haldeen, Burwash, Gundy, Rumlhall, Livingston.

FOOTBALL

The third year B & P had a great football game last Friday. The class is divided into two divisions for time and space, and the merits of the respective sections culminated in a hotly-contested football game. Dr. Scott's home-graders defeated J. St. Lawrence's home-graders by a score of 13 to 0. After the game they passed in singing the new song to the tune of "Gipsy, Gipsy, Gipsy."

"Bones, bones, bones, forever and ever it's bones."
There are long bones and short bones and flat bones and cross-bones. We murmur with echoes and groans, Bones, bones, bones, forever and ever it's bones.
You came, conversation, you ossification, You bones, bones, bones.

DO YOU PLAY CHESS?

The Chess Club meets every Friday afternoon, from 4-6 p.m., in the Undergraduates' Union (top floor). Any chess player of the University will be welcomed.

THE INTER-COLLEGIATE CHAMPIONS

275 STUDENTS ATTEND ROUSING LIT. MEETING

Resolution Passed Strongly Condemning the Hallowe'en Occurrences

The common belief that constitution discussions are at best a dry and wearisome business, was most emphatically refuted at Friday evening's meeting of the University College "Lit."—by far the largest and best-attended body in the long and short history of the college. Fully 275 enthusiastic students were present, and the excitement became one time so high, that the parties could not refrain from relieving their pent-up energy in their respective war-cries. The discussion of articles of the proposed new constitution was largely responsible for the second, and took up most of the time of the meeting. Eight articles were disposed of. The ninth, which is, in the opinion of the Unionists, the most vital, will be taken up at the next meeting of the society.

The vice-president brought in, and the leaders of the Opposition seconded, the following motion, which was unanimously passed:

"That this meeting resolve: (1) That this society express its strong disapproval of the conduct and actions of some students on the evening of Saturday, Oct. 26th.

(2) "That we express our willingness to co-operate with the Students' Parliament in whatever action they may deem necessary to prevent such occurrences in the future.

(3) "That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the University and to the secretary of the Undergraduates' Parliament. A motion by Messrs. Fleming and Pickering, calling for an immediate report from last year's committee on compulsory fees, was lost on a straight party vote. Mr. McLeary announced that he expected a report from this committee at an early date. C. G. Ross, President, contributed an excellent cornet solo, which was enjoyed.

University College will be represented in the inter-collegiate debating series by Messrs. Sage and Silbahl. Dr. Morley Wickes, a past president of the society, was invited to take a chair beside President Russell on the platform. He addressed the assembly briefly and acceptably. He remarked, referring to the temperature, that there was a great deal of hot air in the room. Mr. Bell, M.A., hot air in the room. Mr. Bell, M.A., hot air in the room. Mr. Bell, M.A., hot air in the room.

tion. Mr. McLeary then proceeded to read the proposed constitution, which was adopted, clause by clause with a few minor amendments, as far as the end of class night.

Most of the votes were made on party lines, although a sprinkling of Unionists voted with the Government. On several of the articles, and vice versa. The opposition speaker expressed the fact that the new constitution would involve a domination in the society of clergies and Tammany rule. Another stated that some old lit men were directly squaring under the thumb of a one-man rule.

After a check at 10:00 p.m. was quickly left the room, only to be pounced upon in the hall and on the stairs by their respective party organizers. About the only way in which any of the unfortunate managed to slip through the toils was by "padding off."

At 10:30 the leader of the Opposition moved that the discussion on the proposed constitution be postponed one week. Again the vote was made almost entirely a case of Unionist versus Old Lit., and during the count, excitement ran very high. The motion was lost by about 10 votes.

After the next article (8) had been read and carried, the vice-president moved for an adjournment of the discussion until next Friday evening. After the exchange of some rather fiery remarks, the motion passed. Those who provided most at the discussion during the evening were Messrs. McLeary, Fleming, Silbahl, Stanley, Johnson, Pickering, McNally, Harrison, Lavin, and Ross.

A brief report from Civic League concluded the meeting at 11 o'clock.

S.P.S. MEN RECOMMEND A STUDENTS' TRIBUNAL

Eng. Society Believes That This Would Improve Future Discipline

In the Faculty of Applied Science, the steps taken by the Engineering Society regarding the guarantee required against a revival of Hallowe'en festivities, have resulted in a project to obtain power to deal with the individual offenders as follows: A student guilty of participating in a riotous festival, whose duty will consist in discovering, exposing, and handing over to the proper authorities any student guilty of participating in further disturbances. Such an organization is deemed by the Society the best feasible method of maintaining proper discipline.

The Council has laid the matter at the door of the Capt. whose decision is being awaited before proceeding further.

Nothing is being left unmentioned and unmentioned by the class executives. In several cases a method of procedure has been recommended, which will depend largely on the judgment passed on the proposal of the Engineering Society by the Capt.

In class meetings such abnormal occurrences have been universally condemned, and prevailing sentiment suggests the necessity of providing a substantial form of guarantee against similar disturbances.

regretted—that they had been members of the student mob, and were truly to hear the consequences of their misdeeds. Three of the guilty parties, Art School of Science, had one a musical, and the fifth an Arts student.

The damage done to the tollie, which is to be made good by one of the students, is estimated at $150.

As the investigation was most thorough, and every means adopted to establish the guilt of as many as possible of those implicated, the Capt. will take no further steps in the matter. Their desire with it is thought, meet with the mass of students' approval.

GLASS RECEPTIONS TO BE VERY EXCLUSIVE

Arts Seniors Will Give The First on Saturday, Nov. 20th

The first Arts class reception for the year will be given by the seniors on the East and West Halls on the afternoon of Saturday, November 20th. This date was fixed at a meeting of the fourth year on Friday afternoon. It was further decided to restrict the invitations to members of the year, the staff and those ill-affected by the officers in the other three years.

President-elect A. R. Barton delivered his inaugural address, in which he referred to his associates on the new executive as "men and women of sound sense and equal temperament."

Miss Nelson contributed a piano solo.

The following inter-year delegates

REV. ROBERT LAW BANQUETED AT KNOX

New Theological Professor is Accorded a Warm Welcome

The gap in Knox College's professional ranks has been more than filled. Rev. Robert Law, who recently arrived from Edinburgh, has been duly inducted to the duties of a professor. The warmth with which the College welcomes him was given full expression at a most successful dinner given by the students in his honor last Thursday evening. The motto for the evening adopted by common consent was "plus optimi." It expressed the expectation of all as to our future acquaintance with Professor Law, who is already being spoken of among the students with much favorable enthusiasm. With true "esprit de corps" he was also taken to include our hopes and wishes as to the future of our College. And it will apply well to the dinner itself, as well as to the success of the function as a whole that all present hope for more such to follow soon.

The toast list was as follows:

- The King.
- Our Country.
- J. H. Martin Prof. Ballantyne
- Our College.
- J. G. Kilpatrick Prof. Gaudier
- Our Guest.
- C. M. Wright Prof. Law
- Sister Colleges.
- A. S. Orton R. M. Matheson
- A. M. Porter
- The Freshman.
- J. Flock
- Geo. McDonald

The guests were ushered into a "dotted" paper in the person of our guest speaker. The speeches were interspersed with music. We must mention especially the piano solos of Captain Dr. Smith, whose excellent talent has added so richly to all those who have heard him on this occasion received the most enthusiastic applause. Mr. Calvin McQuesten also delighted those present with a reading from Dr. Drummond's "Habitat."

AN EVENING OF REVELRY AT QUEEN'S HALL

Freshettes Initiated at Guy Fawkes Party—Imposing Wedding Ceremony

Friday night Queen's Hall was the scene of the annual Guy Fawkes party, to which all the young students of University College are invited.

The guests were received in the drawing-room by Mrs. Campbell, and after everyone had arrived, all except the Freshettes proceeded to the drawing-room, which was cleared for the occasion. After a brief suspense their summons came too, and they entered the room, forming a large circle in the centre. The hall was duly tolled thirteen times, and the initiations ceremonies began. However, this is not the place to touch upon the sacred and mysterious character of these rites. It is sufficient to say that in a short time the class of 1933 was admitted to full standing as undergraduates of this University.

The event of the evening was an imposing wedding ceremony. The contracting parties were representatives of the senior and sophomore years, and the officiating clergyman a bishop well-known in college circles. At the close of the ceremony the guests took possession of the floor and dancing was in progress for about half an hour.

The costume worn were representative of periods from the time of Charles I. to that of Buster Brown. Many foreigners, from Asiatic and European countries, also dropped in for the evening.

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Agglutinated banding, dress code programme, tea will be served.

THE ORCHESTRA CONCERT

The opening concert of the University of Toronto Orchestra is to be held in Convocation Hall on Wednesday, December 8, under the direction of Mr. Harold G. Smith. This organization is open to any student of an affiliated college. The orchestra is composed of some twenty players and has been practising regularly for some time.

CAPT. JACK NEWTON

Whose effective work and good judgment have been in no small degree responsible for the team's splendid success in the Inter-Collegiate series.

THREE STUDENTS SUSPENDED AND TWO OTHERS FINED

Capt. Has Delivered Judgment on Five Undergraduates Found Guilty of Participating in the Hallowe'en Disturbances

While the evens have been read it is not sufficient to prove that the students who appeared before it were ringleaders in the disorderly crowd of Saturday, October 26th, the Capt. have therefore refrained from punishing the extreme punishment of expulsion.

"Not five students are found guilty of having participated in the loss of having participated in the disorderly crowd, which destroyed property and subjected ladies and other citizens to personal indignities.

The Capt. therefore decrees as follows:—

That three of these students be suspended for the rest of the academic year; that one be fined $50; and that the other be made responsible for the damage done to the tollie owned by the Toronto Cricket Club.

The above announcement, made by the Capt. after a final session yesterday afternoon, concludes the aftermath of the Hallowe'en disturbances which have aroused so much indignation in the undergraduate body, as well as throughout the province.

The most thorough and rigid investigation on the part of the authorities, well as the strict of fixing on only a few students as having positively taken part in the disgraceful occurrences of October 26th. These five were announced and examined by the Capt. on Saturday and again yesterday afternoon. They admitted—and

Another chick has been formed. The secret leaked out last week and confirmed the rumour that such an organization had been existing "in camera" for some time. From its name and what is known of its members, a great deal is expected in the literary line from the new "Arts and Letters Club."

Mr. John Haddington, who has been around the halls for a week or so, returned to Ottawa last Saturday, before starting upon a prospecting tour through New Ontario.

Mr. Harry Beecham was one of sixty-nought's old boys down to see the log game on Saturday.

A dozen or more third year men held a Theatre party Saturday evening. The "raison d'être" of such festivities was not only to celebrate the Faculty team's triumph but also to honor Mr. E. Murray Thompson, one of its most brilliant players, who was a few days ago elected to the presidency of his class.

The committee in charge of the 1923-24 banquet announced last week the appointment of the staff to C. V. Masse as the "Beaming Blast" of Mr. C. V. Masse will be editor-in-chief and Mr. E. Murray Thompson, business manager.

It has been suggested that the freshmen be locked in the basement of the gym while the "Beaming Blast" are in progress on Thursday evening. The Union class promises to be the gayest social function of the year, with all its new features and the energetic work of the committee.

The 1st, this year has been steadily breaking records. The attendance last week was the largest ever with over 775 present. The meeting next week ought to pack back into the hall as it will in all probability be one of the most important and most interesting assemblies of the year.

The great Sing event of the season comes off in the gym, to-night, Messrs. Warren and Keith, along with their committee, have done everything in their power to make this year's "Sing Night" the most successful yet.

It is said that on only one occasion has Frank Halliham seen his only record holder in the 100 yards dash. When Chester D. Smith of S.P.S. ran away from the fake revolver shots at a dark, hazy forest. It's a good job. Ask Frank about it.

The other evening two Unionists and two Old Lats met in a room at Wycliffe where about twenty-five freshmen were assembled. After swaying the men first to one side and then to the other, the party canvassers were made the guests of honor at a midnight lunch provided by the owners of the room. Such is not the usual good fortune of party canvassers.

The results of the second year class elections held last week are as follows:—Pres., J. W. Wood; Vice-Pres., M. A. C. Carveth; Sec'y., P. Mulholland; Treas., R. H. Wilkie; 1st Historian, Miss McQueen; 2nd Historian, Tom Brown; Councilors, G. A. Player, C. H. Carveth; Alvinist Dir., Miss M. Connell.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Attention is called to the fact that the students' phone in the Engineering building has been removed to the apply department, where calls will be recorded and notices posted in the hall. This is a most important improvement and will undoubtedly meet with approval.

Mr. R. W. Thompson, '22, an alumnus president of the Engineering Society, paid the institution a visit last week.

The elections for representatives to social functions of other universities and colleges took place yesterday afternoon. The results will be published on Friday.

At the meeting of the Council on Friday last, the question of fourth year honours received the recognition, but owing to the press of other business the matter was not closed and will likely be considered again at the next meeting.

It is regretted that the name of the first year student whose arrest was effected on Hallowe'en should be associated so closely with the events of the evening, now under discussion. Mr. Delahue was not near the scene at the gymnasium. He was walking along College street, became a member of a bundle of mischief-makers, came into personal contact with the trolley ropes, then the "cog" with his "pinch," then the patrol. Surely there is nothing here unworthy enough to be worthy of comparison with the inescapable disturbances that still make our faces blue.

Barbers always keep an eye on the cash register, the other eye being employed as business manager of the same enterprise. It is said that when the chaplain "goes to get shaved he generally gets charged for a haircut."

TRINITY COLLEGE

Fifth day will be on Tuesday, the 9th inst.

The preliminary heats for the tug-of-war resulted in the first year beating the second. The third year went on to the fourth.

On Thursday night the Vice-Provost—Dr. Lloyd—gave an excellent address on the topic of missions, pointing out the duty to each student of the reasonableness of supporting them. The man who does not care for missions is the man who does not care for the comforts of civilization.

At the meeting of the Literary Society the following subject was discussed: "If we had no God we should invent one." Bart and Gilbert reasoned for the affirmative and Wags and Socrates for the negative. In criticizing the debate, Prof. Cosgrove pointed out that the debaters had failed to touch the main issue of the matter. The subject proved very interesting and was won by the affirmative.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Interest in the Varsity Lat is increasing. The leaders of both Government and Opposition have assisted their local organizers during the past week in bringing before the men of the first year the aims of the society as a whole, and the means to those ends adopted by the two parties respectively. The privileges which the University Literary Society offers to undergraduate students in Arts, of free occasional student membership, to one which is too little appreciated by those of our students who are taking theology alone. The result of the two leaders' visit was to turn out for both parties the largest support they have received from here within the memory of present undergraduates if not within the history of the College. A great deal is also due to the persistent work of the local organizers, Carveth and Hill.

The first of the inter-departmental debates under the Wycliffe Literary Society was held on Friday evening, Division I, represented by Tebbis and Jones, winning from Division II. Drake Harris in a great perplexity to find a means of detecting the man who pillage his locker after dinner came a reception, where the Committee of management of Ampley Hall, the members of the Faculty, and the senior class made good use of an excellent opportunity to become better acquainted with Dr. and Mrs. Falconer and with one another. The evening was enjoyed by a few couples, the selections rendered by Mr. Pipitt.

On Friday evening the Union Literary Society joined with the Women's Literary Society in giving their joint reception to the College. The programme, which was very enjoyable, included an address of welcome by Prof. Jackson, also addresses by the presidents of each of the two societies and vocal solos by Miss Rouse and Mr. Murch.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

Ampley Hall had Thursday evening was the scene of gay activity. At the dinner the lady students had the pleasure and honor of meeting President and Mrs. Falconer. After dinner came a reception, where the Committee of management of Ampley Hall, the members of the Faculty, and the senior class made good use of an excellent opportunity to become better acquainted with Dr. and Mrs. Falconer and with one another. The evening was enjoyed by a few couples, the selections rendered by Mr. Pipitt.

On Friday evening the Union Literary Society joined with the Women's Literary Society in giving their joint reception to the College. The programme, which was very enjoyable, included an address of welcome by Prof. Jackson, also addresses by the presidents of each of the two societies and vocal solos by Miss Rouse and Mr. Murch.

ALTERED TEAM TO PLAY MCGILL TOMORROW

Lawson and Gull Resting Up—Seconds and Thirds to Play at Kingston

There will be several new men on the Varsity team which plays McGill tomorrow in Montreal. In order to qualify for the Dominion championship series a player has to compete in one league game, so Coach Griffith has decided to play four of his spares tomorrow. Henderson and Laing will play on the back division, replacing Gull and Lawson, who will thus be given an opportunity to rest up for the more important games later on. Gull's ankle is still very sore, while Lawson's shoulder, which was hurt on Saturday, is in bad shape, and the rest will do them both good. Jack Beckson and Jim Pearson will probably replace two men on the line.

While the team may be slightly weakened by these changes, it is felt over its ability to defeat McGill. The same team-work and inside football which has marked Varsity's play all season will be in evidence, and while the sensational playing of Lawson and Gull will be missed, the team with such strong substitutes, should find little difficulty in winning the final game of the series.

SECOND TEAM PLAYS R.M.C.

Varsity II play a return game against R.M.C. in Kingston tomorrow afternoon. This game will decide the intermediate inter-collegiate championship. While R.M.C. have a lead of one point from last Saturday's game here, Manager Douglas of the seconds is confident his team can overcome this and bring the championship to Toronto for the third successive time.

At the time of going to press the second team line-up is doubtful. Clark, Greene and Ferguson of the back division are confident to their beds with slight attacks of grip, but it is expected that they will all be in condition to play tomorrow. Bob Thompson, the star inside wing man, is threatened with water on the knee, but has been seen at all work, and will probably figure on Saturday's line-up.

VARSITY III vs. QUEEN'S III

The third team will also play in Kingston tomorrow, their opponents being Queen's III. The thirds are playing live football now, Manager Bert Symmes having developed a star team out of what at first looked like rather doubtful material. After their victory over Queen's II, here last Saturday, little difficulty is expected in maintaining their lead and bringing the junior championship of the intercollegiate to Toronto for another year. Then, according to Capt. Bill McPherson, who has been leading the team in great style all season, they will go after the junior Canadian championship.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE HOCKEY CLUB

Advisability of Entering Team in Senior O.H.A. to be Discussed

The annual meeting of the University of Toronto Hockey Club will be held in the gym at 4 o'clock on Monday, November 15. The reports of the officers of the past season will be presented and new officers elected for the coming year.

The question of entering a Varsity team in the senior series of the O.H.A. will be discussed. There is much material in the University that it is an advantage of high-class hockey to let two senior teams could be put on to compete on Varsity senior teams in intercollegiate athletics with a number of star players from competing in senior hockey unless another team is put in the O.H.A. All students interested in hockey are requested to turn out to this meeting.

CAPUT IS REQUESTED TO RECONSIDER ITS DECISION

Students' Parliament and Medical and Science Organizations would like to See Penalty of Suspension Commuted

Since the announcement of the Caput's decision, meetings have been held by most of the years in Medicine and Applied Science and by the executive of the Engineering Society. These gatherings, a couple of which were addressed by penalized students, passed resolutions asking the Caput to reconsider its judgment. These petitions are now resting on a desk in the President's office.

The second year in Arts met yesterday afternoon and discussed the case of its convicted member, but no decision had been reached at the time of going to press.

The matter may be brought up at this evening's meeting of the U.T. of this University College, but it is not likely.

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

The University preacher on Sunday will be Rev. W. T. Herricks, D.D., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Ottawa.

WOULD IT WORK?

Editor of Varsity

Dear Sir,—In connection with the outrage of Hallowe'en may I suggest a plan which would, I believe, prevent any such violence in the future? Enroll a representative body of student police—say four from each faculty—and entrust to them the preservation of order on Hallowe'en and such lively occasions. The fact that these men would be personally acquainted with the merry-makers would give them influence sufficient to prevent the recurrence of scenes such as took place last Saturday night. Perhaps the Students' Parliament could take up this idea with advantage and by co-operation with the authorities attain the desired end of student peace and peaceableness. J.A.P.

AN AMENDMENT

The article published in Tuesday's Varsity concerning the proposal made by the Engineering Society executive, regarding future disciplinary advancement, is misleading, and has caused considerable misapprehension. The resolution forwarded to the Caput suggested the formation of a students' tribunal to deal entirely with those implicated in future disturbances, with power to punish as well as to convict.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

The Philosophical Society meets this afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 6. Dr. Abbott will speak on "Modern Tendencies in Philosophy."

ECONOMICS ESSAY PRIZES

The opportunity to compete for the Economics Prizes offered by Hart Schaffner & Marx has been brought to the attention of the students of the University by Professor J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the contest.

Papers for the prizes are to be submitted before June 1, 1910. There are five prizes, totalling $2,600. The contestants are divided into three classes, fuller details of which may be had from the head of the department of political economy. The prizes are divided as follows:

- Class "A," first prize, $600; second prize, $400.
- Class "B," first prize, $300; second prize, $200.
- Class "C," one prize, $500.

Classes "A" and "B" refer particularly to college graduates and undergraduates, and the following subjects have been suggested by Professor Laughlin's committee:

1. The effect of labor unions on international trade.
2. The best means of raising the wages of the unskilled.
3. A comparison between the theory and the actual practice of protectionism in the United States.
4. A scheme for an ideal monetary system for the United States.
5. The true relation of the central government to trusts.
6. How much of J. S. Mills' economic system survives?

7. A central bank as a factor in a financial crisis.

The members of the committee, aside from Professor Laughlin, are: Professor J. B. Clark, Columbia University, Professor Henry C. Adams, University of Michigan, Horace White, Esq., New York City, and Edwin F. Gay, Harvard University.

M. WRONG WINS WYLD PRIZE

The Council of University College has awarded the Frederick Wyld prize in English Composition for the current year to Mr. Murray Wrong, '12.

BERT WATTS

Winner of the inter-collegiate mile race, and the local inter-faculty cross-country run. He will be one of the four Varsity representatives in the inter-collegiate road race in Montreal tomorrow.

REPORTS FROM Y.W.C.A. SUMMER CONFERENCE

Many Attracted to Elgin House—
Student Volunteer Conference Soon

Reports of the Y.W.C.A. Conference held at Elgin House, Muskoka, last July, are an interesting feature of the Y.W.C.A. meeting on Tuesday. About seventy persons listened with pleasure at the various speakers included in happy reminiscences. Miss E. MacDonald gave an account of the social and athletic features of the Conference. Miss O. MacKay of the Bible Study classes and committee meetings; Miss E. Mattison of the Mission Study Classes; and of the missionaries, while the President, Miss Russell, spoke of the platform and delegation meetings, and gave an encouraging summary of the general impressions of the conference. All who heard these reports were much attracted to Elgin House, and many hope to be present there next year.

At the conclusion of the meeting, tea was served and a social hall-hour was pleasantly spent. Several of the wives of the faculty were at the meeting and were most cordially received.

The next regular meeting of the Women's Literary Society will be held on Saturday, at 7:30 p.m., in the Union room of the "gyu." Further reports of the International Council of Women will be read, and an interesting meeting is anticipated. The first monthly meeting of the Anglican Women's Club, to be held next Monday from four to six o'clock, will take the form of a tea at the Deaconsess House.

The Student Volunteer Union is making careful and energetic preparations for the second annual Toronto Student Volunteer Conference, to be held on the 28th-30th inst. A number of very able speakers will be present, and it is hoped that the Conference will be still more successful than it was last year. The programme will be shortly ready for publication, in which the names of the speakers, Mr. Latourville, and others will appear.

TORADOOR RITCHIE SLEW WILD BEAST

Varied and Interesting Programme at University College
Stag Night

The annual Stag Night entertainment of the Faculty of Arts was held in the gymnasium on Tuesday evening and was an unequalled success in all except attendance. There was a fair crowd there, of course, but it seems unfortunate that more students did not avail themselves of the splendid programme and the general evening's fun provided.

The entertainment included a big list of acknowledge donors of valuable gifts. Hugh Ritchie, as a toradoor, skillfully despatched full-back Dixon in his little impersonation of a wild beast rampant. Some excellent boxing and wrestling bouts were provided. The refreshments were more than satisfactory in both quality and quantity, and when the affair broke up about midnight, it was a happy, well-satisfied crowd that left the gym.

PRESIDENT FALCONER ILL

President Falconer has been confined to his home with a severe attack of grippe for the past few days, and is still indisposed.

ONLY TWO FROM THE SCHOOL

In Tuesday's Varsity it was erroneously stated that three of the convicted students were S.P.S. men. As a matter of fact, only two were from the faculty of Applied Science, one from Medicine, and one from Arts.

THE CAPUT'S DECREE

In the eyes of the public, and of a great many undergraduates, the position which has been taken by the University's Parliament and by a number of class organizations is, to say the least, rather surprising. In fact, the general impression outside the University is that the present attitude of a large number of students is decidedly inconsistent with the prevailing opinion expressed at the early part of last week.

On Halloween a disturbance took place, which disgraced not only those who participated, but the entire University. At a subsequent mass meeting, the President's remarks condemning the thing, and promising to punish with severity all the guilty parties who could be caught, were enthusiastically applauded. The students even went further, and sent in resolutions from their years and societies, condemning the occurrence and resolving, as has been said, for the maintenance of future law and order in their midst.

Five men who had been in the crowd of mischief-makers were examined and penalized by the Caput on Monday, three being suspended for a year and the other two fined. Immediately following the announcement of the Caput's decree, there arose a great cry of student protestation from many quarters, and the cry is still going up. The main objection seems to be that the men punished were not sufficiently guilty to have incurred such a severe penalty. Admittedly, they were not the ringleaders, but is the student body in a position to adjudicate upon the extent of their guilt or upon the severity of action which the interests of a critical time? Surely the Caput, consisting as it does of the President and the heads of the various faculties, considered all sides of the case, and for the individual student to essay an adverse criticism of their decision looks very much like presumption.

That the ringleaders escaped, while minor offenders were punished, is very unfortunate. But the situation is by no means a new one. Any court of law will punish a man guilty of even a very minor part in a disturbance, whether the instigators and ringleaders of the affair have been arrested or not. The inferred admonition is to avoid ringleaders in such cases.

The circumstances of the Halloween case have combined to necessitate the imposition of a stern penalty upon all who could be proven to have participated in the trouble.

It has not been merely a case of inflicting a personal punishment for personal misconduct. The Caput's decree implies the obvious enunciation of a rigid principle—that disgraceful disorders among students at the University must cease. The old liability that students are a privileged class needs to be discouraged.

The decision of the Caput was announced only after very careful thought and investigation, and it is entirely improbable that the students' petitions for clemency will bring about a modification of the verdict. In fact, it is doubtful whether the matter will be reopened at all by the Caput.

It is to be hoped that the student body will unhesitatingly accept the situation, in case the appeals are not granted, and that the least hint of any strike-agitation will be emphatically expressed by the students as a whole.

The Editor received a number of letters bearing on the Halloween investigation, yesterday. Had these been handled in before 9 o'clock yesterday morning, some of them might have been used to-day. It is possible that space may be found for a sample of them in next Tuesday's Varsity.

Varsity's Champion Team

The inter-collegiate rugby championship now rests securely in the possession of Captain Jack Newton's deserving team mates, and the student body is justified in expressing a reasonable hope of seeing the Varsity players further demonstrate their superiority by bringing home also the Dominion honors.

The team has earned untold praise for what it has done, and the students as a whole are to be most warmly commended on the manner in which they have patronized the games. Men who will wait in line for tickets through fifteen hours of chilly darkness certainly do not require to be urged to support their team. And the hearty support of the student spectators is by no means the least important factor in the winning of games.

There seems to be some room for improvement in one particular, however, and this is in the cheering at the games. Some men may scoff at the expenditure of apparently useless energy which systematic cheering involves. But when all is said and done, there is nothing which will inspire the wearied athlete to put forth the very best that is in him like the full throated, concerted encouragement and applause from his bleacher supporters. It is to be hoped that arrangements will be made to have the sound energy of the student through which is hoped to attend the Dominion championship game directed in such channels as will most materially assist the team.

THE UNIVERSITY MONTHLY

The first number of the University Monthly was distributed to Varsity subscribers on Tuesday. Those who have subscribed to Varsity this year are supplied with the monthly without any extra charge. There are still a few copies in The Varsity office for those who did not call on Tuesday.

AS OTHERS SEE US

We have received two numbers of the Toronto Varsity, and one of the McGill Martlet, the Montreal University paper. The Varsity is a newspaper, not a magazine, and it seems to have a full share of transatlantic snap, at any rate in its headlines. "Engineers are Born not Made" says Mr. W. J. Francis, C.E., at an opening meeting of Eng. Society. We presume that C.E. stands for Civil Engineer, and infer therefore that Mr. W. J. Francis was born—Oxford Isle.

The Utah Agricultural College has an annual Stock day, on which every student wears the blindest socks he can get in town and wears his trousers pulled to the knee. No need of looking any afternoon at the pedal exertions of the male spectators over at the tennis-court.

FURS AND HATS FOR COLLEGE MEN

A good furbined overcoat is an article worth having in our Canadian weather. One will last you for years. We have a splendid line of them made of good beaver cloth outside and with wide Otter collars and lapels and lined with Muskrat for Fifty Dollars.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

Mr. L. J. McLaughlin, '10, returned from Boston this week.

Messrs. Warren and Keith are to be congratulated on their success in providing such an excellent programme for the University College Stag Night performance.

Mr. Mark West, one of '09 class in Arts, spent a few days around Varsity this week.

Messrs. Hindmarsh, Patterson, Lamhart and Hodgson are old war horses of the U.C., who by attending the meetings this year show their undying interest in the welfare of the society.

The third regular meeting of the Historical Club was held last evening at the residence of Z. A. Laab, Esq., R.C., 18 Grenville street. The subject was discussion of the Eastern Question. Papers were read by Messrs. W. C. McNaught, W. N. Sage and W. M. Johnson.

Mr. R. F. Thompson of the Varsity II, rugby team, is slightly crippled with water-on-the-knee as a result of the rugby match against R.M.C. on Saturday morning last.

Mr. A. B. Taylor, '11, was around the Halls the beginning of this week. He left for Ottawa Wednesday evening before leaving for British Columbia. He is his intention to resume his Varsity course next year.

The final vote on the proposed new constitution of the Literary Society will be taken this evening. There is likely to be a large attendance as a two-thirds vote is necessary to change the constitution.

The election of officers for the executive of the first year resulted as follows:—President—R. B. Johnson. Vice-President—Miss Cory. Secretary—Mr. Mitchell. Treasurer—Mr. Lloyd. At Historian—Miss Robertson. and Historian—A. O'Connor. Critic—R. B. Code. Public Address—Miss M. Murphy. Councilors—Miss Adams and Mr. Duncan.

In Tuesday's report of the second year election results, the name of the successful candidate for the office of 1st Historian should have been Miss M. A. Ford.

APPLIED SCIENCE

On Saturday morning the mechanics and technicals of the third and fourth years will have the privilege of visiting the substation on Davenport Road. The party will be in charge of Mr. Farlie.

Much interest has been aroused in the third year owing to Prof. Roseburgh's counting to give extra marks for the work on "Armature Windings," one on Monday, 5 P.M., and another on Wednesday, 8.30 a.m.

The Brotherton Cup, won by the "School" barriers, Watts, Woodley, Parke, and Delaparte, in the recent intercollegiate cross-country run, at present occupies a conspicuous place in the display.

The last audacious effort of a thirteenth voice, before relapsing into a siesta, in the back seat, during a lecture in electricity—"Currents may come, and currents may go, but they all drop in at the bar."

Lloyd, '09, who is in the employ of the C.N.R. at Oshawa, was in the city this week.

The following are the representatives chosen to attend the various college social events:—McGill, Black, McKe, McKe, Trivett, Hellywell, Victoria, Flynn, O.A.C., Lee, Deatal, Wright, McMaster, Morgan, Queen's, Macdonald, Arts, Hoban, R.M.C., Graham.

The Electrical Club held its first meeting of the year on Monday evening. Mr. Porter presiding. Mr. Moody, B.A. Sc., gave an interesting paper on "Dry Vacuum Pumps," showing their construction and application to condensing plants and different industries, such as in the making of incandescent lamps. Probs. Angus and Haultain were present and assisted greatly by pointing in the discussion.

Some interesting speakers have been secured to address the sectional meetings of the Engineering Society on Wednesday. Several prominent engineers are also expected to be present. The subjects will be published on Tuesday.

MEDICAL NOTES

The Freshies had their opportunity last Thursday when they defeated the second year in soccer, score, 3-0. The Junior Med. Muloak team defeated their opponents with the Arts last week. Only four men turned up for the game.

When Senior Meds. were defeated by Senior S.P.S. last week they tied with them, leaving the School won by default from Arts on Tuesday. When these two teams, which played evenly matched, play off their promises to be a great old game.

Friday afternoon was a busy one for the Medical Building. The elections were on, and the candidates for the various duties were elected by ballot. Some close wins were made. All the candidates worked hard all week and they all deserved to go and eat on the basis of work done. However, the result of the election was: Campbell goes to McGill, Lawson to London; Mulcahy to U.C. and Strigat to Queen's. Robertson was elected secretary of the "at home" committee. Besides, several were elected by acclamation. The second year have memorialized themselves to stand by the President in putting a stop to all rowdy proceedings such as happened on Halloween night.

The fees are the big thing this week. The $150 is a sore touch for many of the boys.

"Y" NOTES

The Pharmacy Y.M.C.A. has been organized for the season. Meetings will be held throughout the season and Bible Study classes are being organized. Mr. D. S. Johnston was elected president, while the executive is composed of Messrs. Vail, Sterling, Cunningham and Keane.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the Rochester convention has asked the college executives to suggest the names of suitable delegates whom they would desire to have attend this conference. A delegation numbering about fifty will represent the University of Toronto.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

The literary and athletic societies united in a high tea on Tuesday evening. After justice had been done to the ample repast which is never failing on such occasions, the field day prizes were awarded. The first and second championship cups were presented to E. Bull and W. Ellis, respectively. A third was presented to A. P. Park for the basketball (presented by Mr. J. R. Trees). In proposing a toast to the ladies present, Mr. Vetter said he had objected strongly to having that duty imposed on him, since he was already engaged (for the evening), and on overcooler having found it very difficult proposing to one, he was in an inextinguishable perplexity when it came to three. His only escape lay in the fact that "women are able to speak for themselves." The seconding by Mr. C. J. Cruise of the thanks to Mrs. O'Meara for her assistance in the evening's programme, was one of the most skillfully handled speeches of the occasion. Reunions of athletics in school and collegiate days were indulged in by two members of the staff. Perhaps when we are older and our associates dispersed, we also can tell the boys what big things we need to do. One of the prizes was not awarded until the following day, when some of the sophomores presented to one of their number at the breakfast table a rattle, with an address expressing their appreciation of his staid and bearded ways. The preservers are rejoicing in the quiescence which has resulted. He has not even made his reply.

THE EDITOR'S POSITION

The editorial position which Varsity has taken and maintained from the first on the Hallows trouble and its consequences has, as an anticipated, aroused a great deal of controversy and better criticism on the part of a considerable number of students. The editorial which appeared in Friday's issue has caused some of our readers to say things of the editor and the staff in general which we, to put it mildly, do not appreciate. In fact, one Science student, who occupies an important office in the University, has stated that if Varsity did not have a friend undergraduate sheet would be started.

Now we are quite ready to admit that Varsity is the students' organ, and as such, should reflect in so far as is possible, the opinions of the students of the University. That it is doing so is shown from our publication of a certain letter in this issue which carried over to last Friday. But we wish to have it distinctly understood that the news items and letters published in Varsity, and the editorial opinions of the paper, are two very different things.

As in the case of any newspaper, the editor reserves for himself the privilege of accepting whatever he believes to be the correct attitude on any subject, whether this attitude coincides with the ideas of the majority of his readers or not. In the present instance, it is quite probable that a large number of Varsity's readers do not agree with the paper's editorial policy. But despite this fact it will require arguments much more weighty than ours as yet advanced, to shake our firm conviction that the stand which we have taken is the correct and reasonable one. That we are in no means alone in our opinion is shown by the action of a recent meeting of the Arts sophomores, of which the suspended Arts student was a member. We have no desire or intention of shutting off the free-minded discussion of good and evil, of the "present dilemmas," but we certainly do not intend to apologize for or modify the opinions which we have already expressed editorially. These grounds are already reasonable, we believe that we are in the right, and have not as yet heard any arguments sufficiently convincing to shake this belief.

Approximately Varsity's second, a short time ago, of the Hallows disturbances, the incident and severity of the Freshman class in indignation has notified the editor that this class has also decided, after a private meeting, that only a very small percentage of the men of their year were implicated. As we glad to learn this, but not publish it. But we are still of the opinion that the majority of the implicated members were first year students.

It is inclined to doubt the representative efficiency of the Students' Parliament when a resolution which it passed unanimously is voted down by the meeting of a class organization to which one of the suspended students belonged.

An amusing incident in connection with the Capital's recent drive was involved at a third year medical meeting when a student arose and quite erroneously moved a vote of censure on the Capital. Of course the motion was not put.

In the issue of Nov. 12 it was stated that the Hallows trouble was provoked almost entirely by freshmen. In the light of subsequent developments we are ready to admit that our statement was somewhat too sweeping. We still believe, however, that the freshmen were in all majority. It was largely on this account that Goodrich's article is made to recognize more of the disciplinary students.

OLD COUNTRY NOTES

From an even correspondent

Anything that Sir Wilfrid Laurier says is of interest to us in England, but when he wonders that "I don't think all around" it does not occur to him (Gladstone) as the solution of the Irish question, he rather strains and sense of humor, free parliament for territories not so big as Ontario, as a means that can be discussed with B. B. B. It might have struck him that there are two possible lines of action, the second advocates the country, each with strong advocates of its own. They come in in the majority and in the minority reports of the Royal Commission on the Poor-Law. The first tends to the absolute rule powers of the country, the second advocates a national authority and on this issue of contribution or local government the latter lines of the future will be clear.

We are not much nearer our resolution here. If the Birmingham election is to be taken as the key, then it is noticeable that a clear majority of the electorate were against the Liberal and against Tariff Reform. Meanwhile, some of the wretched of politics have a hundred of their own. At present Lord Cairns is doing a good deal, as was, dressed as Mr. Chamberlain and wearing an official seal from his great name, repeated criticisms of Mr. Chamberlain's Greenock speech of 1902. Children are being christened Budget, Lloyd George and Winston. If this blessed Democracy, free from the glamour of talkers, were actually to vote, could quickly it be accomplished could keep Lord Northcliffe in his modest, that could carry as a step on the way.

I hear that the Historical Club has approved of the Budget. Will it approve of Mr. Chamberlain's speech, or don't ask how much you've got, but how you got it? Is that kind of moral indignation to be the subject of taxation? However, if it comes in, it is apply to the politicians first, not get it over quickly. As Mr. Chamberlain I heard of the lights of his party, and a new device to Lloyd George, call Mr. Chamberlain "calculator." Well, he's got it, but what will be the result of it?

Isford is in the thrall of the great question—Greek or no Greek at present this is compulsory at universities. Lord Cairns makes much of the fact that Mr. Chamberlain offered us £20,000 if we could drop it. But Sir Wilfrid Scott-Bowman does not appear to be in Scotland, they dropped it as a consequence of the fact that it has followed it. Much, sir, if it is a consequence of the fact that it has followed it. Much, sir, if it is a consequence of the fact that it has followed it. Much, sir, if it is a consequence of the fact that it has followed it.

If my distribution of the various votes, attempt one might say that a good deal more important in the New World, but a good deal in the Old. Any man of energy can do something with you; so integrity and earnestness lead you down, but we have taken the hammer, and the poor-laws, it is surprised if we want to keep Greek, but it means hard.

Mr. J. S. Allan, '11, spent Sunday in Guelph.

Mr. E. C. McQuarrie has found it necessary to resign the position of business manager of the "Evening West".

Mr. B. H. L. Sproule, '11, treats the smile of satisfaction these days. The Third Varsity rugby team was the only team to come on Saturday, and by his successful management has earned all the junior inter-collegiate championship. But it is now considering the chances for the Dominion championship title.

These present at the Union dance are trying to find out into the first year Arts men who can dance the dance with a dress and not how to. If it is discovered it is hard to say what means may have to be resorted to as a corrective punishment.

The morning papers of Saturday last gave to the fourth year instead of the seventh the credit of finding a note for meeting for non-attendance of the Captain's absence. They decided to accept its resolution without opposition.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The third year students in mining engineering to the credit of twelve spent Wednesday afternoon examining the glacial deposits at Scarborough Heights. The excursion, which was arranged for Mr. Trites, was in charge of Prof. Coleman, and the class certainly had a very profitable and interesting afternoon. Mr. William, being half on slender lines indicating speed, proved to be the champion skater, and the top prize, a book, was secured probably by reconnaissance of the Brock of Queenston Heights, let a party up one part of the Heights, which is said to be the highest cliff on Lake Ontario. To properly wind up the day, the class attended a show in the evening.

Arrangements are being made for a trip to Buffalo on Nov. 24th to visit the plant of the Lockport Steel Co.

The idea of bringing into a lecture-room some varieties to exemplify the subject under discussion does not appeal to all of us alike. Falconer, '09, tried it in the case of "Strength of Materials," and it "worked."

Some splendid papers are expected at the sectional meetings of the Engineering Society on Wednesday afternoon. The electrical and mechanicals will have the opportunity of hearing Eugene Creel, advertising manager of the Toronto Electric Light Co., who is coming with a paper on "Engineering Salesmanship." He has been a contributor to the Electrical World on this subject and will prove interesting.

A. C. D. Blanchard, B.Sc., C.E., will speak to the civils next week on "Tunnelling and excavation for large sewers." His paper will be illustrated with slides showing photographs of the City of Toronto main drainage works. The miners and chemists will have the pleasure of listening to C. C. Flynn, '10, speak on the subject, "Mine surveying." R. W. Thompson, '02, will be present and assist in the discussion.

Fordals (after being chastised for the "stewie time for talking during lecture")—"Can't help it, one sock simply will talk to the other."

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

The annual meeting of the Students' Mission Society was held on Thursday evening. The summer's work was reported by Messrs. Kirk, Atkinson, Morely, Nangleton, and they play an aggressive game. Macdonald's work in centre hall was excellent. Bull's hang kinks were one of the features of the game.

J. Frenche Algeron Knoper has become a first, enthusiastic politician during the last few weeks. His cheering and jumping over himself were one of the chief side attractions at the Feb. 10. Before the meeting had adjourned he had lathered out a chair on seat higher than the leader of his party.

TRINITY NOTES

The Trinity College at home 'has been arranged to take place on the 25th inst., at 8 p.m. It is A. W. H. Wilson is secretary.

The field day was held last week. No records were broken, but track being slow, but a good standard prevailed and the races were very close and contested. The results were as follows:

100 yards—Forrester, Jackson, Holmes, 10 sec.

High jump—Forrester, Jackson, Holmes, 5 feet.

220 yards—Jackson, G. C. Clarke, Ford, 26 seconds.

Throwing the hammer—Abercrombie, Tackaberry, G. C. Clarke.

400 yards—Ford, Jackson, C. R. Wildfield.

Long jump—Holmes, Jackson, Wildfield, 17 feet 9 3/4 inches.

Putting the shot—G. C. Clarke, Abercrombie, Morgan, 32 ft 9 3/4 in.

1 mile—Washburn, Ford, C. R. Wildfield.

Throwing the discus—Abercrombie, Baker, Tackaberry.

Half mile—Jackson, Priest, Morris, Tackaberry, 4 min 15 sec.

Relay race—Third year. Consolation race—Highley.

The championship cup goes to Jackson, who scored fourteen points.

The boxing club has made a very profitable start. There are already twenty members, who receive instruction from a professor twice a week and have several practices a week. The new punching ball platform has been installed in the gymnasium, which will probably be appreciated by the boxing club.

On Friday the Trinity association team played Wycliffe on the University campus. Our team did not play with enough combination and were defeated, the score being 10-0. After the game the team was entertained at tea at Wycliffe.

At the meeting of the Literary Society, Messrs. Abercrombie and Macdonald supported the motion that trial by jury in murder cases should be abolished. Messrs. Wright and Hornbrook maintained the negative and succeeded in producing a more convincing argument than that of their opponents. The alternative suggested that a travelling bench of judges should supplant the jury.

College meetings have been numerous and varied, there were two in one day on Thursday.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

The Union Literary Society held their full session of open lat on the evening of the 14th inst. in Alumni Hall. The chief feature of the evening part of the session consisted of several well rendered solos, and the presentation by Mr. Bell of the inter-year championship cup even by the '13 class on field day. The local committee's interest in the night, however, was the quick trial of a member of the Literary Society on the ground of the alleged embezzlement of the Union Literary Society's funds. The Imperial treasury. A rival unionism was appointed to unravel the complicated series of contradictory evidence brought forward by a very mother through witnesses. A witty display of forensic artistry was exchanged between the lawyers for the prosecution and defence, and the trial was concluded by the appointment of the accused, the principal palliation for his offence being the fact that he was under the meretricious influence of the premier of the government.

A MIDNIGHT QUERY.

WHY DOES ANYONE WANT TO BE AN M.D.?

SECTIONAL MEETINGS OF ENGINEERING SOCIETY

Interesting Addresses by Eugene Creed, Mr. Bullard, B. Sc.; Mr. Blanchard, C.E. and Others

There were in all over 350 members of the Society present at the sectional meetings on Wednesday afternoon. That the students appreciate the efforts of the Executive in reviving the practice of singing, was very evident, and the songs proved an interesting part of the meetings.

The electrical and mechanical sections listened with marked attention to what Eugene Creed of the Toronto Electric Light Co. had to say on a subject of interest to every student of the Faculty of Engineering, namely, "The Engineer as a business factor." The relation between the technical and commercial sides of the profession was thoroughly brought out, and any dividing line obliterated. That the commercial end of engineering does not receive proper attention by graduates is a matter worthy of consideration. Unfamiliarity of electrical machinery and appliances should invariably be engineers, with a broad knowledge of their subject, and with the facility of acquainting the public of the construction and economy of electric power, with natural facility.

Mr. Creed dealt extensively with the science of salesmanship, its requirements, and its scope.

Mr. Bullard, B. Sc. (Brown) in discussing the paper, remarked, "It is absolutely necessary for an engineer to study human nature. Those who do are the first to succeed. The graduate must be a salesman to make his first 'start' by selling his services to the employer. In this his greatest asset is his knowledge of human nature."

Mr. Blanchard, B. Sc., C. E., addressed the civil and architect sections on "Funching and Excavations for Sewers." While his paper was general, it dealt more particularly with Toronto's new sewer sewer, and was illustrated with a number of views showing the construction work of this intercepter, and the method of tapping old sewers at the district points. The sewer mentioned is made of concrete with the lower half lined with brick. To the chemical and mining section the speaker, W. A. O'Flynn, '11, gave an address on "Practical Points in Underground Surveying." In connection with this subject he brought out in ingenious method of plumbing an unlined mine shaft. Remarks and views were given by Prof. Hamilton and Mr. A. D. Campbell.

MR. DAVIDSON ADDRESSED Y.W.C.A. ON PRAYER

Miss Ball and Miss Robertson to Represent Varsity Women at Rochester Convention

This week is known as "The Week of Prayer" by the World's Y.W.C.A. "Prayer," therefore, was the topic of consideration at the weekly meeting of the Y.W.C.A. of University College, which was held last Tuesday. Mr. Davidson, B.A., addressed the gathering, pointing out that a vital conception of God is a basic principle of prayer.

The next meeting will be addressed by a missionary on farlong.

Miss A. Ball, '11, and Miss M. Robertson, '13, have been chosen by a committee to represent the women of University College at the Student Volunteer International Convention at Rochester, N.Y., Dec. 29th, 1909-Jan. 1st, 1910.

The regular monthly meeting of the Anglican Women's Club was held at the Devonshire House on Monday afternoon and took the form of a tea. During the afternoon, Miss T. A. Council, the head dressmaker, addressed those present, telling them of the aims and methods of the work carried on at the House, and asking for hearty cooperation in what is to be accomplished this winter. Miss Brindcomb of the Faculty of Education, and Miss Ponsford of St. Hilda's College, have been added to the Executive Committee.

Victoria College gives the last paper-chase of the season on Saturday afternoon. After the chase, tea will be served at Ampley Hall.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL INFERIOR TO OUR OWN

Such is Impression of Varsity Representative Who Witnessed Harvard-Cornell Game

The Harvard-Cornell football game played in the stadium at Cambridge was not, according to American experts, a first-class exhibition. To a Canadian spectator it was decidedly low-class. The writer will admit that it went to this game prepared to criticize, and firmly of the idea that American football was not as good as the Canadian variety. And he came away certain that, if the Harvard-Cornell game was an example, his ideas on the subject were correct.

From a Canadian viewpoint, the class of football was poor. Only one department could the Harvard team, who completely outclassed their opponents, compare favorably with the best team that we have. This was in line-backing, and their exhibition of this style of play was wonderful. Of course, it is where their system of all-side interference, which is not allowed in our game, comes into use. The way in which six or seven Harvard men, by one of whom from what the spectator could see might be carrying the ball, would crash into and through the Cornell line, was the only feature of play which at all impressed the Canadian present. In those cases, the Harvard men on both teams get in. They have a close formation with the two half-backs and the full-back about ten feet behind the line, and the whole eleven men will crash into their opponents' line, and then the ball is lost to sight while twenty-two men are engaged in a bunch. Then one man would break loose and run about ten yards, when he would be tackled, usually around the shoulders. It is doubtful if a Canadian team could stop these backs as the American players are built, and they would stop them by a push down to a scuffle. In our game back can be stopped by getting the first man, as he must carry the ball. But on the other side any one of six or seven men may have the ball, and the only way to stop him is to get him by a push down to a scuffle. But outside of mass play, there was nothing in the Harvard-Cornell game which was equal to the play of the best Canadian teams. There was very little open play, so the spectators were not given the chance to catch that are so numerous here. In fact, only about six times during the afternoon did the crowd jump upon the seats and yell as they continually do at our intercollegiate games. And it was not because the people did not want to, rather, for they applauded vociferously in ten yards, which we would not take very seriously.

The ball was kicked fifteen times during the game, and eight times the catch was muffed, both back divisions contributing. This certainly looked pretty poor. The Canadian team, who won the game in Toronto on the same day, was very different.

same day, Varsity vs. Queen's, was little better in this respect.

Our interest of the play at which the Canadians were surprised, was the tackling. We had been led to expect flying tackles of a high order in the American game, but we were disappointed. There were no flying tackles during the afternoon, and hardly ever was a man get below the waist. Most of the tackling was around the shoulders. For close play, where the possession of the ball is doubtful, the Americans claim few tackling is dangerous and so not effective, getting the man high up. However in this may be, the tackling so noticeable in the Canadian game was almost entirely lacking.

There were very few trick plays pulled off during the afternoon. This was probably because Cornell were by straight football, would not use any of their tricks before they men from Dartmouth and Yale, who were in the stands. The forward pass was tried several times but was not very successful. First, the Harvard full-back, who is supposed to receive the forward passes from the quarter-back, had a very bad day and made many errors in succession, when a clean catch would have resulted in a try. This forward pass is a poor play when it works, but, like our short on-side kick, if it doesn't work it looks foolish.

So much for the game itself. But there was a feature that impressed us more than any part of the actual game. This was the Harvard singing and cheering. The Harvard yell is a great one, and when given by five thousand men, packed in one section of the stadium and under the direction of an able yell-captain, the effect was wonderful. These yell-captains certainly work as hard as any of the men playing in the game. When the men are not yelling loudly enough to suit them, they don't mind telling them so in the very plainest of language. The Harvard roster, had a small brass band which led the singing, and the effect was a treat to our ears. Never hear anything more than a few Irish tunes from a cornet, and about a hundred men, most of whom are off the key, trying to sing a song of which they only know about half the words.

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

The speaker at the University sermon on Sunday will be Bishop C. P. Anderson of the Diocese of Chicago.

GLEE CLUB NOTICE

Positively no more voices will be tried for Glee Club this year. Students are kindly requested not to ask it. To those who have passed the voice test either this year or last year and have not received their seats, the sittings will be held until the next practice, Monday evening, which no more seats will be assigned.

THE CAPUT WILL DO NOTHING FURTHER

Appeals for Modification of its Original Decision are not Granted

The Caput, having carefully considered the petitions submitted to it by various student organizations, sees no sufficient reason for modifying its original decision.

The above announcement has been sent to the Engineering and Medical Societies, and the Students' Parliament, as a result of the meeting of the Caput held a couple of days ago in the case of the suspended students, sent in by these organizations.

President Falconer was interviewed yesterday by the varsity representative, and intimated that as far as the authorities were concerned, the Hallows trouble was a closed chapter. He stated that the Caput's original decision was reached only after very careful consideration, and that although the suspended students had been members of the varsity, they were admittedly not undergraduates, they were the only ones that had been converted, he said, and they had been the only ones that had been possible to apprehend, and in the Caput's opinion they were deserving of the punishment inflicted. The welfare of the many was the most important consideration.

The Caput's announcement has been carried with considerable dissatisfaction in the Faculties of Science and Medicine. Of course, no rational student is considering the hardest possibility of a strike, but at the same time, a good many would like to see the Caput publish the evidence on which their decision was based, which it is practically certain, however, that the Caput do not deem such a course necessary or expedient.

SINGING FOR TIGER-VARSITY

Seats will be reserved and sold at a reduced rate to those who can sing and who will attend the two practices next week, viz., Tuesday and Friday, at 5 p.m. Musical Building. This is not the Glee Club or Massed Chorus but is open to any student who can sing. No voice test required. Strict account of attendance will be taken. No student will be given a seat unless he has attended both rehearsals.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB 11th MEETING

The first regular meeting of the Modern Language Club will be held on Monday, November 22, at 4 p.m., in room 10. Professor Squair will give a lecture on Astre.

THE UNDERGRADUATE AND PUBLIC LIFE

No one who has become acquainted with the average undergraduate or recent graduate of a British University can help realizing how much poorer insight and how much greater interest he has in the political problems of Britain than the undergraduate of a Canadian University has in the public life of his country. Is it because we in Canada have no vital questions to solve? Is it that the material prosperity of the Canadian in the last half century has made the undergraduate feel that progress does not depend on government? Is it because they are so thrilled by the prospect of wealth that they scorn to enter public life? We think it is none of these. Canada has its immigration question, its tariff policy, its political election questions which challenge the intellect of the most profound political thinker. Prosperity has not dimmed the student's history to the belief that local policy and economic legislation play an important part in the life of every nation. And there is a freedom from the standard of mere money which holds in almost all intellectual classes. The reason that is none of these. The reason is that in this University there are so many student organizations, so much executive work to be done and so little time in which to do it, that much time is wasted which might otherwise be spent in working out the institutions of our country. There is no opportunity for reflection. The second reason is found in the character of our curriculum. The object of a multitude of pass subjects is no doubt to infuse culture. But specialization would give more time for original thought, more reflection and less action, more original and less stereotyped thought, is what is necessary before the under-graduate will begin to take an active interest in political life.

THE UNIVERSITY DIRECTORY

The annual University directory was published last week, and the rush for copies proves its popularity and usefulness. This year's edition has an attractive and artistic cover, a good introduction to the booklet itself, which shows decided marks of care in its production. The whole work reflects credit on the publisher, Mr. Gordon Hunter, '11, University College.

(McMaster University will have a printing plant for "student editions" this year. Twenty-five thousand dollars were appropriated by the Legislature. The manager will get $20 a month. The Columbia Student owns its own printing plant also, and gets out the daily from start to finish without aid outside the student body.

Alarums and Excursions

Again let us hold protest against the early hour of class. It would seem the age of the alarums is not yet quite past when such rudimentary civility is practiced on one's fellow-men in the heart of Yonge street in the grip of the morning. Now for the Varsity-type match and for the series of hockey matches in the winter, the exquisite taste of gradual freezing will be added to the torment of constant starvation, the severity of ordered wakefulness and the morose necessity of a stout lunch.

The social pessimist has indeed had to reach the line of suffering servitude in front of Mr. Love's excellent shop to realize that the spirit of loyalty and the spirit of shall we say shrewdness is not dead. Let's a thin red line and a middle six hundred rolled into one stuporous combination of these results could not only make a minor but a modern representation of St. Peter throws open the gates and the chosen thrush in to take the next stage, shuffling on shopcoats, German horses and piles of hockey sticks.

May we suggest the gymnasium as the scene of the take-line for the big match? Here (with permission to keep the building open) we might realize the things of longest life. We should shudder all night on luxurious mattresses—strictly in line—and occasionally stagger off in our dreams. In the morning we could step briskly off to lectures with notebook and tickets and the feeling that grandstand seats are after all as much for the University man as for the outsider downtown.

FOURISH!

TRINITY COLLEGE

The Corporation of the University of Trinity College met on Tuesday night to order the degree of Doctor of Theology on Rev. Wm. C. White, Bishop of Ontario, of Hingham, Canada, and the Very Rev. R. J. Bullock, Dean of Ontario.

The Provost as Vice-Chancellor presided. The Dean read the opening prayer. The Registrar then read the Placet, and the Dean as public orator gave an address, all of which proceedings were in Latin. The Dignity of Ontario was presented by his bishop, Rt. Rev. W. L. Mills, and Rev. C. White by Chancellor J. A. Worth, B. A.

In addressing the audience, Mr. White referred to the cultural and rapid development of Canada and the tremendous opportunity that it gave to the Church. He hoped that Trinity would do its utmost to support the work of his bishop, too, that Church Colleges in Canada would send more to participating in Dr. White said that in conferring on him a degree, Trinity had again shown that it stood for no one particular school of thought, but represented the whole Church, because the Missionary Society, whose first bishop he was to be represented the whole Church.

Dr. Bullock said that his heart was torn by Trinity, because it was a part of the corporate life of Oxford. The Church has been the power of educational institutions, and such institutions were unjustly branded as narrow, Delany religion, by some of the best foundation for a training.

The second part of the proceedings included the installation of the Vice-Provost, Dr. J. D. Lloyd. As a Canadian returning to his native country, he said he felt convinced that in Canada society was built upon stronger foundations, and were destined for a greater place in the history of nations than any other country. To preparing for this development it was most important that the training given in our universities should be put to the best practical use in life.

Prof. Ramsey Wright, as Vice-President of the University of Toronto, welcomed Dr. Lloyd to Toronto, and Bishop Reeve welcomed him to the Canadian Church.

After many and somewhat warm College meetings, some new College songs have been published and were sung with much fervor at the meeting of Convocation.

The stephane and athletic dinner will take place on Thursday, the 18th.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The wives of the Labour members attending the Congress in the city visited University College in a body last Tuesday. The male students gradually pulled themselves together to protect their rights, and asked one of the members of the opposing faction for a speech. After considerable hesitation and embarrassment she decisively answered that they were not suffragettes. The assembled mob broke up with three cheers for the Labourites.

A certain prominent third year man who, until the Union dance, had not attended many University dances, desires to know whether it is customary for young ladies to salute their saluators by pulling their hair while the latter are indulging in the terpsichorean art.

Mr. J. S. Allan has been appointed business manager of the Evening Bulletin place of R. C. McQuarrie, resigned.

It is reported that Mr. C.—a—McC—s—a—k has a new automobile which he uses for dance purposes only. Many of his friends will be obliged if he will confirm this report through the columns of Around the Halls.

Mr. R. F. Thompson spent Sunday last in his old home at Brockville.

We are glad to announce that Mr. H. W. Lyons has recovered enough to be around the Halls again after his recent illness.

Mr. C. R. Carrie has been appointed secretary of the Mark Parliament committee to fill the vacancy caused by A. B. Taylor, who has left college.

A very prominent junior is wondering why a young lady whom he did not know took the liberty of calling him Janesie at the Union dance.

Mr. W. H. Eastlake last week went up to an unknown town near Orillia with some fourth year School men for the purpose of investigating the process of the manufacture of wood alcohol. The odor was too strong for Bill and he has been unimpaired since his return.

It is reported that Mr. Gordon Kennedy, manager of the Senior Arts rugby team, has decided to compete for the Hamilton championship title. This rumor is accepted with universal interest and with a few days' hard practice the team should make a good showing.

Mr. Martin Luther House, a well-known member of the class of '09, is now Martin Luther House, Esq. B.A. The degree was conferred upon him at a meeting of the Senate held last week. Congratulations.

APPLIED SCIENCE

About thirty men of the mining department left yesterday by special car for Sudbury and Copper Cliff. Prof. Hamilton and Dr. Coleman are with the party. The object is a visit to the smelter and metallurgical works at those places. They will return on Sunday, a special car accompanying them to convey their assorted opinions back to town.

Mr. J. C. McCal, '13, is absent at present nursing a broken nose, the result of a football collision.

The second year men are having a large theatre party at the Royal Alexandra tonight.

"The Capt.," having carefully considered the petition submitted to it by various student organizations, sees no sufficient reason for modifying its original decision. Such was the resolution adopted at the meeting of that body on Nov. 15th, a copy of it having been received by the Engineering Society.

The class of '15 assembled the other day in the corner of "The" draughting room to look pleasant at the camera in the hands of one of its members.

The event was probably a form of ritual and may have been from the reading public, many had their minds, at the psychological moment, upon the class photo.

We regret the error in the last issue of Varsity, connecting the name of the chaplain of '10 with the paper, "Mine Surveying." The paper was read by W. A. O'Flynn, B. Sc. Mr. C. O'Flynn is prepared, however, to deliver a lecture at any time dealing with the most economical way of carrying a glass of water in one's jacket.

Items for this column will be gratefully received and will be published, if worthy, provided the writer does not fail to add his signature. A violation of this provision is the cause of the non-publication of several good articles now at hand.

Over two men of the third and fourth years are availing themselves of the opportunity of seeing all the details in the manufacture of steel at the plant of the Lacksawana Steel Co. on Wednesday next. The party will be in charge of Mr. T. R. London who knows the plant from "cover to cover." The latter excursions to the works, the company have spared no pains in giving the students a splendid chance to get acquainted with the various processes, and this year they are preparing to do the same.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Special meetings of the Wycliffe Lit. have taken from six to three per week.

The writing of biographies has played a more important role in Wycliffe than for several years.

The graduating class in Arts will, we hope, be the largest that the college has yet seen.

One of the seniors who persists in playing the part of a freshman was effectively silenced by the leaders of the first and second year. We have always done our best to show respect to those who are nearing graduation, yet the garb of seniority is not vulnerable for those who have not learned its use.

NOTES

Mr. John R. Mott, of the International Committee of the Student Volunteers, visited the Association on Wednesday to confer with the general committee. Mr. T. H. Billings, secretary for the Canadian Colleges, was here on Monday in connection with the Rochester convention.

The Faculty of Education Y.M.C.A. has been organized, with Mr. C. A. Haynes, B.A., president. It is supported by an executive consisting of Messrs. Lowery, Lamson, and Archibald. Dr. Coleman is conducting a Bible class on the Social Significance of the Teaching of Jesus. This is a popular course, there being an attendance of thirty at the opening meeting.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

Last Tuesday evening the senior year took a little relaxation from the hard rigor of their studies and delighted the congregation of Zion Church with a concert, sacred and otherwise. Though every number was of excellent quality, the most of the seniors were laid to the recruit of the male quartette for some inexcusable reason—perhaps their proleptic howling. After the programme, the fourth year were given a supper in the schoolroom, when all present unanimously decided that they were glad they came.

TO COMPROMISE ON NEW LIT. CONSTITUTION

Government Spring a Surprise at Friday's Night's Meeting—
Over 200 Present

The proposed new constitution was responsible for another large and enthusiastic meeting of the University College Literary Society on Friday evening. While previous zeal and eloquence did not reach the same intensity that was a feature of the three preceding meetings at which the new constitution was discussed, the attendance again exceeded the two hundred mark and there was no perceptible waning of interest.

At the previous meeting, proceedings had been brought to that point where it was possible to adopt the Old Lit. party's proposed scheme of cabinet government by a simple majority vote when the arrival of mid-night compelled the Society to adjourn. At this Friday's meeting, instead of asking for a vote, the Government's surprise came in the form of adopting by an attitude of compromise. Vice-President McCarthy moved that a committee, composed of members of the Old Lit. party, be appointed to consider the new constitution and frame such amendments or alterations as should make it acceptable to both government and opposition. This proposal was not received favorably by Mr. Fleming, the leader of the opposition, who considered that it would count his party to the principle of the scheme as outlined by the Old Lit. party, and he moved in amendment that the committee's duties be to revise the present constitution. The amendment, however, was lost and the original motion carried. The leader of the opposition at first objected to act on the committee, but finally consented to do so provided it be understood that he was not committing himself on principle. The committee will bring in their report at the next meeting.

It was definitely announced that the Mock Parliament will be held in Convocation Hall on Friday, Dec. 3rd. Mr. V. Munsey reported that the Arts Diarist committee had secured Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King to act as the guest of the dinner, which will take place on December 31st in the Temple Building. Several other speakers of note had also consented to present. Mr. C. E. Duchanians, Sec.-Treas. of the I.C.D.U., announced that the first debate, between Knox and MacCallister, would take place at Knox on Nov. 25th.

At the close of the meeting, President Russell complimented the Society on the high character of the debate on the constitution. At no meetings of the Society within his experience had the attendance been so large and enthusiastic and the questions before the House so keenly discussed. Mr. Fleming, leader of the opposition, expressed the Society's appreciation of the university fair and impartial ruling of the chair during the last few meetings.

THE VIC. CONVERSAT.

The annual conversation of Victoria College is announced for Friday evening, December 3rd. The patronage of the occasion will be Mrs. Gilson, Mrs. Falconer, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. Burns, Mr. Barwash, Mrs. MacLaughlin, Mrs. Birge, Mrs. Frazier.

ACROSS THE LINE

Three Deaths Cause Anti-Football Sentiment

An unfortunate consequence of three fatal accidents on college grounds recently has put American football on the defensive again. Not since agitation in 1905 has the opposition against football taken such an active form. American college presidents as a whole, however, seem to think that the game, as it is played under the new rules, is as safe or safer than any other outdoor contest. Prof. Patterson, of Michigan, points out the fact that in 20 years at Michigan there has never been a death in football while every year some one has been drowned while canoeing.

President Harry Pratt Johnson says that one of the West Point players is unfortunate and will give football a black eye with some persons. It has not changed my attitude. Accidents may occur in any sport, but I think they are less frequent and less dangerous in college football than in any other branch of sports.

One result of these casualties has been the cancelling of West Point's schedule for the remainder of the season. The annual Army-Navy game went with the rest. At Philadelphia the students of the medical college held a mass meeting and abolished the athletics. The schedule of the Haskell second team also was cancelled.

College presidents as a whole do not think that the game should be abolished. Many of them, however, take the stand that the game has not been freed entirely of its dangerous features. Former President William Tucker of Dartmouth declares that the mass plays must be entirely done away with if the game is to survive. David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford, expressed the opinion that the injury to Byrne was an additional argument for the adoption of Rugby football of the type employed by Stanford and California.

GLASS RECEPTION OF ARTS SENIOR YEAR

Council Objects to a Crowd and Consequently the Attendance was Small

The first Arts Class reception of the term was given by the executive of the senior year on Saturday afternoon from four to seven. As a result of the Council's desire to limit the invitations to these functions, the attendance was rather small. However, the favored few who were present enjoyed themselves. The music and refreshments were all that could be desired. The programme included sixteen promenade numbers.

The invitations were confined to those who are at present or ever have been members of the year, the staff, the presidents, vice-presidents, and lady members of the executives of the other years, and a few freshmen.

The guests were received by the fourth year executive, consisting of the following—President, A. R. Barton; Vice-Pres., Miss I. W. N. Campbell; Sec'y., H. W. Lyons; Treas., A. Fry; Miss Dir., Miss R. Russell.

DR. FERNOW WILL SPEAK

There will be a regular meeting of the Foresters' Club on Thursday night, when Dr. Fernow will give an address on his summer's work in Nova Scotia.

THE ANNUAL ATHLETIC DINNER AT TRINITY

Presentations, Addresses and General good time at the Big Function

The annual Athletic dinner, which was held in Trinity College on Thursday, was characterized by two notable features—the large number of graduates present, and the excellence of the fare. On the whole it is safe to say that it was one of the most successful affairs in the history of Trinity. After full justice had been done to the generous cause, the King was toasted, cigarettes lighted, and the real business of the evening began.

The first item on the program was the Dean's speech in answer to the toast of "The Dons." The speech was an encyclopedic in range, but treated chiefly of the very life subject of removal to Queen's. The piano solo by Mr. N. J. Thompson followed, and then Mr. G. S. Brett was called on to present the prizes for the field day contests. Before making the presentations, he made some very unfavorable remarks about his own lectures, which, happily, were anything but well received.

Mr. A. R. Parisis, '06, gave away the relay race cup, which was presented to the College by his year on his graduation, and Mr. H. C. Griffith had some very pleasant things to say in awarding the cup for the inter-year championship in football.

Various prizes were presented by Messrs. R. J. McGowan, '05, Kirkwood, Routh and Woolcock, all of whom favored the gathering with short speeches, that of the last-named being particularly happy. After another college song, Mr. H. V. Bellman, '06, presented Mr. G. W. Morley, '10, with a prize for some fearful and wonderful achievement that nobody but the donor could fully understand, and Prof. Congrave, with much reluctance, presented, as gracefully as possible, the consolation prizes, which consisted of large cakes baked by the fair hands of St. Hilda's.

Mr. G. B. Stratly, '09, after some interesting reminiscences and comparisons, distributed the prizes awarded for the first crossing of Bloor street in the steeplechase. This concluded the awarding of prizes for the evening, as some of the cups had been fortunately failed to put in an appearance in time. The world-renowned "Clonpin-Beethoven" Quartet then rose to the occasion with a spirited rendering of "My Wife's Gone to the Country," the ever-popular "Alouette" was sung by the entire company, and the proceedings were brought to a close with Mrs. Agnew. The absence of Dr. Clark, who has never failed to be present at the Athletic dinner in the past, was universally regretted.

VICTORIA GIRLS WON SUCCESSFUL PAPER CHASE

After the run all Adjoined to Annesley Hall there Tea was Served

The paper-chase given by Victoria College on Saturday was one of the most successful of the season. There was a good representation from each college, and about fifty met at the railroad tracks in North Toronto, prepared to follow the chase.

The run started at Recreation Park, went up through the Rosedale ravines and ended at the Church street bridge. Victoria came in first, with the rest of the bounds close behind.

The girls then went down to Annesley Hall, where tea was served in the library. Afterwards everyone went into the common room, where college yells and songs were given around the open fire.

MEDS. DECIDE TO DROP THEIR OPPOSITION

Legal Redress Being Impossible
They Will Accept the Capput's Decision

The students in the third and fourth years of medicine have decided to accept the Caput's decision without any further appeal or action of any kind. They held two meetings last week, at the former of which it was decided to consult an attorney and learn whether they had any legal redress in the case of a suspended third year student. They were informed that the Caput's word was law, however, and at the second meeting held on Friday afternoon, the general feeling was that the whole matter should be dropped as far as the students are concerned. Some are still dissatisfied, but there is now absolutely no danger of anything in the nature of a strike.

Dissatisfaction is still quite apparent in the Faculty of Applied Science, although nothing definite has been done during the past week. The Executive of the Engineering Society met a few days ago and decided to procure from the suspended "School" an affidavit to the effect that he was only a spectator in the disorderly Halloween crowd. It was the intention to have this affidavit published in this issue of Varsity. It has not been handed in, however, and we are as yet unable to ascertain what further action—if any—the Society proposes to take.

A LAST WORD

The medical students have shown their good sense in ultimately deciding to accept the Cap'n's decision on the Halloween disturbance, and let the matter drop at that. They have found out that there are no grounds for legal redress, and are now apparently ready to accept the inevitable.

Little or nothing is now being heard among the Arts students regarding the suspensions, a fact which seems to imply that undergraduate feeling is gradually coming to realize the reason of the fact that the Cap'n's action was quite justified by circumstances.

It is to be hoped that the Faculty of Applied Science will also accept the thing in its present form, and make no further attempt to persuade the Cap'n to alter a decision reached with great care and intended to be absolutely final.

ROUGH RIDERS NEXT

Contrary to everyone's expectations the Tigers have fallen, a circumstance which should make Varsity's chances for the Dominion championship more promising than ever.

It is quite unnecessary to urge the students to patronize Saturday's game at Rosedale with titanic An immense crowd is assured.

All that is now required to help the team to put forth the best that is in it, is a lot of enthusiastic, well-organized cheering at the big game.

STUDENTS SHOULD SOUND STUDENT ORGAN

Varsity welcomes contributions of news and literary effort from students of all faculties. All cannot be published, but the best items will find a place in these columns. The contribution box just outside the Varsity office door is always open.

Alarums and Excursions

The leading editorial of last Friday's issue of The Varsity complained—very properly—that in this University we have no time for following the politics of our own country. The writer then went on to give the pass lectures in honour courses as one cause. This is only too true. Few men can have reached the fourth year in Arts without having acquired—more or less—why they were saddled with pass biology in the first year, pass psychology in the second year, and pass something else for the remaining years. Just what good is the complete history of the world's fauna and flora, with an elementary course in medicine attached, that one gets in twenty-five first year lectures in the Biological theatre, the Senate House knows. That august body is equally reticent to explain the aim and object of the bewildering mass of perennials and "tactical exercises" that one picks up in old room 16 in the second year. Such subjects as are taken are taken as something to be got through with as painlessly as possible. It is he blessed with an ability to cram, he forgets it promptly in June. If he cannot cram, it lingers in his memory until September, at which time it leaves forever. Whatever happens, the pass subject that is separate and apart from a man's honour work is a very efficient thing. It doubt very much the wisdom of forcing a student who is reading History or Moderns or Classics, to work up a useless but all powerful knowledge on a subject that has no possible connection with his chosen course.

—FLOURISH.

OLD COUNTRY NOTES

From our own correspondent

The event of the week has undoubtedly been the duel of Mr. Balfour and Mr. Bire. From a politician of Mr. Balfour's type, his attack was extraordinarily savage; whether it was deserved or not, we cannot say. But the incident is one that may expect Balfour with a non-contributory pension list. The Labour party, of course, hope to increase the pension and lower the age. But if the London municipal elections, which are a kind of political barometer, are to be tested, Labour is not on the upgrade. The Municipal Reformers, Tory in politics, have got another three years' term. Not only is the generally low level of intellect among the Labour members to be taken into account, not only the evil done to their cause by such people as Mr. Grayson, but the Liberal party have stolen their clothes. It is all very well for Mr. Keir Hardie to express delight at the Budget, but it takes the wind out of his sails. You may not grudge the man who steals your clothes, while you are bathing, but meanwhile you look a bit of a fool.

An ex-member of the Victoria's Council told me yesterday that in all his Indian experience he had never known of a single prominent Christian concert, that the Christians were almost unrecognizable, and the Hindus who were brought over were nearly all pariahs. I have no means of checking these facts, but another remark was very striking, that the indirect effect of Christianity on the mind of India was enormous, and that it provided the only means of political sympathy. If the religion that came from the East is to generate there the ideals of the West, England can look forward to having down the sword of India.

Boskin College, Oxford, is the training ground of the great traders. The students there try to apply the principles of politics in education, and in examinations, claiming the right to choose their teachers, and finally going on strike. Large questions open up here—the administration of certain poor-law guardians raises the issue of the capacity or lack of capacity of democracy, but for the moment I would ask, are the people ungrateful? Two members of parliament, Mr. Hart and Mr. Keave, who have for thirty years been the special representatives of the coal-miners, have seen the effect of democracy on the miners, but they are now in danger of losing their seats because they will not sign a constitution of the Labour party. The fault is probably not one of the fault. Party government is after all the expression of the age that men like sleep go in droves, and the late of industrial politicians is depressing reading. Look at the Fourth Party. Mr. Winston Churchill has gone the way that Lord Randolph must inevitably have followed. Sir John Goss has graduated from Tory to the Liberal party; Mr. Balfour—well, he came into "great possessions."

A certain elderly journalist, one W. T. Stead, in his old age the prey of charlatans, has been invoking the spirits of the great dead to aid the Liberal party. Through the medium, Disraeli and Gladstone have implored the Lords not to throw the Budget out, and with force and blind imposture is having some effect. Why stop here? Why not call on Shakespeare to save his bacon, why not ask Hamlet how on earth he did not crack the Alps? But, thanks to the gods, the party is so open every Saturday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

MEDICAL NOTES

The Editor-in-Chief and the Editor of Around the Halls for the past few weeks, so there won't be much news in this column.

The Hock Parliament Committee is working hard to provide a good programme this year. It will be held on Dec. 3, in Convocation Hall, and judging from the few secrets that have leaked out about its new features it will be the best yet.

Mr. J. W. Lunney, Secretary of the Union, has been unjustly accused of attending a fourth year lecture this week. Good as his intentions may have been, we feel it our duty to correct this mistaken impression. Being unacquainted with the new system of numbering, he wandered into the room where the First Year Latin class was assembled.

In the McGill Market we notice a contribution entitled "The Conclusions of a Fusser." This is the kind of article we would have expected from him, but we were nevertheless surprised to see his name married thereto as "Senior, 10."

The strain of over-work is telling very considerably on several members of the Senior year. Mr. Hamilton J. Stuart is credited with having handed his English essay into Prof. Bawse, one week early.

We are glad to report that Constantine is again able to re-assume the duties of "Union and Cop." According to rumors, Dr. G. W. Johnson officiated in that capacity during the ill-health of the former.

The University Odelette is now open for engagements. Special reductions are being made for the University community. The Odelette is being managed by E. Bush, leader of the Glee Club.

Mr. W. B. Sifton has returned to College and attended his first lecture yesterday morning.

APPLIED SCIENCE

About seven men of the fourth, third, and second years, in charge of Mr. Marton, visited the new trunk sewers on Saturday morning, braving mud and water in search of practical pointers in excavation and tunnelling. By candle light, they filed through the section after section under the guidance of Mr. A. C. E. Blanchard and Engineer Hollingsworth. In addition to the paper already read to them by Mr. Blanchard on this work, this opportunity for personal inspection has been of great value to those interested in the work, and Mr. Blanchard deserves unqualified credit for the pains he has taken at their behalf.

W. E. Cornau, '09, was a visitor to the electric labs the other day. Cornau has spent the last summer of his college life in and around London.

The official opening of the new laboratories and the conversations to be held in connection, has been postponed until early in the Easter term. The project is an extensive one and will do much to bring the public into closer touch with the Faculty of Engineering.

The executive of the Applied Science Y.M.C.A. spent Saturday morning in providing work and worry for a prominent photographer in the interests of a group photo.

This reminds us of an incident announced. One George, a morning, a really charming young business lady (so he said), after wandering nil of the city's Park, succeeded in luring the president of '09 in the cement lab, arrayed in overalls and paupers' attire, against his hair and suit. She courageously approached him with a view to obtaining an order for the class photo. Mr. Prescott, the men of the fourth year have yet to learn whose photo studio they are destined to decorate for the brief though awful minute.

The U. of T. Electrical Club held its meeting on Thursday evening, Mr. L. S. O'Leary gave a paper on "Railway Motors and their use in equalizing loads." He gave a good description of the London street railway system of running boosters.

The annual Medical "at home" is to be held in the gymnasium on Wednesday night, Dec. 13th. The "at home" this year will not be exclusive like last year's, and a large crowd is expected. Bodley's orchestra of ten pieces will be in attendance. Refreshments will be served. Subscription, single or double, $2.50.

It looks as though the students have decided to let the Halloween affair drop where it is.

The third year enjoyed a theatre party at the Royal Alexandra on Friday night. The entire second balcony was filled with students of all the years in medicine, and about fifty S.P.S. were also out in force. The show was entitled "Going Strong," and it was laughable in parts. The entire mass of students behaved splendidly. Jones made himself prominent, leading in the songs, once.

It doesn't look as if the freshies will enjoy those Christmas holidays. They have already been told that health in inorganic chemistry, biology and histology will be written the first week of Feb., 1910.

KNOX COLLEGE

The "Lat." held its regular meeting last Tuesday evening. After the regular business was transacted, a paper was read by Mr. P. McLeod on the subject, "Evolution and Socialism." The discussion provoked by this excellent paper continued until a late hour.

The first debate of the J.C.D.U. series in which Knox is to take part will be held at Convocation Hall, Knox College, on Thursday evening. The subject is, "Resolved, that in cases involving capital punishment, the present system of trial by jury in Canada is in the best interests of justice." J. R. Samlerson, B.A., and A. A. Scott, B.A., are the representatives of the college and will uphold the negative.

The Missionary Society meets on Tuesday evening. Rev. W. R. McKay, of Moscow, China, who is to spend the winter in Canada and who has been taking lectures with us during the last few weeks, will show a series of lantern slides illustrating his work in the foreign field.

TRINITY COLLEGE

The annual Convocation sermon was preached in the College chapel on Wednesday last by the Very Rev. Dr. Bidwell, Dean of Ontario. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" was his keynote. Man's upward progress, he said, always begins with some idea of God, and without it there can be no such thing as wisdom. The responsibility between science and religion is due to this. Agnosticism is no longer a great force and materialism is crushed. The fear of God is the key to all the problems before us both in science and in business, and therefore we should cling to an institution like Trinity, which trains men with this in view. This is doubly true of the sacred ministry, so men proceeding to holy orders must get the best preparation possible.

Thursday was the day of the sleepless. Although the weather was favorable, the course was heavy. There were thirty-three men started. The time winners were: Abernethy, 26.7; Goodland, 26.8; Ford (senior), 26.6; R. S. Jones, 27.5. The first six to enter in were Goodland, Abernethy, Priest, Hatley, Jones, and Hamilton.

On Saturday a scratch team was collected to give the Highland boys a game, after which they went down to see Ottawa vs. Tigers.

On Friday night several of the city clergy came to a meeting of the Missionary Society to hear an address from the Rev. Mr. Kennedy from Japan, and to discuss other important matters. The meeting was certainly the most momentous the Society has ever held.

GLEE CLUB

The first concert of the University of Toronto Glee Club will be held in Convocation Hall on Friday, Feb. 15th, 1935. Under Mr. Tripp's leadership, rehearsals have been held every week and the interest and enthusiasm manifested and maintained indeed augurs well for the success of the Glee Club. The club has in preparation a program, to be announced later which can be rendered with particular effect by male voices. At the rehearsal last night, the subscription lists were given to the members and are now open to the public.

The Glee Club has been especially fortunate in securing as assisting artists for their first concert the Toronto String Quartet, whose work is being so thoroughly appreciated by the Toronto music-loving public. The members of the club are requested to note that extra rehearsals will be held every Wednesday evening, commencing at 7:30 p.m. These rehearsals are for parts only, and for Wednesday, Nov. 24th, the first and second tenors are requested to be present. The first and second basses will rehearse on the following Wednesday. Members kindly note that the general practices will be held each Monday as usual.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

The sports commended last year that they were the only club who had ingeniously to have their photos taken en masse, but they themselves were commended by the editor on Friday. We cannot but think of the good old days when these things were not so. A game of football was played on Victoria grounds, resulting in a defeat of 3-0 for Wycliffe. Several of the men were decidedly efficient. It is rumored they were playing to the goal (use).

An essay contest is a new feature of the Wycliffe Literary Society. At the business meeting on Friday night, a valuable selection of books was voted for the winner of the contest.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

The ladies, for an hour twice a week, practice field hockey under the auspices of a coach, a referee and scout. Every year carries him his position, but he can make use of his opportunities. The other day he knocked down a sweet little sophmore. Of course he immediately picked her up and straightaway she fell down again.

HANDEBALL

The junior series of the inter-college league was played last week. Thursday, Victoria lost to St. Michael's, 21 to 6; the line-up, Armp, Greer, Taylor. Friday, two games were played on the Victoria board. Victoria won from the Dents, 21 to 8, the players being Brown, Taylor, Greer and Armstrong. Later they lost to St. Michael's, 21 to 9, the team being Brown, Taylor, Greer and Ganton. On Saturday, Victoria again played the Dental College on St. Michael's court, winning by 21 to 19. Brown, Greer and Armstrong represented Victoria.

Marc. Antony's Oration over Fleming's dead body.

Friends, Unionsists, freshmen, lead me to the cafe.

I come not to bury Fleming, but to praise him.

For that man do live for ninety-nine years after them.

The good are oft interred on their Opposition.

So hath it been with Fleming. The strapping McLarty.

Bath, told you Fleming was ambitious.

If it were no it were a grievous fault. And grievously hath he answered it. Here, under leave of Lyons and the rest—

For Lyons is an honorable man—Come I to speak at Fleming's funeral. He was my friend, faithful and just to me.

Switching what offices he could my way.

But Harrison says he was ambitious, and Harrison is an honorable man. When that the Irishman have cried, Fleming hath vowed.

That he would spend the fees on apples, Grapes and Hassan cigarettes, if they would make him Vice-President. He put away the Vice to go in opposition.

Does that look like ambition or subordination?

Ambition should be made of sterner stuff.

Yet Lunny says he was ambitious, And Lunny is an honorable man.

But yesterday the word of Fleming might Have stood against Bob Thompson's.

Alas! none so poor to do him reverence.

O, masters! O, fractions party faction!

I should do McLarty wrong and Lunny wrong.

Who you all know are honorable men I will not do them wrong. I rather choose.

To wrong Fleming, to wrong myself and Rose.

That I will wrangle such honorable men.

I have over-shot myself to tell you that.

If you have tears prepare to shed them now.

You all do know this little chistry.

I remember The first time ever Fleming put it on.

'Twas on a Friday in March—Nominations.

The day he put it over with his nerve eye.

Look! I this place list Johnston's little briak.

See what a hole the envious Orton made.

'Twas that horrid dirt was made by Tommy Harrison.

And here's where Johnny lamentsed it.

This rent is where McLarty kicked the crown in.

This gash in the side is Shirley's work.

Mark how his shining form collapsed, As if the wind were knocked clean out of it.

At sight of McLarty in that marvellous bunch.

This was the most unfortunate set of all!

And when Art saw Norman leaving his house.

Then burst his little heart!

Veiling his face with what was left of his hair.

Sinking his teeth in his little pencil. He passed away, his eyes doing stunts.

Oh when a fall was there, Unionsists! Then you and I and all of us fell down.

And an "Old Lit." executive will run the Lit.

Good friends, sweet freshmen, let me not stir you up.

To any sudden flood of mutiny. They that have wracked the Lit. are honorable.

Whether none loose word from Fleming.

Or snarl from Ross, I know not. They will, no doubt, with reasons answer you.

Why Fleming got it where the chicken got the axe.

I come not, friends, to steal away your hearts.

I am no orator as McLarty is, But I am a Unionist and a good one, too.

That love my friend and do some grating for him.

For I have neither wit nor utterance To stir men's blood. But you Old Lits.

Just take notice. Fleming isn't dead yet.

Not by Mr. Oton's "Boston."

(—With the respect to old Shake's clunkers.)

Prominent S.P.S. Man Writes Letter re Suspensions

Varsity Editor

Dear Sir,—In the Tuesday issue of Varsity it was stated that it was the intention of the Executive of the Engineering Society to publish the affidavit of the gentleman suspended from the Faculty of Engineering, and that space had been reserved in that issue for such publication. This attitude of Varsity is commendable. We appreciate it, and regret that the material was not ready for that date.

President Falconer was requested by the Eng. Society representative that the evidence on which the "Schmidt" man had been convicted, should be published, and thus show the public that this student was more sequestrated than blackguard, as the verdict of the Capt. would lead one to think. The President replied that no further steps would be taken in the matter by the Capt. The Engineering Society, therefore, left it incumbent on them to act this man right in the eye of the public by publishing his affidavit, setting forth that he took no active part in the proceedings of the disorderly crowd, and that, for the brief time he was in the crowd he was present merely as an onlooker. This affidavit is available, but it is desired to give no more publicity than necessary to the name of the person most interested. It is for this reason withheld at present. But the publication of a statement of President Falconer will, I think, carry the same weight.

In an interview with the Faculty of Engineering representative, the President said: "We (the Capt.) have nothing against Mr. Schmidt personally. But he was a member of this crowd and the crowd made it possible for about three dozen men to act as they did."

The Varsity has said that the Capt. arrived at his decision after long and careful consideration of the matter. Doubtless this is so; but it would appear that not so much time and consideration was given to the best means of providing a halcyon for supposedly outraged public opinion, which had been perverted by a press always ready to magnify the acts of students. If the punishment had been meant to be exemplary, why did not the Capt. announce that this man had been suspended for being a member of the crowd instead of stating in the verdict that "the evidence before the Capt. is not sufficient to prove that the students who appear before it were ringleaders in the disorderly crowd of Saturday, October 23rd." The verdict is, in any case, ambiguous.

Some criticism is, I think, due the editorial in Tuesday's Varsity. You state that the medical students have shown their good sense in accepting the Capt's decision. The Arts students are held up as models for having supported the decision. You then presume to suggest that the Faculty of Applied Science accept the thing in its present form.

The "School" man has reason to know and respect the fighting qualities of the "Med." and it is left that there is some reason not yet known which induces the medical students to thus quietly accept the "inevitable." It would be interesting to read a representative letter from that Faculty written in the submissive mood depicted in Varsity.

As for the "School" mind taken by Arts students, it can only be justified by believing that the man suspended from Arts was, to say the least, only more culpable than the men from the other faculties. In that case, the Faculty of Arts should not be held up by the student body by Arts would undoubtedly have been assumed by either of the other faculties if such things were important. The crimes had been noted out.

The "School" finds that there is no address in a civil action induces the verdict could be proved malicious. This is, of course, impossible. We also find that the Capt. is supreme in disciplinary powers, and therefore we regret the more the stringency of their decision. But we do not desire very strongly to remove, in so far as possible, the stigma with which our fellow-student is branded. We still consider him a gentleman, and desire the public to do so.

WOMEN'S NEWS NOTES

The weekly meeting of the W.V.C.A., which was to have been held on Tuesday afternoon, was adjourned in order that the members might have an opportunity of hearing Dr. Chambers lecture in the Physics Building. Dr. R. P. Mackay, who was to have spoken at this meeting, will address the W.V.C.A. next week instead.

The Women's Literary Society meets to-morrow evening at half-past seven in the Union room at the gymnasium.

Dr. Samuel H. Zievers will address a mass meeting of women students in McMillan Hall at 4.30 p.m., Sunday, November 28th.

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

Dr. S. M. Zievers, F.R.C.S., will be the speaker at the University sermon on Sunday morning. He has spent seventeen years in Arabia as a medical missionary, but is at present travelling secretary for the Student Volunteer Movement.

VARSLITY IS CENSURED IN STUDENTS' PARLIAMENT

That Body Hopes to Make Paper More Representative by Gaining Control

The second regular meeting of the Undergraduates' Parliament was held in the west hall of the Main Building on Tuesday night. A committee, composed of McLaughlin (Med.), Campbell (S.P.S.), Massey (U.C.), was appointed to look into the whole matter of student discipline. After considerable discussion the graduating class in theology of Knox College, was admitted to the Year Book.

The interesting part of the meeting came when it was moved that the Parliament look into the matter of taking over the Undergraduates' Union and The Varsity—in particular the latter. This afforded a splendid chance for adverse criticism on the part of the Faculty of Arts. The Varsity was not a representative paper, as its attitude on this question showed, and that if it were taken over by the Parliament it would tend to represent rather the student opinion in the whole University. The leading of the Parliament was favorable to taking control of The Varsity, but it left out of the question any thought that the Union would be unwilling to part with The Varsity. The discussion was quite protracted, but dealt with The Varsity as not being representative, rather than with arguments for or against taking over the Union.

It was announced that the University debate with Queen's would be held Dec. 3, Toronto representatives are J. L. Thomson, University College, and F. A. Baker, Trinity.

The attendance of the members of Parliament was, as usual, very poor, particularly in the Faculty of Medicine, which was represented by about three men. If the Parliament is ever to be a success, its members must show their interest by at least turning out to the meetings.

The semi-annual game in the Mulock Cup series was played off Tuesday afternoon under rather unfavorable conditions, as the ground was frozen hard and a light coating of snow had fallen the night before. Junior School won chiefly on their greater speed, which offset the advantage which the seniors had in weight and on the superiority of their back division.

On form, Victoria ought to win out in this series, as they have weight and speed and have been practicing faithfully all season.

STUDENTS STOOD IN LINE FOR TICKETS FOR 24 HOURS

Enthusiasm over Tomorrow's Game with Rough Riders is at Fever Heat—Players are in Pink of Condition—Prospects Bright

Perhaps Toronto isn't football crazy? On Wednesday morning, at eight o'clock, a man took his stand at Love's door to wait twenty-five hours for first chance at the plan for Saturday's Dominion championship game between Toronto Varsity and Ottawa. By ten o'clock there were a dozen men lined up, and they kept coming all day until about 4.30 p.m. the word was passed around that enough men were then in line to buy up all the reserved seats that would be put on sale in Toronto. And the plan was not to open for 16 hours!

Students' tickets are going equally as fast. The section reserved for the Varsity singers and yellers holds some hundred people, and by noon Wednesday over this number had subscribed for seats there. These men will occupy the bleachers at the north-west corner of the field, while the Ottawa rowers will be in the new stand to be erected in the west of the club house.

Regular student tickets at fifty cents are being sold for the bleachers at the southwest corner. This stand will hold over 500 and will be reserved for builders of student tickets until 2 o'clock. These tickets will be on sale at the Gym all day to-morrow.

It isn't necessary to urge every student of the University to turn out for Saturday's game—they will all come without urging. But one thing we will impress—make a nation out of Saturday. An Ottawa big band drowned all Hamilton's noise, but the Varsity men should not be stopped by so small a thing. Yet all the time whether Varsity is winning or losing. It encourages the players and helps to keep you warm.

The Varsity team has been indulging in light practices this week and will be in the absolute pink of condition on Saturday. Hamilton will play an important part in the game and Coach Griffith is taking no chances. Jimmy Bell, whose ribs were hurt in the last game in Montreal, will probably start in Saturday's contest. Jones will be back in trim again, and either Park or Gage will play left outside. The rest of the team will be the same as has been playing all season.

Varsity should win the game by about ten points. If the Hamilton wings had been down on the ball last Saturday, Tigers would probably have scored a try or two as a result of those kicks which the Ottawa backs finished. Saturday was not an all-day for the Rough Rider backs either. With the exception of Williams, they have been finding all season, and they will probably do so on Saturday. If that is, Varsity will certainly win, for with their speed there will be two or three Toronto wings waiting for the ball every time. And, although Ottawa scored the ball in every line, play last week, they will not do so to-morrow. The Varsity wings and Captain Jack Newton are all great ball-potters, and its safe to predict that Toronto will secure possession more than half the time.

Another thing. The Varsity back division will cover the field better than Hamilton did, and Williams' long jumps will not be such gauds as last week. Lawson, Dwyer, Gill and Newton are all sure on either lay or bombing balls, and have shown great skill all season in running back before kicking Lawson will probably have the hardest game of his career with Stronach to contend with, but he will probably get away for a few good runs. And with fifteen yards of clear head behind Stronach or anyone else can stop him.

On the wing line the struggle will be fierce. Ottawa is heavier, but Varsity is the best coached line in Canada, and no wings playing to-day know so well how to break up mass plays.

Both teams are tricky, and neither sticks to straight football. But while the brains of the Ottawa team are confined to one man, Jack Williams, every man on the Varsity team plays a scientific game, and they are all quick to size up the other team's play. Ottawa will not have Varsity guessing as they did Hamilton.

It will be a great game, and as both teams are every man on the field all the time, it will probably be clean. Both teams are confident of victory. All will win right after it from the first whistle. Both will play the same style of football—plenty of kicking and running with occasional trick plays, so that from the spectator's point of view it should be the greatest game ever played here.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF?

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The University College notes are lacking in this issue for a very and obvious reason. The editor of this department stood up in line for tickets at Wednesday night, and at the time of going to press (Thursday afternoon) was sleeping so soundly that the continued efforts of several members of the staff failed to arouse him. He'll make good in Tuesday's Varsity.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Mission Society classes have met this week with a good attendance. On Tuesday evening, Mr. Charles conducted a class on "The Modern World," while on Thursday "The Uplift of China" was discussed. A group with Mr. K. G. Burton as leader, on Sunday afternoon, at 8 p.m., Mr. J. L. Shaw will lead a class in "City Problems," instead of the one on Wednesday evening. These will be held throughout the year in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

The Bible Study Department is one of the best in the Association. This year there is an curriculum of 1964 in over two classes. This is an increase over last year and will be augmented greatly before the end of the term.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The miners and chemists who arrived Sunday from their excursion to Copper Hill, Creighton, and Krone Hill, report the trip as having been one of the most successful in the history of the School. This success was largely due to the efforts of Mr. A. P. Turner, Pres. of the Canadian Copper Co., and his staff. Dr. Chalmers gave the students many important points concerning the geology of the country, and Prof. Hamilton personally conducted the geological investigations at Krone Hill and at Creighton.

Throughout the trip Messrs. Turner and Stuart proved themselves very efficient in the "Art of Domestic Science," while the business and financial part was well conducted by Mr. Fries.

On Friday evening, the "Yellow Club" of Copper Hill gave the party a very enjoyable reception. Many think that "Silver Foxes" would be more appropriate name for this hospitable club.

Archie Macdonald will be pleased to exhibit his conveyor camera. A meeting to organize a debating society for the third year was held on Thursday evening.

G. P. Goudreau, B.A., has been called home to attend the funeral of his brother, who met death through a premature discharge of dynamite. To Mr. Goudreau is extended the sincere sympathy of the second year and of the Engineering Society.

The little brother of Junior and Senior school for football honors resulted in a score of 87 in favor of the Juniors. Macdonald's hunting and the last following up of the wing men brought about the well-merited victory. About three hundred saw the game, some of the years practically calling off work to attend.

Attention should be drawn concerning the game this afternoon, when the Vics and Junior School decide who shall have the Blinck Cup. "Hiccup" has been the subject of every boy's mind when a month ago, intended to have his thesis in the hands of the Council before Christmas. Everything seems to him to be in the past tense from the time he prices one morning until he went to bed the next.

KNOX COLLEGE

The "Theologians" have chosen the following from their number to go as delegates to the Rochester Convention: J. R. Sanderson, W. Scott, T. A. Johnson, R. Matheson. The Arts men will select their representatives later.

Last Tuesday evening's meeting of the Missionary Society was devoted to Foreign Missions. The illustrated lecture on South China, given by Mr. McKay, was interesting and instructive. The Society decided at this meeting to undertake a campaign during the Christmas holidays, to reach the western parts of Ontario, in the interests of our work.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

The Faculty students are delighted over their success in the inter-faculty soccer series. They are in good condition for the game with Victoria, and hope to win out.

Mr. H. S. Manning, B.A., is supplying for a few weeks in Blackham High School.

On Saturday evening, the second meeting of the Literary Society was held in the Students' Union. After the regular business was transacted, a debate was listened to. The subject was "Resolved that education increases happiness." The affirmative was taken by Miss W. Thurgill and Mr. Rogers, while Miss Shill and Mr. Strathairn upheld the negative. A victory for the affirmative was brought in by the judges, Messrs. Macpherson, Hinchman, and Mack. Mr. Archibald fully fulfilled the duties of critic.

Mr. C. C. Allen, B.A., spends his afternoons teaching in the Technical School.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

An open meeting of the Victoria College Women's Literary Society was held in Alumni Hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 24th. An interesting business session was followed by a sharp practice debate, in which a considerable number of the members took part. The principal feature of the evening was the literary program. Papers were given on various objects of interest relating directly to the college. Miss Beloe, '11, spoke very entertainingly on the origin and subsequent history of Victoria. Miss Hencky, '10, dealt entirely with the College chapel and the many interesting things contained therein, while Miss Crews, '10, gave the history and significance of several other objects connected with the building proper. The evening's proceedings were much enlivened by the interposition of year and college songs.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Two electric arc lamps are being installed in the gymnasium. We expect that this improvement will make the gymnasium far more popular than it has been in the past, for it is chiefly used at a time of year when it gets dark in 4 to 5 p.m.

The basketball games have been arranged to begin next Monday, and it is hoped that the lights will be ready by then.

The protest met with an accident at the beginning of the week, as he was stepping off a street car he was knocked down by an automobile. He sustained a severe abrasion on the cheek and cut his hand, but was able to proceed home. We believe that the automobile was not damaged.

The student was permitted to draw up a College song book in his name and intends to submit a number of songs to the College at the next smoking concert, when they will be sung by a small chorus.

BOOK OF REVELATIONS TO TORONTO

(From the "McGill Martlet")

CHAPTER I

1. And it came to pass that the sons of the Varsityes gloried in the fullness of their strength and waxed wrath that the men of McGill should gaudy them.

2. And Falconer said unto them "Go ye into the east that ye may wrest victory from it." And the prophets and the southayers of the fullness of their strength and all affirmed that the sons of McGill would disappear from the face of the earth even as a morsel of agglutinated snow in Galena.

3. Now the man Newton who had been chosen king in the Varsityes—be of the elect of two entities, led north his men, for he wot not that the southayers had deceived him.

4. In the path of their strength the ghil of the men of Varsity was as the water upon about Royal for the wayer was as two nites which are a farthing, against many sheths, and the men, for he wot not that the southayers had deceived him.

5. And it came to pass that the men of Varsity in a time prevailed against the southayers of Gilmour, yet was he not dismayed but strove valiantly, then forth, a chieftain of the McGill men, delivered the boat skin to Ross and the annual of Graham projected it many burrows into the camp of the enemy.

6. And as the hills arround about Jerusalem, so the McGill men were round about him who received it, and if perkenature he attempted flight they imprinted his image in the great pastures, so that he lay still and brought them to give him waters.

7. Turn and South and Ayer wets as a rock, that when Varsity looked they were broken and when it fell on Varsity it ground them to powder.

8. It came to pass about the fifth hour that Gilmour, smote the earth and cursed the rebre with a great curse, and he with Bowling and Mithelven, who is named "Heddy," drove the Varsity before them as thistle-down, and Lee and Brynham Jack replied as strong men to run a race and control round about them.

9. And it came to pass that the Vaughan Black and Wallace who is named "Kerly," being physicians, feared leting test a youth of Toronto should become faint with striving, and kumpled the heads that may get degrees and exalted their shoe latches though perchance it might seem that the youths would be chelt in twain.

10. Then the McGillites mocked them, saying, "Call on your Lawson that he may save you," and Lawson came, but when Lawson carried thompson on his back Gilmour carried his tens of thousands.

11. And Rogall looked Lawson that he fell even as the tower of Sidiom mry was Bignall in this a summer above all the rest, for Goodeve did likewise many times, and more also.

12. And he! when Brydon-Jack fell sick in a fever, because he made a whirling and Toronto was even as before.

13. So McGill triumphed over Toronto that day and here the good villages of great pox to the K.V.C., and the 100 to us have entertained impetuous invasions. They raised a great shout and since the McGill men are plastered even into this day.

SWIMMING CHAT

Y.M.C.A. boys have sent in a challenge to the members of the Varsity (1st year) swimming club for a three-cornered meet in swimming, life-saving and diving.

In Williamson, U.C.C. have the latest 28 yards sprinter in Canada, and he has no trouble in making the distance in 28 seconds.

Varsity has three good men in the first year—Blackburn, George Clark and Frode. But we are looking for two more in order to make the five for the relay race.

When football is over, the swimming club expect. In have the polo team strengthened by the addition of two more men. It is to full strength now, but lacking extra men, which is a risky condition to be in view of the coming water polo league games. This league has been formed and consists of Toronto Swimming Club, Central V. Swimming Club, O.A.C. Guelph, and Varsity. Water polo players are the most capable in saving life in case of emergency, so come on in.

VARSITY OUTCLASS OTTAWA---WIN DOMINION CHAMPIONSHIP EASILY

10,000 People see Varsity Defeat Rough Riders at Rosedale. Score 31-7. Varsity Lead from Start and Finish Strong. Students' Rooting Excellent. Parade After Game.

Varsity defeated Ottawa at Rosedale on Saturday by 31 to 7. From a Toronto standpoint it was the greatest game ever played—greater even than Casey Baldwin's famous victory. For about Saturday's game there can be no doubt. Not only did Varsity score more points than Ottawa, but they completely outclassed them in every department.

The Varsity team gave the best exhibition of modern football ever seen on a Canadian gridiron. Every man on the team figured in practically every play, and trick plays and straight football were well mixed. The team played manly football all the time and there was never any hesitation about signals. Capt. Jack Newton was always complete master of the situation and his team carried out his orders laudably.

Varsity won the game in the first five minutes. They started from the first whistle and tore the supposedly strong Ottawa line to pieces. The wings were down like a shot on Gall's long kick and soon had the ball on Ottawa's fifteen-yard line, from where, on old runs by Thompson and Lajone, it was carried over for a try. After this the game was never in doubt. It was Varsity all the way, and except for a few minutes in the third quarter, when Varsity was playing two men short, Ottawa had hardly any of the play.

It was a case of a fast, heavy team, well coached and sure of themselves all the time, against a heavy team, playing old-fashioned, straight football. The Ottawa team, with the exception of two men, is made up of players of just average ability. The scrimmage and wing line are heavy and strong, but with the exception of Stronach and Christie, the outside, are very slow. The back division, with the exception of Williams at centre and Kilt at quarter, is weak. The other three men are young and have not had the benefit of good coaching. Tom Clancy is a splendid wing-line coach but does not understand modern back-field playing.

The Varsity team is strong in every department. The scrimmage, while light, is very sure in getting the ball out, and on Saturday had little difficulty in holding the three hasty

Ottawa men. The wing line has everything a modern forward line should have. They have weight and speed and every man is a sure tackler and a good ball-getter. The back division is easily the strongest and most evenly balanced that has ever played the game in Canada. Every man on it is a star, but all combine in a way that makes their work practically perfect. On Saturday, only one catch was missed, the back handling Williams' bouncing kicks as easily as they did his high punts.

The back division was so strong that they were able to give assistance all through the game to the wing line. Capt. Newton played upon the line most of the time and left the back-field work to Gall, Lawson, and Dixon. And the little full-back didn't have much to do, for Gall and Lawson covered the whole field and took care of everything that came along.

Clancy's instructions to Capt. Jack Williams were to hammer Varsity's left wing and kick to Lawson. The left side of scrimmage was supposed to be Varsity's weak point and Clancy was counting on Lawson miffing, and Stronach, who had been moved over to that side, getting the ball. But Blair and Hume stopped everything that came near them and broke up the Ottawa mass plays in great style. Lawson's catching was the best he has ever done, so Clancy's plans came to nothing. Stronach carried out his part of the program and was down under every kick, but the big Varsity back caught like a basketball player and several times evaded the big Sent and showed him his heels. But much credit is due to Stronach. He gave the best exhibition of outside wing playing ever seen here, and got Lawson much clearer than anyone else has ever been able to do. But he couldn't get him every time, and as Williams kept kicking to the big fellow all through the game, he was able to tear off more runs than in any game this season. And when he once got past Stronach, it took three or four Ottawa men to bring him down. His work in the last quarter was wonderful and showed Lawson to be the greatest running half-back in Canada.

Every man on the Varsity team played a star game, and what was more important, all combined in as fine an exhibition of team play as has ever been seen here. The man carrying the ball was never let go through the line alone, but was always backed up by two or three of his team mates.

Varsity excelled in every particular. Gall outpunted Williams and both he and Lawson outran any of the Ottawa backs. The catching of the Ottawa backs, while better than against Hamilton, was not so good as that of Varsity. Foulle's passing and handling of the ball was more accurate than that of Kilt, and the former was always in the field while the Ottawa man spent fifteen minutes on the side lines. The Varsity scrimmage, while lighter than the was when, playing with one man on the line, they held Ottawa for two downs less than a foot out from the line.

The only word of censure that can be passed on the team is that the certain men grazed the side-lines too often. But this was probably due to too much eagerness for most of the penalties were for holding on the line, and not for rough play.

INDIVIDUALISMS

Short Dixon played a steady game, and some of his judicious runs were great. His best play of the afternoon was when he recovered the ball after Lawson had dropped it, and ran it out from behind the line through practically the whole Ottawa team. His catching was perfect and his kicking easily equal to that of Williams.

High Gall was the best man on the field, and to him more than anyone else is due Varsity's victory. He placed his kicks in wonderful style, hardly ever letting the ball go near Williams, the only dangerous man on the Ottawa back division. He ran kicks long in line style and showed great headwork in all his play. He new to scrimmage work, but held his heavy check in line style. He did some good tackling during the afternoon, but was perhaps a little too eager to fight.

George Kingston played his usual steady game. He was always on the ball and always in the thickest part of the game. He showed great skill in recovering loose balls, and in breaking up the Ottawa plays.

Art Blair outplayed his check and broke through easily. He followed down like the outside wings and, while he didn't always get the man, he usually chased him into another Varsity man.

Jack Lajone broke up all the backs around the right end and did some line line plunging himself. He followed up in good style and usually got his man.

Whisper Hume did great work in chum-tackling. He had a heavy afternoon for most of the game, and was sent against him. He was a little too anxious and held too long on the corner, for which, of course, he spent considerable time on the side-lines.

Murray Thompson played the best

THE BEST BACK DIVISION IN CANADA

Ottawa trio, held in line shape. Only once during the game was Foulle's squallered before he could get the ball away. On the wing line where Varsity was supposed to be the stronger, Varsity had all the best of the play. The Toronto men had no difficulty in breaking through to get down under Gall's kicks. All Ottawa was never able to last for yards, but always had to resort to kicking on their final down. The best piece of work the Varsity line did was the coolest man on the field and was always in the game.

Captain Jack Newton ran the team in faultless style, leading players in a star game. His tackling was the best of the afternoon, and he worked the outside kick with Gall in line shape. He was very strong in getting loose balls and was always right on the ball.

Scarlé Lawson gave the finest exhibition of running ever seen here. He had more work to do than in any game of his career, for Williams always kicked to him. But his catching was faultless and his running wonderful. He had the best outside wing in the game checking him, but he managed to score two touchdowns and pull off thirty and forty yards without number.

Bill Foulle got the ball away in great style and was never worried by the heavy Ottawa line. His passing was sure and accurate, the long pass to Gall which resulted in a try being the best seen here for a long time. He showed great skill in gathering in the short Ottawa kicks.

Jimmy Bell played with a couple of broken ribs, but put up a line exhibition. He got the ball out cleanly and broke through almost at will. He was usually first man down, and tackled in line style.

Trick Ritchie was the strong man in the scrimmage, and did more than anyone else to hold the Ottawa trio. He helped to break up the Ottawa backs. His goal kicking was not up to his usual high standard, but this was no doubt due to the slippery ground.

Gordon Rankin played his first game of senior football on Saturday and more than made good. He was game of his career. He followed up and tackled in excellent style and was lightning fast. He carried the ball for repeated gains.

Charlie Gale played his first game at outside wing, and while new to the position showed great skill. He had speed and weight and was a sure tackle. He looks good for next year.

VARSITY MAY PLAY YALE IN NEW HAVEN

Movement On Foot for Game between Two Championship College Teams

The University of Toronto Rugby Executive are trying to arrange a game with Yale for the inter-collegiate championship of America. Now that Varsity has won the Canadian championship and Yale has defeated all the best teams of the East, football has on both sides of the line are anxious to see a game between the two teams. No definite steps have yet been taken, but it is probable that Varsity will bring the matter to the attention of the Yale authorities through the medium of President Falconer.

The game if arranged will be played in New Haven and will give the Americans an idea of the Canadian style of football. Some steps have to be taken to change the American game, and it is probable that many points from our game would be adopted as a result of a Toronto-Yale contest.

CANADA'S BEST COACH

All praise to Mr. Griffith, who, during the past month, has so willingly and enthusiastically coached the Varsity rugby team. Every afternoon, rain or shine, he was on hand and was sitting in his efforts to bring the team to perfection in all details, and his work, as usual, has been crowned with success. To him is largely due the combined team play, which was so instrumental in landing the championship. He is a true sport and insists on any team he coaches playing clean, sportsman-like football. Wherever he goes, he turns out a winning team. Under his guidance, Ridley College turned out championship teams in the preparatory school league. While at Ridley he coached "Cockey" Baldwin, the famous captain of Varsity's Dominion championship team. In the past three years he has coached Varsity, and twice in that time have he won the intercollegiate championship. Not only has he an enviable record as coach, but he has also the reputation of being one of the best experts in Canada on account of his thorough knowledge of the game and the rules and his strict impartiality. His name will long be remembered by all students of Varsity.

PARLIAMENT AND VARSITY

A committee has been appointed by the Students' Parliament to look into the advisability of gaining control of The Varsity by that body. It will be conceded that the ultimate proprietors of The Varsity will be the Parliament of the Undergraduates. But while admitting and agreeing in the advisability of the control of the student newspaper by the representative student organization, we are difficulties which at present appear to destroy any possibility of such a control in the immediate future.

In the first place, the Students' Parliament has not yet made clear that in that body is to be found energy along with stability and good executive efficiency, along with large representation, which is essential if it would control The Varsity successfully. A committee might well profitably be appointed to look into the defects of the Students' Parliament. That body has been in existence only three years. The defects of its large membership and variant schemes for election are just now becoming apparent. This defect is a fundamental one; and until the Students' Parliament removes it from its constitution it should not wish to gain more power than it has. The control of a newspaper calls for a strong executive—the Students' Parliament was organized as a legislative body.

In the second place, it is highly improbable that the Union Executive would be willing to surrender The Varsity without some substantial consideration. Varsity is now on a good paying basis. The Students' Parliament has no power to compel the Union Executive to surrender its control. The Students' Parliament would thus have to purchase Varsity. That, in the body representing the undergraduates would have to purchase a paper already owned successfully by the undergraduates. This appears almost needless expenditure. It would be difficult to persuade a majority of the undergraduates that they should respond to the appeals for financial support which would come from the Students' Parliament when they were paying their money merely that that Parliament should control The Varsity, not for any reason of efficiency or better facilities, but merely to make more visible an abstract idea.

ALARMS AND EXCURSIONS

The singing at the match on Saturday went beyond our highest expectations. It is proved conclusively for all time that Toronto men can make a noise when they can be heard from Rosedale to East Toronto (one man—a graduate—could distinguish the different songs on Saturday at this distance). The singing may have done in an indirect way to make the men in the crowd, in any case the Glee Club is to be congratulated.

While we are on the subject, would it be out of the way to question the real use of an organized yell. A song everyone concedes to be an excellent thing, but some people have doubts about the advantages of the "song without music." After all, the college yell is a comparatively recent importation from the States and has not been in use for long in this University. It would almost seem that spontaneous cheering is more inspiring than organized chanting in the hazy channels of a written call. Besides the exciting moments a concerted effort is out of the question, and in the quieter intervals a song sounds best.

In any case, the yell that is at present accepted generally as that of the University is not a vigorous composition. If the yell has come to stay, let us have one that is shorter, more significant and altogether stronger than the one now in use.

A great deal was done on Saturday to dissolve the remembrance of the Hallowe'en affair. It is generally considered difficult to get an idea from the minds of our fellow-citizens, but if the idea does exist that we in the University are hopelessly, the match hour from Rosedale must do much to remove it.

"FLOURISH."

BIG DANCE AT TRINITY

The Trinity College "At Home" was held on Thursday evening, 25th November, under most favorable auspices. Over three hundred were present, and the balls were filled to overflowing, though this was not so great as to impair the enjoyment of the affair. Many Toronto people were present, many, in fact, than we have ever seen before at a Trinity dance. It goes without saying that the music, floor and supper were irreproachable, and that the general conduct of the dance was as perfect as care and thought could make it. Especial praise is due Mr. Hamilton Wilson, the indefatigable secretary, to whose untiring energies the success of the evening is chiefly to be attributed. A novel feature was the "moonlight dance," in which the ball was lighted solely by single candles, and that the general conduct of the dance was as perfect as care and thought could make it. A judicious arrangement of colored slides in front of the lamp, by kind permission of the Provost, the hour stopping was extended to half-past twelve, so that over four hours of dancing was obtained. Many of the men in College opened their minds, thus rendering without a luxury. On the whole, the verdict was that this was the most successful dance held in Trinity for many years, and the approaching "Concerts" will have a good deal of difficulty in surpassing it.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The biographies for Torontonians are now being considered by the Board. The adaptability of certain quotations, however, has been questioned on several occasions, and it is said that one biography in particular of a well-known fourth year lady was rejected because the quotation read: "I wonder who's kissing her now."

Since Mr. L. C. Moyer is not editing this issue of Varsity, in consequence of an arrangement with the editor of the spring term, and cannot therefore stroke out any articles about himself as in previous issues, the editor of Around the Halls feels it his duty to announce that Mr. Moyer, due to his connection with "Varsity," has become a militant intruder, and attended all the meetings of Mrs. Pankhurst while the latter was in Toronto.

Mr. Kenneth B. McCrimmon proved himself to be a financier of the school of Thomas Aquinas. Ren purchased tickets at an advanced price, and after all the worry and trouble of finding a purchaser, allowed his kind heartedness and generosity to overcome his financial interests, and sold his tickets, at under the rules of canon law, without interest.

Mr. Douglas E. McVannell, post laureate of The Varsity, was seen striding along the campus the other day, thinking out, we supposed, some new literary fabrication for The Varsity. Upon inquiry, however, it was discovered that Mr. McVannell intends publishing a new literary work, to be entitled "The gate to Heaven and Hell." This topic of literary embellishment was suggested to the mind of the author by his interest in the recent amalgamation of the V.M.C.A. and the Undergraduates' Union.

APPLIED SCIENCE

About 1500 awaited the works of the opportunity of visiting the works of the Lacawanna Steel Co. on Wednesday last. Prof. Hain and Mr. Louder accompanied the boys. They were shown through the plant in parties of fifteen, spending about four hours in the vicinity of young steel rails and hats. Later, they assembled at Stutler's restaurant to appease the full-blown varieties of hunger pangs.

"Modern Aspects of the Sewage Disposal Problem" is the subject upon which Mr. T. Aird Murray will speak at the general meeting of the Engineering Society on Wednesday afternoon.

Those who attended the U.T.R.A. dinner at Williams' eat on Thursday evening heard addresses from Pres. Falconer and Col. Sam Hughes. The winners of prizes during the rifle season received, of course, something more than the meal. It is creditable to the Faculty of Engineering that most of the prize-winners were "School" men, and it is to be hoped that the interest taken by them in this useful line of sport will continue to increase.

Third year Science will hold an informal dinner in St. George's Hall on Friday. Tickets may be obtained from any member of "At Home" committee.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

Can anyone explain who bit our President on the left cheek? Although the act at present has been having a very serious time.

Thursday afternoon our soccer team went down to defeat in the final game with Victoria. This is the first time in history that the faculty team have succeeded in reaching the final series. They are to be congratulated on the good showing. The team wish to thank the students for turning out to witness the game, also Dean Pakenham, Dr. Coleman, and especially the lady students.

Wednesday evening, in the East Hall, the undergraduates returned the reception which the graduates favored them with early in the term. As men are scarce in our faculty, the Forestry students were invited. The evening was spent in the usual manner, refreshments, short programme and refreshments. Dean and Mrs. Pakenham, Dr. and Mrs. Coleman were present.

The V.M.C.A. Bible Study class was very poorly attended on Wednesday afternoon. Let us turn out and show Dr. Coleman that we appreciate his kindness in organizing the class.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

Friday evening the freshmen tendered their reception to the College. All admit that it was the finest reception this fall. The decorations spoke eloquently for the artistic taste of the freshmen. A happy innovation was that of serving punch throughout the evening from two pretty booths at each end of the hall. An excellent program was given. Dr. Horning, as Hon. President of the class, performed his duties in a most fatherly fashion.

For the first time in its history, Victoria College rugby team won the Mulock Cup. The final game was against Junior School, and was won by two points—48-46. At half time the score was 12-12 in favor of Vic, but in second half School hooked up and came close to winning. The game was largely a punting duel between MacKinnon and McPherson, the latter having the advantage. The lineup—McKenzie, Livingston, Jewitt, Duggan, Birt (capt.), Gaultier, L. Morrison, Ewing, Newton, Bataul, Gerrie, Morrison, Lovering, Campbell, Sparke-Cox, Macpherson. Referee—J. Pearson. Umpire—J. McDonald.

In honor of winning the Mulock Cup and Association championship, the Faculty of the College gave the teams an oyster supper at Aubrey Hall on Saturday evening. After the supper, Dr. Bell, as chairman, called upon the Chancellor and Prof. Langford for toasts to the Rugby and Association teams, respectively. These were responded to by Captains Birnie and Jewitt. Songs were given between speeches. Then all adjourned to the common room to be served with coffee by the V.C.A.C. Executive.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Mr. Ray, F.R.G.S., gave a very interesting illustrated lecture on "South America," as told by one who has spent many years there, travelling through free republics on horse.

A. G. Hooper was in college for the rugby game on Saturday.

Mr. Ryan of the second year is elected representative to Victoria "At Home."

An unusually large number from Wycliffe saw our champions win on Saturday.

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

The largest audience that has attended a University sermon this year heard Dr. Zwemer, travelling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, in Convocation Hall on Sunday. His address was evangelistic throughout, and the earnestness and earnestness of the speaker held his audience to the close. He took as his text Isaiah 42:8, and on this theme he preached a most missionary appeal.

VARSITY-QUEEN'S DEBATE

The annual debate between representatives of Queen's and Varsity will take place in Convocation Hall on Wednesday evening last year, so let us show them that we can do more than play rugby. Everyone should turn out and encourage the upholders of the blue and white.

WOMEN'S LIT.

The regular meeting of the Women's Literary Society was held on Saturday evening in the Students' Union. The following programme was given. A piano solo by the Misses Chapman, a vocal solo by Miss Dickson, '13, and a reading by Miss Keith, '12. The item of chief interest was an open debate. The subject was one of such vital interest to the women students that a most enthusiastic discussion followed and opinions were freely expressed by the majority of those present. The judges were three recent graduates, who found it difficult to award a decision.

The President announced that the next meeting, Dec. 11, would be the first debate of the inter-college series and will be between Victoria and University College.

The President of the Y.W.C.A. announced that the women students of University College have secured three extra delegates to send to Rochester. The girls who have been chosen as representatives are—B. Russell, '11, M. W. Robinson, '11, A. I. N. Ball, '12, M. Thompson, '12, M. Robertson, '13.

ADDRESS TO WOMEN STUDENTS

The Sunday afternoon Dr. Zwemer addressed the women students of Toronto at McMaster Hall. The subject which he spoke on was "Life in Mohammedan countries," and his address was most impressive and greatly appreciated by the large audience.

FALLING OFF AT LIT

A comparatively small attendance at the last meeting of the University College Literary Society for the Nicholas term evidenced a waning of interest in the constitutional struggle which for over a month has been engaging the Society's attention. The evening marked the final stage in that struggle. The committee, composed of representatives of both parties, appointed to consider a compromise of the Old Lit. constitutional proposals, reported that it had been unable to reach any settlement of the matter. This means that the Unionists have scored a victory in their opposition to the Old Lit. scheme of cabinet government, and for the present at least the matter will drop. Mr. Fleming, in explaining why he opposed the compromise, stated that a mass-meeting of the Unionist party had decided that the use of the minorities obtained by the Old Lit. party at previous meetings was insufficient to warrant the opposition in acquiescing to the principle of the scheme.

Vice-President McLeary, in commenting on the committee's report, stated that the government had no intention of letting the matter finally drop. The leaders of both parties expressed a desire to see the constitution made a subject of non-partisan discussion at the ensuing meetings.

The treasury was authorized to appropriate thirty dollars from the reserve fund with which to purchase stamps from the National Sanitarium Association, to lay sold to these desiring them. President Russell, Messrs. McLeary, Fleming, James Fry, and others endorsed the splendid work of the Sanitarium Association in combating the ravages of tuberculosis.

A resolution was passed commending Messrs. Sage and Fisher for their able manner in which they handled their side of the case in the debate with Kenna College.

Mr. Maclean-Napoleon entertained a vocal solo, which was enjoyed.

A CORRECTION

The Editor, "Varsity":

Dear Sir,—I wish to call your attention to several points in Varsity's report of Friday, the 10th, meeting of the Literary Society which are untrue.

The heading of your report has led many to believe that a compromise has been reached on the proposed constitution. The opposition stated emphatically in last week's meeting that no compromise could be considered until the minority met and decided to accept the principle of cabinet government as carried. This meeting has been held, and it decided not to accept that principle as carried.

Secondly, the statement that "the Government spring a surprise on the Unionist party by adopting an attitude of compromise" is more than misleading; it is false. The idea of a compromise or of the appointment of a joint committee to work out carefully the principle of cabinet government originated with a member of the Unionist party. Mr. Lyons suggested to Mr. McLeary that if it were possible to constitutionally adopt the new scheme by a bare majority vote, the most satisfactory way to settle the whole matter would be to accept the principle as carried and to appoint a joint committee to elaborate the system. Mr. McLeary then took up this suggestion, but he decided to leave the attempt to introduce the new constitution by a bare majority vote. He brought the compromise to the attention of several members of the opposition, and asked them to favor it. He refused to do this on the ground that we were opposed to the principle of cabinet government, and would not help work out that principle until the opposition would up to give way. Our decision regarding the compromise was given to Mr. McLeary at six o'clock last Friday evening. Then, when the leader of the opposition suggested his plan of amendment to the floor of the House, the opposition restated its position and insisted clearly that the question had already been considered. Thus the compromise was quite the reverse of a surprise, as opposition member originated the idea.

Finally, the statement that "at the previous meeting (Friday, 10th) proceedings had been brought to that point where it was possible to adopt the Old Lit. party's proposal scheme of cabinet government by a simple majority vote," is also a misrepresentation. At the very commencement of the meeting, the opposition raised the question of the constitutionality of the previous week's proceedings, but the President refused to decide the point until a definite vote should make a decision necessary. However, later in the evening when he was commenting on the minutes concerning committees for constitutional revision, he stated that it would not be possible to adopt the proposed constitution with a two-thirds majority in the Society. It is true that the old constitution had been formally restored by that time; if it had been previously suspended in a constitutional manner, there was nothing to prevent the government from suspending it again last week. However, the President's statement makes it clear that the new constitution could not have been adopted except by a two-thirds majority.

THE VARSITY

VOL. XXIX.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3rd, 1909.

No. 17

"THROWN, B'GOSH!"

NO CHANGE IN THE VARSITY TEAM

Line-up Against Parkdale Will be Same as Defeated Ottawa Last Saturday—Large Crowd Expected

The Varsity team to play Parkdale, Canada Club, to-morrow afternoon at Rosedale, in the final game for the Dominion championship, will be the same one that gave Ottawa a hot and a beating last Saturday. The team has had a light practice every afternoon this week, and will go on the field in perfect condition.

The game should be a good one, as Parkdale has been playing stirring football all season in the O.R.F.U. Varsity while expecting an easy victory, are not going to take things easily, and will try to repeat last week's performance of clobbering the game in the first five minutes.

Parkdale has a fast, heavy wing line, but her back field is weak, especially in catching. It is not a strong tackling team, and if the Varsity team gets going as it did last Saturday it should have no difficulty in piling up a score. The Parkdale team is well drilled and has a number of trick plays, but it is doubtful if they will be able to work them against the strong Varsity line.

Varsity will work hard to keep her line from being crossed, while all Parkdale want to do is to put up a better fight than Ottawa did. Although the result is almost a foregone conclusion, it would seem from the sale of tickets that a great many people are desirous of having another view of Canada's greatest team in action.

The Varsity yelling and singing which was so very successful last Saturday will be repeated, and Parkdale will bring up a big bunch of rooters, who promise to make things interesting if they are given a chance to root.

The widespread interest in last Saturday's big game is shown by the fact that on Sunday, in a Montreal Presbyterian church, one of the by-gones given out was No. 380. The author is John Newton, and the first two lines read: "Said I through another week God has led us on our way." This act of kindness is very much appreciated by all Varsity students. For Ottawa's benefit the text should have been: "Comfort ye, comfort ye my people. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem and cry unto her that her warfare is accomplished."

MEETING OF THE ENGINEERING SOCIETY

T. A. Murray C. E., Spoke on "Modern Aspects of Sewage Disposal"

At a meeting of the Engineering Society, on Wednesday afternoon, Mr. T. A. Murray spoke of up to date of 300 students, upon "Modern Aspects of the Sewage Disposal Problem." In his address Mr. Murray explained the importance of the problem by asserting that during the past forty years about $500,000,000 have been expended by Great Britain, Germany, and the United States in this work.

"Sewage disposal aims, not at entirely removing bacteria from sewage, but rather at destroying any micro-organisms left in the bacteria to feed upon, thus making it possible for any community to utilize the water for drinking purposes. The principle underlying the problem is this: Every community requires a certain amount of water to be harvested from Nature, and it is its duty toward to return it to nature, as pure as when received, or as nearly so as possible."

The process of mechanical filtration was fully described, the sewage undergoing straining to remove visible impurities, sedimentation, rising of 60 to 70 per cent. of suspended matter; and finally systematic filtration, which is a chemical treatment, sprinkling water, but still sewage, nevertheless, teeming with disease-producing bacteria, and liable to fermentation. A further chemical treatment is required to render it non-pollutant.

A number of interesting slides were shown, illustrating European and American installation, together with many practical pointers regarding the construction.

Mr. Murray, it will be remembered, is a member of the Can. Soc. of Civil Engineers, and governmental consulting engineer for Saskatchewan, and is a splendid authority on the subject.

Dr. Oldright, an ex-member of the Board of Health, was also present, and made a few remarks as to the advances made in Ontario in this line during recent years.

QUEEN'S DEBATE TO-NIGHT

The Varsity-Queen's debate will be held to-night in Convocation Hall. The Varsity debaters, J. L. Duncan of University College, and E. A. Baker, of Trinity, uphold the affirmative of the subject: "Resolved, that Canada, instead of building her own ships, should contribute direct to the British navy." This is the first year that the Undergraduates' Parliament has taken part in the Varsity debates. A large number ought to turn out to support our debaters.

"TORONTONENSIS 1910"

"Torontonensis 1910," while embodying some new features, will be the most comprehensive of its kind ever issued. In addition to the facilities represented in former year books, there will be the Faculty of Forestry and the graduating classes in theology at Knox and Victoria. In all probability, St. Michael's College will for the first time have a separate department.

As it is the wish of the management to go to press as soon as possible, it will be absolutely necessary that all material should be handed in to the editor by Dec. 15th.

THE ARTS DINNER

The Arts dinner will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m., in the Temple Building. Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King will be the speaker. The tickets are $5.00, and may be obtained at the auditor's office or from any member of the committee. A good musical programme will be provided.

WOMEN'S NOTES

The second regular meeting of the Modern Language Club will be held in room 66, at 4 o'clock, Monday, Dec. 6, 1909. The subject will be "Some German Patriotic Poets." There will be three short papers, some readings and songs.

The second annual conference of the Student Volunteer Union of Toronto was opened on Friday afternoon in the Physics Building, and closed on Sunday evening in Convocation Hall. Although the attendance was not as large as at the previous Conference, the programme was decidedly good and inspiring.

On Friday afternoon the subject was the Bani as a unit of organization. After a Bible reading by Dr. McTavish, papers were read and discussed. On Friday evening a mass meeting was held in Convocation Hall, with Dr. White and Mr. Shore, as two exceptionally strong speakers. On Saturday morning, again in the Physics Building, Dr. Galloway led the devotional exercises, and addresses were given by Mr. Atkinson of Broadview Boys' Institute, and Miss Elwood of Leominster, both of their work. In the evening a banquet was held in a downtown cafe, at which a number of bright, bird at species were made. On Sunday afternoon, Dr. Ziesner addressed a mass meeting for women, in McMaster Hall. The closing meeting on Sunday evening was held in Convocation Hall. Dr. McKiv was in the chair and Dr. Sutherland was the chief speaker. Brief messages were also given by twenty-two missionaries, urging volunteers and foreign students.

The Women's Notes for to-day were too late for publication. The notes in to-day's paper were those intended for Tuesday's, but were handled in too late for it.

FULL ATTENDANCE AT FORESTERS' CLUB

Discuss Forest Survey in Nova Scotia.—Dean Fernow and Dr. Howe Speak

The Foresters' Club held a regular meeting on Thursday, Nov. 25th. Thirty men were present and Mr. Ellis occupied the chair. Mr. de Lotbiniere was elected member from the third year, to the Undergraduates' Parliament. This move was necessitated by the increase of the registration in year lists.

The subject of the evening was the forest survey of Nova Scotia, conducted during the summer by three members of the staff. Dean Fernow gave an outline of the nature and purpose of the survey, which it was important to grasp correctly. One view of the nature of a forest survey had left the Survey Department of New Brunswick to estimate the cost of a forest map of that province at $500,000, whereas Dr. Fernow had stated to them that a survey such as they really required should cost only $100,000. In Nova Scotia he had been able to demonstrate the feasibility of this, so he had prepared a map of a large portion of that province even cheaper than at first calculated. The map showed a correct average of forest conditions as ascertained through personal inspection and interviews with well-informed local men. It was intended to serve as a guide to the government of Nova Scotia in the formation of forest policies and in the administration of forest lands.

Dr. C. D. Howe told interestingly of details of the daily work. Many interesting incidents occurred among the woodlands settlers, and various experiences were recounted as a result of the various modes of travel employed, viz., walking, canoeing, etc.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The suggestion of an informal dinner is being dealt with by the second year. The following men constitute the executive committee to make preparations—Griffith, Warburton, Lawless, McBeth, Saville, Freeman and Miller. It is expected that the event will take place before the end of the present term.

Until further notice, tickets for the University seniors will be distributed from the supply department, after Thursday noon of each week.

Even after all that has transpired during the past month there are, of course, many who still delight in speculating upon the future of the University (let us take it upon ourselves to observe) we have absolutely no disregard for the opinions of Mr. McNeill, Jr., who is present to witness the hanging of the University property the other night, but we are not so easily swayed in our opinions as to be easily swayed in evening dress attire. We appreciate his brightness, but still ponder. Does not such good increase the grievousness of the offence?

At the N.E.S. Y.M.C.A. dinner, at Williams' cafe on Wednesday evening, about 150 members were present. After the toast was shared, Prof. Angus, the Hon. Pres. of the Society, gave a short discourse. Prof. De Lury also made a brief speech. Musical talent was presented by Messrs. Blackwood, Smith and Rowe. Mr. McElhinney had charge of the event.

MEDICAL NOTES

It was very fortunate that the fire which started at the medical building last Monday evening didn't happen a few days previously during the recent carnival days when the storm of course was being against the cause of the fire. The fire started just about a time the firemen would have been in checking the flames, if they were being waited in every direction by the inflammable atmosphere floating all through the atmosphere in every room.

Dr. Ansell must have been pleased at the reaction he got on Monday on his first appearance in the lecture room after his recent illness. Every body is glad to see him back again.

There appears to be a rule which forbids students smoking anywhere in the medical building except in the smoking room itself. That this rule applies even beyond the limits of the smoking room, was shown the other afternoon when a certain professor opened a third year midwifery class in the lecture room, accompanied by a lighted cigarette. The scene that followed was pathetic, it was indeed.

Think of it. Only a few days more and the fall term is over. How the time flies! No wonder students notice how quickly the two final years pass. We all the third year have noticed the phenomenon already.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Wycliffe College is sending its full number of delegates (ten) to the Rochester Convention.

Invitations are out for the College "At Home," which is to take place on the evening of Friday, Dec. 17th.

The Risk and Hockey Association met on Tuesday. The decided success of our rink last year led no doubt to the minds of the boys that similar arrangements should be made for this year. The following executive was chosen.—President, D. Mitchell Vice, President, T. S. Hamilton Secretary, R. W. J. Christie Committee—R. Matheson, A. R. McKee, W. McQueen, G. Grant.

The representatives to be sent to the Rochester Convention are as follows.—J. R. Saderson, W. Scott, R. Matheson, T. A. Arthur, H. A. Boyd, W. McKee, C. W. Grant, M. Staples and A. L. Schall.

That Professor McFadyen is much beloved by his students is well known in college circles. Much appreciation and attachment found its full expression when a couple of weeks ago the possibility of losing him was suggested by the news that Professor George Adam Smith was about to vacate the chair of O. T. in Glasgow to become President of the University of Aberdeen. In hopes that it might influence Prof. McFadyen in case he was asked to consider this new position, but also that he might know the living of his students towards him. This resolution was drawn up expressing personal attachment and appreciation of the value of his highly spiritual interpretation of the Old Testament. This was read to every student connected with the college and presented last week. That it was received in the spirit it was given was evidenced in the feeling reply in which Prof. McFadyen warmly thanked the students. In that the gentle and truly Christian spirit so characteristic of him, he promised that whatever the future developed, he would seek the pleasant path to duty.

TRINITY COLLEGE

The basketball series did not begin till Wednesday, as the gymnasium was in the hands of the victorians. The first game was between Trinity and the freshmen. The score was 12-36 in favor of the freshmen.

We regret to state that C. C. Willard is sick with symptoms of typhoid, but we trust that nothing serious will develop.

A college meeting was held on Tuesday in connection with the publication of a song book.

VARSITY DOXERS VISIT TRINITY

The electric lights have now been installed in the gymnasium at Trinity and were used for the first time by the Varsity Club on Tuesday evening. Professor Williams, the University instructor, early down with live to his pupils, with most ally second in line in leading the class. At the end of the evening two of the Varsity men gave a sparring exhibition, and this was followed by several live bouts between Trinity men and their visitors.

band began to be heard, but it was little and the youths of Varsity did draw the sound. And Clancy did have a little talk with the referee, feeling that the game should be handed to him on a silver platter.

13. And when they were piled one upon another there were many Varsity men among them. And they did level Ritchie to be light like other men, but he would not. And the ball was as a drop in a bucket.

14. And the men of Ottawa were as ear-chores and as creeping things for to equal an Act of Parliament to make them run fast, for they could not come high unto Varsity. And Lawson being heretofore did rush and he did carry Stronach with him and he did make a touchdown.

15. And the hoof of Ritchie did strike the ball and the ball did go even between the goalposts, and it fell suddenly even as Clancy's expectations.

16. And it was so even as I have had prophesied, and the valiant of Varsity did paint the town, yet was not anyone plastered. And they did level Ritchie a nice backseat at the King Edward.

THE EVOLUTION OF VARSITY'S CAPTAIN

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO WINS THE DOMINION CHAMPIONSHIP

Final Rugby Game with Parkdale on Saturday Ended 26-6 for Varsity. —Large Crowd Present and Interest Keen

Parkdale Canoe Club surprised everybody—themselves included—by the excellent game they put up against Varsity on Saturday. While the final score was 26-6, the West End players held the Canadian champions down to a one-point lead in the first half, and in fact until the last quarter Varsity was not able to make a runaway race of it.

It was a fairly good exhibition of football, but not so interesting to the spectators as the match of a week ago. Many people went to Rosedale last Saturday expecting to see Varsity run up a tremendous score, but they came away disappointed. For while the champions outclassed the Paddlers at all times, the latter put up such a strong defensive game that a large score was impossible.

As in the game against Ottawa, Varsity started with a rush and soon had the ball close to the Parkdale line, but the Canoe Club men were not caught napping as were the Ottawas, and Varsity was held for three downs within five yards of the Parkdale line. And so it was throughout the afternoon. The ball was continually in Parkdale territory, but the excellent holding of the wing line, combined with the cutting and running of Brady, prevented Varsity from scoring.

The Varsity team did not play nearly up to their form of a week ago. The men had not the same fire. In the game against Ottawa, Varsity gave the snappiest exhibition of football ever seen on a Canadian gridiron, but against Parkdale the team, with the exception of four or five, seemed to have little interest in the game. They were slow in forming up for scrummages, and did not help the men carrying the ball as they have been doing all season. Then the wings did not hold as they should have, and the backs did a lot of unnecessary nuffing. However, these failings can all be overlooked in view of the result, but, as many to put up after the game, "Just suppose Varsity had played like that against Ottawa."

Newton's, but they usually got the man.

Brady at full-back was the best man on the Parkdale team. Except in the first few minutes his catching was excellent, and in the last quarter he gave as fine an exhibition of running back kicks as has been seen here this year. Kinsley at centre half and Jim Dietz at quarter were also good.

Leonard, who by the way is a medical student, played a strong game at centre scrumming for the Paddlers, while Meghan and Barber were towers of strength on the wing line. The latter showed great skill in capturing Lawson and kept the great half-back from pulling off his famous plunging runs until the last few minutes of play.

Taken as a whole, the game was a disappointment from a Varsity standpoint. The University team should have run up a higher score, and had they played the class of football they did against Ottawa they would have had much credit to the Parkdale for the game they put up. They were a team well up to senior football, playing against perhaps the strongest opposition the Dominion has ever seen, and while outclassed they put up a great defensive game.

Saturday's victory gives Varsity the Dominion championship for 1909. The team has had an excellent season and the Varsity takes this opportunity to congratulate Capt. Jack Newton, Mr. Griffith, and all the players for the way they have upheld the name of the University in the athletic world.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

Dixon did excellent work all through the game, especially in recovering loose balls.

Gail had rather an off day, particularly in fumbling the ball, but he made some brilliant plays.

Jawson did not nearly as much to do as usual. However, he showed that he was capable of it in his spectacular run at the last of the game.

Newton, who has shown the most consistent record for all season, again starred on Saturday. His work seemed to improve with each game, it such a level as possible.

Brady again demonstrated the fact that he is no superior in Canada at quarter-back. He did some fine work looking after Parkdale's outside kicks. Ritchie played his usual steady game. He is useful not only for his own good work but from the spirit he puts into his play, which cannot fail to please life into the rest of the team.

Jimmy Bell put up a wonderful game, though bothered by his sore riple. He was always right on the ball.

Rankin has more than earned a place for himself on the team. Two or three times, he managed to break through and tackle the Parkdale halves where they could do anything with the ball, which is a remarkable performance for a scrumming man.

Kingsdale did all he had to do and did it well. He is not at all spectacular, but he is always to be relied upon.

Before had a busy afternoon and acquitted himself most creditably. It is a very fortunate thing for the team that he will be available again next year.

Murray Thompson again showed himself to be the equal if not better than any outside wing in the business. He has every qualification for a great player, and in view of the fact that this is his first year in rugby, his work is nothing short of marvellous.

Muir can claim the distinction of being the first inside wing in the country. In Saturday's game, as in that of the week before, he was the first man down on the ball almost every time. No opposing wing line this season has been able to hold him back.

Hume shows wonderful tackling ability for a man his size and weight. He is also without a peer at stopping backs.

Game played the best game of his career on Saturday. He followed up well and tackled perfectly, and in addition caught the ball and ran it back for good gains on several occasions.

INCIDENTS

Murray Thompson's touch was a feature of the game. He got over by turning a back somersault after he had been tackled almost on the line.

Hume caused some amusement when he tackled one of the Parkdale halves on the touch line, bringing down Dr. Biggs, who was officiating as touch-line judge, at the same time.

Lawson, when he scored his touch line down at the game, carried one of the Parkdale men on his back for about ten yards.

DEATH OF POPULAR '08 SCIENCE GRADUATE

Mr. John Moleworth Succumbs to Injuries Sustained in a Bicycle Accident

John C. P. Moleworth, a graduate of the Faculty of Applied Science, who while riding his bicycle last week ran against a wagon load of pipes, died on Thursday at the home of his father, Mr. W. P. Moleworth, 99 St. Joseph street. For some hours after the accident it was believed he was not seriously injured, but it developed later that he had sustained a severe fracture of the skull.

Deceased, who was in his 22nd year, was very popular in his year and faculty, and widespread regret was expressed at Varsity when the news of his death was known.

The funeral, which took place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, was attended by a considerable number of the deceased's undergraduate friends.

THE RUGBY DANCE will be held in

THE GYMNASIUM

ANNUAL VIC. CONVERSAT. WAS A BIG SUCCESS

About 1,000 People Attended, and Everyone was Well Entertained

Friday evening the whole of Victoria College was thronged upon the annual conversations, when the students and faculty joined in entertaining their friends. In all, there were about a thousand present. The decorations were very artistic, and the music, furnished by two orchestras, one on the ground and the other on the top floor, was excellent.

From 9 to 10 two very high-class concerts were carried on simultaneously in the chapel and in Alumni Hall. The contributing artists were Misses Brecher-Adamson, Lois Winslow, Eugene Oschen, Kathleen Pocock, Messrs. Norman Murch, J. J. Albert E. David, Robert Sear, Pigeot, and the Victoria College Glee Club under the direction of Mr. J. M. Shierlock.

Before the concert a reception was held in the chapel by the patronesses, Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Falconer, Mrs. Burwash, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. McLaughlin, Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. Fudge, Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Cyrus JUDGE.

The committee is deserving of the highest praise for the way everything was carried off. E. G. Saunders, B. Sedgwick, W. E. McDuffie, hon. secretary, J. J. Pearson, to treasurer, J. V. MacKinnon, to Mr. A. W. Burt, to Mr. Morrison, to Mr. H. Whitling, to Mr. K. Dick, to Mr. C.

Messrs Duncan and Baker put up a Strong Case Against a Navy

The inter-university debate between Queen's and Toronto, which was held in Convocation Hall on Friday evening, was won by the Kingston team, consisting of Messrs. P. L. Jell and G. E. Telford. Varsity was ably represented by Messrs. J. L. Duncan, J. O. University College, and E. A. Baker, B.A., of Trinity. A very fair audience turned out, and was well repaid by the excellence of the addresses. But in spite of all the arguments advanced by the Toronto representatives against the advisability of a Canadian navy, the judges were unconvinced, and the award went to the Queen's debaters, who showed that Canada should build a navy of her own.

The subject was:—Resolved, that Canada, instead of building her own ships, should contribute money direct to the British navy." Varsity had the affirmative and Queen's the negative. The judges were Messrs. J. A. Cooper, J. A. Egan and R. J. McLaughlin.

In giving the judges' decision, Mr. McLaughlin remarked that the affirmative excelled in literary polish, while the negative excelled in the matter of essential, "striking force." The affirmative had contended that a money contribution to Britain would insure unity, efficiency and economy in naval arrangements. These arguments, the judges contended, had been more than offset by the affirmative contention that a Canadian navy would be a permanent asset to Britain's sea power, and not a financial burden to be broken at the whim of a politician. Such a navy would also arouse national enthusiasm as nothing else could.

During the evening excellent instrumental selections were rendered on the piano by Scritto Castriani, and on the cornet by H. E. Hartney.

SPLENDID LECTURE PROMISED

Attention is again drawn to the lecture to be given Wednesday evening, Dec. 8th, at 8:15, in the Physics Building by Mr. H. H. Hogarth, M.A., of Oxford University. Mr. Hogarth is known as one of the ablest scholars and archaeologists in Great Britain. His own work in the field as an explorer and excavator has won him wide recognition.

Mr. Hogarth has consented to address the members of the Classical and Oriental Associations (probably) Thursday afternoon at 4:30 in West Hall. All members of the University are invited to attend.

SECOND CLASS RECEPTION

The class reception of the third year, University College, which was held in the West Hall on Friday, Saturday afternoon was a very pleasant and successful function. Mr. Murray Thompson, who was in charge, was a little late in appearing owing to the fact that he spent most of the afternoon playing a sensational game against Parkdale on Varsity's championship wing line.

HAIL TO THE DOMINION CHAMPIONS!

The Rugby football season has closed, leaving the University of Toronto on the dizzy eminence of Dominion championship for the first time since the memorable victory of Casey Baldwin in 1905. Too much praise cannot be lavished upon Captain Newton, Coach Griffith and the team for the splendid success with which they have gone through the entire season. Every player has trained hard and consistently, and each greeting contest in which the team has engaged has shown the student athletes to be gentlemen as well as men of brave and skill. And not only are the members of the team deserving of credit, but also the spares and seconds, who assisted so materially in the easy wearisome practices.

The winning of the Canadian championship has benefited the University of Toronto in more ways than may be easily reckoned. It is to be hoped that in future years Varsity's teams may be as skillfully generalised and as heavily patronised as the present champion fourteen of whom everyone is justly proud.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM: MCGILL

On behalf of the Dominion champions, we sincerely appreciate the following expression of kindly feeling from the "McGill Martlets":—

Once again, after an interval of three years, has the Dominion Football Championship been won by an Intercollegiate team. Ever since that memorable play in the fall of 1905, when Toronto Varsity, under the leadership of Casey Baldwin, defeated the Ottawa Rough Riders, it has been asserted that College football has been going down hill, and once again it has fallen to the lot of Varsity to prove, over the corpse of the sell-some Rough Riders, that the football teams of the Intercollegiate are unexcelled in any other league.

We at McGill can tender to Toronto University our heartiest congratulations and unstinted praise, and at the same time pat ourselves on the back and feel proud of the fact that McGill was the only team to defeat Toronto this season.

Varsity won the championship through the all-round excellence of her team. A steady wing, supported by a brilliant back division, proved too strong for the unreliable Ottawa team, and the score of 31 to 7 is sufficient to show that the victory was no fluke. It seems as though the standard of Intercollegiate football is not quite so low as the carping critics in the daily papers would fain have us believe.

So here are our congratulations to "Varsity." If we cannot have the Dominion Championship ourselves, there is no team we would rather see win than Varsity.

VARSITY AND MONTHLY

Only undergraduate subscribers to The Varsity receive the University Monthly this year. Those subscribers to The Varsity who wish to take the Monthly must communicate directly with Professor McEwen, acting Secretary of the Alumni Association. Liberal commutation rates are offered to those who receive either new subscriptions or renewals of old subscriptions to the Monthly. All information can be obtained from Professor McEwen at the Physics Building.

OLD COUNTRY NOTES

From our own correspondent

I have waited till the inevitable has happened—till the House of Lords have taken the unprecedented step of refusing to pass the year's supply. Every day till January we shall have speeches galore. One party declare that the Lords must be cided or mended, the other fervently cry: "Thank God we have a House of Lords." The one party has landed us with a bill for 166 million pounds; the other admits that it must be paid, but want to pay it themselves. How the immediate election will turn out is as open a question as it is probable that we shall see the good old days of '85 again, and a government dependent on the Irish vote. The wigs are on the green already. Redmond has publicly demanded a pledge of Home Rule from Mr. Asquith as the price of his support. If this pledge is interpreted in the Irish sense of Home Rule, it will split the party as the price of his support. Home and Grey are pledged by the whole of their political life to the supremacy of the Imperial parliament.

If a moderate measure like the last Irish Council's Bill is promised, the Irishmen will reject it. If no pledge is given at all, next the Liberal party. Now for the Unionists. The general feeling of the more moderate of them is that they have made a great mistake. Imagine the next session of the Liberals, and they gone on as before. With Welsh disestablishment, a fourth Education Bill, and a possible Home Rule measure, they would have run on the rocks in no time. Now they have the opportunity of generations. In spite of all this and looking ahead, I hold it as absolutely certain that Tariff Reform is gaining ground. A previous prophecy of mine is, I venture to think, gradually in way of fulfillment. The Tariff Reformers have already some working dates, and the secretary of the Labour party said to an acquaintance of mine: "We were fools not to let it up from the first." Only the impatience of the wilder spirits has postponed their victory by taunting the Unionists in the ambush of the Lord's vote. But the historian Lecky was right when he said that you always have to account for a Liberal government holding power in England: the people are naturally conservative, rational, and practical, and these are the limit of "the stupid party's" virtues.

The visit of the King of Portugal recalls the way in which political influences influence social habits. For once a century our ancient alliance with Portugal made port the wine of the English gentry; the treaty of 1860 with France started claret. To come, we may be drinking Australian Burgundy as the effect of a preference for wine have to pay a price for our imperials.

REFLECTIONS OF A JUNIOR?

If life were but a shadow, a reflection, And we were shades upon the sheet of time, Impelled in this and now in that direction By mystic fingers of a power sublime; Had we no option but to quietly follow The path suggested by the powers That be, Each selfish combining with its several little To form a scene of graceful harmony; Then, then, to have a part in such a play Would unite alone the late of being a shade. Proportion even there would hold its sway— The complement of every man's a maid. —A Sibbald.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

Mr. W. Shortred, B.A., '09, left Toronto last Friday evening bound for the West, where he has secured a position.

Several articles were left out of this column last week owing to lack of space, but one question, owing to its importance, demands repetition—why does Mr. Norman A. McLarty wear wing collars?

While the members of the Old Lit. party thank the offender for his good intentions, they nevertheless feel duty bound to ensure that member who stole a copy of the Constitution of the Women's Literary Society from Queen's Hall, with the idea of aiding the government in promulgating its new constitution.

Mr. H. W. Lyons represented University College, and Mr. S. Allan the Varsity Board at the Victoria College "At Home" Friday evening.

Another of the evils of the present system of lining up for the University of Toronto, and Mr. S. Allan was brought to our attention. It was while in line for the Ottawa game that Mr. Langdon Ellis fell from the line. He has been the last to yield himself into the horrible "swarm of brain-killer-motocycle." (Writes to Mr. Beckett, replying to Stroller in third issue of Varsity.)

A party of three and fourth year men had luncheon at the Queen's Hotel one day last week. That afternoon they occupied three upper boxes at Shea's theatre, where they were the happy recipients of a special programme by Miss Jessie Wynn. It is rumoured that thanks is due to some of the supporters of the Ottawa Rugby team for that day's delightful entertainment. For the after-effects of the Parkdale game watch this column, although it is reported that "this night" that quarter of the city "is tight."

Mr. Allen Thompson McKay was seen around the Halls on Friday. It is said that he stayed long enough to secure a Latin text-book, but we have no proof of this fact.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Deep regret has been expressed throughout the Faculty of Engineering upon hearing of the death of J. C. P. Molesworth, '08, who was fatally injured on Thursday by his wheel colliding with a loaded wagon. Mr. Molesworth was an honor man in the architectural course, and since graduation has held a splendid position with a downtown firm of architects. His death on Thursday was due to fracture of the skull and hemorrhaging of the brain.

U. OF T. ELECTRICAL CLUB

Mr. Porter presided over a very enthusiastic meeting on the evening of Thursday last, when L. T. Rutledge, '09, presented a paper entitled, "Modern Electric Train Control." The paper dealt with such systems as series-parallel control of street cars, multiple-unit control of electric trains and the control of such alternating current systems as that of the City tunnel and of various European installations. Finally, a brief description was given of braking systems in use at the present time. The paper was freely discussed by Messrs. Guley, Cunningham, Odell, Schwenger and others. About thirty members attended the meeting. It was announced that the club would hold an excursion on Saturday next to visit the city pumping station at the foot of John street.

The Industrial Chemical Club held a dinner at the St. Charles on Friday evening. The subject for discussion was "Soap Industry," papers being read by Messrs. Harris, Dohi, Menzies and Williams. The club then visited the Comfort Soap Works, West Toronto, on Saturday morning.

At the last meeting of the Engineering Society, Archibuteau Cody was present and spoke regarding Christmas stamps for sale to benefit the maintenance of the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst. Mr. Robertson, secretary of the Society, also made a brief speech.

suggesting methods of managing the sale campaign. Attention is now called to the fact that stamps are in the hands of the Society in the supply department. The various year representatives are cautioned to look after the selling, which should be taken up immediately, considering the short time remaining before the term closes.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mr. W. D. Black, Pres. of the Eng. Soc., who is bereaved of his mother. She died on Thursday last.

Someone has wisely suggested that a "best" would be much appreciated to direct and encourage the singing at the Engineering Society meetings. Such a factor would undoubtedly be "waving" in a good cause, and the glory resulting from his vibratory efforts would be well worth the sacrifice.

We are pleased that Mr. Leslie R. Thomson, '05, is with us again, having entirely recovered from his lengthy illness.

Room fourteen! Oh, you room fourteen! With glass on both sides and study between. How strange that you shelter some men that will shirk. The service you render to interesting work.

With a chair or a copper each tries a long pass, When "ring" from the door there rumbles some glass; Then follow apologies a dozen or more. From seniors that ne'er had to do it before.

Full well they all know if they don't head the call, They they'll have to work behind no door at all. So in Thermodynamics excitement is keen, In room fourteen, Oh, you room fourteen!

MEDICAL NOTES

Wouldn't it have been a dreadful shame if the Medical building had burned down completely.

The "At Home" Committee is rapidly completing arrangements for the annual "at home" in the gym on Wednesday night, Dec. 15th. Tickets are now on sale by the members of the committee. There are two representatives from each year on the committee.

The Professor of Physiological Chemistry, in a lecture a couple of days ago, speaking of caffeine, said he hoped that the habit of taking this drug prior to examination time would never gain a hold among Toronto students like it had in some American colleges. He said there were enough silly answers given to questions by the students already, and that if they once started using caffeine he could not tell what they would say.

The second open meeting of the Medical Society was held on Friday afternoon in the fourth year lecture room. There was a big attendance of students, and Dr. Binham was the speaker. He dealt with his subject, "Medical Ethics," in a comprehensive manner, and although the subject applied more to the men who are graduating in '10 than to the others, nevertheless men of all the years attended and were as interested as the seniors.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

Saturday evening the second of the inter-year debates was held. The subject that Canada should contribute directly to the imperial navy. G. C. Beckett, '11, and E. L. Danforth upheld the negative against R. E. Zimmerman '12, and W. B. Wiegand, '12, and were awarded the decision by the judges.

Saturday evening was also an action night at the "Lit." and from the interest shown their electioneering will greatly edify this week.

INTER-COLLEGE DEBATE AT WOMEN'S LIT.

Alumnae Bazaar Next Week —
Prof. Kilpatrick to Address
Y.W.C.A.

The Women's Literary Society will meet on Saturday evening at hall seven in the Union Room of the gymnasium. The first of the inter-college debates to be held between the women students of Trinity, Victoria and University College, will take place on that evening between Victoria and University College. The subject of debate will be "Resolved, that Canada should not have a navy of her own, but should contribute to the support of the British navy." Victoria will be represented by Miss M. Dawson and Miss C. Freeman, and University College by Miss L. Robinson and Miss C. Wright.

A CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

The Alumnae will hold a bazaar in Convocation Hall on Monday and Tuesday of next week, from three to ten o'clock. A great variety of possible Christmas presents will be offered for sale. Among other things, there will be calendars, post cards, views of the University, chess, banners and emblems in the college colors, and candy and bonbons of all descriptions.

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. was held on Tuesday in the Y.M.C.A. Building. The programme consisted of two short talks given by Mrs. Chant, the Honorary President, and Miss Bellinger, the intercollegiate secretary. The next meeting, which is the Christmas meeting and the last one held this year, will be addressed by Prof. Kilpatrick.

WESTERNERS, ATTENTION

The annual banquet of the Western Club is to be held at the St. Charles cafe on Dec. 10th, at 6:30 p.m. The object of this club is to encourage a spirit of fraternity among the western students attending the University of Toronto, and to advance the interests of this University in the West. The speakers and guests of honor at the dinner are to be Pres. Falconer, Hon. Pres. of the Club, and Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior. All men from the West or interested in the above aims and speakers, are urged to attend. They will meet the other westerners, and not only keep the western spirit to the front, but form a circle of friends, many of which, like themselves, will be leaders in the West in years to come.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

The first German meeting of the Modern Language Club was held on Monday, Dec. 6th. An unusually large audience listened to a well-rendered German program. Three excellent essays were read by Miss Robinson '10, Miss Bain '11, and Mr. Murray '11. Miss Clarke '11 and Miss Nicholson '12 read several patriotic poems by Körner and Arndt. Three choruses given by the German singing class also proved a novel and interesting feature of the program.

UNIVERSITY SERMON

The University sermon on Sunday will be preached by Prof. Stahler Matthews, B.A., D.D., of Chicago University. Prof. Matthews was one of the strongest speakers heard at Convocation Hall last year.

SONGS AND SPEECHES AT ARTS DINNER

Sir Wm. Mulock Responds to Toast of the Empire—About 100 Present

The Arts Dinner was held yesterday evening in the North Building, and although the attendance was small, the function was a decided success. It is one can judge from the unwavering attention bestowed upon both the items of the menu and the post-prandial speeches, the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by every one present. A pleasant innovation was the singing, between courses, of college songs, which gave an additional touch of vivacity and informality to the program.

About one hundred undergraduates and guests sat down to the prettily decorated tables to partake of an excellent meal. Prof. Wrong acted as toastmaster and with him at the head table sat Sir William Mulock and Prof. Lloyd, the guests of honor, and the following gentlemen: Prof. Alexander, Dr. M. W. Wallace, Dr. Keeler, Prof. McGregor Young, Mr. T. A. Russell, president of the Lit., Mr. J. L. Ross, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Brown, Mr. Ford, Mr. Cleveland, Mr. H. H. Davis, Mr. Gillies, and members of the Dinner Committee. The chairman read a telegram from the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, deeply regretting his inability, owing to important cabinet business, to be present, and inviting to have the privilege of visiting the University on another occasion.

THE EMPIRE A DIVINE IDEA

After the toast to the King, Prof. Wrong rose to propose "The British Empire." The British Empire stood, he said, for a great divine idea. None could review the history of that Empire and the apparently accidental way in which its various parts had come together, without feeling that a beneficent Providence had been directing its destiny. It had been a champion of peace the world over, and we in Canada could hardly, at a time when preparation for war was going on, help looking back somewhat reluctantly to the time when provision for war had been unnecessary in this country. The great question of naval defence, however, was before Canada, and he trusted that the issue of it would be kept entirely apart from political partisanship. In introducing Sir William Mulock, he referred to the significance which he had done for the University of Toronto.

SIR WM. MULOCK

Sir William was greeted with applause and cheers when he rose to respond to the toast. He expressed his pleasure in being present and his interest in the welfare of the University. Amidst all the associations that recalled to him when speaking of the British Empire—its literary distinction, its powerful military resources, its vast extent, the chief thought was that it had ever stood for freedom; and in pursuit of this aim it has won the sympathy of the world. He had no apprehensions as to the future of the Empire. Though war scenes might arise, and ultimate tendencies show themselves in England, there was no doubt that the good sense and patriotism of the British people would counteract the effect of such tendencies. England was not standing still; the tree was still green and full of sap, and it would emerge from its crises stronger than ever. In travelling over the globe, one was forcibly impressed by the wide extent and diversity of countries and races beneath the British flag. It might happen that in the future, the centre of the Empire would shift to Canada. If so, what a responsibility is cast upon the young men of today in preparing for that position. "I am a man of peace, but I believe that until some higher and better method is devised, it is the duty of nations to prepare to protect themselves by physical means." In the present crisis, Canada's duty was to do her share in preparing for the defence of the Empire. The German war scare, however, would pass away. "The German taxpayers are becoming restless under this increasing burden of national armaments, and I believe the solution will come from that quarter. Till then, it is our duty to be prepared."

SCIENCE AND LETTERS

The toast to "Science and Letters" was proposed by Mr. K. N. Bell, B. Sc., of the London (freshman) is a find and will prove a valuable addition to the first year, as well as Simpson, who alone for the School team. They both have played the game with senior company before coming to Varsity, and know all the fine points of play. Line-up as follows:

Junior Arts—McGowan, McCutcheon, Mulock, Gorman, Brock. Junior School—Chubbuck, Cunningham, Leve, Torrance, Simpson. The second game was a shake better than the first, the play being closer and the numerous spectators more enthusiastic. In this game Senior Arts played on Senior School, and showed up well for the Engineers. Kister was the star. The game was a close one, scoring being 2-1. "Original High Guard" proved as expert in this game as in football, and together with Busby and Bohann, showed up well for the Engineers. Kister was the star. The game was a close one, scoring being 2-1.

A JOINT DINNER SUGGESTED

Mr. T. R. Russell, in proposing "The Universities of Canada," recommended that the Alumni Association and the Executive of the Lit. should unite to make the annual dinner a big point function which would give occasion for a meeting between graduates and undergraduates. He referred to the friendship between Toronto, McGill and Queen's, and to the great program which Toronto has made. We should see to it that the Government's policy towards the University is inspired. The male reference also to the rise of well-informed students in the West. Such a spirit speaks well for the future of this country. He hoped that the future would see in the University a closer blending of the theoretical and practical, and that the work of assisting those outside its walls would be extended.

References to this toast were also made by Messrs. Riley and Leadbeater, representatives respectively of McGill and Queen's.

President Falconer arrived late owing to a previous engagement, but in time to deliver a few illuminating remarks.

The gathering broke up at 10:45, after the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

Office of the Dinner Committee: Hon. chairman, Prof. Wrong; Hon. Treas., S. A. Cummer, B.A.; chairman, Dr. C. Calver, secretary, L. J. Macphail.

Two Sifton Cup Games Played off —Ladies for Play Under Men's Rules

The basketball season opened at the Gym on Tuesday, Dec. 7th, with two games in the Sifton Cup series. The splendid showing which was made by the senior team of last year, furnished a great impetus for the game, which is a comparatively new one about Varsity, and this new interest was shown in the two splendid games between the inter-faculty teams on Tuesday. This enthusiasm and support augurs well for another successful season for the champions of last year. Several of the old players were heard to remark that they never saw better basketball in the Gym. The scores indicate the closeness of play.

In the first game, Junior Arts were slightly superior to Junior School, winning by score of 30-22.

Brock, the London (freshman) is a find and will prove a valuable addition to the first year, as well as Simpson, who alone for the School team. They both have played the game with senior company before coming to Varsity, and know all the fine points of play. Line-up as follows:

Junior Arts—McGowan, McCutcheon, Mulock, Gorman, Brock. Junior School—Chubbuck, Cunningham, Leve, Torrance, Simpson.

The second game was a shake better than the first, the play being closer and the numerous spectators more enthusiastic. In this game Senior Arts played on Senior School, and showed up well for the Engineers. Kister was the star. The game was a close one, scoring being 2-1. "Original High Guard" proved as expert in this game as in football, and together with Busby and Bohann, showed up well for the Engineers. Kister was the star. The game was a close one, scoring being 2-1.

Senior Arts, Park, Manning, Kister, Velland, Wright. Sen. School—Doherty, Wright, Hosh, Galt, Brown.

"Duff" Wood referred both games.

THE LADIES' TEAMS CHOSEN

The University College girls have at last decided to play basketball under men's rules. This practice have been held in the men's gymnasium, and Monday night two teams were selected to play Evangeline on Wednesday night. The first team was chosen as follows: Centre, Miss Keir, '13, forwards, Miss E. Fairbairn '11 and Miss Curry '13 guards, Miss Anne Sutherland '10, and Miss A. Hunter '12. The second team included Miss M. Barry '11, Miss J. Starr '11, Miss Kerr '13, Miss J. Long '11.

AROUND THE HALLS

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

On Tuesday night a forbidding rail car, bearing the word SMALLPOX, appeared on the door of Mr. William McNally in the east residence. The first diagnosis, made by the patient himself with the aid of a Perina almanac, proved erroneous, and friends were led to learn that the malady was merely a bad case of Essays Economies, an epidemic which has recently made great ravages on third year Political Science men.

Mr. Douglas E. McVannell, '10, was in Guelph Thursday. He states no reason.

Mr. L. J. Jackson, B.A., '07, who is studying law in Edmonton, Alta., arrived in Toronto last Monday. Mr. John G. Pettigrew, an old member of the class of '13, visited Varsity friends this week.

Owing to a very respectable, yet an amusing accident on Tuesday evening, the editor of Varsity for the fall term was unable to edit this edition. The editor of the University, however, felt obliged to remain silent as to the details, since he heard of the matter in a purely confidential way.

Some of the members of the second year are zealously advocating a scheme that may sooner or later form a link in a political platform. They believe that before any examination is held it should be previously announced, instead of "springing the question" in lectures. Owing to the sudden and unexpected pressure of examinations, Mr. Norman J. McDougall, '12, was obliged to withdraw from a Spanish lecture through an alleged sudden indisposition, doubtless due to heart failure or over-excitement.

The Toronto Telegram is slanderously trying to destroy the noble dignity and grandeur of the Literary Society. It stated that the next subject for open debate would be: "Rebels and Newton is a greater half-buck than was Casey Baldwin."

The editor of Around the Halls most humbly apologizes to the faculty concerned for the grave offence of "vandalizing" Dr. V. E. Henderson and Prof. E. J. Kyle were overheard the other day while they were touring about the prospects of the Curling Club for the winter. Mr. Kyle was enthusiastically praising the game, when the medical man seriously replied: "Well, while I have not done much curling, I have had a lot of curling, and there is an 'r' of a difference."

After the cigars had been passed around at the Arts Dinner, Wednesday evening, one of the professors, had nerve enough to get up and speak about the evils of smoking. "Cigars are a bad thing anyway," he said, "especially bad cigars." We refuse to mention this gentleman's name.

Last week we said to watch this explanation for the other effects of the Parkdale rugby game. Unfortunately, money was tight in Parkdale, but still more unfortunately we report that the Dundas people had lots of money to back their players against the R.M.C. boys, who were supported by Varsity. The result is money is now tight at Varsity.

One of the Varsity staff was in the "Equus Club" the other afternoon, and was very much surprised to see that Mr. Bill Wood was absent.

Far Co-Rd. 1—Oh, Mr. McCannell, how you're looking very cute the other day.

McCannell—Oh of O.O.C.—Oh, yes, that was when I was on parade.

No, the Arts Dinner is certainly not dead. This year's function was a jolly lively affair, and no one who was present would have missed it for anything. One man at the close of the night took a member of the committee for having sold him a ticket—and he meant it.

A curious omission was noted at the Arts Dinner. There were toasts to the King and Empire, but none to Canada. No objection is taken to these two toasts, but surely the usual arate place to Canada. She deserves custom is better, which gives a seipit.

A well-known junior and a Wycliffe man rode in a taxi-cab to the opera not long ago. When they arrived at the theatre, the chauffeur bowed them out. He expected to see them proceed directly to a box. Imagine his surprise, therefore, when they began to climb the weary way to the "gods." Shakespeare and peanuts! Taxi-cabs and gods!

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

At a meeting of the Wycliffe Association held this week, the Hon. S. H. Blake gave an interesting account of his trip to South America. Though "his boys" may not all be in as thorough sympathy with his views as he would like, he nevertheless appreciated from Mr. Blake his candid explanation of the absence of the new Hyman Book in our chapel—an explanation which we had hitherto sought but in vain.

The second high tea was held on Tuesday evening. Mr. J. Harris, of the W. R. Brock Co., addressed the students on the relation of the clergy to the business man. G. A. Macdonald of Knox was also present, and though we should not all be in as thorough sympathy with his views as he was about to speak, we were in the end disappointed.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Braving cold and wind, the men of class '13 held a still, straight, and studious conference while the picture was on display at the church, his professional eye, on Wednesday afternoon. The steps in front of the Chemistry and Mining Building were never altered, it is said, so beautifully.

A lively game of basketball, the first game of the intercollegiate series, was played on Tuesday between Junior Arts and Junior School, resulting in a win for the former. Score, 20 to 27. The lineup of the Science men comprised Simpson, Turan, Chawke, Levy, and Canningham. There seems to be a fair amount for the Christmas stamps on the hands of Messrs. Tait, Jamieson, Faller, and Gallant. It is evident that many realize the importance of the sale, together with the ease with which one can dip down for a few, without materially increasing the probability of his having to walk home next week.

The members of the '10 class in mining say they spent Wednesday afternoon at the Princess. The play, "The Golden Bittern," which I have three times, to a man, cleave out that which suggests further study of the yellow metal!

As to the report of every eye in the faculty, the proposal formal opening of the thermodynamics and Hydraulics laboratories is not to be, the Board of Governors having refused to financially support the committee in whose hands the project rested.

The ordinary man does not hesitate in giving his place in a car to a lady, but who frequently and successfully seats three ladies where, a moment before, he himself enjoyed the posture, is nothing smaller than a man extraordinary. Hugh Ritchie, stand up! And he did.

The third year dance at St. George's Hall, on the evening of Wednesday, was a decided success and merited much praise for the committee. About 50 couples were present and endured about four hours' dancing in a manner which betokened their approval of the floor and music provided.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

A movement is on foot to appoint Mr. Archibald time-keeper at the coming discussion of the Literary Society's constitution.

A new feature in the course is observation in schools outside of the city of Toronto. This observation is to take place either at the close of this term or the beginning of next.

The following have been chosen to represent faculty at the Rochester Convention:—Dr. Coleman, Miss Brackton, B.A., Miss Cowan, B.A., Mr. Haynes, B.A.

A special meeting of the Literary Society will be held on Friday afternoon to discuss some special business.

MOCK PARLT. HDLOS ANNUAL SESSION

Many Scandals Unearthed and Measures of Reform Proposed

The annual Mock Parliament of the University College last evening and was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience of undergraduates and their friends. The Parliament is not, as its name might indicate, a solemn and serious affair, but the spirit of lightheartedness and humor. The object of its meeting collection of strangely parodied speeches, to throw the limelight on the idiosyncrasies of well-known undergraduates and others, and to afford the necessary antidote to our accustomed academic gravity.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, Speaker Ever Fanning Roney mounted the throne. He was followed by the Premier, leader of the Opposition, members of parliament, escorted by the hangers-on. When the members had taken up their seats, Premier Gladys Allende, MacDonald, R. D. arose amid thunderous applause and delivered a notable speech, apologizing to the audience, to advise should the audience require the aid of a microscope in perceiving his point. He was followed by Opposition Leader Neil Burns, Tully, A.M.O., C.P.D., who centered the premier's remarks, and with several suggestions for regulation in Parliament, including the establishment of a chair for framing of utterances, his ringer. An animated controversy between two Scotch members of the House, Lord of the Heather Douglas, S.D.L. and Amintore Mammy Muller, D.V. did not allow of a further from the audience, a resolution that Fred Water-Markham member for Beetham and Lapech, hostile to education, gave rise to a fierce protest from Alex. Don't Ask Warren, who happened to be present to defend the cause of the words. Mr. Another Party Party's bill to provide a grand-tantrum (it is not steam-heating, not of no consequences. In order to avoid a further explanation, a resolution of early adjournment of the house was warmly received and passed off without comment.

Spas of the next morning of the many other members introduced in the interior of the student body and the economic part of an strong members for their long and tedious. T. Y. R. D., Minister of Free Trade, Free Beer and Free Lunches, Hon. F. C. G. H. D. V., Minister of Education, Hon. F. C. G. H. D. V., Minister of Home and Trade, Hon. F. C. G. H. D. V., Minister of Health, Scott, H. F. D. V., Minister of Public Works, Hon. F. C. G. H. D. V., Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, Hon. F. C. G. H. D. V., Minister of the Government and Opposition. There should not be omitted, however, of Official Photographer Lloyd, Post Laureate Radio Graham Richards and Carol Edmunds.

Some of the important measures of the Parliament are contained in the "Facing Bill," which addressed that triumph of modern journalism, the opening of all matters in the opening proceedings printed and in the hands of the operators themselves. For this the editor, Mr. C. M. W. is entitled to inspire a prayer.

The session was brought to a very personal piece by the final session.

ation of Premier Gladys Allende should be a member of the Opposition, Highland Mac, Lloyd, whose reason had collapsed under the pressure of being for support of militant suffragettes. Don't Ask Warren. The members of the House fled slowly and unceremoniously out to the funeral strains of "Auld Auld-A." The Mock Parliament Committee, at which the chairman was Mr. A. S. Orton, are to be congratulated on the success of the function as are all those who contributed to the evening's fun.

WHAT'S THE USE

Shorty Kirk With Freshman
Got his tickets for the game.
Got a long monomial epig,
(Got them all the same.)

Then he asked the last enchantress.
She accepted—jumped for joy.
While's heart went pit-a-patting.
Proud and happy boy.

Willie got a pretty pennant—
Got some flowers too,
Also yards and yards of ribbon.

Probably to the game he took her;
Loud and lustily he cheered,
Hence they worked in the gloaming.
—Ah, the worst is to be feared.

Listen to her conversation,
Most unattractive girl.
Not a word for little Willie,
All for Douglas King and Smirke.

Have she loved the game of football?
Big and strong the players were!
Men like these," she whispered softly,
"Simply furnished her."

Big men still are playing football,
While still she shakes his head,
Takes the last few minutes.
To the theatre next week.

35 MEN OUT AT FIRST HOCKEY PRACTISE

Varsity Will Have Strong Team—City Managers Looking for Material

The Varsity hockey team had about thirty-five men out at the first practice on Saturday afternoon at Alston street rink.

Tony Evans, Fred and McIsley of last year's team, and Coach, Richardson, Mulgrew, Armstrong and Gullie of last year's, were all in pretty fair shape and put up good exhibitions. Several line freshmen were tried out, and it looks as if there will be great difficulty in picking the two senior teams to represent the University this year.

It is hoped that all the hockey players registered in the University will get out with the college teams this year. With senior teams of the intercollegiate Union and the O.H.A., and intermediate and junior teams of the former body, there is room for everyone. The freshman rule does not apply to the team in the senior O.H.A., so first year men who imagine they have senior ability need have no fear of being neglected.

Much feeling has been aroused among the student body during the last few days over the action of certain managers of city teams who have had the nerve to come right into the University in their sports to induce University men to play with the city teams. These managers have made all kinds of statements, going so far as to say that in first year men, unless he has a strong pull with the management, will be given a chance on Varsity teams. They also have stated that Varsity players get the poorest kind of treatment from their management, and have promised all sorts of things to have the University men get out with their team.

College men should not tolerate such action on the part of these managers. There are too many senior teams. Toronto, this year, is the rush for players is very keen. But University hockey players should bear in mind that if they once play with an outside team without permission from the Athletic Directorate they are automatically disqualified from athletics all through their course. Varsity men are as well treated as players in any strictly superior team. The University has always stood for the very cleanest and strictest in the withering principle of life. All life is lived on faith. Faith in the invisible world is faith commercialized. Instead of being a superstition, faith is a belief in a spiritual power, that makes for the betterment of man. Though faith, a man reaches out to Jesus. It is one thing to believe in a Christology and a totally different thing to believe in Jesus as the supreme ideal, and to believe in Him when He says it is better for you when you are alone, to be alone more than to sinage yourself by giving up to a holy and ungodly temper. Faith in Jesus will teach us to do the things that He has commanded.

In closing, Prof. Matthews spoke of faith as the revealer of God. God is revealed to us not in an abstract principle, but as a person; not a process or an idea of God, but as the God of Jesus, who cares for Canada as He cared for Israel, who cares for us as He cared for the prophets and apostles. God helps us, and if we are to have Him as a tenture in our life, then must we believe in Him, have a definite life, but a living personality who was in faith the God of our fathers.

A LETTER FROM VICTORIA

Dec. 10th, '09.

The Editor, "Varsity":
My I overtook you in your valuable space. If you are gracious enough to permit me, I would like to say one or two things. Some time ago a student from our college sent me a totally uncalculated letter to "Varsity," evoked by a few good-natured words of the "Strangler." Later, we learned that the "Strangler" had been reported his in under the compunction of the water-cure. Therefore, the "Strangler's" reference to the incident in last Tuesday's Varsity was thoughtless. But we must take exception to a friendly manner in the following comment upon an "Acta" editorial, for the editorial was a satire. We think a good deal of our sister-school, but must not assert itself. A few University College men—a very few—sawing that their college comprised nearly two-thirds of the Arts Faculty, in their haste appropriated that name to themselves. All regretted the connotation touch "The Varsity." "Acta" said so very politely. But I imagine the "Strangler" had been working behind the irritable mask he wore last Tuesday, and that he quite admits that the term "Varsity" could be applied only to the three colleges—University College, Trinity, and Victoria.

Moreover, might I refer to another misunderstanding? Some suppose that we at Vic. resent the so-called University College (not The Varsity). Nothing could be farther from the truth. We recognize that The Varsity is chiefly supported by University College, and that it rightly reflects its constituency. We do not object to the fact that it is not to reflect the claim that it is representative. The editors of the Varsity are to be complimented upon its conduct, but it cannot become representative under its present management—the Students' Union. We do not oppose the latter being dominated by University College. It should be so and it must remain so as long as it stays in its present situation. Each faculty or college has its own internal unity and this naturally belongs to University College. So it cannot well support its claim to be representative of the University unless it moves. Why not? The University College would merely develop a substitute. It is an open question whether we should have such an organization for the whole University. If it is useful, it would be easier to start a new one than to displace and replace the existing one. This condition of affairs explains why we think the Students' Parliament should assume control of the Varsity. It is the governing management, not the editors of The Varsity, who are at fault.

Thanking you for your kindness,
ALFRED L. BURR.

ONLY A FEW DAYS LEFT

The business manager of Toronto's newspapers claims that all material must be handed in before the close of the present term.

VICTORIA GIRLS WON INTER-COLLEGE DEBATE

The Navy Question Discussed at Meeting of the Women's Lit.

At the regular meeting of the Women's Literary Society, in the Students' Union on Saturday evening, the first intercollegiate debate was held between University College and Victoria. The subject was: "Resolved, that Canada should contribute to the support of the British navy rather than own and control one of her own."

The affirmative was upheld by Miss Robinson '11, and Miss Wright '13, of University College, and the negative by Miss Freeman '11, and Miss Dawson '11, of Victoria.

After careful consideration of the arguments advanced, the judges, Messrs. Stevenson of University College, Brett of Trinity and the Wark of Victoria, gave their decision in favor of the negative. While they were considering the points brought up, Miss Lang '13 gave a piano solo.

The President made several announcements, after which the meeting was adjourned to a close by singing several college songs.

LADIES' BASKETBALL AND SWIMMING CONTESTS

Two games of basketball were played last Wednesday by the University College girls at Evanston. The first team lost by the score of 8-7, but the game was very close and exciting. Miss Fairhair was unable to be present, but her place was very ably taken by Miss St. Kerr, '13, of the second team. Miss Keyes, '13, scored three goals for U.C., and Miss Harrows scored the goals from the field. The University College team showed an well considering the limited time they have spent at the game.

The second team won by the score 4-3, and Miss Minnie Barry, '11, proved the star of this aggressive team. The return games will be played Thursday evening in the University men's gymnasium.

SWIMMING.

An interesting swimming and diving contest was held at the Gull last evening between the University swimming club and the members of the Guild swimming club. The University club was started this year in October under the able instruction,

Mr. Corson, and two lessons a week have been given since that time. Surprising progress has been made. The University teams line up as follows:

Next diving—Miss Minnie Barry, Miss Ruby Mills, Miss Jessie Sturt '11.

Fancy diving—Miss J. Rwart, St. Hilda's.

Fancy swimming—Misses Rwart, Harrington, Banks, Barry.

The relay team race members include Miss Rhea Fairhair '11, Miss Minnie Barry '11, Miss Jean Rwart, Miss J. Lang '11, Miss Rhea '10, Miss Harrington, Miss Ruby Mills, Miss Jessie Sturt '11.

RUGBY DANCE WAS AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS

Athletic Directorate Provided a Function which Delighted Everyone Present

In the opinion of all who were present at the gymnasium on Friday evening, the Rugby Dance was the most successful social function that has been held in connection with the University for years. Not a detail that might have added to the enjoyment of the guests was neglected by the Athletic Directorate. To the members of which too much credit cannot be given for the genuine success of the evening.

In the unavoidable absence of Lieutenant-Governor Gibson, the ceremony was formally opened by Major Macdonald. A great many of the Faculty and their wives were present, as well as a number of city guests.

In order that the floor should not be overcrowded, the supply of tickets was limited. The warning was not heeded by a good many students until too late, however, and they were regretfully forced to miss the dance.

The Medical Dance will be given this week, and the Arts Dance in the gymnasium on Friday, January 21st.

SOCCER TEAM BEATEN

In the second game of the semifinals for the Ontario championship, Thistles again defeated Varsity, the score this time being 4-2, making it 3-1 on the round. Only a small crowd turned out. Team play was entirely lacking. Varsity's defense was good. The individual work was fast, but the article of ball on the whole was disappointing for senior teams.

HIS FIRST DANCE.—II

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

We are thankful that this is the last time we will need to hang around the Halls with our little visible note book before Christmas. This is the last issue.

The characters of several men were shown up in their true (?) light at the Mock Parliament.

Messrs. C. H. Henderson and J. S. Bell are planning a tour of registration this week.

Mr. Paul Armstrong, '12, has opened a photo studio in his rooms in the east residence. Messrs. Millbrook and Wood were the first to patronize the new art establishment. For results wait the illustrated Sunday World.

Mr. C. V. Mossey, '10, is being immensely congratulated on his successful, interesting and exceedingly successful edition of the "Evening Blast."

Some person (not the corresponding secretary of the Lit.) sent an invitation to Mr. Goldwin Smith to attend the Mock Parliament, and must have asked that the reply be addressed to the corresponding secretary, for the latter received a postal card in the distinguished man's own peculiar handwriting, in which he "regretted much" that he would be unable to accept the "kind invitation." Imagine Goldwin Smith at the Mock Parliament! The corresponding secretary, however, had no objections to offer; he is treating a souvenir which some day at an auction sale of relics may yield him a handsome profit.

Bill McNally, ever since the Mock Parliament, has been compelled to keep the "smalloop" sign on his door all the time. If he had not done so, the "crowds" in his room would have rivalled the attendance at the Art Loan Exhibit in the Belvedere Library. Everyone is so curious since Thursday night.

APPLIED SCIENCE

There seldom have been busier times in the Faculty of Applied Science. The "Christmas rush" infection has stricken our laboratories and drafting rooms. From the Council in its chamber, to Billy in the supply department, all is in an eddy of business and nothing seems to stand out for an instant. When one's head is not suspended over something "called" before the close of the term, it is engaged in an unavailing attempt to dodge calendars, Christmas stamps, photos, etc. Even "Room 14" is ruled by pleasure no longer, and out of respect for the past, the following epitaph adorns its door: "It never can happen again!"

C. H. McKnight, '09, is in town at present, having recently returned from the Peace River District, where he was a member of a survey party during the summer and fall.

We regret to report that Mr. P. F. Wilson, '09, is in the hospital with an attack of appendicitis.

The Third Year Pathology Society had an interesting meeting on Friday evening, the subject under discussion being "Municipal versus Private Ownership." The speakers were Messrs. MacLennan, Gibson, Ramsay, and Thorpe.

To what length the coming holiday should extend is a matter of no discussion aplenty, in the first and second years especially, and at present, the classes are equally divided on the question of remaining out until Jan. 10th. If there be any substantial basis upon which to claim an additional week necessary it is unknown to most of us. The fact remains unshaken that there is a definite amount of work to be performed next term, and that a tardy beginning necessitates a rushing finish. On these grounds the older years intend retreating on or before Jan. 4th, provided they have sufficiently recovered, and have remembered to feast less, even at the cost of having to talk more, around the Christmas fireside.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

Last Saturday the elections of the Union Literary Society were held, and the following officers returned for the spring term: -Iton, Pres.; Prof. Shamos, Pres., A. L. Bart, '10 (sec.); 1st. Vice-Pres., A. B. Allen, '10 (sec.); 2nd. Vice-Pres., L. M. Richardson, '11; Leader of Govt., F. Barlow, '10 (sec.); Leader of Opp., L. Macdonald, '11; Sec. Greer, '12; Asst. Sec., W. P. E. James, '12; Treasurer, W. H. Eby, '11; Pianist, D. S. Heller, '13; Curator, H. A. Roberts, '12; Marshall, J. H. Armp, B.A.; Connellors, W. J. E. Meredith, '12; O. V. Jewitt, '10; J. V. Macklin, '10.

Much to the detriment of term exams, skating has already begun upon the college rink. There was good ice and a hard Snowdrift.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

The Wycliffe oratorical contest held on Friday evening was one of the best that we have yet had, as regards both the oratory and the audience. The decision was given the last speaker, H. A. R. Harrison, third year, on the subject, "British Empire." "The Indian in his primitive state sells his hammock at a low figure in the morning."

Several complainings are heard that too many final exams are coming at the end of the first term. Remoteness still lends its peace of mind to some.

KNOX COLLEGE

The Knox "At Home" is to be given on Friday evening. The programme committee have been doing excellent work. A concert is to follow the reception, at which some of the talent will be: Miss Elsie MacDonald, Miss Copeland, Albert E. David, and Donald C. MacGregor. The latter part of the evening will be spent in promiscuous dancing.

Our faculty apparently know what "the day after" means. Or perhaps they don't like to lecture to students who are present only in body. At least they have called lectures off for Saturday morning. Lectures will therefore end on Friday, Dec. 17th, and begin again on Tuesday, Jan. 4th.

Our staff artist is attending lectures these days for a very sinister purpose: not to take notes, but to multiply his cartoons and bitings, which will be exhibited on Friday evening in Room No. 3.

The energetic manager of the rink has already had his gang to work and built the fence in our backyard. He promises, without permitting, to have a fine sheet of ice ready for us when we return on Jan. 3rd.

The Missionary Society have purchased new Bibles and have engaged H. B. Deckerwood and J. J. Urie to make a three weeks' tour through Western Ontario with it in the interest of our student missionary work.

TRINITY COLLEGE

The Trinity French Club held a most enjoyable concert at the St. Charles on Wednesday, the 8th. Mr. Rostie, the president, was master of ceremonies, but the proceedings were quite informal throughout.

Small tables were scattered around the room, each of which had its quota of congenial souls making merry over a bottle of their favorite beverage. Conversation was carried on in English, contrary to custom, but French came in for its share in the songs, of which many were sung with great enthusiasm by the gathering. The affair, which began at ten o'clock, was over well before midnight, and the entire assemblage returned to college in the first night car.

It is likely that a repetition of the café-concert will be held next term, in addition to the regular French Club dinner.

"OUR PRESIDENT"

LARGE TURNOUT AT HOCKEY PRACTISES

Prospects for two Good Senior Teams Successful Trip to New York

The Varsity hockey teams got down to serious practice on Tuesday, and now the work of picking out the teams will begin. Light work-outs were held during the holidays, but as many of the players were out of the city no idea of the teams could be gathered. The inter-collegiate team helped out by two Osgoode Hall players, defeated the New York Athletic Club team in New York during Christmas week.

At Wednesday's practice over thirty men were out, and Coach Br. Gallie, Manager Chad Toms, and Capt. Tony Evans were kept busy changing the players. The intercollegiate defense, Richardson in goal, Gallie at point and Code at cover, lined up with one team. Evans was at cover and several players alternated in the other positions. Frith, Huxley and McSloy were not out. The other team was composed mostly of freshmen, several of whom showed good form. There will be keen competition for the defense positions on the O. H. A. team, and this section of the team will be strong. But to judge from the men out Wednesday, the forward line will be weak. The men are not yet in condition, and as they play their first game next Tuesday, some hard work will have to be indulged in between now and then.

Richardson hadn't much work to do in the practice but showed first-class form and looks the best of the goalkeepers out. Gallie, while a trifle shy on condition, put up a good defense game and pulled off some good rushes. Code was a tower of strength and used his body with great effect. He rushes well, but is inclined to carry the puck too far before passing or shooting. Evans played his usual good game at rover, while Cotton and McLean were best of the new men. On the other team Parker in goal was the best. He is a freshman from the West and plays a cool, steady game. Carmichael and McAllister both did well at inside, both being strong blockers and fair rushers. Neither Gray or Caldwell showed much at cover. On the line, Stubby Keith at centre played well until he tired. This played a strong game on the boards, and McLaughlin was good on the other wing.

The first O.H.A. game for Varsity will be against Parkdale Canoe Club next Tuesday night at Mutual Street rink. Parkdale have a good team this year and a fast game should be played. In putting two senior teams on the ice this year the University Athletic Directorate are showing great faith in the student body, and it is hoped every Varsity man will be out Tuesday night to give the team assistance. Organized singing and yelling will be a feature as it was of the final rugby games.

THE STROLLER.

Now hundreds of students are returning to their regular routine of University life, each armed with what he or she fondly fancies is a license to abuse health for another few months. Each feels "as well as ever." Each thinks that the ravages made by last winter's indiscretions are completely repaired, and each is looking forward to a winter of too little sleep, too little exercise of the healthful kinds, too much food, too much use of the nervous system. But that license they have gotten from their vacation is a snare and a delusion. It reads, "go and hit the high spots again." It should read "cut it out and sin no more." What of youth and health has been thrown away can never be recovered. The best that can be done is to patch together the remnants and keep the machine from going wholly on the rail.

Never look absent-minded when a fair "ee-ed" tells her troubles, if you have any notion of remaining friends. There is a women's league in the University of Michigan which is organized in groups of twenty, composed of ten first-year and ten upper-class "ee-eds." Each upper class "ee-ed" has a frechette assigned to her special charge and is expected to be the frechette's guide, philosopher, and general spiritual adviser on such points as honorum as taking four numbers with a senior at a class reception. She is also supposed to introduce that social side of college life which the first-year girl generally sees dimly and afar off through years and loneliness. This is a gorgeous idea and would save some numbers of the faculty a pile of trouble.

Here is 1910! No rational man makes resolutions now because he knows he will break them. No Varsity man has an uneasy sense that the first day of the year should be celebrated by some extra display of virtue. The easiest and most effective way of celebrating would be to pay our debts. Nothing carries light into so many dark corners in life as the dollar you owe. You pay it to the Business Manager and it goes on its way a hundred ways, bringing you the honest man who pays his way. You would have, no doubt, a heroic glow of heart if you gave your last dollar to your pretty neighbor for her labor mission in Japan. But, if you have but one dollar left, it is to the B.M. The next two-dollar bill you happen to get a line on give it to the Secretary of the Union.

BOOK OF REVELATIONS CHAPTER I.

1. John, to the University which is in Toronto, the revelation of the things which must shortly come to pass. And a voice spoke to me, and said, These are the seals of the living, come and see.

2. And I saw, when the first seal was opened, one like unto Brecken, the secretary of the Y.M.C.A., having his feet upon the table, with nothing to do, and he sat and read with a loud voice; and the words of his mouth were sowing seeds in Donny.

3. And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the host say, None did see. And I saw Allan saying a freshman why he hath no Bible Study report. And the freshman withdrew away, because the wrath of the host was great.

4. And the third seal was opened, and I saw the University Monthly arranged and advertised and the students all read thereon. And the host said unto me, Verily this shall not come to pass until after the earthquake. In that day writers shall no more void up their dead.

5. And when he had opened the fourth seal, I saw under the barn many rosters, billing for the testimony which they held, and I said, Have these lost their wrath to come? And one of the elders said to me, These are they which shall die to feed Hungry. Verily he cometh and his Name appetite is great. These shall go no more out with the wrath of the Rithic ball passed away.

6. And the fifth seal was opened and I beheld an At Home in Knox College, and that that were therein were oppressed. And the Elder said unto me, Fear not for there cometh a good day when they shall hunger no more, neither shall they any more, neither shall there be any more at homes or class receptions.

7. And the sixth seal sounded, and the seal was broken and the host said to me, What seest thou? And I said, I see a star that vaniseth, and he said, That that seest is a surprise in the funds of the Glee Club.

8. And I beheld and lo! there was a great earthquake and the magnificent departed as a cigarette when it is rolled together, and the mighty men and every freshman and the Elders of Varsity hid themselves in the dens of the Union, and said unto the colonel who ever iteth at the receipt of customers, Hide us from our subscribers and from the wrath of the Y.M.C.A.

9. For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand in Allan's way?

A FELLOW FEELING

The following is taken from the Glasgow University magazine:—"We wish students would look upon the chapel service more as a part of their University life. Few go to it though more perhaps than a year or two ago—fewer go regularly." Glasgow appears to have the same trouble that we have. Tradition has never told us of the East Hall being overcrowded at morning prayers, and so far as we know, Principal Fulton is the sole regular attendant.

WOMEN'S NOTES

The first meeting of the Women's Literary Society of University College for the present term will take the form of a travel evening. Interesting articles on England, New Mexico and Arizona, Scotland, Bermuda, Japan, Switzerland and Western Canada will be read. The meeting will be held on Saturday evening in the Union room of the gymnasium.

University College should have a strong representation in the ladies' intercollegiate hockey series this year. The members of the team have been practising steadily throughout the Christmas holidays on Monday and Thursday afternoons at four o'clock and Friday mornings at eleven. The same hours of practice will be observed in the coming term.

UNIVERSITY APPOINTMENTS

Mr. A. D. LePan, B.A. Sc., recently on the faculty of Applied Science, has been appointed assistant-comptroller of buildings, in place of Mr. Schell, who has resigned. Mr. LePan was business manager of Varsity last year. The Varsity congratulates him on his new appointment.

Mr. G. S. Scott, B.A. Sc. (Toronto), has been appointed assistant in mineralogy. Mr. Scott has lately been in Saxony, where his great predilection for some fruit growing on the roadside resulted in some trouble with the owner, during which the owner of the aforesaid fruit was made considerably the worse for wear. Mr. Scott was lecturing much elated over the delicious tasting fruit and his victory over its owner when the authorities intervened in force. Considerable trouble followed for Mr. Scott; in fact, he soon after left Saxony and came to the more congenial country.

and the explanation for nearly all the developments of our time which, by men of limited vision, he regarded as alarming. "Unhand me!" sounds menacing, and is. "Give me action, I want a bunch of money in it, but the money does not seem so disquieting, and there is also a pleasant idea of right and wrong."

The best is the day of him following of an inexperienced leadership, the day of old-fashioned, slow, self-denying. "I don't know if it is much to those who wish to ride instead of to administer, is rapidly passing, not alone in America, but even in ignorant Russia and caste-cursed England. Never before were men so suspicious of authoritative" truth and that never were they so eager to know the truth, to see the light. The man who thinks for himself may not always, or at first, often, think right. But he is never so badly off as the man who lets another do his thinking for him; and since the best of individuals cannot be stunted, the misused and unappearing authorities will be wiser and more useful if they stop raising the fair shams of worn-out doctrines and begin to teach the deaf to hear and the blind to see.

VENTILATION

The cold weather brings up a matter which has been discussed often in various academic circles, but like many another discussion it seems to have borne no results. We refer to the ventilation, or rather lack of ventilation, in the various University buildings, especially in the old school and the main building. The atmosphere becomes intolerable when bad air in the lecture rooms is added to the "stew" from the lecture. To some, ventilation consists in opening the windows and thus creating a pleasant breeze which is wafted gently on the backs of the patient hearers' necks, which results in an increase of work for the doctor. It is high time for a movement to be set on foot to agitate for ventilation and to keep on agitating till we get it. The four years' period of study is hard enough on some students not blessed with good physical health, without adding bad ventilation.

The Business Manager asks that subscriptions be paid as soon as possible. Payments to date have been sent to the University office, at the post office in the main building, or at the secretary's office in the Undergraduate Union.

The secretary of the Union also takes advantage of this festive season when students return with their pockets bulging with checks and requests the members of the Union who have not yet paid their subscriptions to loosen up and do so.

MELANCHOLIA EXAMINATIONS

My hobby is Hobbes,
His philosophy rules.
He of all is the wisest of men,
For, asleep and awake,
I am trying to make
My thought to be as a bubble,
To get wise if I can
To the nature of man,
And the wily and the overture of strife.

It was only this season
I discovered that Reason
Was the basis of Right and of Wrong;
And now I'm lamenting
The time I have spent in
The service of prayer and of song,
Where doctors of preachers
And Sunday School teachers
Have led me on piffle so long.

So Hobbes is my hobby,
His theories are sobby,
And I'm weaving, as if on a loom,
Though I must say the chance is
Of their not finding fault with Hume.
He will hand out his skin
On the Christmas eve.
So I'm adding my thoom.
—Pro Bono Publico, '11.

A NEW YEAR'S EXHORTATION

The Easter term has come and with it almost the new editor takes up his pen with a feeling of trepidation and responsibility. To any one who knows the amount of work entailed in the publication of Varsity, this feeling will be easily explicable. The term has come when academicians have more time to devote to their work, but ever coming rapidly nearer, appears the dread specter of the May examinations. This is the time of year for making many resolutions about work, etc., and so we hope that along with these resolutions, each student, though this doubtless, are the members of the staff will all resolve to send in their contributions regularly and as early as possible. If these latter resolutions are kept, the editor will be much indebted and overjoyed, the breaking of the former ones. Also, we would welcome all contributions from any student, as every bit of news received helps to make the position in the editorial chair more tolerable. Some students seem to believe that they have no right to send in contributions because they are not on the staff, but they forget, however, that Varsity is the students' paper, and it is the desire of those in charge to make it as representative as possible, which can be done by undergraduate contributions from all years and faculties. Naturally, from the contributions received, a certain amount must be culled, but we hope that this will not be a deterrent to any one anxious to air his opinions in print.

We wish all our readers a very Happy New Year, and that the term which we have entered may be very pleasant and successful. Indeed, we hope they will be spurred in their work, but we see "stalled" in the theatrical sense and not in the academic.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

1910 at last.

Miss Zetta Harper, B.A. '09, is principal of the school at Cordova St., Ont.

Miss Ida Carpenter, B.A. '09, is teaching a school in the Southern States.

Mr. A. H. Burt, an old member of the class of 1910, was relieving one of the staff of the Fenelon Falls public school until Christmas.

Almost all the members of the Western Club refused to take advantage of the reduced railway rates and remained in the city over Christmas.

In wishing all our readers a Happy New Year, the editor of Around the Halls wishes for nothing more than that they will all pass their spring examinations and will stand first in first-class honors.

The freshmen, with their usual exuberance, have perpetrated a chess yell and sing. To an ordinary mind it is difficult to distinguish which is vulgar, and through respect to these columns we refrain from publishing either.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The date to which we should all look forward with interest is that decided upon for the annual dinner of the Engineering Society, Wednesday, Jan. 19th. Every effort is being made by the executive to insure its complete success. The list of invited guests is large, and is to include many members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Several very famous speakers will be present.

There will be sectional meetings of the Engineering Society on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 19th, at which there will be reported practices for a little singing to be recited on dinner night.

There have been several changes among the members of the staff since last we met. Mr. L. K. Thomson resumes his duties as demonstrator in drawing and wood. Mr. D. Le Pan is leaving the faculty to fill the office of assistant superintendent, under Mr. Campbell.

Mr. John Stiles has also resigned his demonstratorship to begin business with the firm of Hance and Mills in Port Credit.

Messrs. Hagarty and Pennington have been selected to fill the positions left vacant by their fellowships being in turn accepted by Messrs. Keith and Mitchell.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

Lectures did not begin until Thursday afternoon, and consequently it is rather quiet this week.

The High Schools near the city are working this week by students who left their observations until the beginning of the term.

Mr. Haynes, our delegate to the Rochester Convention, returned to the city last Monday after a very enjoyable and profitable holiday.

Those who saw our president down town, the last day of the term, state that he did not act in a manner becoming with the dignity of the office which he holds. It is understood that he will be asked to resign at the first regular meeting of the Literary Society. Mr. Burkholder has been mentioned as the most dignified man for the office.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Wycliffe staff was represented at Rochester Convention by the Principal and Rev. E. E. Davis; the students were represented by Nurse, Taylor, Morley, Kerr, Eary, Dixon, Ryan, Brecken, Shirley and J. E. K. Greck. It is reported that Kerr, who was late in returning, was entrapped by a Texas Jewess. There seems to be some foundation to the rumour for John came home dead broke. Great anxiety is felt for Taylor, who has not yet arrived.

The mystery regarding the sudden disappearance of A. E. Bell from the Saks' Rest has been solved. He was seen in the vicinity of C. with showshoes and a quiver of darts, lounging upon a deer.

Lyman Cotton has returned from a temperance tour and prophesies a dry time in many are old town.

It was a really shameful thing to allow the card singers' beds, the maning that was the solemn change from "Peace on earth, good will towards men," to every kind of vengeance vowel upon the offending four.

A movement is on foot to cajole us into a more regular chapel attendance. An attempt, it would almost seem, to justify our christening it the Black Parliament. Surely (if our correspondent may express a hope) there is yet among the mad at the altar to whom compulsion will not appear. If we are losing little by not going, coercion will be correct; if, on the other hand, we feel we are losing nothing by being absent, coercion will be unnecessary. By the very nature of religious observance, compulsion therein must lead either to dissidence or to hypocrisy.

KNOX COLLEGE

It's worth putting for a few days to experience the joys of reunion. After two weeks' holidays at their different homes about the metropolis the boys are back, joyfully clasping each others' hands and mourning the fate of the turkey in a moment that dislates that their sympathies do not reach their fellowmen in the brute creation. Anyways, they are all looking fit and ready for work.

We are glad to see our New Zealand friend, N. O. White, once more in health and strength. He spent most of his holidays in the General Hospital.

Our delegates who were at the Rochester Convention report an inspiring gathering. One by one they have returned. Last of all, Jimmie Menzies bin with visions of such great things that he had quite overlooked such trifles as a college term on his next Sunday. Fortunately, Ed. Oliver was on hand.

Dr. E. II. Oliver, Professor of Economics and History in the University of Saskatchewan, has returned to our midst and joined the ranks of the graduating class. He received a most hearty welcome. In the West he had the distinction of delivering the first lecture in the new university. Here we grant him precedence for being the only man who can write a Hebrew critical in two days.

H. B. McDermott and J. Urie are still absent on their tour in the interests of the Missionary Society. They will return on Monday next.

Perhaps it is rather late to recall the events of the old year, but as we had not the opportunity before, we must congratulate the Literary Society on the success of the "at home" held under their auspices on the evening of Dec. 17th.

TRINITY COLLEGE

The smoking concert at the end of last term was a great success, and doubtless did much in the way of helping the new song-book committee. Mr. Watson, chairman of the committee, led the proceedings.

The hockey club has begun to get busy already and the other organizations are preparing for the term's work.

J. P. Clark is manager of the rink this year, and Wells, who took charge during the vacation, has had some good ice.

The annual convocation will be held on Thursday, 27th January. Mr. E. A. W. H. Wilson is secretary.

The Normal classes for Bible Study leaders will begin to-night at 6 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. Hall.

The trustees of Westminster University, a Presbyterian institution in Denver, reduced the salaries of all the instructors. The president and others sued for back pay and the trustees dismissed the entire faculty.

AGED STUDENT AT OHIO

Mrs. A. D. Winship of Racine, Wis., although near her seventy-ninth birthday anniversary, has entered the regular classes at Ohio State University for the year. She says that she has planned a course of study that will keep her occupied until she reaches her ninetieth birthday. She is apparently undaunted as yet as to what profession she will enter when she has completed her extensive academic preparation.

A FEW NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

After a great deal of persuasion and strategical questioning, aided by the sharp edged instrument of gossip, we were able to find out what some of the worthy men proposed as New Year's resolutions. Some resolved more than one thing, but these are a few of the best of them.

J. J. Danca.—That I will write no more letters to Varsity.

J. W. Lumley.—(1) That I will buy no more tobacco for patrons of the Union. (2) That in future I will abstain myself more properly so that the social columns of society papers like the Evening Blast will not say such things as "Mrs. J. W. Lumley will not receive Mr. J. W. Lumley any more this week."

R. R. Hart.—That I will attend no more dances, at least not pay dances.

L. C. Moyer.—(1) That I will hereafter carry on an active anti-foggy campaign and look after the interests of the women students in the University. (2) That I will not accept the editorial chair of any journal in an academic or educational centre.

D. E. MacInnes.—That I will endeavor in my without any daily exertions and the Varsity office open to the use of the co-eds. (2) That I will further the interests of co-education.

J. H. McLaughlin.—That I will hereafter despise all presidential honors.

A. J. Fleming.—That I will work more in the interests of Liberty Society than of my class standing.

W. N. Sage.—That I will not give the class yell this year.

G. A. McDonald.—That I will neither sing any more solos nor duets with G. A. McDonald.

N. A. McFarley.—That I will try to assume an ancient appearance that will relieve the necessity of wearing evening collars.

W. C. McNaught.—That I will accept no more offices and in future will apply myself to academic pursuits.

J. S. Allan.—All work and no play.

C. D. Henderson.—(1) I'll do better next time. (2) I will not keep my first resolution.

M. M. Johnson.—That this year I will write on my May examinations for the first time.

K. H. McCrimmon.—(1) That I will always carry car fare. (2) That I will never laugh in company of others.

J. M. Wood.—That I will patronize the teapot inn regularly.

C. Moore.—That I will eat out several lines of part-time in the fusing department.

The Author.—That I will never tell that I wrote these resolutions (for various reasons).

Note.—The president and officers of the class of 1910 will offer a prize to each of those who lives up to his resolutions through the whole year. The prizes will be presented at the first class meeting in 1911.

AROUND THE HALLS

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE FACULTY OF EDUCATION

The many friends of Mr. J. B. Wallace, '11, will be sorry to hear that, owing to illness in his home, he will not be back at college this term. He will take his work extra-normally, however, and will write on the finals in May.

Mr. M. H. W. Fizzell, late of '14, spent a couple of days in town last week on his way back to Queen's. "Merv" is the same old boy; his heart still seems to be in Toronto, although he had a good word to say of Queen's and the promise of the Varsity representative to write a letter, giving his impressions of Kingston.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The Electrical Club held their first meeting for the term on Thursday evening, Jan. 13th. They are sure of an interesting and instructive evening in hearing H. W. Price, B.Sc., who will lecture on the "Oscillograph."

The "at home" of the graduating class will be held in the Metropolitan Assembly rooms on the evening of Feb. 2nd. Only a limited number of tickets will be sold.

Among the officers elected at the annual meeting of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Society for the following year were: President, Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Master of Public Works, is a graduate of '08. The secretary-treasurer is Mr. Peter Gillespie. Messrs. G. W. Smith, C.E., and A. W. Conlon, of the staff of councilors, have also taken engineering courses at the "School."

The Vice-presidents of the Engineering Society report the following papers to be read at the sectional meetings on Wednesday afternoon: The Civils and Arcins will hear F. M. Byram, '07, on "Modern Steel Structures," in room 22, C & M Building. Mr. Byram is a structural engineer with Smith, Kerry and Chase.

The Elect. and Mech. section get a paper on "Gas Engines," from N. C. Sherman, '10.

The Chemists and Miners will be treated to "Some Things a Technical Chemist Should Know," by E. E. Coho, president of the Chemical Laboratories, and formerly a professor in McMaster University.

Among the visitors during the past week came H. W. Davis, '09, who has held a position (voluntarily) since graduating, in Kingston, i.e. Sears, who dropped in for a few moments from Gowanda; and Traub, who has had charge of prospecting for the Ontario Mines and Hall, classes are last two summers, and who has just emerged from the Porepine district. These gentlemen report an exceedingly lively time in the north.

Someone ought to suggest the disinterment of the School of Science hockey spirit or the hard, fast ice melts likewise into obscurity.

MEDICAL NOTES

The Medical College, deserted almost completely during the holidays, is once again buzzing with activity. Lectures, clinics and hall classes are in full swing, and without any prospects of a cessation until the great reckoning time of the summer in May. Perhaps what the students regret most is the change in hospitals. When everyone is just about acquainted with the wards where the particular clinics are held, we are switched to far-off and unfamiliar places, where we'll have to "paddle our own canoe" the best we know how until the new state of things becomes familiar.

"Work steadily, but don't overdo it, if you want to succeed in May," is Dr. Rudolph's advice to the third year regarding the spring term. The advice is good—couldn't be better in fact, so let everybody adopt the plan now while there's plenty of time.

Mr. H. G. Manning, who was supplying at Markham High School part of last term, has returned to college.

Mr. Luckie will spend the next three weeks teaching in Elora High School. Mr. Sinfair, who for the greater part of last term was principal of Niagara High School, has accepted a position on the staff of Ridley College and will not complete his course until next year.

The faculty students have been successful in securing season tickets at Victoria College rink. Arrangements have also been made for two hours hockey a week.

The Y.M.C.A. Bible Study class will meet as usual this week. A good attendance is requested.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

Five of the undergraduates will report on the Rochester Convention, in Wycliffe Convocation Hall, on Sunday evening, Jan. 14th. It is hoped that every man will endeavor to bring some other students to the meeting.

Interest in athletics is sadly lacking here. We have hockey players who should make a showing, but it seems impossible to get a systematic practice, and as a result our men go after the puck as though he were the only white-blue upon the ice. The consolation can never be obtained with the rover on the ice, the cutter forward at Eaton's bargain counter, and the wing at an afternoon tea. Carrie is working hard for the team he should have a more local support.

Five evenings out of seven is getting pretty serious. If this continues Heiler will soon surrender his back-sword.

A series of chapel addresses are being given this week by the Wycliffe delegates to Rochester.

TRINITY COLLEGE

There was a fair attendance at the meeting of the Literary Association on Friday when the subject of debate was the removal of Trinity to Queen's Park. Bransley and Forester upheld the motion and Mortimer and Martin represented the negative. The best speech was that made by Mortimer. The meeting voted in favor of the affirmative on the merits of the grounds and for the negative on the merits of the question. A lengthy discussion was held on the matter of complimentary tickets for the conversation. An almost unanimous vote was given in favor of restricting them.

The annual oratorical contest is to be held on Thursday, the 13th inst. It is announced that the Divinity year will end on the 30th of April.

Rev. Dr. Lloyd preached on Sunday morning in the chapel.

VICTORIA COLLEGE

At the rink Saturday afternoon the girls served cocoa to many cold and thirsty skaters. If they stick to the practice they will soon have to seek larger premises.

The Union Literary Society held its opening session for the spring term on Saturday evening. The literary programme consisted of a piano solo by Holgate, '12, who won medals at L. H. Kirby '10, and a debate upon woman suffrage. Messrs. Trench and Glover for the B.P.'s upheld the affirmative against Messrs. Hurling and Gillette for the fourth year. The judges decided in favor of the B.P.'s. The business session, instead of opening with the provincial speech from the throne, was opened by the new premier, Hon. F. J. Barlow '10, in a very able and witty speech, an agreeable variation. The question of securing new carpet and hangings was mooted. All enjoyed the time-honored "man-feed" which succeeded adjournment.

Sunday evening the chapel was filled with students and their friends to hear echoes and catch the inspiration of the recent Rochester Convention.

It is true, indeed, that this matter cannot be discussed fully in one article. The "Advocate" has interviewed several members of the faculty in regard to the question, and their opinions will be published in this column later.

In the meantime, the "Advocate" would like to have an expression of opinion from readers of The Varsity.

LARGE MEETING OF ENGINEERING SOCIETY

Dean Galbraith Addresses Civils and Architects—W. P. Cohoe
Reads Paper to Chemists

The usual large number of students attended the sectional meetings of the Engineering Society on Wednesday afternoon. Previous to the reading of the papers, a brief practice was held to familiarize the members with a song specially written for the dinner. The singing was conducted by Mr. Bush.

The Civil and Architectural sections were treated to an exceptionally interesting and instructive address on the Quebec Bridge disaster by Dean Galbraith. The Dean started off by saying that his address was a "fill in" arranged for at the last minute owing to previous misunderstanding. If the Dean, however, can give us a talk so interesting at a moment's notice, it is to be regretted that we cannot hear him often.

The section was shown slides illustrating the construction of the bridge step by step up to the fourth panel of the suspended span, which was the point reached when the structure collapsed. In August, 1907, killing 74 workmen. Everyone was impressed with the massiveness of this immense bridge and the great difficulties to be overcome in its design.

Views were also shown of the mass of wreckage after the collapse, the Dean explaining how the circumstances were not fitting the cause of the failure, and their reasons for deciding that it was due to the failure of the lower chord of the cantilever arm.

The speaker laid special emphasis on the system carried out in the construction. Every operation was carefully worked out in most cases with the aid of the Bridge Co.'s plant, and instructions as to the best method of handling the material were sent to the engineers in charge, so that the work was carried out with the least possible loss of time.

A paper on "Gas Engines and Producers" was given to the Mechanical and Electrical sections by N. S. Sherman, '10. The address dealt with the general theory of the internal combustion engine and the best practice of present-day design. Illustrations of some of the largest installations at present in use were shown, and the high efficiencies of many of these dealt with. Mr. Sherman's paper was highly appreciated.

Prof. Angus also gave an interesting talk on the same subject, and added great interest to his remarks by reference to some of his personal experiences in the development of the gas engine and producer. On account of the high efficiency of the gas engine driven in its design, it eventually became one of the chief sources of motive power. The limit of water power development and the difficulty of long-distance transmissions might be easily overcome by the proper selection of gas plants for isolated installations.

In closing, he referred to a number of installations he had seen in Europe during the past summer, which convinced him of the superiority of European designs in this work.

The Chemical and Mining sections were addressed by W. P. Cohoe, President of the Chemical Laboratories, Ltd. His paper was a general one, dealing with the application of theoretical chemistry to modern industrial practice, and will be of great aid to any student adopting industrial chemistry as a profession. Remarks were also made by Dr. Ellis and Prof. Bains. The attendance at this meeting was a record one.

FORESTRY CONVENTION

Dean Fernow of the Faculty of Forestry attended a convention of representatives of Forest Schools of the United States and Canada, held in Washington, D.C., on December 20th and 21st.

The purpose of the meeting was to effect a standardization of the requirements of forestry students and of the subjects and methods in courses of instruction.

The representatives, in their papers and discussions, tended to accept views of which Dr. Fernow has long been a sponsor, namely, that the Forest School should devote its efforts almost exclusively to theory, and to the establishment of broad principles, not methods, in the hands of the students. Dr. Fernow maintains that practical application should come in vacation, and after graduation.

ARTS DANCE

The annual "Art House" of the University College Literary Society (more familiarly known as the "Arts Dance") will take place in the gym on Thursday, Jan. 20th. From the number of enquiries that have already been made in the halls of this institution, it promises to be even more popular than in previous years. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. C. Meyer, chairman, R. H. Evans, secretary, or any one of the following: N. A. Taylor, A. Gilmour, P. M. McPherson, E. D. Senior, J. M. Allan, M. L. Ellis, C. B. Henderson, W. C. McKechnie, J. P. L. Armstrong, V. C. Gillingham, K. H. McCrimmon, J. N. D. Hynd, D. Scott, P. Houser, '13.

A STUDENT MOVEMENT

In the year 1886 two hundred and fifty delegates from the colleges of North America attended a conference at Mount Vernon, Mass., upon the invitation of the late D. L. Moody. It was there decided that a deputation should be sent to visit the colleges, and four men were selected for this purpose. Of the four, Robert P. Wilder, of Princeton, was the only one able to go, and he was joined by John M. Furman, also of Princeton. Between the years 1886 and 1891 these two men visited 172 institutions in Canada and the United States. At the World's Bazaar Conference of 1891 it was decided that there should be an organization for the purpose of recruiting volunteers for foreign missionary work. As a result, the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions was formed and incorporated.

As may be seen, the movement was originally intended only for the colleges of the United States and Canada. Largely under the direction of Mr. Robert P. Wilder, however, it has extended its sphere till it now includes: Britain, Scandinavia and Germany. It has never sent out a missionary, and never will. Those who become student volunteers are expected to go to the foreign field as representatives of the regular missionary organizations of the Church.

The Movement employs a staff of secretaries, upon whom it relies for the cultivation of the student field. This cultivation is held every four years and is attended by representatives from the colleges throughout Canada and the United States. The last of these conferences was one that has just closed at Rochester. One of the most noteworthy features of this convention was the absence of everything that savoured of the emotional. Throughout the whole of the addresses were characterized by a sane, a vision, a manliness and a grasp of the world situation that was truly remarkable. Ambassador Bryce emphasized the crises in world politics. Speeches from South America, Wung Yu Ching, Fohy in India, Hartwell in Africa, Zwenger in the Mohammedan world. Every feature was powerfully impressed with a sense of the reality of critical conditions in this age. This impression was forced upon us so mightily that he was given to see that no matter where his field of labor was, he would be able to put in his time, and about the attainment of the watchword of the movement, "The evangelization of the world in this generation."

VARSITY LOSE IN O.H.A. SENIOR GAME

Exciting Match at Mutual St. Rink
T.A.A.C. Win First Game by 9 to 7 in Overtime

The Varsity senior O.H.A. team made its first appearance on Tuesday night, when, before an enthusiastic crowd of spectators at the Mutual Street rink, it went down to defeat before the Toronto Athletic Club. The game was close and exciting, indeed, it even went into extra time before the result was finally decided in T.A.A.C.'s favor. The Varsity team, composed mainly of freshmen, were, except for "Rat" Hanley, players new to Toronto spectators, and outsiders rather expected a walkover for T.A.A.C., who started out with a rush, but they could not penetrate Varsity's defence for some time. Soon after Varsity equalized the score and the game was even, the end of the half, play was very even, the end of the half, play was fast and furious, especially towards the latter part of the half. The score at full time was 6 all. In the overtime, T.A.A.C. overhauled Varsity, who were in little better condition, and outscored them 3 to 1, thus making the final score 9 to 7 in T.A.A.C.'s favor. T.A.A.C. showed a tendency to rough it up and got away with quite a bit of that kind of work. The Varsity defence was a trifle sickening in spots. For Varsity, Armstrong was the best man on the ice, and Parker in goal was all that the Varsity could get. Hanley also played a good game. Varsity has the making of a splendid team and with a little more practice will give a good account of themselves. Shortly before half-time, the puck flew from the spectators into the T.A.A.C. goal. It hit P. M. Macdonald of S.P.S., who, in an effort to get the puck out of the goal, quickly threw it out in front of the T.A.A.C. goal, where Armstrong shot it in. This last play was decided by someone's eagle eye and was not allowed. The Varsity line-up was:—Goal, Parker; centre, Gernard; cover, Caldwell; rover, Armstrong; defencemen, Kelly; wings, Hanley and Strom.

ONTARIO WATER POLO LEAGUE

CENTRAL, Y.M.C.A. VS. VARSITY
The first game of the league will be played in the gymnasium on Saturday, Jan. 15th, at 8 p.m. The public, including ladies, will be admitted, and the program will include a swimming contest, and an exhibition by the swimming instructor.

SWIMMING CLASSES

February 19th is the date set for the next life-saving examination, and it is the hope of the Life Saving Society that a record class will be passed on that date. Any member of the Athletic Association or Gym who is a strong swimmer on the back, can by very little practice secure the requisite certificate and medal. So far few letters have signified for the class. Eleven entered the December class and all were successful in passing, and among them was Brazil, who is the youngest and smallest student in the University.

We understand that the Guild have sent in a return challenge to the Varsity Girls' Swimming Club for a contest to take place on the first Monday in February. In the last contest Varsity beat the Guild girls by 16 points to 14, and also defeated them in the team relay race.

SATURDAY LECTURES

The first public lecture will be given to-morrow by Mr. Jean de Mot, professor of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts at Brussels. The subject will be "Belgian Art in the 19th Century." Students' tickets for the course of six lectures may be purchased at a cost of twenty-five cents at the Registrar's office. Tickets for a single lecture cost twenty-five cents also.

THE STROLLER

"Young ladies," said an absent-minded professor in second-year Latin, "I understand that you count upon us calling on you in alphabetical order, and prepare your lessons accordingly. I am surprised and disappointed at such conduct. Hereafter I warn you I shall begin at the other end of the alphabet." He is not the only teacher who is blind to the value of the unexpected. A wholesome alternative would be to condemn the class to attend three meetings of the Students' Parliament. They would then realize that they have cause to be thankful.

While speaking of the Students' Parliament, the Stroller feels that a word or two in defence of that organization would not be out of place. Sometimes a fellow (that's been batted all over the ring for nineteen rounds, lands on the solar-plexus of the proposition he's tackling on the twentieth. While we admit that the Students' Parliament is not hilling what was expected of it, yet much has been done towards the attainment of the aim set down in their constitution. They have for the past two years conducted exceedingly successful Theatre Night, a thing which has been given up as a dead letter. They have also been successful in making a financial success of the Year Book. However, we must admit that its true function so far has not been realized. In fact, in the very time when the determined action of such an organization would have been of greatest service to the Students' Parliament showed how it fails to cope with a delicate situation. The Parliament is at present very univisely. Could not the present state of affairs be made subject to the discussion in the various college societies, and recommendations for improvements be brought before the Parliament?

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

The Rev. Priv. Gandler, D.D., of Knox College, will open the University Sermon series for the Easter term. Dr. Gandler needs no introduction to a University audience, and a large attendance is expected on Sunday morning in Convocation Hall.

SCHEDULE FOR LADIES' HOCKEY

First Game on Saturday—U.C.
Line-up—Address at
Y.W.C.A.

The first ladies' hockey match of the season will be played Saturday morning, at 11 o'clock, at Varsity rink, between University College and Victoria College. The practices of University College girls have been well attended, and, during a few minor accidents, all the players are in the very best of condition for the match Saturday. The probable line-up for U.C. will be: Goal, Miss Sutherland; 10, point, Miss M. Barry; 11, cover, Miss R. Fairbank; 11, centre, Miss O. Bomar; 12, rover, Miss A. Fraser; 12, left wing, Miss E. MacDonald; 10, or Miss Murphy; 13, right wing, Miss O. Angus; 10, 13.

The meeting of the Toronto University Women's Athletic League was held Saturday, Jan. 8th, and the schedule for "hockey" matches was drawn up as follows:

Jan. 15—University College vs. Victoria, at University College rink.

Jan. 22—St. John's vs. Victoria, at Victoria rink.

Jan. 29—University College vs. St. John's, at St. John's.

The other three games will be announced later. All matches will be played at 11 o'clock.

ADDRESS AT Y.W.C.A.

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. on Tuesday afternoon enjoyed an address by Mrs. Cameron. In a simple, direct manner she discussed some problems of a student's daily life, pointing out in a very helpful way that "the daily round, the common task would furnish all we need to ask." It cannot be too often pointed out how much appreciated is the presence of the wives of the faculty at the women's gatherings.

The next two meetings of the Y.W.C.A. will be devoted to echoes of Rochester. Next Tuesday, Miss Ball, '11, will speak on "The Vision of Ourselves," and Miss Margaret Menzies, '12, will take the first part of "The Vision of the World."

A STUDENT EXECUTIVE

In the last issue of Varsity the editorial on the Students' Parliament was destructive, in this issue we wish to place before our readers a constructive policy in relation to the defects of the existing system. In the first editorial we made mention of a student executive to supersede the Parliament, and this is in brief the plan which we desire to bring up for discussion. This executive would be a representative one with one member chosen from each college, and would take over the work of the present Undergraduates' Parliament, which, as has been previously stated, is chiefly executive in its character. This new body would have the advantage of being small and compact, which would enable it to act with greater expedition than in the case with the present Parliament. A position on it would entail considerable work, but would be one of honor and not a mere sinecure like a position on the present Parliament, which brings with it neither honor nor work. It would be a place for the best men in the University, and election to it the highest honor in the gift of the student body. By its formation a better means of mediation would be obtained between the students and the University authorities in the event of any dispute or grievance arising. This body would be able to become better acquainted with the facts of any case brought before it, and would not be as liable to pass two motions in the same night, which were virtually contradictory, and was done at a meeting of the Parliament this fall. Its members would have its interest at heart, and would show it by their enthusiasm and attendance, both of which are sadly lacking in the present Parliament. If the day should ever dawn on this University when student discipline comes into force, in this executive there would be the nucleus of the student control. In the meantime, however, we feel confident that such a body could perform any business that might arise more satisfactorily and expeditiously than that unwieldy mass of conglomeration, known as the Undergraduates' Parliament.

MISTAKEN GENIUS

It was the habit of Macintyre to deride the majority of the books which he read with lengthy annotations, sometimes in a strain by no means complimentary to the author and his assertions. Carlyle, also, was accustomed to air his personal opinions in this manner, and occasionally to condescend to advising an astounding passage by the single word "Boosh!" scribbled judiciously in the corner of the page. To-day these precious volumes change hands among the book collectors at many times their original price, and the annotations are prized far above the text.

We of the present generation would deem it an inestimable benefit to have the margins of some of our books illuminated with the opinions of a Macintyre or a Carlyle. This privilege we are denied. We have among us, however, plenty of people who are afflicted with the annotating habit. A chance through some of the books in the University library is sufficient to apprise one of this melancholy trait. It seems to be a law that the less valuable the reader's opinions are the more eager he is to force them on posterity by tying them to the codicil of a great author. And the saddest of it lies in the fact, that while we have among us many whose marginal remarks would be eagerly welcomed, they are the very ones whose pens remain dry. Many of our professors, for instance, by reason of their long study and special knowledge of certain questions, could bring out more clearly the meaning of a passage and stimulate the reader's imagination by a pointed note or reference in the margin; yet we are rarely favored with such professional comments. And so the field is left free for those presumptuous individuals rendered dangerous by a little knowledge.

Some of these are not even content with stating their insignificant opinions, but must give vent also to their emotions. We recall one volume in which a page is missing. At this point, an animated dialogue in manuscript witnesses to the disturbed feelings of aggressive readers and to the passing slang of the day. Such performances may afford amusement to the writers, but surely serve to soothe the spirits of the serious reader.

It is vain to protest against such outrages, however. The most that the indignant critic can do when he encounters them (since the perpetrator is unanswerable) is to add his disapproval in a marginal note.

UNIVERSITY HOCKEY

The Varsity Hockey season has commenced, and in placing two solid teams on the ice, the Athletic Directorate are relying on the support of the students. In past years the hockey matches have not been patronized by students as they should have been. In some years the excuse has been that the Varsity team was so good that the other teams could not give it a close enough game to make it worth while going to see, and in other years the excuse was that the team was not good enough. These are no excuses at all. In the first instance, the team deserved support, and in the second case, then is the very time for students to turn out and encourage the team to better efforts by their attendance and rooting. In the last few years hockey has become professionalized, and people are now disgusted by the lawsuits between teams over players with whom they have signed contracts. This is degenerating Canada's winter sport and making it a business for money-making. Intercollegiate hockey is entirely free from this, and should be a good example of clean, unadorned sport. Let every student turn out to the games this year and support the blue and white teams in their bid for the championships.

A LESSON FOR TORONTO

The Cornell alumni decided to furnish the university with a varsity field, and the first fund of $40,000, raised by subscriptions, was used in grading and draining the land, which is over fifty acres in extent. The next fund of $200,000, which has just been completed by subscription, will go towards field equipment.

During 1909-10, through the students of Canadian and American colleges and universities, $129,292.92 were contributed to missions. Knox College, Toronto, ranks first among the Canadian colleges, having given $11,000, and is third in the whole list of contributions, only Yale and the University of Pennsylvania showing a larger total of gifts.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The members of the faculty in English and History, with their wives, were at home on Wednesday afternoon in the rotunda corner in the west wing, to members of the third and fourth years in English and History.

The men of the fourth year held a meeting on Tuesday, at which it was decided that the graduating dinner should be a purely masculine affair.

The "Green Innaret" has struck heavy blows at some of the men of the fourth year in their essays.

Up to date we have not heard the melodious strains of the freshman's song being waited through the corridors, and, we might add, we hope we never will.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The Science Hockey Club had an organization meeting on Tuesday afternoon, at which the following officers were elected—Hon. Pres., Dr. Edgar Press, A. E. Allison, Vice-Pres., A. D. Campbell, Sec.-Treas., H. Ritchie. Managers of year teams: 1st year, Phillips; 2nd year, Connors; 3rd and 4th years, Pounds.

Practices are to be held on Varsity rink on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, between the hours of 5 and 6 p.m.

The men of '13 have further appointed a committee to look after the interests of hockey in that year. The members are Hayles, Clarke, Lamb, and Allan.

The smiles of Claude Walker, '09, are seen amongst us at present. Mr. Walker has just returned from a successful season in British Columbia, in the employ of E. E. Plinkett, B.Sc., on D.L.S. work. Mr. Plinkett is, by the way, a '03 graduate.

The Graduating Class committee report a favorable sale of tickets. This is so unlike the usual reports of similar committees that it might be prudent to hush ourselves early and end our tickets as the key is turned on us.

Mr. F. F. Wilson, '09, will be absent, we regret to state, for several weeks yet. A successful operation for appendicitis was followed by serious complications in blood circulation. His many friends are reminded that in the Ward of General Hospital, and that, by a cheerful visit on a cheerful afternoon or evening, a School man can benefit Wilson in a manner that is unknown to medicine chests.

The tickets for the dinner are now on sale and students will remember to favor the men in charge by buying them early, thus assisting in an endeavor to eliminate much of this "eleventh hour" spirit that is associated so closely with events of this kind.

Mr. A. R. Dull, '09, is in town, having lately returned from the Cobalt district. Mr. C. O. Hay is also in town, renewing the acquaintances of those that remain.

KNOX COLLEGE

The "Lit" met on Tuesday evening. The event of the meeting was an address by President Falconer on "The Ethical Phase of Christianity." It was the first public address the President has paid our College since his installation, and the students were out to a man to receive him. The address was a masterly survey of the different tendencies of Christian thought seen in the present day and compared with those of the New Testament.

The following were appointed to represent our Literary Society at the different social functions of the other colleges:

S. S. J. M. Moultrie, O.A.C.—P. W. Spence, Oranville Hall—Calvin McQueen, University College—J. R. Sanderson, Normal School—W. Peary, Trinity College—Hilston Dickson, Wesley College—John Richardson, McMaster Univ.—C. M. Wright,

Hockey is going full swing. Our rink has been enlarged, and under the management of Oscar Irwin it is kept in excellent shape.

A series of matches are being played between teams from Junior Arts, Senior Arts, and Theology. The first game, between Junior Arts and Theology, was played on Monday and resulted in a victory for Arts, the score being 12-0. On Wednesday, Junior Arts won from Senior Arts with a score of 3-1.

A very unfortunate and painful accident happened during the last game, when "Red" Smith collided with a goal post and fractured an ankle bone. He was removed in an ambulance to his home. We regret to hear that he will be laid up for several weeks.

The senior theologians and the members of the executives of the Literary and Missionary Society are having their group photos taken this week at Prender's.

The Missionary Society will meet next Tuesday evening. Our representatives to the Rochester Convention will speak.

FORESTRY

Dr. Fernow leaves next week for Ottawa to attend the next meeting of the recently-established Commission for the Conservation of Natural Resources, of which Hon. Clifford Sifton is chairman. Dr. Fernow has much information to lay before the Commission, especially with respect to his recent survey in Nova Scotia.

Forestry will have an excellent team in the Jeannings Cup series. Every practice has been well attended and strategy play is every department shown. There is plenty of material not only for a strong first team, but also a good second team for practices. G. C. Tilt is managing the team.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Mr. E. C. Carter, travelling secretary International Committee, Y.M.C.A., of New York, will address a meeting of men in Convocation Hall on Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. His subject will be "Student Life in Tokyo."

The Association was visited by Mr. Kempthorne of London (Eng.), in the early part of the week. Mr. Kempthorne is at present studying the various methods of Bible study in vogue in the different American Associations. He expressed himself as much impressed with the methods in use here and will establish similar courses in the colleges of London.

On Wednesday, Mr. E. S. Conklin, of Springfield, Mass., called at the "Lit" in the interests of the Y.M.C.A. training school of that place. Mr. Conklin interviewed several men in regard to Association work.

CANINA LATINITAS

I handed in an exercise, 'Twas next as meat could be got; But when it next did meet mine eyes, 'Twas a sul sign sight to see.

Across the part I'd laboured most To heavenly colors With forms and phrases all but lost, Which other men would scorn.

Across that part which in my sight Outshone the very sun, O cruel hand, O stony heart! A great, red line did run.

Nor lines alone, but stars and dots, And asterisks galore, And circles, queer comers and knots Flashed it up more and more.

Did midst the other ruined wreck, Of sentences that once seemed right, Mine eyes fell on a single "me!" A portent of a future bright.

For this unmarked, unscanned still stood Pressing that some day I would —Nor could the red ink tide move A veritable Tully prove. —J. S. W.

"THE ADVOCATE"

In this column an amusingly suggestive name was made that final examination papers be returned to the students.

The "Advocate" asked several members of the staff in the faculties of Arts, Science and Medicine, to give their opinions. They were kind enough to consider the matter, and to state their views. Their attitude on the whole, although conservative, was not hostile. One professor in Arts was quite favorable, and he thought that the question should be looked into fully. Another pointed out that the examination of papers in the faculties was often a waste of work of one man alone, but that several were considered, and the result, although satisfactory to all, could not be expressed definitely. Giving out the marks in such cases might lead to misunderstandings. Another professor made reference to the subject in a lecture on Wednesday morning. He stated that the plan might work out well, but he supposed that a controversial matter should not be discussed in class.

A member of the faculty of Applied Science did not see any objection to returning the papers, although he did not see any advantage which the students would derive from the plan in his faculty. He was opposed, however, to giving out the marks. "For," he said, "it always has been the policy of the Faculty of Applied Science to avoid as much as possible the mechanical placing of any student, and the publication of marks which would give only a partial view of the Board of Examiners' operations might be misunderstood."

One of the staff in the Faculty of Medicine thought that, in some subjects at least, it would be to the decided interest of the students to receive their papers. He was opposed, however, to the divulging of marks.

The "Advocate" also asked for an expression of undergraduate opinion from readers of "Varsity." The following are a few of the observations:

Harry Wong. — "I should like to subscribe to the sentiments of 'Advocate,' as expressed in the last Varsity. Of course, there are many papers we never wish to see again, but when, contrary to expectation, a decent mark has been obtained, it would be wise to retain the papers, which are on technical subjects.

A. H. Mauro and T. G. MacLennan both pointed out that, although they realized that the suggested move might be in the interest of students in some cases, in the case of St. John of Science, it would be of very little use to retain the papers, which are on technical subjects.

C. N. Cochrane was not very enthusiastic. "Personally, I am always keenly alive to the mistakes I have made on an examination paper as soon as I have the hall. Besides, in the majority of cases, I do not suppose that the quality of the papers would make them, if returned, objects of special value to the possessor."

J. L. Duncan thought it would be an advantage to receive back a really good paper with high standing, but that a poor one would be of no use.

T. R. Harrison was in favor of the idea. He laid emphasis on the fact that many false impressions and mistakes would be made right, at present, a student may continue to make the same blunders in a subject.

G. D. McLean's opinion was that it would be useful to read a paper immediately after it had been returned, and also in preparation for a future examination, but that these would not be of much permanent value.

W. C. McNaught thought that the scheme was good in regard to honor papers, but that it need not be applied to pass subjects.

A. I. McCalla believed that, in several branches of medicine the return of papers would be desirable, in surgery and medicine too, for example.

A. E. Fleming personally did not think it would be worth the trouble to give back the examination books. He realized, however, that it was a question of course. He pointed out (as several others did also) the danger of discontent owing to the comparing of papers by students.

H. V. Pickering was heartily in favor. His idea was that a student could see his true relation to a subject, and understand what grasp of his work he really had.

MORE NEWS FOR CATHOLIC STUDENTS

St. Michael's College have offered their spacious club rooms for a little evening to be held to-night (Friday, Jan. 14th), the object being to get acquainted and to arrange the final details for the "bat home" to be held at Mrs. Meyers' parlors on Tuesday, January 25th. You are all invited to attend this evening.

It is said that during the first year of co-education at a college, several of the co-eds, as guests of some of the college men, were witnessing their first game of football.

"Why are all the players leaving the field?" inquired one girl.

"This is the end of the first half," replied her escort.

"Oh, is that so?" gushed the girl.

"How many halves are there?"

The Delta Upsilon Chapter house at Cornell was almost totally destroyed by fire during the holidays.

I. VENTILATION.

"Twice May, in bed, with pillows propped upright
The pallid patient sat, while round about
His loved ones hovered for the first weak word
That from his lips should fall—lips so long closed.
"Now I remember," spoke he slow at last,
"—First time two weeks after Christmas that I went
At Varsity. I saw no faces there
That had not lost their soon their Christmas glow,
(And now I know the cause of that), the air
Seemed thick to my long unaccustomed lungs;
Shortly, the bald professor's form grew dim,
His cracked voice general, his lecture sweet
That hitherto had been but dull. And then
His monologue dropped off, but in my trance
I could not join the laugh, for just
As it began, there struggled fierce my eyes
A Christmas turkey, and close after it
I saw myself, and walking at my side
The little clerk in the big village store
I told you of, where I spent holidays
With my grandparents; and she seemed More sweet than ever before. These choicest dreams
Had sunk to nothingness, and I had swooned,
When suddenly upon my neck I felt a breeze
That soon revived me—some kind soul
Had raised a window—and from then henceforth
In fear I always raised it when I came.

"A few days passed—then chills, delirium—
And I have never thought again till now
How 'twas the ventilation of room 65 (or any other in Varsity)
That made me candidate for angust."

He said, and turned his eyes toward the street:—
"Ah! there is one of them," he cried, pointing
At an enclenched foot that took Its folk-rag way to Varsity campus.

FALLING OFF IN ATTENDANCE AT LIT

Report of Committee on Athletic Constitution.—Debate between First and Second Year

At last it seems likely that University College is to have an Athletic Association. The need of some such organization, as for example, that which the School possesses, to look after the athletic interests of the college, has become more and more pressing with the expansion of the college, and last fall the lit. appointed a committee to look into the matter. The report of this committee was presented by the chairman, Mr. J. M. Wood, on Friday night, along with a draught constitution embodying the principles and details which the committee's investigations indicated were essential to its success. This report was unanimously adopted, and it was with the executive to call a mass-meeting of the men in University College to deal with the proposed constitution.

The attendance at the meeting was fair, though small in comparison with the crowded sessions that were the custom last term. The meeting was in an executive mood, and a large amount of business was disposed of. In the absence of Vice-President, Harry, the government was led by W. M. Johnson.

A motion by Messrs. Rose and McDaniel, that the critic be elected to secure from time to time a member of the faculty or other competent person to criticize the speaker in the society, was adopted unanimously.

A. S. Sibbald gave notice of a meeting for the members of the University post office in the main building. H. W. Lyons announced that at next meeting he would bring reports from the Night and Arts Dinner Committees.

The secretary of committees reported the absence of the members of the executive from two successive committee meetings. The society decided to overlook the delinquency, and the secretary was instructed to communicate with the three members regarding their absence.

Mr. Fry informed the Society that the new song books for the Society were in the hands of the printer.

T. R. Harrison was appointed representative to the McGill dance, and Messrs. Crochi and Hazzard were appointed respectively to represent the Society at the School dinner and the Trinity dance. The Society decided not to accept the challenge to a dance with the Western University, London. That the Society's program is pretty well filled up is apparent from the following prospectus: this week Arts' dance (Jan. 20th); next Feb. 24th, second inter-year debate; Feb. 28th, likely to be chosen for the first inter-year debate; to consider the Athletic Association plan; Feb. 18th, oratorical contest; Feb. 25th, Constitution night. This brings the meetings up to March, when the political campaign will begin to ripen.

Business having been disposed of, the society settled back to listen to the orators of '12 and '13 thrust out the weighty question, "Resolved, that we should place further restrictions on immigration." The affirmative was upheld by J. D. Macdonald, Naughton and H. S. Patton, '12, and the negative by H. Holmes and W. C. Egbert, '13. The debate, the first of the inter-year series, was one of the finest displays of oratorical and argumentative skill that has ever been presented by the students before the Society. While the judges, Prof. Lloyd, Dr. Oliver, and Mr. S. A. Cadogan, were framing their decision, the debate was thrown open to the meeting, and a lively controversy was engaged in by Messrs. Macdonald, Naughton, Nicholson, Hume, Galt, and others. Prof. Lloyd, after complimenting all the speakers, and especially Mr. Macdonald-Naughton, for the style of their delivery, awarded the palm of victory to the affirmative.

A couple of original songs were contributed by Mr. Bull. Mr. Chester Smith presided at the piano. In the absence of Mr. Lunney, Mr. G. D. McLean acted as critic.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Distinguished patronage, which has always been the badge of successful musical functions in the city of Toronto, is this year being extended to the University of Toronto Glee Club concert, to be held at the Convocation Hall on Friday, February 11th. Toronto is reputed to be the most important musical centre on the continent, and is ever ready to endorse worthy ventures even though they be amateur. Hon. J. M. Gilson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and Sir James Whitney, premier of Ontario, have kindly consented to be patrons, and their presence will ensure additional social patronage just as creditable. A concert will also be given in Hamilton on March 4th.

The concert itself holds fair to be no disappointment, even to those familiar with Toronto's many musical feasts. Mr. J. D. A. Trip is well pleased with the progress of his students of 150 student voices, and its choros forte, combined with the chamber music of the Toronto String Quartet, should give unique and pleasing results.

As the time draws near the rigors of practice are being insisted on, and the names of several novices who have been struck from the roll and will be notified by letter.

A full practice society will be held on Thursday of this week in the Medical Building, at five o'clock, when subscribers should be called in. Members should be sure to bring their lists with them.

ADDRESS AT FORESTERS' CLUB

Mr. James Lawler, secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, was the speaker before the Foresters' Club on Thursday evening. The president, Mr. T. W. Dwight, occupied the chair. As the meeting was an open one, many outsiders were present, and the opportunity to hear such an able lecturer dealt with an all-important question.

Under the title, "Canada's Forest Problems," Mr. Lawler's address showed the danger into which the nation is drifting on account of the lack of conservative forest management.

The fact that the forest resources of the Dominion are only from one-half to one-third of those of the United States, makes it clear that vigorous public action is essential to the material progress of the country. Mr. Lawler had special emphasis on this point that not the product, but the influence, of the woodland was perhaps the most important.

A series of excellent slides told the dismal tale of desert-making, erosion, and floods in other countries, and of the travelling and dances in our own province. The number of deserted farms is a clear proof of the absolute necessity of a strong conservative policy in relation to the forest. Through the body which Mr. Lawler represents, it is hoped to get public sentiment behind the conservation movement.

ELECTRICAL CLUB MEETS

On Thursday evening the Electrical Club received an interesting demonstration of the "Oscillograph" by H. W. Price, B. Sc. The construction of the machine and its use were well explained verbally and by slides. The oscillograph was put in operation, the form of current and voltage waves being directed upon a screen and varied by the use of different devices, as lamps, transformers, choke coils, etc. The apparatus facilitates very considerably the study of complex forms of electric energy.

ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Architects, held last Wednesday night, Professor C. H. C. Wright of the Faculty of Applied Science was elected vice-president. All the leading architects of the Province are members of the Association, and we are pleased to see they have thus shown their appreciation of Professor Wright's untiring efforts towards improving the architectural course in the University, as well as doing much in the interests of the Association.

OPENING SERMON FOR EASTER TERM

Prin. Gandier delivers address on Life of Moses, Good attendance of Students and faculty

From the life of Moses, Prin. Gandier drew the materials for a splendid address in the opening sermon of the University series on Sunday morning. There was a fair attendance of students and quite a number of professors were on the platform. Prof. Kierstead of McMaster conducted the devotional exercises.

The life of Moses brings us back to the ancient culture of Egypt. He was a child of destiny, fitted in a peculiar way to become the emancipator of his people. They are bound to all the advantages of a high stamp of culture, kept aloof from the sadness of the world until maturity. In the incident recorded in the Bible, Moses was forced upon him the suffering of his people. They are bound to a social order which does not advance and which at every opportunity seeks to grind out the very existence.

Moses, called of God to be the saviour of that race, renounces the life he had lived and takes up the work which God had placed before him. Moses was educated in a way which helped him at this very time.

Especially to students, who for a time are set aside, so to speak, from the world for a brief period of preparation, the address of God has a work for each one to do. The speaker deprecated any who allowed their spirit of refinement or their love of learning to force them from the suffering of mankind. The mission of religion is to create a broader sympathy among men which counts all men as brothers. This is the heart of the gospel of redeeming love; that the Son of God became obedient unto the cross of suffering and pain.

The address closed with a brief reference to the Scriptures on the Mount. The love of God has flowed in human channels such as we can reach, and the cause of the needy will ever be the cause of Christ. Let us as students leave away the vain ambitions of the world, and have the opportunity of service to our fellowmen.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS' BANQUET

The student volunteers of Toronto held a banquet at Williams' cafe on Tuesday evening, at which address, were given by the delegates to Rochester.

In speaking on behalf of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, Mr. Armstrong, assistant secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, intimated that this organization would supply money for the support of 1,600 missionaries during the next few years. The changing condition of the Orient demanded immediate action, and it remains for the 7,000 students of Canada to supply the men. In the words of J. R. Mort, Canada must lead in the supplying of men as has led in the Missionary Movement. He also intimated that a convention would be held in Canada two years hence to bring before the world in position the definite needs of the world.

The address of Mr. Oliver of the University of Saskatchewan outlined to some extent all that to the world. Other addresses were given by Dr. Robinson, Dr. Hunter, Messrs. Brecken, Campbell and Jackson. The President of the Union, Mr. James M. Menzies, presided at the gathering, which numbered over one hundred.

GOOD PLAY FOR THEATRE NIGHT

This, the third annual event, is destined to be a success, for obvious reasons: first, a splendid play has been secured. Written by Mrs. F. H. Burnett, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" is a play that excites and thrills, and that seems to have an irresistible appeal for everyone. During a successful all-season run last year in New York, it made a brilliant name for itself as a stage classic. Eleanor Robson needs no introduction. Those who were fortunate in seeing her in "Merely Mary Ann," "Salome Jane," used only to imagine her in the part of "Glad," a simple task with a philosophy all her own, a philosophy of cheerfulness—something bigger and more inspiring than the optimism of "Mrs. Wiggs" and kindred other characters.

A second indication of assured success is in the feasibility of following in the footsteps of former successes, with an improvement, or an added novelty here or there (for, as in former days, "Variety is the spice of life").

Further, an increasing interest in the affair, together with an increasing University spirit, in general, are important factors to be considered.

ALL READY FOR SCHOOL DINNER

The Engineering Society has everything in readiness for the feast on Wednesday evening, and already the sale of tickets indicates that the undergraduates do not intend to miss the annual event, worthy as it is, of long remembrance. From this distance the list of speakers looks interesting to say the least. The toast, "Canada and the Empire" will be responded to by Dr. J. A. Macdonald. President Falcous will read the toast, "The University of Toronto." Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Public Works, and chairman of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers (Toronto branch), will honor the toast, "The Engineering Profession," and Mr. Louis Simpson, a prominent figure in the electrical ore reduction movement, will respond to "Canadian Industries."

A large number of members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association have signified their intention of being present, as well as a host of graduates from far and near.

GO-EDS DISPORT THEMSELVES ON ICE

U. C. Team Beats Victoria at Varsity Rink on Saturday, Score 4-1

The University College ladies demonstrated their superiority over Victoria College Saturday morning by defeating them 4 goals to 1, in a good exhibition of hockey. University College had the advantage of the play all through the game and kept the puck almost continually in their opponents' territory. The first goal was scored by Miss McLaren of Victoria, but before half-time, Miss McDonald netted a nice one on the side, leaving the half-time score 1-1.

In the second half, University College really showed that they could play hockey, time and time again the puck was taken the full length of the ice by the good combination play of the forwards. Miss Hunter played well as rover and was responsible for most of the scoring. The Varsity defense stopped nearly everything that came their way, including the "girl," and also pulled off some very pretty individual ruses. Too much credit cannot be given to Miss Ann Sutherland, '10, in goal for several phenomenal stops. Victoria showed a lamentable lack of combination and for some reason or other did not seem able to "get going." The winning team lined up as follows:—Goal, Miss Sutherland, '10; point, Miss M. Harry, '11; rover, Miss R. Fairbairn, '11; rover, Miss A. Hunter, '12; center, Miss O. Bonnar, '10; left wing, Miss O. Angus, '09; right wing, Miss E. McDonald, '10; spare, Miss Murphy, '13.

SALE OF THEATRE NIGHT TICKETS

The theatre night committee, recognizing the difficulties that arise to prevent members of the faculties from presenting themselves for tickets with the same facility as students, have decided to place on sale a limited number of tickets for permanent members of the staff only. This sale begins in each faculty and college on Wednesday, Jan. 19th, while the sale to students and sessional members begins on Thursday. The scale of prices for the tickets is set from 50 cents to $2.00. The place of sale in each faculty may be found out from the posters.

THE DINING HALL

Most of the student body have at one time or another fallen under the influence of the dining hall, over the portal of which might well be inscribed the motto, "Abandon hope all ye who enter here." The writer has served his term there and, along with the rest of its patrons, felt that things were not all that could be desired. The dining hall (directed by household economists, with emphasis on the last word) is run, we understand, on a strictly scientific plan. Every normal individual receives the proper kind of food at the right time and in the right quantity. Indifference for the success of this plan, many of its patrons are not normal. For those who delight in starry heads, the dining hall, by its deserts, should prove to them a veritable Elysium. Of course, we realize perfectly that with the high price of provisions it is impossible to give first-class meals at the present low rate.

However, we think that some change might be made in the present system by which students would have a little more freedom in selecting the dishes which would best suit their peculiar needs. Such a system is in vogue at other universities. For example, at the Memorial dining hall at Harvard, students pay a small sum every week for which they receive certain staple articles of food, and whatever else they desire they pay for à la carte. By this means they are enabled to regulate the price of their own meals and also to obtain more variety. This would enable students fond of a milk diet to have as many glasses of the same as they desire, while in the dining hall here, a request for a second glass is met by a look of horror from the waiter, who, after he recovers from his surprise, answers in a sad, firm voice, "Only one milk." The dining hall, owing to its convenient situation, is practically the living-room for the residences. The lack of a dining hall in the residences and the defects of the existing one, constitute one of the chief reasons why there is no great rush for rooms in the residences. If some change were brought about in the present dining hall system it would have a very appreciable effect in filling the residences. There is an opportunity for the Students' Parliament to show its muscle and confer a favor on those who hunger and thirst.

THEATRE NIGHT

The annual theatre night is here to remain. It is certainly a University event of more than ordinary bearing—one that is fast assuming the guise of an undergraduate tradition. It is regrettable that none is not being accomplished in the endeavour to clear away the mists that still intervene between the different institutions comprising our University. No one likes to appreciate the efforts that are being made in this direction. The University theatre night is undoubtedly an important event in the yearly life of the University, and it is a pity that it is not more widely appreciated and enjoyed by all.

The editor again wishes to impress on contributors and members of the staff the necessity of handing in the copy as early as possible. For Tuesday's issue a considerable amount must be handed in on Friday or Saturday, and for Friday's issue some of it must be in before Thursday morning. If this is not done it entails a great deal of extra trouble in getting out the paper, as the printers have to work on it overtime and seldom are through with it before 7 p.m. Hereafter, if the news were written and handed in immediately after the event occurs, it would be much appreciated by all concerned in getting out the paper.

THE ADVOCATE

The undergraduates' opinions, which were published in connection with the proposal to return the final examination papers, show that although there were several criticisms, the project was looked upon favorably in a majority of cases. Members of the faculty, however, and a few students, have made it clear that it would be practically impossible to return the papers if they contained the marks as at present. The comparing of answers and the possibility of ill-feeling which might come as a result, are the chief objections. Moreover, the return of papers and marks would force the adoption of a more mechanical method of examining, which would not be in the interest of the candidates.

Would it not be possible, however, to give back either the papers alone or the marks alone? On this question the "Advocate" found the greatest difference of opinion. Several members of the faculty said that it would be much harder to return the papers—they claimed that giving out marks would be unwise. Another branch of the administration thought that it would be a forward move to return the marks, but that giving back the papers would lead to much discontent among the students. Undergraduate opinion on the whole, especially in the literary courses, particularly to receive back the papers.

There are practical difficulties, however, in the way of the latter suggestion, for it would be inconvenient if the examiner had to make his marking on a separate sheet. If this objection could be overcome, the plan might be feasible. The undergraduates, on the other hand, who would give the marks, point out that, by this method, they could know his exact stand without forcing the examiners to make the system too mechanical. In connection with this discussion, many opinions have been expressed in regard to a change in the examinations themselves. For example, it has been suggested that, if there were three final examinations in a year instead of one, there would be a greater benefit in giving back the papers. The idea in these articles, however, has not been to consider the question of any change in the examinations that has been discussed time and time again in many places, but to suggest points in which the present system could be improved, or at least made more popular.

STUDENT WORK AT TOKYO

Mr. E. C. Carter of New York addressed a meeting in Convention Hall on Sunday afternoon. He pointed out the position in that field where ten thousand Chinese students have gathered to study that they may go back to their own country as leaders. The University of Toronto has in the past supported a Y.M.C.A. secretary in that field by voluntary subscriptions from the students. A campaign will be pushed for the next two weeks for the purpose of raising a sum of money for that work.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The elections for the permanent executive of the fourth year in University College were held on Friday. Those elected were President, J. W. Lunney; vice-president, Mrs. M. Hamilton; secretary-treasurer, H. A. W. Brown; councillors, G. A. MacDonald, A. Fry, Miss Smithson and Miss Dalyrimple.

The executive of the graduating year in University College have announced the date of the dinner for Thursday, Feb. 17th. Several graduate speakers, including Pres. Falconer, will be present.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Members of the staff are requested to note that they may secure tickets for theatre night at Mr. Laing's office on Wednesday, a limited number being set aside for them. The sale to the students of the faculty will not begin until Thursday, at 1.45, and will take place in the Engineering Building.

A. W. J. Stewart, '08, who is in town at present from Montreal, brings the sad news of the death of W. E. Cole, a member of the Civil section of '08. Mr. Cole succumbed to typhoid fever on Dec. 31st of last year.

The members of the 11th year who have not journeyed to Parks Bros. in the interests of the year photo are requested to do so as soon as possible.

At present many of the men of the nonpay-oughts are around on a visit. In addition to those mentioned in last issue are J. E. Alchough, '09, who goes to Montreal shortly, in the interests of the Expanded Metal and Plumbing Co., J. H. Young, '08, of the B.C. Electric, back to call on his own, T. H. Plunkett, Da. Sec. 22, home with a myriad of figures from a season's survey in British Columbia; and "Gaius" Johnston, '09, who has been looking through a transit at the Horseshoe, and returns as his O.L.S. Another to return is L. A. McLean, of Edmonton, who arrived on Saturday night. Mr. McLean is also back for D.L.S.

On Wednesday afternoon the Thermo and Hydraulic laboratories were visited by President Falconer, Hon. W. J. Hanna, and several others. Of course, everything was in splendid running order, and, according to student report, a splendid set of observations was obtained, although everybody forgot to do nothing.

Fourth year miner to professor: "Doctor, is there a very large mass of lodestone at the magnetic pole?"

MEDICAL NOTES

There is some class to the two basketball teams which the Meds. have in the field for honors this year. The Juniors are very fast and will make the best of them step the line to beat them. The victory over Junior Arts, a fast combination of men, was one of the best games seen on the gym floor for many days. "Tennis" is just about as good as there is. The other members of the team were Cook and Smith '14, and Mahoney and Finch '13. The Seniors are some players too, and they defeated Victoria by a fairly large margin on Tuesday last. Junior Meds. play Junior School on the 18th.

Nominations for the general Medical officers will be held on Friday, the 1st. There is going to be something doing at these elections, which take place a week later. Just at present, it is not known who will be brought out for the chief office, that of President of the Medical Society. Several names are mentioned. There will be a big field of candidates for all the offices, at any rate.

Fred Davis, '13, blew in a few days ago after a happy but lengthy holiday.

It would not be such a dreadful surprise to many of the second year if it in the coming elections, there are regular tickets which some of the students propose to vote on. At least there are rumors of canopies being held, and regular political affairs they are said to be. All the rules for such "statutory" affairs are observed. It is not known whether this is the direct result of over-excitement concerning the big struggle in Great Britain or not, but it is thought must be the case. In the meantime, watch out for the aforementioned tickets.

The students of the first year are plugging away for those finals in February in Biology and Inorganic Chemistry.

OPEN MEETING OF THE MEDICAL SOCIETY

Dean Clark was the speaker at the first open meeting of the Medical Society after Christmas, held in the 4th year lecture room on Friday afternoon. His paper on "Care of the Insane," was ably dealt with and proved of interest to the large number of students who were present. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered very ably by Campbell, '10. Dr. Wagner rendered some violin selections which were of a high order. President Lane occupied the chair. This is only one of the many interesting meetings which the Medical Society have held.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

Miss May O'Neil, B.A., is teaching moderns at Owen Sound Collegiate for the month of January.

A most interesting meeting of the Y.C.A. was held on Friday evening. Miss Cowan, one of the delegates to the Rochester Convention, gave the history of the Student Volunteer Movement and some of her impressions of the convention.

Mr. Archibald has been appointed F.O.E. representative to the Trinity dance.

The first meeting of the Literary Society for this term was held on Saturday night in the Students' Union. The attendance was unusually small and the proceedings were rather slow and uninteresting, in comparison with our former meetings, although there was quite a lively discussion regarding the undignified, unbecomingly conducted of our president downtown on the last day of the fall term. The main feature was the nomination of officers for the second executive of the L.L. There was no program owing to the absence of all those who had agreed to take part. Mr. Baylone acted as critic in the absence of the two regular critics.

FORESTRY

One of the important features of the business at Thursday night's meeting was the appointment of a committee, consisting of Messrs. G. H. Macdonald, Geo. Smith and R. G. Lewis, to look into the matter of holding a formal function under the auspices of the club. A date or dinner will probably be held in the near future.

From some thirty designs submitted, a Forestry plot has been chosen. When made up the effect will be very pretty.

The matter of choosing a yell for the Faculty was brought to a vote on Thursday night, when it was decided to hold a competition under the management of the executive. One of the new yells will be given to the successful composer.

A letter was received from the Yale Foresters' Club, conveying good wishes for the New Year, and expressing the hope that the bonds between Forest Schools in America might be strengthened. A resolution was carried that the President reciprocate these sentiments.

The next meeting of the club will be on January 17th, when Hon. Mr. Kernow will give an address on "The Work of the Conservation Commission." Dr. Fernow is attending the convention in Ottawa to-day.

NEW DEPARTURE IN VARSITY GYMNASIICS

To meet needs of ordinary Students
Interfacu Competition in Elementary work

The executive of the Gymnasium Club wish to call general attention to the interfacu team competition in elementary gymnastics which has been undertaken by the club this year. This is an entirely new departure in University gymnastics, and as the object at which it aims is, we believe, a praiseworthy one, the club are hoping for the active co-operation and interest of the student body in making it a success. Stress is to be laid upon the fact that the competition in question is expressly designed to meet the needs and capabilities of the ordinary student who goes upon the gym floor to find recreation and exercise rather than to make a study of higher gymnastics. With this object in view, the committee in charge have debarred from the competition all members of the local gymnastics clubs, and have drawn up the exercises which the contestants will be required to perform on a very elementary basis. The work set is of such a nature that any naturally healthy individual with a normal equipment of body and brain will find no difficulty in performing it with a very little practice. Judging, then, will take into consideration the "form" with which the contestants go through the exercises set.

The competition, as indicated above, is to be between teams from the different faculties. These teams will consist of from 7 to 12 men—all members of the winning squad to share equally in the laurels of victory. The basis of training will be in the work of the regular Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday afternoon sessions, and henceforth the men on the gym floor will be lined up in faculty squads and put through the work set for the competition. The training will be directed by members of the senior gym class, and competent leaders will be at once provided for those faculties which turn out a sufficient number of men to compose a squad.

The date of competition has been set for Friday afternoon, the 4th of February. A suitable faculty trophy will be provided, and each member of the winning team will be presented with a medal.

We are hoping that the proposed competition, with its possibilities of honor, glory, and silverware, will tend to awaken a more general and vigorous interest in gymnastics in this University.

Information may be obtained from Dr. Barton, Prof. Williams, or any officer of the Gymnasium Club.

DELEGATES' REPORT

The delegates from University College to Rochester Convention addressed a large gathering of students on Sunday evening, Mr. W. G. Rose occupied the chair and outlined some of the results and aims of the convention. The greatest result was renewed interest and activity in Christian missions. Dr. Robinson emphasized the inspiration received from the personell of the convention. The total absence of emotion, combined with an intensity of feeling and simplicity lent an impression upon all attend-

Mr. Sibbald, U.C. '11, spoke of the present crisis in the missionary world, which challenged the attention of the Christian Church. He was followed by Miss I. Robinson, who, in an excellent address, spoke of the cry of the non-Christian world of Islam.

The situation in India and South America was outlined by Mr. Staples and Mr. Shirley. Mr. Lyons spoke of the plans for the furtherance of missions shortly to be undertaken in University College.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Rev. Dr. Paterson Smyth has been giving a course of lectures in pastoral theology during the week, which were well attended and much appreciated. It is intended that the course will extend over the next four years.

The oratorical contest was held on Thursday. The Provost took the chair and the judges were the Rev. Paterson Smyth, L.L.D., Rev. Dr. T. Dwyer, M.A., and C. C. Robinson, Esq., M.A. The programme consisted of a piano solo by Mr. L. C. Martin, seven speeches, and a song by J. S. Ditchburn. The judges, after an absence of only five minutes, awarded the laurels to William Durt, who spoke on "The Budget in its Relation to Social Conditions," the second place to H. G. Hisscock, and the third to A. H. Sweet. Wolfe and Morley were equally commended. An informal dance took place after the contest.

At a recent College meeting the Provost addressed the students about a department of the college which is of undying interest to them. His remarks were very interesting but did not always agree with the sentiments of the students, neither, in one particular, did they agree with the verdict of a microscope.

HISTORICAL CLUB

A meeting of the Historical Club was held on Thursday night at the residence of Mr. U. W. Flavell, Queen's Park. The subject for the evening was "Some American Questions," and the following papers were read: "The Monroe Doctrine," by L. C. Morley, "The American Colonies," by H. G. Hisscock, and "The American Colonies," by H. G. Hisscock. Considerable discussion followed the reading of the papers.

THOUGHTS

(Inspired by the Junior University Debating Society.)

I will not conceal the truth;
I will not be a tallow youth
When I entered as a freshman
In the year of One-Only
(Which was greatly to my glory).
But I now am rather sorry
That I did not wait till One-Three
My bumble course to run.

By coming two years later,
As a rising young debater,
I might have written to mama,
And told her all about it.
This pleasure was denied me,
And a tear drops down beside me
As I write, for, by this blow of Fate,
I needs must do without it.

Once, billed to make a speech,
I had Fame within my reach.
I lost my nerve, and since have been
The prey of vain regrets.
For, when called upon to read it,
Which, though greatly to my credit,
Was treated very lippantly
By several sweet-freelights.

Then can my readers wonder
When I ran and wail, and thunder,
And curse, and weep a vanished youth,
Bereft by Alma Mater?
Oh, would I, oh, would I, O, pity me,
If I had come with One-Three,
Think what a triumph I had been—
A happy, young debater.

—Pro Bono Publico, '11.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Large Number of Graduates Attend—Many Guests from Canadian Manufacturers' Association—Speeches by Dr. J. A. MacDonald, Pres. Falconer and others

The members of the Engineering Society are grateful to the executive not only for its endeavours to make the event what they expected it to be, an unqualified success, nor for the excellent report, but also for its prudent handling of its guests, live members of its industrial association, whose success depends largely upon technical education.

Over one hundred guests were present, a large number of these being members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, a further goodly percentage being graduates, and the remainder, for the most part, students.

In replying to the toast, "Canada and the Empire," proposed by Mr. A. C. McLeod, Mr. J. A. MacDonald warned against the evils of economic social and industrial waste in our country, and exhorted the necessity of trained engineers to cope with the gigantic problem of conservation and prudent management of our natural resources. Industrial waste can be cured only through thorough and systematic technical education and the practical application in the industries of the country of scientific knowledge.

the executive on the brilliant success of the dinner in every way. He expressed in a misty opinion of the students when he remarked that no better or more appropriate speaking on subjects relative to engineering has ever been heard.

The defence lecture quite sustained and reinforced the reputation made at the last annual dinner and on other occasions, while the meal and toasts were in progress, favored their hearers with something which suggested that engineering and music should travel hand in hand.

LETTER FROM PROFESSOR DAVIDSON

Editor of The Varsity:

Dear Sir,—I was much interested in the article on examinations in your issue of last week. As I have long held some very definite views on this matter, I venture to communicate them to you in the hope that you may further a discussion on the subject.

I think everyone recognizes that our annual examinations are a great burden to candidates and examiners alike. These examinations are a traditional part of our system, taken over from many other things, some good, others bad, from the English system. It seems almost a sacrifice to attack them, yet I do not believe that they are necessary or useful, at least in their present extent.

An examination, to my mind, serves two main purposes:—that of a review, and that of affording the instructor an opportunity of estimating the work of the student. Both of these purposes would be attained by a brief written test or oral examination held during the regular lecture hour on the completion of any particular division of the work. But even these informal tests are unnecessary where the work is not purely lecture work, but consists of exercises in which the student takes part from day to day. A record of the individual performance of each student in such exercises is surely a better basis for estimating his work than an examination held at the end of the year when most of us are mentally fatigued, for which one has to cram and which is influenced by varying conditions of health, good or bad luck, etc.

This cramming of facts, to be disgorged at a given moment, has very little to recommend it. It may be useful on rare occasions, or in certain occupations, for instance, the practice of the law, to be able to work up a subject very quickly, but to forget all about it when it is disposed of, but this is a very small advantage compared to the serious drawbacks of such preparation. The student is encouraged to approach knowledge, not for its own sake and for the culture which it gives, but solely from the viewpoint of examinations.

These examinations do not afford an accurate estimate of a student's attainments. I remember that during my college course I once obtained second-class honors in a subject which I began to study only at four o'clock on the day preceding the examination; and in another subject, after obtaining first-class honors practically without study in my first year, I became interested in my second year, worked hard and really knew the work, had dropped nearly to the bottom of the second-class honor list at the examination. Almost any graduate can, I venture to say, repeat similar experiences. The May examination owes to its length and the number of subjects in which each must pass, is a terrible strain, mentally and physically, a strain with some succumb, and by which few, I think, are felt unimpaired.

Again, if the May examination were abolished, the work of teaching might go on through May, and the number of lectures per week correspondingly lessened. Of course, one set and formal examinations would still be necessary for those competing for scholarships and prizes, but these would occupy but a few days. The great bulk of final examinations would be banished and we should be enabled to proceed with our pursuit of knowledge in a leisurely and scholarly way.

To crystallize the recommendations which I would deduce from the above—

1. Abolish the May examination, except for candidates for scholarships and prizes.
2. Accept the report of each instructor upon the standing of each student, allowing the instructor to apply the tests he deems necessary to enable him to estimate such standing.
3. Candidates should have the right of appeal as at present.
4. Prolong the work of instruction through May.

In conclusion, I think that this system of mutual examination would tend to bring instructor and student closer together. Papers would be of course, be returned, as suggested by "The Advocate."

Yours truly,

F. J. A. DAVIDSON.

CHOSEN RHODES' SCHOLAR

The Rhodes' Scholarship, which goes this year to the Province of Saskatchewan, has been awarded to Mr. Douglas Fraser, of the class of 1910, and University College. Mr. Fraser came to Toronto from Regina in the fall of 1908, entering upon the second year of the political science course. Last year, besides taking a high standing in his course, he won the P.W. Ellis silver medal for an economic essay, the result of summer research work. His frank, quiet manner, manly qualities and undoubted thoroughness and conscientious ability, have won him a wide popularity among his classmates. This year he has notably filled the position of secretary of the University West-end Club.

Mr. Fraser will go to Oxford in the autumn to the department of Jurisprudence. He will be greatly inspired by his wide circle of Varsity friends, whose good wishes he carries with him.

ARTS DANCE TOOK PLACE LAST NIGHT

Large attendance at gymnasium — Fralicks Orchestra furnished music

The annual "at home" of the men's and women's literary societies of University College—or, as it is more commonly known, "The Arts Dance"—was held in the gymnasium last evening and was in every way a complete success. The attendance was large, and in the opinion of those present, the evening was one of the pleasantest of the academic year. The programme, which commenced at 8 o'clock, included eighteen dances and a number of songs, the music being provided by Fralick's orchestra of 15 pieces. A delectable supper was served upstairs while the dances were in progress.

The hostesses were,—Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Falconer, Lady Clark, Lady Whitney, Mrs. Ramsay Wright, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Brecher, Mrs. T. A. Russell, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. McCurdy, Mrs. Campbell and Miss Salter.

The Dance Committee were as follows:—Chairman, L. C. Moyer; secretary, R. R. Evans; A. Olinch, J. M. McPherson, E. H. Senior, E. D. Tyler, J. S. Allen, W. L. Ellis, W. H. McNaught, C. B. Macdonald, V. C. Gordon, K. H. McCrimmon, P. L. Armstrong, O. Dymont, F. Hosser, and D. Scott.

VARSITY WINS FROM PARKOALE

A Close Game at Mutual—Team Strengthened by Frith and Led All the Way

On Tuesday night, at Mutual Street rink, Varsity defeated Parkoale in a handout, a defeat in Parkoale to the tune of 2 to 5. The ice was very soft and sticky and only a small crowd was present. Varsity presented a much stronger team than in the first match and showed that they will make them all hostile for the championship. Varsity had slightly the advantage in weight, which helped some on account of the slow condition of the ice. In the first half, play was fairly even, but in the beginning of the second half, Parkoale seemed to tire and Varsity scored twice in succession. Parkoale then wakened up and pressed hard, scoring two, but Varsity came right back at them and made the last tally of the game. Frith of the intercollegiate team was a great strength, and Armstrong and Parker showed good form.

The teams were:

Referee—J. M. McArthur.

CENTRAL Y. M. C. A. BEATS VARSITY

The first game in the City League basketball series was played on Tuesday, Jan. 18th, at Varsity Gym between Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. and Varsity. It resulted in a win for the Central five by a score of 35-20. The game was a splendid exhibition of basketball although numerous fouls were imposed by Referee Stafford in his efforts to keep the game free from roughness. The score indicates that play fairly well. Central showed superiority in combination work and accuracy. Varsity, however, with a little more practice can undoubtedly give them a much closer run than this first performance.

The lineup:
Central—Schert, Dymont, Tompkins, Swanson and Britton.

Varsity—Whyte, Dixon (capt.), Simpson, Birch, Wood.

As a preliminary, Varsity II lost to Central II by the close score of 31-30. Varsity had much the better side of the play but lost through a poor shot from the last few minutes of play. Team—Brown, Cooke, Butters, Dublin, Livingston.

WITH THE BASKETBALLERS

There will be but one likely change in the intercollegiate team of last year as for the team are again out. Butters and "Butter" Brown are out after the place.

"Marsh" Whyte, last year's captain, is again out and is getting back into old-time form.

Dixon and Wood are again playing defense, in which positions they did such good work last year. The city league team will be the hummer. Simpson has developed into a splendid centre man. Dixon will probably go to forward with Whyte. Brock and Wood will play defence. Brock and Wood have played several years together on the London senior team and played a great game together.

The seconds played All Saints' first team on Thursday night, but lost by the small margin of two points, score being 25-26. It was one of the lastest intermediate games seen around Varsity. The seconds have a good team in Batters, Chalkwick, Brown, Brock and Dobbin.

The intercollegiate series is in full swing now and is developing some star material.

SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS

On Saturday, Jan. 22nd, at 2:30 p.m., the annual swimming, diving, and plunging contests will be held. Silver and bronze medals will be the reward for first and second places in each event. With the exception of the first year students, those who secure positions will be sent to represent Varsity at McGill in Montreal on Jan. 29th. Eleven will be sent to Montreal, including the water polo team. An exhibition game of water polo will be played, and Mr. James M. Tyrell, who is one of the world's greatest swimmers, will give an exhibition. The ladies will be admitted. The events:—50 yards, 100 yards on back, 100 yards, 50 yards three style, 200 yards, fancy diving, plunging for distance.

REV. J. A. MACDONALD

President Falconer, responding to the toast, "The University," proposed by Mr. E. P. Gray, urged that these natural resources are no resources until they are converted into use for the necessities of human life, and the enlargement of the human faculties. The University must turn out men who can justify to this province the wisdom of expenditure of money upon it, who can explain what the University is, and means, and who can prove that intellectual study is necessary for the real development of the Dominion.

Mr. A. D. Campbell proposed the "Canadian Industries." Replies were made by Mr. Louis Simpson of Ottawa, who dealt with the progress made during the last few years in the electric smelting of ores; by Mr. J. P. Murray, who pointed out that the textile industry was a part with the iron and steel industries, and just as deserving of the attention of the University; and by Mr. P. W. Ellis, who spoke of the scientific use of water power as a substitute for the product of the disappearing coal fields.

"The Engineering Profession" was proposed by Mr. R. B. Johnston and duly responded to by Mr. W. J. Blair. Both gentlemen traced from the time of the ancients to the present the progressive march of engineering.

Dr. Galt, the Dean of the Faculty, spoke briefly, complimenting

FINAL EXAMINATIONS

This subject has been worried with criticism in undergraduate publications and at undergraduate meetings, but it yet survives unchanged in its defective yet unassuming simplicity. Things academic are slow to change. There has lately been some discussion as to the advisability of returning the papers and the marks, but we fail to see the advantages accruing from such a step except in the case of literary papers. However, this is a minor and unimportant detail when compared with a change in the system itself.

We publish a letter from Prof. Davidson on this subject, and we wish to express our entire agreement with the ideas therein set forth. The ideal put forward by a University is surely something more than the mere acquiring of a certain number of marks on a certain subject, and too much stress would be laid on this side if the marks were returned. Moreover, the marking is a more or less arbitrary decision, especially on literary papers. One student obtains 75 and another 74, yet the first appears in the first class while the latter has to be content with a second.

We claim that the present examination system is not a fair test of a student's knowledge on any subject neither is it a fair standard by which to judge his year's work. An examination paper can only cover certain parts of the work and make the existing course of studies, which are almost too weak in their range, it is impossible to cover all the work thoroughly. Of course, if the ideal in the amount of work covered rather than the manner in which it is covered, then the present system is perfect.

Again, many students naturally of a nervous character do not appear at their best in examinations. The nervous strain and excitement are too much for them, and the consequence is that they do not do themselves justice. The health of many a student has been impaired, if not completely ruined, as a result of the examinations. Furthermore, certain subjects are divided into different parts, one of which is taken up before Christmas in class and then the student without any test of knowledge. In May, however, this part reappears in the form of a final examination, on which the student's knowledge is expected to be as fresh as if he had just felt the subject the day before. This is particularly the case on all language papers where authors are concerned.

Another regrettable feature of a final examination is the "retraining" which always precedes it. The fault in this, of course, lies in the students themselves. But this "retraining" is an almost inevitable feature of such examinations and does not conduce to a permanent knowledge for the subject in question is learnt for a certain day on which the examination is set, and after which the knowledge fades rapidly away. The result is that graduates are turned out with a degree, but with no knowledge of the subjects on their curriculum.

A remedy for this condition is difficult to find. The ideal system is that adopted by the staff in Italian, where students are questioned in class (not in alphabetical order) and marks are given for their answers. In this way a student gets up his work as he goes along, and the knowledge is acquired in permanent and at the same time the faculty can judge accurately of the condition of a student's work. Such a plan, however, would not, unfortunately, be feasible in all subjects, owing to the large number in some classes and the mere act of marking themselves. Even a system of term examinations throughout the year would be an improvement. They would necessitate a student's keeping up with his work and would not have the nervous strain of the final examinations. The matter is one of vital importance, and a solution of it is necessary if the University is to perform with success its function of thoroughly training men.

THE POWER OF PERSONALITY

There is an indescribable something in certain persons which is greater than mere physical beauty and more powerful often than learning. This charm of personality is a divine gift that sways even the strongest characters and sometimes controls the destiny of nations. We are unconsciously influenced by men who possess this magnetic force. The moment we come into their presence we have a sense of enlargement, of expansion in every direction. New conceptions come to us, a horizon hitherto unimagined is opened to our view.

We have been tempted to finer issues. We have caught a glimpse of higher ideals, and, for the moment at least, we have resolved to make permanently ours the forces that have been revealed to us. Even a momentary contact with a character of this kind serves to dole out our mental powers, as two great dynamo seem to touch the current that passes over the wire.

On the other hand, we frequently meet people who make us draw back. The moment they come near we experience a narrowing sensation, which makes us feel a decided loss of power. We instinctively feel that such people are not in sympathy with our aspirations, and our natural prompting is to guard closely any expression of our hopes and ambitions. When they are near us our noblest purposes shrink into insignificance. The effect of their presence is paralyzing and we hasten from them as soon as possible.

If we study these two types of personality, we shall find that the chief difference between them is that the first loves his kind and that the latter does not. Of course, that rare charm of manner which came to those who come within the sphere of its influence, and that strong personal magnetism which induces all hearts towards its fortunate possessor, are largely natural gifts. But we shall find that the man who practices unselfishness, who is generally interested in the welfare of others, who seeks to a privilege to have the power to do a fellow-creature a kindness where he goes. He will bring encouragement to and uplift every life that touches his. This type of personality all University men may and ought to cultivate.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

In the daily Star of Monday, we noticed the following re the Arts degree: "Chairman, Mrs. L. C. Moyer; secretary, Mrs. R. K. Evans." We did not hear of these happy events, and not heard of this opportunity of congratulating Messrs. Moyer and Evans.

There is a freshman's notice on the bulletin board about class pins, and the last part reads: "To obtain them first it is necessary to present enrollment card." We congratulate the secretary on the excellent grammar of this gem of literature. It is a credit to the freshman class.

Even the minds of the freshmen are not satisfied with their class pin, as they held a meeting at which it was decided to hold a new competition. We would sharply advise all contestants to leave little severely alone and confine their poetic effusions to English.

Mr. Gordon Hunter, '11, has left college to join the editorial staff of the Toronto World.

FORESTRY

This year the Forestry hockey team is in very fact company in the Jennings Cup series. Senior School is coming, and perhaps the best in the whole league, and Senior Aids are not slow by any means. If Forestry must not up strong game in this group, the team can at least put it on the back.

KNOX COLLEGE

Two more games of our hockey schedule have been played off and the result is that the Junior Arts team have practically won the series. On Monday they won their theology, score 1-2, on Wednesday from Senior Arts, 7-0. The winning team lined up as follows—Goal, Trunham, point, Irving, cover, point, Boyd, rover, Chidley, centre, McQueen, left wing, Bastardo, right wing, Priestard.

The meeting of the Missionary Society last Tuesday evening was given over to our delegates who attended the Rochester Convention. Short addresses were given on different phases and impressions by the following: Memries, Sandercock, Scott, Matheson, Boyd, Sibbald, Ross, Staples, Tyndal, and Christie.

Rev. H. Rossell Bates of New York is delivering a special course of lectures in the college this week. The subject is "Evangelism," and the "Crisis Mission Problem." The plea of the man who came all the way from New York with a broken leg, in order to tell his congregation, united with the regard with which he is already held in the college to give him a most enthusiastic welcome. His lectures and the utter sincerity of the man are creating a wonderful impression on the boys.

On Wednesday evening a supper was given in the dining hall to over one hundred men from Arts. Mr. Bates delivered an inspiring address on "The Call to Service."

WYCLIFFE NOTES

The Convocation committee are busy these days arranging for the annual convocations, which takes place Friday evening, January 25th. It is a purely student function this year and the overcrowding characteristic of former seasons will be avoided. The following patronesses have kindly consented to act: Lady Moss, Mrs. S. L. Blake, Mrs. H. Howles, Mrs. F. C. Jarvis, Mrs. O'Neira, Mrs. Falconer, and Mrs. Cody.

The first high tea of the present term was held Tuesday evening. The speaker was the Rev. W. H. Black, rector of the Church of the Ascension, "Some Old and New World Contrasts" was the subject of an able, interesting and instructive address. He referred to many places of historical interest which impressed him as a visitor in the motherland. The contrasts were mainly drawn between England and Canada with respect to their size, climate, culture, Church, and the general deportment of the people. The discourse was seasoned with apt anecdotes and wit.

Mr. A. H. Howitt will represent us at the Trinity convocation.

Captain Currie is getting the hockey team into excellent trim and awaits a challenge from some of the leading college teams.

It is true that history repeats itself. Last year the seniors defeated the freshmen in the final inter-year debate. This year they have again defeated the freshmen. The number of speakers was two of their number last year and three this year. The winner of the trophy—the former two having won from Division III, and the latter defeated all hope in Division IX.

TRINITY COLLEGE

An open meeting of the Students' Missionary Society was held in the Convocation Hall on Monday, at which reports were given by delegates from the Rochester Convention. The speakers were Dr. Harley Smith, W. Hart, and Rev. C. Y. Simmons. It is a hard task for delegates to come and tell what they have heard and describe their impressions, but the speakers are to be congratulated on the way in which they imparted some of the spirit of the great meetings. Thirteen men were sent to Rochester from Trinity. A. H. Price was badly bitten by a dog in the college grounds. A doctor soon attended him, and we trust no serious trouble will ensue.

VICTORIA NOTES

Saturday evening, at the usual meeting of the Literary Society, Dr. Haining gave a very helpful and inspiring talk on Canadian citizenship. Later in the evening the House went into a committee as a whole to discuss the locker question. It was finally decided to install in the present reading room about 175 stained pine lockers, 6 ft. 6 in. x 18 in. x 12 in. The proposition got after the government very strongly but having refused to send a society representative down to McGill. The debate was hot for awhile.

Who did not the ladies serve omelet at the rink Saturday afternoon?

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon. Two most interesting reports on the recent Rochester Convention were given by Miss Hall, '11, and Miss McKenzie, '12. Miss Hall dealt with the first part of the convention, the one of oppression, and the question, is our Christianity worth giving to others, or are we merely conventional, not real Christians? Miss McKenzie gave a review of several of the mission fields and showed clearly the need of help from this land in Eastern Asia and South America, particularly.

Next week the other three representatives of the women students will give their impressions of the convention and deal with phases of it that as yet have not been presented to us.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

The next two meetings of the club will be interchanged. The French play, which was to be presented on Jan. 24th, is to be given on Feb. 24th. Papers on Poe's life and works will be read at the meeting on Monday, Jan. 24th.

VARSITY-QUEEN'S GAME A DISPLAY OF INDIVIDUAL BRILLIANCE

Team Work Made Impossible by Soft Ice—Splendid Showing of Varsity Defence—Star Play by Gallie and Richardson

Queen's went down to defeat before Varsity again on Friday last by a score of 6-2. The ice was very heavy and water was very much in evidence. It could not be considered by any means a good game of hockey, but it was nevertheless very enjoyable from a Varsity standpoint. Any attempt at combination work on either side was entirely impossible, due to the wretched condition of the ice, and the play was, as a result, almost entirely made up of individual work. Varsity's new defence made their "debut" into senior hockey with an exhibition showing short of brilliant. Gallie and Richardson were the particular shining lights, although Code also did splendid work. It was, in fact, a defence game, and the forwards had no chance to work up any speed on the line. McSloy was the most effective of the forwards, putting it all over Queen's star, Dobson, whose he was marking. Evans, Hanley and Frith also checked back splendidly, which counted for a good deal. Referee Stacy watched the game very closely, and owing to the sloppy ice, found it necessary to stall the game very often for small offences such as kicking the puck, etc.

FIRST HALF

The game began on very heavy ice. Trimble put on for 1 minute. Clackchering on both sides. Varsity press hard and close, aided by Evans and Frith. Queen's came fast, Campbell being in line. McSloy scores after 11 minutes. Campbell off for 1 minute. Hanley shoots and Evans follows suit, but no score. Queen's press, and miss up in Varsity's goal. Varsity gets away and Hanley scores in 4 minutes. Score 2-0. Code off 1 minute. Hanley makes beautiful shot, but no score. Campbell and Hanley off. Game changes to middle of the ice. Evans also off. McSloy scores in 5 min. after some clever stick-handling.

Queen's press hard, but Gallie blocks and returns in great style but fails on shot. Evans off again. Richardson scores from hand. Queen's press hard in his effort to holy-check Crawford is laid out. Delay of 4 minutes. Crawford replaces.

Frith and McSloy work good combination play. Numerous penalties for kicking the puck all through the half.

SECOND HALF

Ice somewhat heavier—thaw is, more water. Queen's have many chances to score but fail. Queen's press hard and seem more determined to score. Evans off. Code shortly after. Frith gets busy. Varsity playing but 5 men to 7 Queen's. Varsity on defence. Queen's really score after 7 min. of play, Campbell doing the trick. McSloy off. Shortly after George comes to even up. Queen's press hard but Code breaks up the rush, but loses the puck. Frith cuts rush. Gallie gets away with him, however, and scores on a beautiful long shot in 12 minutes. Score 2-2.

Play getting rather slow and no particular life in either team. Evans scores again in 3 minutes on long shot. Evans and Hanley attempt to combine, but no luck. Queen's try long shots, but nothing doing. Richardson in goal throughout like clock-work. Campbell missed an easy chance. Gallie off.

Queen's brightens up towards end by scoring for the last time. Trimble was responsible. However, Frith returns in last minute with a brilliant finale and scores after splendid stick handling. Score 6-2.

Line up—

Referee—Stacy, Kingston.

NOTES ON THE GAME

The game was Varsity's from start to finish.

"Punk" Richardson ought to go in for golf. His "putts" and "drives" from the net showed great form.

The heavy ice did not prevent Frith from displaying his usual par-excellence in clever stick-handling.

Gallie and Code play well together. The forwards certainly showed the result of Dr. Gallie's "cherry" work by their check-backing on the heavy ice.

"Chad" Toms is some manager and then some. The warmth of his satisfied smile made the ice softer at half-time.

Richardson stopped some nasty hounding shots very neatly.

Nobody has anything on "Tony" Evans for back-checking. He is the work of the team.

QUEEN'S WINS BASKETBALL GAME

Queen's retaliated beforehand for their defeat in hockey by trouncing Varsity's Basket Ball five. The Varsity team was considerably handicapped by the enforced absence of Gage at centre. However, the close score indicates the play, and Varsity lost in a hard fight.

Varsity got away to a flying start, but Queen's came back soon with a vengeance. The remainder of the game was "up and down" all the way. Time after time Varsity would tie the score, but Queen's managed to keep just a wee bit ahead all the time.

For Queen's the "Tont" Lockety played well, as also did Menzies. Dixon starred for Varsity.

Line up—

Queen's—Shier, Vanickie, Smith, Lockety and Menzies.

Varsity—Dixon, Brown, Whyte, Livingston and Wood.

Score 36-29.

M.P.'S ATTENTION

A meeting of the Parliament of the University of Toronto will be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the East Hall. At this meeting the University Orchestra and the reorganizing committee of the Parliament will come up for discussion. These are very important questions and every member ought to be in his place, as the latter question especially cannot be properly dealt with unless there is a full attendance of members.

BLESSEDNESS OF THE PURPOSEFUL LIFE

Rev. H. Roswell Bates Exhorts his Hearers to Conformity with the Divine Will

There was a large attendance at the University service on Sunday morning to hear Rev. H. Roswell Bates, pastor of Spring Street Church, New York city. The audience, chiefly of students, listened to an excellent exposition of St. John 6:38—"I am come to do the will of Him that sent me." Professor Wright of University College conducted the devotional exercises.

Throughout the life of Jesus there was an inward harmony of thought and action, having as its centre one idea. Every act was brought into harmony with that one thought, and everything which tended to detract from the attainment of that ideal had no place in his life. He was crowned with thereof, yet for Him this did not spell failure. The success of His life was due in no small measure to the fact of a descendant tendency mind to do the will of the Father.

And so it is the case for all life. In the oratorio and in the opera everything of a descendant tendency mind is eliminated that the one great theme may be brought out most clearly. In the life of the human mind, if he is to be successful, he must set himself to one goal and leave all other considerations aside. His life is bound to the one fact that he cannot turn to the one hand or to the other if he would realize the highest success in life. Men are sent into the world with a purpose, and a definite life plan is made up for each one. Success in life will depend upon the following of that leadership, and life will be truly successful only in so far as that purpose is realized. The judgment of failure can be passed only if the highest realization of the purpose that path and has not attempted to carry out the purpose and plan of God.

Little can be known of life. The future is uncertain, but even though our knowledge be meagre, God knows whether His purposes will lead us. The speaker here referred to the custom of chess players. Some of the brightest young men of the country had failed, while others less brilliant had been exceedingly successful. The reason for this was the fact that some had not united their own purpose with that of God, and others had found the place where they could be of most use and had trained every energy to the attainment of the highest goal. Others have made our plans in accordance with our ambitions, but owing to some change in circumstances all has been brought to nothing. It is a good thing to hold fast to a purpose in life, but it is infinitely better to have ourselves in God's hand, to feel that we are ready to the latest extent His plans for us. This will mean absolute self-surrender to God's will. He does not ask men to serve Him because of His great power. Rather, He draws us in love so that men voluntarily surrender all and make the purpose of Jesus their one theme in life. Then does life itself become joyful, and a new hope in the future leads men to desire to do the will of Him who has marked out the way.

PRESIDENT AND MAYOR ON THEATRE NIGHT

Will Make Speeches—Songs and Cartoons Will Also Enliven Intermissions

The good time in view for Monday evening at the Royal Alexandra is fast approaching, and preparations are likewise nearing completion. When the sale of tickets ends on Wednesday in the gymnasium building, the committee will have much more time to devote to perfecting their arrangements.

From a theatrical point of view, the play to be seen is at present being looked on as one that stands beside the usual dramatic story and conflict, an underlying theme that has direct application to problems confronting the public in everyday life; in addition to that something which binds and enforces those who believe that the stage is no place for anything but mere entertainment. As for the intermissions between acts, the same something will continue to furnish the moments with a coating of brightness, as we will have the house to ourselves. President Falconer has something to say; Mayor Geary has something to tell; the Seizure Quartet has something to sing; and our lauders have something to exhibit, all being something special for the occasion.

The editors, therefore, will welcome contributions, whether short stories, essays, or verse, submitted by the undergraduates. All this should be addressed to the Editor of The Arbor, University College, and to be published in the first number must be in by Monday at latest.

SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS

On Saturday afternoon the swimming tests were held in the gym before about a hundred spectators. There were swimming races and diving and plunging competitions, all of which were keenly contested. The winners of these events and their second place, with the exception of freestyle, will be sent down to McGill for the match on Jan. 29. Mr. Trevell of Ireland gave a beautiful exhibition of swimming. Mr. Corsan also showed the tank and with his hands and feet tied together. In the long plunge, Clark, Johnston easily won the first place, going 38 feet, the length of the tank. W. H. Cole of University College was second with 41 ft. 9 in. In the 20-yard race, MacKenzie and Foots were in a close heat and going even when Foots swam the second half which forced him to stop. In the next heat, however, Foots beat G. O. Greene of S. P.S. in a close race. The other results were as follows: 100 yards in the back—1, Shives, 40 1/2 sec.; 2, Whitehead, 50 yards, free style—1, Hodge, 1:10 sec.; 2, Johnson, 1:20 sec.; breast—1, MacKenzie, 30 sec.; 2, Clarkson. Tickets will be made available to provide tickets for as many students as possible.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Everything is progressing favorably with the graduating class "at home" as the valuable time is expected at the Metropolitan assembly rooms on the evening of Feb. 2.

About thirty members of the Electrical Club visited the Canada Cycle & Motor Works on Saturday morning. We are pleased to see W. S. Jardine in town again. Those who knew him several years ago (and everybody did) will be glad to know that Jardine has returned from a very successful survey in Northern Ontario.

The Engineering Society has arranged to have Charles Y. Knight, the inventor of the Stuart Knight motor, give a lecture on his invention in Convocation Hall on Tuesday evening, Jan. 24th. A large attendance is expected as many are interested in this recent departure from the modern types of gas engine construction.

A very successful theatre party was held at the Gayety on Friday evening—all names withheld except "Friday" and "Gayety." It seems, though, that at least one is deserving of honorable mention, having effected a monologue on the stage—a "lost of memory" affair so the papers said.

There is a general meeting of the Engineering Society on Wednesday afternoon at 4 p.m. Henry F. Bellenger, of New York, a graduate of '93, will address the Society on "Architecture." The paper is to be of interest to all of us, not as he name suggests, to those of that department of study only.

MEDICAL NOTES

A certain freshman was heard to remark, a day or so ago, after some dozen caustic had been put into his back and told him what a good fellow he was: "I never knew I was so well known among all the medical students." Beware, Mr. Freshman, and don't let him if after elections are not quite so well known.

For a few days there won't be much thought of study at the Medical College. The "Society's" elections are on, and the "right knock" is being ready facing the students at every turn. A special contingent of eight-eights has arrived in Toronto for the convenience of the candidates, who haven't the means or the automobile—of conveying the electors to the place nearest to the next best thing—offer free smokes to everybody. Sometimes it is very hard to choose the best local candidate for many important offices. The balance of power then must go to the man who produces the best quality and quantity of literary for that is really what the innocent cigarettes enthrall in elections of this kind. The candidates to the presidency have earnestly to remember—Messrs. Kells and Smith.

FORESTRY NOTES

Following the suggestion of closer relations between Forest schools, set forth in the New Year's letter to the Foresters, the Dominion Forest is sending out twice a week to six Forest schools the current news of the Club and the Dominion generally. The recent convention of the National Conservation Association in Toronto, receiving the minutes, and complete newspaper reports are being forwarded by the able communication committee, Messrs. R. M. Brown and W. J. Audin.

E. H. Finlayson represented the Club at the S.P.S. dinner. He reports a glorious time.

T. H. Tilt, manager of the Forestry hockey team, spent the week making an estimate of a wood-lot near his home, Blair, Ont. Mr. Tilt is taking an early beginning at a "consulating forester."

WYCLIFFE NOTES

Hon. S. H. Blake, who is always a welcome visitor here, addressed the class in reading and voice culture Thursday afternoon.

Rev. C. J. James, M.A., rector of Church of the Redeemer, gave an impressive talk on "Some Ideals of Student Life," at chapel service last Friday morning.

Mr. M. C. Gandler will represent us at the O.A.C. conversations, and Mr. R. B. Day goes to London University on a similar errand.

Your scribble met with no little consideration last evening when he entered Mr. A. E. Taylor's room and discovered him fondling a lady's mitt. However, the situation was not quite so serious as first suspected. It was one that was left in the Convocation Hall by some lady who had been to hear Mr. Bates Sunday evening.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Fire broke out in the College on Saturday morning, Jan. 19th. Mr. Martin's room, it was caused by the candlestick of a tinsmith in putting in a towel that caught paper floor protection. The fire was discovered very soon after it started and was easily extinguished.

On Friday a debate took place between the second and fourth years on the subject of co-education. Alcega, Wagner and Missions represented the 4th year, and Bart and Sweet the second year. The judges stated that as far as the debating was concerned they could arrive at no decision as to the superiority of either side, but to the second year lost on account of poor style. The subject will be debated on Tuesday, Feb. 1st, between Knox and Trinity.

Kind managers please note that when the clerk of the weather announces the arrival of the January thaw it is not a good time to arrange a skating party.

KNOX COLLEGE

The Students' Missionary Society will hold its semi-annual open meeting on the evening of Feb. 15th. The programme will be announced later.

Invitations have been issued by the Trinity Literary Institute to an inter-college debate between Trinity and Knox, to be held in Trinity Convocation Hall on the evening of Feb. 15th. This is the second of the I.C.D.U. series in which Knox is scheduled to take part. Our representatives are W. A. Cameron and C. A. Stroud—a team that ought to win even from Trinity. The subject is "Resolved, that the principle of separate instruction for men and women is preferable to a system of co-education."

The subject of the paper to be discussed at the "14th" meeting on Tuesday evening is "The Place of Prayer in the Christian Life."

A. E. Eichenman was our representative at the lady meek's dance last week.

We are sorry to hear that Gordon Brownlie is again on the sick list and has been obliged to return to his home in Stratford.

It is reported that R. M. Campbell has positively refused any longer to entertain his friends with "Sambo" stories. He says it is unbecoming to a spiritually-minded theologian.

ENGINEERS' CLUB MEETS IN NEW BUILDING

Lecture on Turbine Pumps by Prof. Angus—Members Inspect New Hydraulic and Gas Engine Laboratories

The regular meeting of the Engineers' Club was held Thursday night in the new Mechanical Laboratory building of the University of Toronto, about three hundred attending.

A lecture on "Turbine Pumps" was given early in the evening by Prof. Robert W. Angus, who explained by the use of lantern slides the construction and operation of this type of pump and gave many details of the construction of the latest designs. The new pumps in the laboratories were also described.

In view of the fact that the city has just purchased eighteen of these pumps to be installed for the regular city supply and for fire purposes, the subject was of special interest and many questions relating to the machines were asked.

After the lecture the members visited the hydraulic, steam and gas engine laboratories in which experiments were carried on by the students. The hydraulic laboratory contains many things of interest, among which may be mentioned a Pelton water-wheel, a Double water-wheel with glass sides which shows clearly the mode of operation, and also three types of reaction water turbines, one of which was in operation. One of these wheels has been purchased from Escher Wyss & Co., Switzerland, the makers of some of the best turbines in the world and the firm supplying some of the Niagara turbines as well as those in other Canadian installations. The turbine in the laboratory is of the latest design. In the basement the pumping plant is located, and consists of two turbine pumps driven by a high-speed English engine. One of the pumps was in operation, but the other had been opened up to give the members a chance to understand its construction.

In the steam and gas engine laboratory there were many types of engines, including an air compressor, various steam engines, a steam turbine, valve setting engines, two gas engines of latest British type, a gasoline engine and other machines. A gas producer was also shown and also a refrigerating machine of three tons capacity. A small shop and other smaller pieces of apparatus occupy the remaining space.

The boiler room contains three Babcock & Wilcox boilers, one of which is fitted with a superheater.

This is the first opportunity that engineers have had to see the new building and all expressed themselves as well pleased with the work the University had done in carrying out practical value to Canadian engineers and manufacturers.

THE HISTORICAL CLUB

The Historical Club met on Thursday night, at the residence of Mr. C. D. Massey, Jarvis Street. The subject for the evening was "Some Canadian Problems" and the following papers were read: "French Canadian Nationalism," by J. W. Linsay, "The External Relations," by N. A. McLarty, "Immigration," by R. F. Thompson, "to. After the reading of the papers, considerable discussion was indulged in by the students and members of the Faculty present.

THE CATHOLIC STUDENTS' "AT-HOME"

On Tuesday evening, the Catholic students and their friends numbering about two hundred, spent a most enjoyable evening at the new parlors. The evening opened with progressive censure for those that wished to play, and four valuable prizes were given to the winners. An unexcelled dance programme and dainty supper followed. The evening's special car service conveyed the merry ones home.

The patronesses were: Miss Salter, Dr. Mary B. Callaghan, Mrs. O'Sullivan, Miss Hyman, and Mrs. Connolly.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

At the meeting of the Modern Language Club, Monday, Jan. 24th, three excellent essays were read by Edgar Poe's "The Raven," by Miss Good, "The B. E. E. However, full particulars will be announced later.

SMALL ATTENDANCE AT PARLIAMENT

Decide on Orchestral Concert—Changes in Constitution Discussed

The meeting of the Undergraduates' Parliament for January was held on Tuesday night in the West Hall. This was a very important meeting and considerable effort had been made to have a full attendance but only 35 responded. A communication was read from Dr. McEwen, asking to have one member each from Science, Medicine, and Arts on the executive of the Alumni Association. After considerable irrelevant discussion, it was decided to give the executive power to deal with it as it saw fit. Then occurred one of the few humorous incidents that even break the monotony of Parliament. The treasurer asked Parliament to advance $75 to the Theatre Night Committee. Mr. Irwin in reply made some remarks which disclosed the fact that the money had been already granted by the executive. However, the grant was confirmed and all smiled happily.

The question of the orchestra was then taken up, and it was shown that the orchestra had no prospects for a concert. It was not bright if it was decided to drop the orchestra for this year. A hint was given that the University of the Parliament was shown by the fact that no reports were forthcoming from the committees on Students Discipline and Amalgamation from the Union. The president then made an announcement about the University rules, the "blue and white elephant" of the Parliament.

Mr. Hartnett then introduced the main subject of the meeting, the discussion on changes in the constitution. He pointed out the various objections to the present system and outlined a new plan by which the executive should have more powers, thus necessitating only two meetings of the Parliament each year, one at the beginning of the year and the other at the end of the spring term to receive reports. He made a motion to leave it to the executive, bringing up a new scheme of organization at the next meeting of Parliament.

He was supported by Harris and Thompson and opposed by Kirby of Victoria. Wood of U.C. made a suggestion of introducing a party system but supported the monthly meetings. A lengthy discussion followed, in which the rules of order were cast aside. Members spoke as often as they pleased and varied their way of addressing the chair each time, sometimes not addressing it at all. One man from Victoria, evidently a freshman, stated that to have a party system there must be some difference between the parties, but he vainly tried to show there was some difference between the Unionists and Old U.C. in the Literary Society of University College. Hartnett's motion was carried. Then another motion by Sibbald was carried to make application for the sale of postage stamps in the main building. The roll call was: Medicine, 30 members, 1 present; S.S., 2 out of 6; Depts. out of 6; Education, 0 out of 2; Wyelife, 2 out of 4; Knox, 3 out of 4; Victoria, 7 out of 21; Trinity, 3 out of 6; U.C., 10 out of 73; Forestry, 2 out of 2.

WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY MEETS

Several Papers on Canadian Women Writers—Musical Selections Given

At the meeting of the Women's Literary Society on Saturday evening, the attention of the members was directed to the work of some Canadian women writers. Miss Marjorie MacMurchy introduced the subject with a careful analysis of the best work which has been produced in this field. The interest of the paper was heightened by glimpses into the lives of some of her writers. At the conclusion of her paper, Miss MacMurchy read some characteristic poems of Mrs. Harrison ("Seranus"), Isabella Valancy Crawford, Marjorie Pickthall and Helena Coleman. Miss Elsie Keith, '11, then gave some readings from the work of Miss Merrill and Miss Warnock ("Katherine Hale" of The Mail and Empire). Miss Warnock's "Canadian Flag Song" which although only recently published, has already won wide popularity, was afterwards sung by Miss Olive Culham. Miss Whyte, '10, read a sketch from the prose writings of Miss Laura Durand, who has been for many years connected with the editorial staff of The Globe as "Elarose." Readings of some of Miss Marjorie Pickthall's poems were given by Miss Alice Rothwell, '10.

In the course of the programme a piano solo was given by Miss Jean Gordon, '13, and a piano duet by Miss Finch and Miss Merritt of Victoria College.

The interest of the meeting was strengthened by the presence of Miss Merrill, Miss MacMurchy, Miss Warnock and Miss Durand, whom the undergraduates had an opportunity of meeting at the conclusion of the programme, when the Society and its guests were treated to homemade candy by the hostesses.

CHANGE IN STUDENTS' PARLIAMENT

The long-looked-for has come at last. The Parliament has awakened to the fact that its present constitution is not perfect. At a meeting of the Parliament held on Tuesday, the subject of reorganization came up for discussion, and considerable variety of opinion was expressed. No more striking evidence of the present unsatisfactory state of the Parliament could be furnished than the fact that although this was supposed to be a very important meeting, only a mere handful of members attended.

A motion was introduced to have the executive submit a new plan of organization at the next meeting and the mover of the motion suggested that the following be the basis of the new scheme: More power for the executive and only two regular meetings of the Parliament each year, one in the early fall, the other in the late spring. This would be an excellent scheme, embodying as it does both efficiency and responsibility. The executive, with its increased powers, would be able to deal with matters more expeditiously than is at present the case, while it would be held in check and prevented from becoming too autocratic by being responsible to the larger body of the Parliament at its meetings. The meeting in the fall, when the general policy for the year would be outlined and the meeting in the spring, when reports and financial statements would be received. One member objected to the scheme as too radical, but anyone with his eyes open can see that if the Parliament is to be revived, the change in it must be radical, otherwise it will continue in its present torpor.

The Parliament when changed thus would be in a better condition to negotiate for assuming control of the Undergraduate Union and settling in a businesslike manner any other questions which might arise. At present we do not imagine the Union would be anxious to come under the control of an organization which does not seem able to make success of the University runs or the Undergraduate Union.

In the new organization an effort should be made to have all the colleges elect their representatives in the same way, and moreover the percentage of representatives should be cut down from 5 per cent to 2 per cent. This would make the new Parliament less unwieldy and would tend to raise the standard of membership by making it more of an honor to be elected, and thus the Parliament would obtain the best men from the different colleges. We hope that this new plan will come into force as it retains the advantages of the present system while it does away with its defects, and is also better than the idea we put forth lately in these columns, in that it takes into account the responsibility of the executive power.

Alarums and Excursions

May we utter a few cautious words on the subject of the dining-hall? This theme is very near the student's heart—and will never anchor infinitely more important organ of his anatomy. Many harsh words have been said about the institution. Many kind words have been said in its defence. One, signing himself with a name suggestive of innumerable woe, wrote of convalescence and their products, stating (speaking metaphorically) with knife and fork in hand guarding the sacred precincts from profane intrusion. Others have attacked the woe, the paucity of kitchen utensils. But in the meantime the dining-hall—like some culinary sphinx—stands smiling inscrutably at untold men while he becomes even more mortal by entering its temple, or—as many would say—while man asks of the middle of life by its own abolition on her altars (sixteen cents) and eating of her anurological gifts (Irish stew) that our waiter becomes imprinted and we are confusing the sphinx with someone who lived on the other side of the sea.

Does the dining-hall nourish for past the point of safety, a sleek, paupered generation of students? Or, by means of potent odors seeming to indicate refreshment, does it seduce the unwary undergraduate into its circle-like embrace, only to reject him brutalized from its portals? Does the dining-hall, by the reckless lavishness of its Sybaritic repasts, send the student from the path of austerity to indulge in the life of a lascivious gourmet? Or does it, with the holiest intention of a place intended to deceive, starve in an exquisite agony the unsuspecting undergraduate who, in a moment of total ignorance, believed that it would feed, not poison? Does the dining-hall, with its Lucullian haughtiness, exaltate with an injurious luxury the palate of the jaded voluptuaries of the student body? Or does it, by its treatment of torture, lure to a lingering death those few who in a moment of weakness wished to eat a meal? All this we absolutely desire to answer? FLOURISH

HISTORY OF THEATRE NIGHT

To the Editor of The Varsity
Dear Sir,—The advent of one more "Theatre Night" probably marks the inauguration of that event as a permanent function. Year after year the students of the University of Toronto will assemble as a united body for such instructive amusement as the local theatrical world may have to offer.

The first of the present series was held in 1908, with "Old Heidelberg" as the attraction, and Miss John Conquest as star of the production. On the second of the two meetings of the year, known as "Dominion Night," the University was honored with the presence of His Excellency the Governor-General and other notable persons. Financially, the affair proved a valuable asset to the Students' Parliament under the leadership of Prof. Delany.

Probably the most noteworthy feature of these events has been the excellent order maintained by the students, a fact which has been commented upon editorially by the daily press. Pensions attributed are, first, the general good feeling now existing among the students, and second, the plan of clumping faculty spirit by the selling of small books. The success which favored this committee was repeated last year, and there every indication of its recurrence this year; but let us remember that a University Theatre Night has for its object something more than mere amusement. The culture of the literary and social life of the students on such an occasion. An actress possessing the ability and the "finances" of Miss Eleanor Robson will surely appeal to all lovers of the dramatic art.

Very truly yours,
R. E. W. HAGARTY.
(Mr. Hagarty was chairman of the Theatre Night Committee two years ago.—Ed.)

APPLIED SCIENCE

We regret to report that Bernard Hughes, '13, is confined to Grace Hospital with appendicitis. He has been operated upon and is recovering speedily.

C. G. Sawyer, '07, known to all of us as "Cozy," is back for his D.F.S., from a party salary in the West.

FORESTRY

Senior School won the first match of group "C" of the Jennings Cup series Wednesday afternoon, defeating Forestry by a score of 5 to 2.

The game was more an exhibition of shifty than of hockey's rain and snow made the ice more like a sawdust heap than a rink. The play in the second half was particularly featureless. Hugh Ritchie said that he had "seen better hockey on the Bow River."

Forestry put up a very still argument, and had most of the play, but poor ice and good defense work spoiled many a dangerous rush.

Campbell for School, and Tilt for Forestry played best.

Eddie Kern, Arts, refereed to the satisfaction of all. The teams:

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

The Faculty students are very busy this week writing on term exams which were postponed from December.

Mr. E. C. Arbogast, B.A., left on Saturday for Leamington. He expects to supply in the High School for the next four weeks.

The elections for the Literary Society Executive were held on Tuesday. Several of the officers were not collected and only a small percentage of the students voted.

Saturday evening in the Students' Union will be held the last meeting of the Literary Society under the old executive. Important business will be discussed and we are told an excellent programme is being prepared.

Faculty play their first game of hockey with Victoria at 4:30 on Friday.

WYCLIFFE NOTES

Rev. Canon Hague of London is in college for a couple of weeks. He is delivering a course of lectures on liturgies and Ecclesiology. His stirring addresses at morning and evening chapel are much appreciated by all privileged to hear them.

Mr. J. L. Cotton has been appointed to represent us at the McMaster dinner.

J. H. K. is just beating these days with congenial smiles. The other morning the postman brought him a parcel bearing a foreign stamp. "She has not forgotten!" he exclaimed, as he unrolled an extra large pennant of a Texas ladies' college.

TRINITY COLLEGE

On Tuesday, at the Mutual rink, Trinity played McMaster. The first ball was featured by individual rushes. McMaster's combination and stick-handling were superior to Trinity's. The second half developed into a slugging match. Although at cover-point was conspicuous throughout the game, and Lamp, in goal did not see a in a Trinity team for several years. McCrimmon started for McMaster. The final score was 4-2 in favor of McMaster. Trinity should have a good chance to win in the return game on their own ice.

A college meeting was held on Tuesday to decide when the next smoking concert should be held, but no agreement was come to. A constitution for governing college meetings was also submitted and will be voted on next week.

KNOX COLLEGE

The frequent discussions that take place on our lectures are always entered into with more or less fire. It seems, however, that outsiders are beginning to think them dangerous for in the middle of a heated argument in Professor Law's class on Tuesday, a fire engine came hurrying up the avenue.

The "E.L.T." met on Tuesday evening. After the regular business a paper was read on the subject "Prayer." Whatever may be said about the paper it at least gave rise to considerable discussion that was interesting and helpful.

At time of writing, Cecil Beck and Harry Martin are on the sick list. We understand that the indisposition of the latter gentlemen is due either to bad water or good honey.

Y. W. C. A.

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A., on Tuesday, was devoted to the three reports on Rochester. The mission fields in Africa and Western Asia were covered by Miss Robertson, '13. Miss Hamilton, '10, gave an account of the home resources and the work and aim of the Student Volunteers, and showed how the students of America may bring themselves in to closer touch with mission work abroad by an intelligent interest in and sympathy with the movement. The third report was on the vision of Christ and was taken by Miss Robinson, '11. More than any of the others, Miss Robinson's account gave a general impression of the convention and of the true inspiration which it proved to the delegates.

Although the last formal report has been given, the enthusiasm over the convention is very strong and every day we are seeing new phases of it and hearing about the splendid addresses and meetings that are to make Rochester such a potent factor in the stimulation of missionary activity in the universities and colleges of this continent.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE AT VICTORIA

Addresses by Rev. T. Shore and Rev. C. Bates—Meetings on Saturday and Sunday

One of the events to which Victoria students looked forward with interest was the annual Missionary Conference, which occurred this year on January 21st, 22nd, 23rd.

Rev. T. E. Shore, M.A., in the opening address of the first meeting gave in graphic outline a survey of world missions, bringing to view the unparalleled opportunities of the present time, because of the swinging open of so many doors to the advance of truth.

The next address was given by Rev. C. J. Bates, M.A., on Japan. Mr. Bates showed that we can learn some things from Japan as well as teach. There is no necessity for houses of refuge in Japan, such as we have, for their sense of filial obligation does not allow them so to neglect their parents.

In the following lecture, a native of Japan, Rev. Z. Ono, who is now studying in this University, made the statement that "the Japanese were," and after a moment's hesitation, "to get a word, 'olary,'" which shattered the gravity of the audience. Mr. Ono, however, demonstrated very clearly that the Japanese could see beneath externals of speech and action to the motives of the life, hence that only men of absolute truth and sincerity could help his people.

The meeting of Saturday evening presented the call of our own country to college men. Among the speeches of the evening was one on the problem of the city by Miss Elwood, a college graduate, who is working in a settlement, the number of whose members is fourteen hundred. J. H. Gundy, in his appeal for the poor of the city, as a representative of business men, showed that they were ready to finance any worthy attempt at the betterment of the conditions and character of the people in our inland districts.

On Sunday afternoon an appeal was made for men of ability for leadership in West China, and our relation to the work of evangelisation in this generation was shown.

On Sunday evening, after having messages from men who go next autumn, one to the British Columbian coast and three to China, one an S.P.S. graduate, and one a teacher of mathematics and physics, the other an architect, the Conference closed with a deep, strong address from Chancellor Burwash on the qualifications of the man who should spend his life as minister or missionary in work for the spirit of humanity.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY

Advantage No. 2
CO-EDUCATION.

To exhaust lists of them 'twould take a ream, and thus a quite quire more; but I don't dream in my simple scheme, of making myself a bore.

The other day I chanced to stray to a Moderns' lecture-room, and saw, I say (as you, too, may), the Moderns' man's fell down. Three men there were—dimes passing fair, some think I should think; but the home stare and the blaze air of those men made my heart sink. They gazed before, at the exit-door, with a terrible enmity, while across the floor, those girls no more than cats they seemed to see. The lecture past, they showed how lost a man can disappear, and the one that was last, in running cast a backward glance of fear.

This morbid state seems quite comate with superficiality; old love of late has turned to hate, as a blind weight could see. These men turn pale, and look for bail, when class reception comes, their faint hearts fail when the rising gas of Art's dance discussion hums.

And now you may, my readers gay, conclude what'er you can, of a course, say—straggle, say!—that this distorts a man.

DEAN FERNOW SPEAKS TO FORESTERS CLUB

Reviews Work of Forestry Conservation Commission and Sketches its Future Policy

Dean Fernow, the representative of the University of Toronto on the Commission of Conservation of Canada, gave before the Foresters Club on Thursday evening what may be considered his first official report. The occasion was a regular meeting of the club, held in the Botany Forestry Building, with about thirty club members and several guests from the faculty present. Dr. Fernow was in a most enthusiastic mood regarding the future of the commission, the sure advancement of the forestry movement in Canada, and the rapid opening up of lines of work for young foresters.

The principle of conservation is not new, Dr. Fernow pointed out, but has been advocated for many years, particularly by foresters, who in 1886 held in Montreal a convention, which gave Canada the credit of an important share in the beginnings of this movement. The policy received a boom under the leadership of Pinchot and Roosevelt, who popularized the word conservation, and applied the principle to all natural resources as well as to forest resources. The North American Conservation Congress incited the Dominion Government, to appoint a Commission of Conservation, whose first meeting was most successfully held in Ottawa two weeks ago.

From Dr. Fernow's talk, one would conclude that of the outstanding features of the commission, the chief one was its chairman, the Hon. Clifford Sifton. First, to him belongs the credit of drafting the law constituting the commission, which is composed of representatives so wisely chosen that efficient and statesman-like work is assured. Secondly, his opening address was a masterpiece of oratory and of exposition of the conservation movement, and inspired from the start progressive thought and action from the commission. Mr. Sifton's declaration that he had given up politics for the work of conservation was received enthusiastically by the members of the commission.

The details of three-days' conference were reviewed: the first day being divided between addresses by Mr. Sifton and Earl Grey, and visits to points of interest around Ottawa; the second day devoted to reports from authorities on different natural resources, showing the needs of conserving them; and the third day spent in organizing the commission for active work. After visiting the lumber and paper mills, the Arlington, the power dams, etc., Dr. Fernow has concluded to let no more forestry students graduate without spending at least a week in that city. Several of the papers were highly commended by Dr. Fernow, who mentioned especially those of Dr. Haanel of the Bureau of Mines, Mr. Adam Beck on water-powers of Ontario, and Dr. P. N. Bryce on Public Health. The present organization of the commission consists of six committees on the divisions of natural resources, viz., Lands, Water-powers, Mines, Forestry, Fisheries, and Public Health, with an additional committee on Publications under the efficient leadership of Mr. Mackay of the Toronto Globe. The speaker hoped that soon provincial commissions would be organized under the leadership of members of the commission to actively promote local interest. The commission meets again in June, when definite plans for rapid progress will be developed.

Having thus rapidly reviewed the salient features of the present meeting, Dr. Fernow waxed eloquent over the future of the commission, which brought into existence by a special federal statute, and rising on a wave of popular opinion, the commission was sure to be one of long standing and large influence. Though its power was to lie in planning and recommending legislation for the federal and provincial governments, and not in any actual executive work, yet the commission was laying plans for obtaining a large fund of technical information, to do which would require the employment of a band of technically trained men. The creation of the commission, therefore, opens up large prospects for those interested in the work of conservation, and should engender in the minds of the public a feeling of confidence that the resources of the people will be adequately protected, and who deserve the enthusiastic and loyal support of the public opinion.

UNIVERSITY SERMON WELL ATTENDED

Rev. Principal Peabody of Graton Mass. Delivers an Eloquent Discourse

The University sermon was well attended on Sunday morning, there being about 1600 people present. A new and pleasing feature of the service was the presence of the University Glee Club, who rendered two antiphons very acceptably. The members were massed in one section directly opposite the platform, and assisted very materially in the leading of the singing. It is to be hoped that their singing may continue to be a feature at these services.

The preacher took as his text the words of Matthew 10:7, but used them merely as a basis for the thought he wished to convey. Christ had given this commission to the twelve in no uncertain manner. He had called them to be witnesses to tell the good news of the coming of the Kingdom. There is a danger today to those absorbed in learning and in nature, that things of first importance may pass unnoticed. The newspapers contain reports of strikes and wars and of the breaking of faith between man and man. There is the danger of the loss of sight of the Kingdom in Britain, which must cause apprehension to those who think. By these and other things, men are led to believe that the world is very evil, but to the Christian there can be no such view based in the fullest sense of the word as in the assurance of the Christ who said: "Be of good cheer. I have overcome the world."

In general, men find for which they are looking. The true Christian keeps his eye fixed, on that far-off point towards which all creation moves. That event may be far off, but in face of much that seems to discourage there are movements coming into being that leads us to believe that the dawning of the kingdom is at hand. In the institutions of higher learning, students are living up to a nobler conception of truth, not afraid of the consequences but rather afraid to be untrue. The lives of young men of the colleges are to-day marked by a clearness of life and a willingness to serve others. A purer, clearer, better moral life marks a dividing line between two decades of college men. And, too, in business world. Men are more alive to the moral questions of the day. There are great moral conceptions being grasped and men are speedily bringing in the rule of the Master of Life.

The speaker stressed in a general way the growth of such organizations as the Christian Endeavor, the Laymen's Missionary and the Student Volunteer Movement, and proceeded to show the results attained under their auspices. All of these movements are international in scope, and the first are interdenominational. These organizations are doing much to bring about the unity of the Christian Church. They are animating men's beliefs and are forcing them to face the problem of the innermost life as nothing else has done. The question facing men to-day, and especially the student, is what he can do for the most lasting service to his fellows.

TRINITY CONVERSAT

The annual conversation of the Trinity Literary Institute which was held in the Convocation Hall of Trinity College, on Thursday evening, February 4th.

Everything conspired to make the dance a great success. The floor of Convocation Hall was in excellent condition, and very good music indeed was furnished by the orchestra, which rendered the latest waltzes and dances somewhat simpler than they have been on previous occasions, were even whist as before. The large common room downstairs and the Dean's common room on the first floor were used as sitting-rooms, and Professor Young very kindly threw open his rooms also. Smoking rooms were provided, as usual, for those who, from time to time, might prefer the fragrance to the music of the dances.

Supper was served in the Dining Hall, and there were also small appetizers provided by the Reverend the Provost and other members of the College in their own rooms. The conversation was not, we believe, quite as large as it was last year; some three hundred and fifty or four hundred being present. The President and members of the Executive Council of the Literary Institute were very attentive to the guests and we feel sure that the "Conversat" was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. In the opinion of the guests, it was the most successful of the dances given in Trinity College during the last few years. The secretary, Mr. E. J. Wilson, who was a great extent responsible for the success of the evening, is to be congratulated, as are also the other members of the Literary Executive.

The ladies who kindly acted as patronesses of the evening were Miss Lady Whitney and Lady Pellat, Mesdames Sweeney, Lydell, Brock, Fleming, Henderson, and Miss Playter and Miss Stinchfield.

"LIT." SUFFERS DECLINE IN ATTENDANCE

A very small crowd attended the regular meeting of the "Lit." on Thursday evening. Owing to an oversight, the gym had not been left open, and the members, led by Mr. Johnson, were forced to seek assistance from the College to obtain admittance to the Students' Union. Many of the stalwarts on the government side of the House were conspicuous by their absence, as a meeting of the Historical Club was held on the same evening. In the absence of Vice-President MacLennan, W. H. Johnson was leader of the Government. Mr. Fraser, the chair-viv, was in the chair.

Mr. Fleming took advantage of the small attendance and introduced a party measure providing for the holding of open debates from time to time. Mr. Wyle seconded his motion. As the Government did not grasp this, it was passed almost unanimously. Mr. Sibbald also moved that the executive take steps to have stamps placed on sale in the post office of the main building.

Mr. Johnson announced that the date for the annual oratorical contest. Representatives have been chosen by the years and it is expected there will be a close contest for the society's medal. The proposed Athletic Association Constitution will be discussed at the regular meeting of the society on Feb. 4th. A committee to revise the constitution, consisting of Messrs. Fleming, Orton and Johnson, was appointed. An important anniversary of the University was celebrated, and moved that the "Lit." urge the appointment of a student representative to the Dominion Committee. The vote was the custom at one time, but of late has fallen into disuse.

The least interesting feature of the meeting was a well-attended debate between Messrs. Beathoun and Thomson, '10, and Messrs. MacLennan and McNally, '11. The discussion was along technical lines and was nearly up to the usual high standard. The third year were successful in securing the decision in the affirmative on the subject. "Resolved, that the Supreme Court of Appeal should be a Canadian Court." Messrs. Falconbridge, Hallam and Clouston acted as judges.

INTERCOLLEGIATE AND INTERFACTOR HOCKEY

Varsity Swamps Laval - Score 21-5 Fernow's Pets Beat Medicals

Two teams met on Friday night in what by courtesy was called a hockey match, but the play more resembled backyard "shinny," while the score reminded one of a certain football match here last fall against an eastern team.

The only good point about the Laval team was that the names of their players would have made fine words at a spelling match. At this point of amusement they could have formed of amusement. But in credit to the Laval team it must be said that, although somewhat outclassed, they never let up for a moment but played hard from start to finish. Varsity led right from the start and the result was never in doubt.

The score at half-time was 7 to 3 and at the end of the game was 21 to 5. A goal more or less makes no difference, but it is a question, how did Laval manage to score five times on the Varsity defence? They must have been asleep at times. Team play was exceptional, and it is a pity that a mournful crowd of rooters was present, but maintained the strictest silence. They evidently thought it was a funeral they were at. So it was, but it was Laval's. The line-up was as follows:

Toronto-Gall, Richardson; point, Gallie; cover, Cove, rover, Armstrong, Henderson, Frith; left, McElroy; right, Evans.

The Laval team, as near as we can approach it, was as follows:-Goal, Deconcourt; point, Archambault; cover, Valiquette; rover, Versorise; centre, St. Louis; right, Brois; left, Campbell. Two do not know of the spelling of these names. The only one that has a familiar sound is the last one.

FORESTRY DEFEATS MEDS.

Forestry made up in some measure for its defeat by Senior School in beating Senior Meds. by the score of 6-3 on Friday afternoon. The ice was much better, and the game was consequently much more exciting. However, the game was in no wise a good exhibition. Meds. showed a decided lack of skill in their play, and their efforts on their opponents rather than on the puck. Hagmeier was particularly conspicuous.

Forestry showed good condition but poor combination. Individual plays by Taylor, McAllister, Tilt, and Alexander were very pretty, but had not, generally speaking, much scoring effect.

Forestry has a team of strong individual players, and should make a very creditable showing in the series of exhibition games which will follow.

J. N. Stump, S.P.S., made an important, though not at all vigilant, referee.

U. C. CO-EDS SCORE SHUT-OUT

The University College ladies won another victory Saturday morning by defeating St. Hilda's College, 2-0. The team showed marked improvement over their game last week, and the result was a fast and exciting game of hockey. The forwards played very well, and the defence worked like a machine. Miss Hunter of University College played a very good game, and Miss Harstone and Miss Ewart were the stars for St. Hilda's. Very few saw the game, but it was a most efficient referee. The score was yet discovered. The teams lined up as follows:

University College-Gall, Miss A. Sutherland, '10; point, Miss Barry, '11; cover point, Miss P. Fern, '11; rover, Miss Hunter, '12; centre, Miss Roanar, '10; left wing, Miss Angus, '09; right wing, Miss E. McDonald, '10.

University College play Victoria at Victoria rink, next Saturday at 11 o'clock.

THE ART OF ELOQUENCE

The secret of eloquence eludes every attempt to discover it. Many writers, ancient and modern, have tried to tell the nature of it, or to instruct an ambitious youth in that which the comets the art of all arts, the power of controlling the will of other men by the gift of speech. Cicero said the best things ever said about it. Perhaps Emerson has come next to him. Eath was a great orator in his own way. But it is his poetry. When you have reached the most comprehensive definition, your attention is called to something clearly outside it, with everybody will agree is genuine eloquence or genuine poetry. When you have studied all the rules of a school and know by heart all the intricacies of a professor, some untaught genius like Patrick Henry seems to rise up and eclipse the best masters.

A good style is essential to an orator. It is required commonly by infinite labor and pains. To get it the scholar must have the benefit of the best masters and the severest criticism. He is told that to perfect himself he must study foreign tongues, must know how Demosthenes or Cicero handled a legal argument or swayed a deliberative assembly; but when he has gotten through his study he finds himself beaten by some local preacher from the backwoods. For all that, it is true that training along well directed lines makes an orator. There will be no great orator, there will be no great poet, with rare exceptions, who does not observe Horace's rule: "To speak well, most men must study hard and practice much. Every Canadian student, if he desires for any purpose, to get an influence over his countrymen in an honorable way, will like to become a good public speaker. That power is essential to success at the bar, or in the pulpit, and almost indispensable to success in public life. The man who has succeeded without it are the men who value it most.

And now there arises the question of a need in our University. Is not this a neglected department in our colleges? In the faculty of Arts, it may be said, there are facilities for the cultivation of a good style in writing and in public speaking, obtained through an excellent department of English and the various literary societies. But where do the other faculties, such as Science and Medicine, come in? Could not some arrangement be worked out by which those who desired could attend some at least of the English lectures of University College or even have special lectures delivered in those faculties? The feeling among many students in these faculties is sufficient demand for a trial of any thing that would supply a long-felt want in these faculties. And, too, it might be suggested, as already it has been suggested in the Faculty of Arts, that the establishment of a chair of public speaking would be a step in the right direction. It is really to be deplored that so few graduates go out from their years of preparation able to make an address in public. And the reason is not far to seek, because there is little or no opportunity to develop along the right lines. There can be no efficient speaker, man must be trained both in style and in manner of delivery. There is no less eloquence in the voice, eyes and mannerisms of a speaker than in his choice of words. True eloquence consists in saying all that should be, not all that could be said. Could not the University authorities help the students of all faculties to help themselves in this regard?

A STUDENT DUTY

This University has grown rapidly in the past few years and this growth has necessitated the erection of many new buildings equipped with costly apparatus. During all this period of expansion the Ontario government has stood behind the University, generously giving it official and financial support. The government came into power at a critical period in this University's development, when it must either go ahead or decline. The government grasped the situation and have since then given hundreds of thousands of dollars to extend the equipment of the University and make it efficient in every department. They recognized the contribution of the University to the welfare and prosperity not only of the community in which it is situated but of the country at large. Thoroughly trained men are necessary in all departments of our national life if the country is to prosper, and it is the duty and function of the University to supply these men. The government has met with some opposition to this University support in some parts of the province where their efforts are not understood. Many people know nothing of the University or the work it is doing except that each year several hundred thousand dollars of the people's money go to support it; money which they think might be better spent in other ways. Now such a condition of affairs arises out of the ignorance of the people, who do not appreciate the training that the University gives to a man. They claim that the money of all the people goes to support an institution from which only a few derive benefit. It is difficult to know in what manner the ignorance of the people, who do not appreciate the training that the University gives to a man. They claim that the money of all the people goes to support an institution from which only a few derive benefit.

"The Varsity" contains one of the most pleasing notices we have seen for some time. Not long ago in this column we had occasion to criticize the University of Toronto publications in that the "Varsity" could be nothing but a newspaper and that the "University Monthly" was born from its nature rather prohibited to student work. Toronto has realized this and, what is more, she has determined to remedy this faulty condition of affairs. The "Arbor" was conceived from the University motto, "Velut Arboræ Arbor" is to be a monthly for the express purpose of printing student prose and verse. We wish all success to this new publication and expect to be able shortly to congratulate our sister University combination as the newspaper combination—the alumnus minded "Monthly" and the student "Arbor."—M. G. McGill Martlet.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

W. M. Johnson, '11, has been supplying in the department of classics in Hamilton Collegiate during the past week.

D. E. McEvanoy, '10, was at Guelph at the convocation at O.A.C., as the representative of the Literary Society.

Mr. T. R. Harrison will visit Montreal shortly as Varsity representative at the McGill University "at home." Mr. Harrison is business manager of the University of Toronto Year Book for 1910.—St. Mary's Eye Opener.

Mr. T. R. Harrison writes:—If it is any satisfaction for you to know my opinion of your paper, I consider it one of the best-edited, cleanest looking papers in Ontario. This is not said in any sort of flattery way, but is spoken in all candor.—St. Mary's Eye Opener.

Junior Arts were somewhat wiped up by first year School in a Jennings Cup game on Saturday. The score was 12-3.

Messrs. Allan, Moyer and Harrison left on Friday on a fusing expedition to Chicago. They were expected to visit friends at the O.A.C. convocation.

Where would the students be without old "Colonel" Hagen, the trusty night watchman? "Colonel" is always on the job, as is shown by the fact that last Thursday night he came along just in time to let the students party at the theatre night at the gym for the Lit. Otherwise an unpleasant session must have been held. The "Colonel," with his hat and enormous, bloodstained dog, is a familiar sight to all members of the midnight crew around Varsity.

We obtained an epoch-making pamphlet yesterday in the shape of three freshman yells for theatre night. In the first place, why do they want a class yell for theatre night? The yells submitted certainly won't add to the cheerfulness of the gathering. Of the yells, the first, though otherwise a gem, is a little faulty in metre. The second is a trifle off in spelling, but we suppose in the word "feetless," the writer simply took an overdose of poetic license. The first part of the third yell smacks of the hayward and its familiar sounds, while as a whole it is characterized abundantly by that quality never lacking in freshman concert.

C. D. MacKinnon, '09, was in the city last week on his way home from Winnipeg on sick-leave. "Mac" expects to spend a few days in the Underground Union this week.

APPLIED SCIENCE

After spending the summer and autumn with 4 Dominion surveying parties in Manitoba, Mr. O. M. Martin, '09, is back in Toronto and called up this morning to see those who remain.

Mr. G. E. Squire, '11, is in the Western Hospital with typhoid, but is doing nicely, according to last reports.

There was a scanty attendance at the meeting of the Electrical Club on Thursday evening, owing to the press of other meetings throughout the week. Those that were present heard a very interesting and instructive paper on "Water-wheel Governors," given by Mr. E. R. Frost, '09. Mr. Frost dealt with the absolute necessities of a reliable water-wheel governor of governing the water supply in hydro-electric installations, and followed up with a description of the mechanical and hydraulic governor in use. His lecture was well illustrated by slides.

The Industrial Chemical Club declined to have been held at the St. Charles last Friday evening, has been postponed a week owing to the fact that arrangements had been made later for a trip to Lindsay on the fact. The object of the trip is a visit to the Electrical Water Purification Works there.

Mr. F. P. Wilson, '09, is fast improving, we hear, and will likely be with us again in a few days.

MEDICAL NOTES

The third year have their annual dinner this year at McConkey's next week. It is expected that a large number will be present. There is considerable talk of a second year dance in the very near future also.

President-elect Smith of the Medical Society is just about the best man the students could have put in for the office. He has a personality all his own and has always taken an active part in class affairs. Under his management the Medical Society of next year will touch a high-water mark it is hoped.

One of the candidates for curator lost by Poynter.

Every man elected on the Medical and Athletic Societies is capable and if they all carry out what they promise the students who elected them will not be sorry.

After a strenuous week of campaigning the elections are over, and let us hope everybody is satisfied with the new executive. Right here it might be the proper procedure to congratulate the Medical Society on the conduct of this election. Last week we suggested that there would likely be a full supply of campaign cigarettes on hand, but the case turned out quite differently. Perhaps it was that item in Varsity that helped to deter the "cigarette" persuasion, but anyhow, it was one of the best and most "above-ground" elections that have ever been held under the auspices of the Medical Society. Not a word of regret is heard from the defeated candidates. They are satisfied with the results and good-feeling prevails among all alike—whether they are victors or vanquished.

[FACULTY OF EDUCATION]

Mrs. Coleman, at Albany avenue, has issued invitations for an "at home" on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 5th.

A few of the faculty students and their friends spent Saturday evening very enjoyably tologorizing on the Riverdale side. Before returning home they were entertained by one of their number to dainty refreshments.

The last regular meeting of the Literary Society under the present executive was held on Saturday evening in the Students' Union. The programme consisted of a vocal duet by Messrs. Murray and Black, a reading by Mr. Hare, an impromptu debate on the subject, "Resolved that final examinations should be abolished," and a vocal trio by Messrs. Archibald, Baker and Haynes. Before adjourning, refreshments were served and a social hour spent, which was enjoyed by all.

WYCLIFFE NOTES

The "At Home" last Friday evening was a decided success. After the reception of the guests, an excellent programme was given in the Convocation Hall by some of the leading city artists. Promenades occupied the remainder of the evening, which many interesting student "duels" were seen by the guests. The halls were beautifully decorated and excellent music was given by Mr. Gionna's orchestra. Supper was served from a buffet in the dining-hall throughout the evening.

Rev. W. E. Hassard, Ph.D., working in the interests of the British and Foreign Bible Society, gave us an interesting illustrated lecture last Thursday evening.

Mr. C. Sydney McGaffin has just returned from Ireland and will be with us the remainder of the term.

Queen's University is the first university in Canada to establish a chair of Colonial History. The endowment of this chair is due to the generosity of an alumnus, Mr. Jas. Douglas of New York. The first professor of this department is Mr. Wm. L. Grant, son of the late Principal Grant.

"NEMESIS VISITS THE DINING HALL"

Our editor says that all "belles-lettres" should begin with a classical quotation, so here goes—

"Their gnashing teeth hit hard,
On a stern and ribbed seat."
—Sir Loyne Steak.

All the world was looking rosy to our reporter till he was summoned to the editorial sanctum. With a promise of disaster, I entered the sacred precincts. The editor, reclining in a Morris chair with his feet on the mantel over a cherry fire, was smoking a Pinaud—pure Havana filler?—After giving me a nod, but no cigar, the editor began. "We, editorial we, have decided to investigate the hungry look of the fretful undergrad. We believe the cause lies in the dining-hall. It is the board that makes the students anemic. You," he thundered, "have been assigned to eat one meal there, and to report thereon." The flow had halted. In vain did I explain that the spontaneous fare of survey parties had unhinged me for such gastronomic adventures, that cooking for a million, all summer while prospecting, had made me hypercritical. Tears were of no avail, libretto failed dismally. My editor was adamant or some other insect like that.

Cautiously creeping into sixteen cents, he pressed them into my palm, and gently shoved me along the corridor. I tried to slip into the Union to bid a farewell to my old friend, the "Colonel," but the relentless "Ed" stood watching, murmuring "one more police!" I retreated to my doom. At a grill-work, over which was this inscription: "Abandon hope, all ye who build enter here," I deposited my bulging A cold, sarcastic voice inquired, "What's that?" "Money," I retorted. "Gently and pilyately it was explained to me that unless one paid for one's sustenance wholesale, the price was twenty cents. But all students are not brave men and capitalists. It seemed rather mean of our editor to impose upon my innocents, but I worked off a phony nickel and made up the sum required.

Then I was allowed to enter the "salute-manger." I took my seat among a group of sad-faced students, who were all assiduously polishing the hardware while keeping a wary eye on a closed door at the end of the room. Suddenly it flew open and a white-robed hawk rushed forward bearing raskers of alleged roast beef, cabbage and potatoes. Honestly, it was not bad. Being resigned to my fate, and in an investigating mood, I asked for a second helping. The waiters' eyebrows went up at my request, but he changed his mind and got me a salad. I asked for a reprieve including milk, tea and coffee. I chose milk. At my request, for a second helping of the salad, I was met with insulting silence, while the sophisticated ones around tittered audibly. Thinking that I had been detected eating with my knife, or in some other reprehensible offence, I was rebuffed gallantly, but was relieved when my neighbor whispered in a hollow tone, "Only one milk." The next offering was a weird-looking concoction. "Kraut," it was called. "Not on your life," snarled the exasperated vined dispenser, "that's pudding." I shook my head, but he seemed determined to make me eat it. I let it pass. As soon as he turned his back, I slipped the extra cent under my plate, and ate a third of course, modestly, and made my escape.

Just outside the door I came upon one of those dainty scenes so seldom seen all the time.

Dramatic personae: Two students, two toothpicks.

First student, wedding his toothpick with that tiny grace so peculiar to a dining-hall habitué—"Well, Jack, have you yet?"

Second student, making dainty passes with second toothpick—"No, Fred, I ain't yet. How's that?"

First student—Pretty puss. "Cur-tain."

With a smile of victory, I made my way back to the office. The editor welcomed me effusively. "A grand proof!" he exclaimed, "of Darwin's theory of the survival of the fittest!" "In a few years you will take the dining hall like an Eskimo to a bar of goldmines." But I never did care for goldmines.

"NEMESIS."

Varsity vs. Centrals

The second game in the senior city league was played on Central V. M.C.A. Central won on their merits, and although Varsity had a slight superiority in combination work, the accurate shooting of Silvert and Dunsmore for Central more than made up for any advantage Varsity had.

The first half of the game was said by those who know to have been the latest ball ever seen on Central Gym. It ended 19-14 in Central's favor with Varsity pressing hard. Central were constantly on the defensive in this half, and it was only the wretched shooting of Varsity that prevented a large margin in favor of the Blue and White. It is in this important division of the game that our team sadly lacks, and Capt. Dixon ought to lay more stress on it in practice.

The one-half started off well, but Central gradually increased their lead. Gage, who had been playing a splendid game throughout, decorated the house with Dunsmore for the remainder of the game, about three-quarter time. The demoralized host teams, and after this it was just a case of who could shoot the better, and Central showed their superior ability. Final score—50-33.

Central V.M.C.A.—Dunsmore, Latimer, Silvert, Swanson, Britton, Varsity—Simpson, Dixon, Gage, Broch, Wood.

As a certain-raiser, Varsity II. played Central II. in the intermediate city series. It was all Varsity until the last five minutes when condition told and Central forged ahead. Score was 42-34 for Central II. Varsity then, too, showed splendid combination, but sadly lacked condition and practice in the baskets. Line-up: Central—Hunter, Armour, Weston, Rankin, Russell.

Varsity—Chadwick, Butters, Cook, Dobbin, Livingston. From an unreplicated standpoint it must be admitted that Varsity's intercollegiate team will have to do some tail practising, if they expect to repeat the record of last year. It is to be hoped that Capt. Dixon will have his squad out regularly and will drill the delinquents into the science of "getting the basket."

MEDICAL SOCIETY ELECTIONS

The annual elections are over. The Medical Officers for the year 1910-11 have been chosen, and the following will pilot the Society next year: President—W. Smith, '11. Vice-Pres.—H. McKay, '12. Treasurer—A. Keckley, '11. Cor.—Sec.—D. Blanchard, '11. Cor.—J. Morgan, '12. Cor.—Sec.—J. Walker, '13. Asst.—Treas.—L. Cook, '14. Councilors—T. Wilson and W. Sinclair, '14.

For the Athletic Society, Lou Sebert was elected president, with L. McIntyre, vice-president, and S. Alexander, the secretary-treasurer. The elections this year were carried out in a fine manner, and no damage of any kind was done to the hall by the lecture theatre. Kells made a great run against Smith, who beat him by only about 50 majority. Blanchard defeated Wilkinson for corresponding secretary by only one vote and there is rumor that another election for that office may be held.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

After the meeting of the Lit. to-morrow there will be a mass meeting of students to discuss the proposed Athletic Constitution for University College.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The meeting of the Debating Society to have been held last evening has been postponed for a week.

The "At Home" given by the graduating class in Applied Science on Wednesday evening was, to put it mildly, a brilliant success. Upwards of seventy couples gathered at the Metropolitan Assembly rooms, which were beautifully decorated for the occasion. The orchestra and food were excellent and the arrangements delightful. The patronesses were Mrs. Gairthairn, Mrs. Falconer, Mrs. Ellis, and Mrs. Stewart. The enjoyable event reflects much credit upon the committee in charge.

After a regrettable absence, extending over six weeks, Mr. C. Flynn has returned to resume his duties as chaplain of the third year.

A serious mishap occurred at the Birkdale slides, in which both Oliver Flanagan of the fourth year, and his sister of Victoria College, had arms broken. Mr. Flanagan was hurried to the General Hospital after the accident, where his injury was well attended to, and as a result his arm is not painful.

Mr. Jack McKinnon was unable to be present with the Science Octette on theatre night, Mr. Arblay occupying his place. Jack is spending his evenings this week in the midst of the Mendelssohn Choir.

Mr. R. G. Lee, too, has a pathetic tale to tell of treatment tendered him at the O.A.C. last Friday evening. Science has a couple on Agriculture, he says.

Owing to next Wednesday being a holiday, the sectional meetings of the Engineering Society will be held on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 10th. Messrs. Parlane, Martin, and Tait report that they may expect some excellent papers from student members of the society on that afternoon.

Who noticed Taylor's snore on Monday night—and, according to the classics, it was some snore.

"Father" couldn't come, but Father had the rest of the family with her.

Some one suggests that a set of volumes of "Rubbish's Experiences" be placed in the supply department so that those who think the range of summer vacation literature may persevere and benefit therefrom.

FORESTRY NOTES

This term the lectures in Forest Utilization are being supplemented by visits to various wood-working establishments in and near to Toronto, so that the students may become familiar with the various kinds of wood-working machinery, the sources of supply and the various uses of the leading commercial woods, etc. Some of the places visited so far have been the J. B. Smith & Sons, lumber merchants; Gold Medal Furniture, Gerhardt-Hestman Piano Co., Toronto Furniture Co., Bock's Manufacturing Co., lumber merchants, Consumer's Box Co., to all of whom the class is greatly indebted for many courtesies shown.

WYCLIFFE NOTES

While in the dimly-lighted library, exhibiting some rare vellum-bound romances to a small but attentive audience, G. R. Bracken, the gay deliver, became engaged. Truly, the bland smile and winning manner are the path to felicity—or destruction I.

"The Relation of the Divinity to the Theatre, Dancing and Card Playing" was the subject of Canon Hager's dapper address last Tuesday evening. It was an interesting subject and the Canon said some searching things.

There is an authentic rumour afloat which savours of humor, concerning one of our younger brothers. On the evening of the conversant, when "Fay" had presented himself at the door of the reception room and being asked his name, he cordially grasped the hand of the announcer and remarked: "My name is Fay. What is yours, please?"

Many of the students attended the "At Home" given by the Anglican Young Women's Club. All report an excellent time. We can scarcely account for the strange action of one popularly known as "Mackie" on the night of this social function. He had almost reached the door to the scene of pleasure when he suddenly deserted his pals, exclaiming: "Life's too short for such pastimes." "Fay" W. and he are much in confidence since the event.

KNOX COLLEGE

In the Trinity-Knox debate on Tuesday night, Stanislaus Louis C. A. Mustard for statistics that he accused Trinity of merely stating without supporting that there is a discrepancy in sex. In the same debate, W. A. Cameron confided in the audience to the extent of informing them that the body of women students believe strongly in co-education. But, oh, Bill, what a breach of faith!

Our hockey team is in fine shape and is doing heavily in the Jefferies Cup series. On Wednesday they met Junior Mead, on our rink and won the game at a score of 3-0. The game was fast during the first half, but a heavy snow storm during the remainder of the game made things very different. The referee, M. J. Moore of Dental College, was voted faultless. The Knox line-up was as follows: Goal, L. A. Smith; defence, P. J. Brown, M. J. Moore, centre, Chumley; left, Boyd; right, Pritchard.

The Missionary Society met on Wednesday evening. After the business, an address was given by Rev. Mr. Hassard of the Bible Society on "Our Foreigners."

The following scholarships were announced on Tuesday: The Bayne Scholarship won by J. A. Tait and C. V. McLean; the Prince of Wales by A. A. Scott; and the Smith Scholarship by P. W. Spence and F. A. Symington.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. was addressed by Miss Frances Tait, one of the travelling secretaries of the Student Volunteer Movement, who has been visiting Toronto University for the past week. Miss Tait spoke as her subject the present crisis in missions in the far East, especially in China. She has spent a number of years there and so is well acquainted with the field. She expects to sail for Peking some time this year to organize the work of the Y.W.C.A. in the government schools of that city.

TRINITY COLLEGE

A very pleasant skating party was held on the college rink on Saturday, in which about forty couples participated. Refreshments were served afterwards in the college.

On Tuesday a hockey match took place between McMaster and Trinity. In the first half the play was rather loose, but brilliant goal-keeping on both sides prevented any scoring. The second half started strong and there was some rough stick-handling. The game closed with a sensational rush by Dwyer, but there was no score. Rhyne and Allhouse played a good game for Trinity, and the McMaster rover was conspicuous.

WARM WEATHER COMING

A delinquent subscriber was dying and the editor dropped in to see him. "How do you feel?" asked the pencil-pusher. "All lights bright before me," gasped the subscriber. "You'll thought so," said the editor. "You'll see the lights in about ten minutes."—Western Publisher.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The night owls around Varsity have noticed with regret that Col. Hage has been unable to perform the duties of night watchman lately owing to illness. Mr. Macintosh, his successor, to whom by the way no title has as yet been assigned, is a graduate of Queen's, that is, he is a past night watchman there.

The Rhodes Scholarship has been awarded. For the collection of those who may not know how the appointment is made, we may say that contestants are not required to guess the number of beans in a bottle placed in the Senate chamber.

The Queen's Hall dance was a great success. There was the usual collection of fair women and brave men, off of whom reported a very enjoyable time.

The third year will hold a skating party this evening at Aura Ice rink on Avenue road. Refreshments will be served in the new club house and an informal dance will be held after. Murray Thompson says "Everybody's welcome." Thus.

The inevitable has come to pass. A committee, equipped of several members of the faculty and representatives from the student body, met yesterday morning to investigate the conduct of the dining hall. The press was excluded as the meeting was held behind closed doors. We have been assured, however, that the city water will be boiled before soup is made in the kitchen.

Mr. Leo J. McLaughlin went to Berlin on Saturday. He is looking for a position with a business firm there.

To-morrow is Ash Wednesday and a solemn "What have you 'cut out' for Lent?"

Alan Gilmour—Going to lectures.

Clare Wilson—Going to the tennis inn.

Tony Evans—Arts Dances.

Juanita Bell—Morning prayers.

Henry Johnson—The Gaiety.

Everybody—The Dining-Hall.

Some girls—Queen's Hall.

APPLIED SCIENCE

On Saturday morning the Civils and Architects travelled up Yonge street and had a good look at the process by which Roman stone is manufactured. Quite a number of members of the Electrical Club also formed an excursion to the Scott street substation on the same morning.

This week's meetings of the Engineering Society will be held on Thursday instead of Wednesday. The Chemists and Miners will be given an illustrated lecture on Mining and Metallurgy as developed by the Canadian Copper Co. of Sudbury. The speaker, Mr. C. C. Murray, '06, has been in the employ of that company for a number of years.

The Civils and Architects will hear F. T. Hol, '07, speak on "Reinforced Concrete." Mr. Nichol will have a number of slides illustrating various methods of reinforcement, including the Eken system and the expanded metal system.

Mr. V. C. Thomas, '07, will give a paper to the Electricals and Mechanicals on "Machinery Turbines," with special reference to European design. Mr. Thomas spent the greater part of last summer in Europe, studying this branch of engineering. The lecture will be well illustrated with slides showing the designs and performances of these turbines.

Mr. Gay Morton, '09, is in Montreal feasting on the hospitality of Laval. He left for the east on Friday evening and may be expected home any time after to-day.

The postponed dinner of the Industrial Chemical Club was held at the St. Charles on Friday evening. The subject of discussion was "Manufacture of Gas for Illuminating and Power Purposes." Papers dealing with the history and the process of gas manufacture were read by Messrs. Otto and Williams, while Messrs. Thon and Dodds spoke concerning gas analyses and by-products.

MEDICAL NOTES

As many students as possible of the third year should make it a point to attend the year dinner on Tuesday evening. Not only does a large attendance at such a function as this make the evening much more enjoyable, but also from a financial standpoint a big crowd is desirable. There is much expense connected with the dinner, and if the students don't support the undertaking with their presence and financial support, there is bound to be a deficit when the time comes for settling accounts. The committees in charge are doing all in their power to make the dinner a success.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

An innovation which somewhat relieves the monotony of the commonplace term work has been made by the Dean. The students have been divided into groups, which meet at the house of the Dean. The first of these "parties" was held on Friday evening, when a very pleasant and profitable evening was spent. Papers were read by members of the advanced course and important questions in the history of education were discussed leisurely (?) while we enjoyed our coffees and "eats."

Mr. C. Allin, B.A., is leaving this week for Halifax, having received a position in the normal school there.

The "lit" just on Saturday night as usual. An unusually large group were present and enjoyed a very interesting programme, of which the one fault was that it was decidedly too lengthy. A debate, "Resolved that the immediate enfranchisement of women would be for the betterment of Canada," was given. The Misses Hoskey and Harris for the affirmative and the Messrs. Archibald and Hare for the negative, handled the subject very cleverly and wittily. Dr. Augusta Stone-Gallen, in giving the decision of the judges, which was in favor of the affirmative, gave as a few of her views as regards the question of woman's suffrage. A new feature was the reading of the news of the week by one of our members.

Selections by the male choral readings and Casanova account of the hockey match between "our men" and "the hankians"—Senior Arts—constituted the remainder of the programme.

Mrs. Coleman was "At Home" on Saturday afternoon to the students of both the general and the advanced courses.

FORESTRY NOTES

At the meeting of the Foresters' Club, on Thursday night, Mr. R. G. Lewis, of the District Committee, reported the results of his investigations.

A subscription sheet is being circulated, and if sufficient assurance is accorded the Committee, a most successful dinner is to be anticipated.

President Dwight has the first issue of the new paper on hand. They are of excellent workmanship and show up to great advantage.

On account of several disabilities in the personnel of the Forestry Hockey team, the scheduled match with Senior School was not played on Saturday morning. It will probably be played on Wednesday night. Forestry must win in order to tie for first place in group C.

VICTORIA NOTES

Last Saturday evening, at the Literary Society, Mr. Arthur Blakey, organist of St. Lawrence St. Methodist Church, gave a lecture on Music, its history and the development of the various styles. In his illustrations he was assisted by Mrs. Kilgour, violin, Miss Ashworth, soprano, and Mr. Boynton, baritone.

VARSITY WINS BASKET-BALL ON SATURDAY

Defeats West-End Y.M.C.A. 49-20
—Varsity II's loss to West End II's—Show improvement in Shooting

On Saturday night, Varsity's basketball team played the first game with the West End Y.M.C.A. in the City League series. They won, 49-20. It was a very fair game in the first half as the Varsity five were not accustomed to the small floor and West End led by three points at half-time. However, Varsity were more at home in the second half and put it all over the West Toronto quintette. The team apparently has benefited very considerably by the extra shooting practice, and have now found to a much greater extent than in the games with Central how to "get the basket."

For West End, Tart and Montgomery were the stars. Varsity had no particular individual stars as the team work was splendid and no disintegration of the merits of the team could possibly be seen.

The teams were:
West End—Buckle, Tart, McMurphy, Wong, Montgomery.

Varsity—Dixon, Simpson, Gage, Brock, Wood.

The intermediate game between Varsity II, and West End II, resulted in a win for the latter Varsity had the game clinched within the last few minutes, and then for some unaccountable reason "blew up." It seems to be a bad habit of the II team to go to pieces in the home stretch. Butters and Doherty shot well for Varsity. Day was best for West End.

The line-up

West End—Day, Hawn, McCutcheon, Griffiths, Marshall.

Varsity II—Gentry, Butters, Chadwick, Livingston, Doherty.

POT SHOTS

Varsity's defence pulled off a rather remarkable stunt in the second half of the game with West End. Between them they scored 27 points, Brock getting 19. In addition to this they held West End's score down to 7 points, 3 of which were scored on foul shots.

"Stimmer" Simpson handles the ball in "great style and is a splendid 'feeder'."

"Chas" Gage sure can pump some—as for getting the ball in a mix-up—there's no one like him.

Manager "Wim" Sinton and Doctor Burton enjoyed the game immensely from the sideline.

Livingstone is improving all the time. All he needs is a little more experience to make him all step some.

The lineup for the McGill game on Friday will probably be—Dixon, Whyte, Gage, Wood, Livingston, Butters.

McGill are coming strong, and it looks like a "whirlwind" from start to finish.

Spokane College is preparing to establish a course in practical journalism. Instruction will be given in general writing for the press. Besides this, there will be actual training in the makeup of the paper, in methods of circulation and advertising, and in soliciting, collecting and general management.

The sophomores of Ohio Wesleyan turned out all the lights at the freshman reception last week, intending to stop it. Instead they had added to the merriment of the beauty and chivalry of '19, and to the anxiety of

EMINENT PHYSICISTS COMING

Prof. H. A. Wilson, who succeeded Prof. Rutherford in the Chair of Physics in McGill University, has been invited by the Canadian Institute to deliver a lecture before that body on Saturday evening, February 12. This lecture will be given in the amphitheatre of the Physics Building at 8 o'clock. In his lecture, Prof. Wilson will discuss the bearing of some recent advances in Physics on the problem of the Ether.

Prof. C. Runge, who occupies the Chair of Applied Science in Göttingen, and is at present delivering a course of lectures on graphical methods at Columbia University, New York, has been invited to visit the University of Toronto, and to deliver two lectures, one on the subject of Graphical Methods and the other the Mechanism of Flight. These lectures will be given in the amphitheatre of the Physics Building on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 14 and 15, at 5 o'clock.

The lectures will be of a popular nature, and while intended primarily for the students and the members of the staff, they will be open, as far as room will permit, to the public generally.

In the first lecture, methods will be discussed by which mathematical operations may be carried out by drawing, and it will be shown that such methods are applicable not only to calculations proper but also to industrial operations.

In the second lecture, Prof. Runge will discuss the mechanical principles of the flight of birds and the flight of flying machines.

Both lectures will be illustrated by lantern slides.

TRINITY COLLEGE

The annual dinner of the Cercle Français was held at the St. Charles' Hotel on Saturday evening, February 5th, at 7:30 o'clock. During the first part of the programme the attention of all present seemed directed almost solely to the demolition of the excellent wines. The toast to the King was then proposed by the chairman, Professor Routh, after which came a short presentation utilized by the new members of the club in obtaining signatures for their song books.

Toasts and songs then followed in rapid but orderly procession. Canada was the toast proposed by Professor Routh, France by Mr. Bell, the University by Professor Griffiths, while Trinity College, Absent Members, and Le Cercle were not forgotten. When all the French songs had been sung—and one medieval Latin student's song—the members lapsed into the vernacular, and at a quarter-past eleven the company disbanded. While the number present was rather small, the joviality few who were there were unanimous in their claim that this dinner was one of the brightest functions in the brilliant constellation which ennobles the history of the Cercle Français.

COLUMBIAN CLUB SOCIAL MEETING

There will be a social meeting of the Columbian Club to-night (Feb. 6th) in St. Michael's College club-rooms. Both ladies and gentlemen are invited to come along and bring their friends. An entertaining programme will be provided.

THE UNIVERSITY OF SASKATCHEWAN

History of Canada's Newest University Debated by one of the Staff
Spenda site selected and Buildings Planned

A University is founded on faith and imagination as well as on brains and books. With the splendid audacity of western optimism, which says unto this homestead and yon shack, Remove hence, and it shall remove, and in its place shall stand a college and a campus, the decree of the Board of Governors went forth on April 24th, 1909, that Saskatoon was to be the Athens of Saskatchewan. To those who know the West well enough to see in every elevator a mosque of the wisest religion, this meant that the muses had entered the lists to do battle royal with "No. 1 North-west." But to the old-time Saskatoonian, who had seen this town grow from a population of three hundred to fifteen thousand in 1909, it opened a window view of possibilities. Even the architectural glories of Flanagan's Hotel might be eclipsed and unduly, of course, it would help real estate.

As early as 1903 an ordinance to establish a university for the Northwest Territories was passed. But it was the creation of Saskatchewan into a province, in September, 1905, that lent the idea the movement which established the University of Saskatchewan on April 29, 1907. At that time all graduates of any University in His Majesty's dominions, who, at the time of the first meeting, March 1st, 1907, had been licensed to practice law, were had no University will no license, and no license carved with names of famous domestic. These obstacles are all being gradually overcome. I have already discovered a name cut upon the academic fern—colleges the operation transpired while one of the other professors was lecturing; new books are putting in an appearance on our library shelves; while a blood-curdling yell, which exhibits a splendid mastery in the opening exercises of Henderson and Fletcher's First Latin Book, announces the creed, hopes and activities of the youthful Saskatchewan. It begins "Hail, Canada!" but the end thereof is known only to the initiated.

Not an academic life proving dull. Already examination papers have been set and students placed. The members of the staff have travelled far and wide throughout the province to disseminate the gospel of culture through extension lectures. Enough money was collected for field day sports to give medals and prizes to all who escaped coming in last. Conversations were held in popular and presidential banquets at Clinkbell's hall. The Students' Representative Body, Literary Society, the Y.M.C.A. and the Athletic Association have all been organized and the honorariums are carefully apportioned among the professors.

When President Murray first drove over the University property he saw two waves on what is to be the site of the future Convocation Hall. I predict for these waves an enviable immortality. They will be made the subject of annual presidential reference when the progress of the University is sketched. But sanguine as we are as to the future, we recognize that a University is great only after long and faithful service. As the rate of mortality among infants is never low, this new offspring of the State will for some months consider it no mean honour, but rather a sufficient glory simply to perform well the normal functions of life and growth. It may not be given to us for more than a day to produce great scholars. There is no reason why from the very beginning we should not produce efficient and high-minded citizens.

EDMUND H. OLIVER.

(Mr. Oliver, who is the professor of History and Economics at the University of Saskatchewan, is at present taking his third year in theology at Knox College—22.)

legiate Gothic. Provision is being made for the ultimate establishment of:

1. A College of the Liberal Arts and Sciences with Schools of Music, Art and Commerce.
2. A College of Agriculture with Schools of Forestry, Domestic Science and Veterinary Science.
3. A College of Education with Practical Schools.
4. A College of Law.
5. A College of Medicine with Schools of Pharmacy and adjacent hospitals.
6. A College of Dentistry.
7. A College of Engineering with workshops and laboratories.
8. An Extension Department making provision for local technical schools, correspondence classes, lecture courses and farmers' clubs.

The sites for Library, Convocation Hall, Administration Hall, Museum, Union, Chapel, Association Hall, Power House, Gymnasium, College of Agriculture, Official Residence, Theological affiliated Colleges and Formal Buildings are all being determined before a single building is erected.

The College of Arts and Science opened last September. At present 70 students doing the work of the first two years. It is expected that next year the student body will be 100. The College of Agriculture will also commence in September. The University is in affiliation with the University of Emmanuel College of the Diocese of Saskatchewan.

Our temporary quarters are on the corner of the old brick block. The royal road to higher learning is made easy by an elevator—so far as I am aware the only one in the province in the world. When lectures began—the heads of beginning them were the heads of the University of History—we had no University will no license, and no license carved with names of famous domestic. These obstacles are all being gradually overcome. I have already discovered a name cut upon the academic fern—colleges the operation transpired while one of the other professors was lecturing; new books are putting in an appearance on our library shelves; while a blood-curdling yell, which exhibits a splendid mastery in the opening exercises of Henderson and Fletcher's First Latin Book, announces the creed, hopes and activities of the youthful Saskatchewan. It begins "Hail, Canada!" but the end thereof is known only to the initiated.

Not an academic life proving dull. Already examination papers have been set and students placed. The members of the staff have travelled far and wide throughout the province to disseminate the gospel of culture through extension lectures. Enough money was collected for field day sports to give medals and prizes to all who escaped coming in last. Conversations were held in popular and presidential banquets at Clinkbell's hall. The Students' Representative Body, Literary Society, the Y.M.C.A. and the Athletic Association have all been organized and the honorariums are carefully apportioned among the professors.

When President Murray first drove over the University property he saw two waves on what is to be the site of the future Convocation Hall. I predict for these waves an enviable immortality. They will be made the subject of annual presidential reference when the progress of the University is sketched. But sanguine as we are as to the future, we recognize that a University is great only after long and faithful service. As the rate of mortality among infants is never low, this new offspring of the State will for some months consider it no mean honour, but rather a sufficient glory simply to perform well the normal functions of life and growth. It may not be given to us for more than a day to produce great scholars. There is no reason why from the very beginning we should not produce efficient and high-minded citizens.

DEFENCE OF BIBLE FROM CRITICS

Bishop McDowell delivers University Sermon—Takes Parable of Sower as Text

Preaching from the words of Matthew 13:3, "And He spoke many things to them in parables, saying, Behold a sower went forth to sow," Bishop McDowell drew the material for an eloquent discourse on Sunday morning. He based his sermon on the whole parable, pointed out the fact that the good seed was undoubtedly the most plentiful, and deplored the fact that Biblical students had treated this parable as if the bad seed, on account of its greater prevalence, should be given most attention and most attention. This parable was brought from the latter part of Jesus, who spoke of Himself, not His cross, but the fact that He should have to go to good to men, and that would not have good done to them, was His greatest burden.

Imagination should play a much larger part than it actually does in our appreciation of the Bible. This is the first of all faculties to be brought into play in a study of Scripture. There is nothing so pathetic in life as the failure of those who attempt to split the world. This parable might seem to some to be the most depressing and disheartening of the parables of our Saviour, on account of the fact that so many people stress these passages that it is to be the least noticeable. But, on the other hand, it is the most hopeful and inspiring saying of the Master. In a real sense it is most encouraging and uplifting. There is a way of reading it which will gladden your heart and make life beautiful. By much the wonderful figure of the sower himself because the constant tendency of our life is the matter of the sower himself.

The preacher condemned the attitude of those critics who pass over vital truths to give a picture of what that which is not of fundamental import. Pastors and teachers appear to be settling in the fact that their efforts are a mockery. The Bible does not need improvement and correction, but understanding and application to the problem of life. The discourse closed with an appeal for the people of this world to go forth to sow, knowing full well what difficulties he had to face. By following the steps of the great Sower, some day we shall hear the shout of those who reap in the harvest home.

The Business Manager of Torontonensis wishes to announce that all money owing to him was due Jan 31st, 1921. Kindly remit. Address J. R. Harris, University College.

SATURDAY LECTURE

The lecture in the Physics Building next Saturday, at 3 o'clock, will be given by Dr. Macphail of Montreal, instead of Professor Barrett Wendall, as had been announced previously. His brother's death has prevented Professor Wendall from fulfilling this engagement, to which a number of our citizens had been looking forward with great expectations. Dr. Macphail's subject, "The American Woman," would of itself prove attractive, but the discussion which arose over his articles in the London Spectator a year ago, and his reputation as the editor of the University Magazine, will no doubt add to the number of his hearers.

LIFE SAVING CLASS

All who signed their names to try for the Royal Life Saving Society's certificate and medalion will please report for the land drill on Monday, Feb 14th, at 2:30 p.m., to the swimming instructor.

Hall of the bleachers are being reserved for students, who should turn out in large numbers and support the team.

Hockey followers will be glad to hear that the nasty accident which happened to "Gance Iwan" McSloy in the Lava game is not as serious as was anticipated, and that he is entirely out of danger. He will not play against McGill, however.

Gordon Gaffie, who also has been under the weather, is up again and will be again in the ring in this next game on Friday night.

THE HISTORICAL CLUB

The Historical Club held its regular meeting at the residence of Mr. M. J. Hane, 3 Elm avenue, last evening. Papers were read by Messrs. McBratney, on "European Excursions in Turkey," H. J. Pickering, on "Religious Institutions in Turkey," and F. M. McPhedran, on "The 'Existing Constitution'."

SPLENDID SITE CHOSEN FOR NEW Y.M.C.A.

Governors have Purchased corner of Hoskin and St. George—Building will extend from Street to the Campus

Through the kind co-operation of the Board of Governors of the University, a site has been secured for the new Y.M.C.A. building. This is the property on the south-east corner of Hoskin Avenue and St. George street, which the Governors purchased last week and will hold for the Association until that organization is able to pay for it.

The photograph in this issue gives a clear idea of the situation of the property in relation to the city grounds. As it extends from St. George street to the rear campus, the building will have two entrances, one of which will face the campus. At first thought it might appear that this location is far removed from the centre of student activities, but upon consideration this does not prove to be the case. Owing to the crowding of buildings on the southern part of the University grounds, nearly all the St. George street side of the campus is made northward. Before many years the properties on the east side of St. George street as far north as Hoskin Avenue and possibly even to Bloor street will undoubtedly be owned by the University. Furthermore, the tendency on the part of the majority of students to secure rooming houses north of College street and west of the University is becoming more noticeable. With the erection of the General Hospital on College street, this tendency will be greatly increased for this will make it unnecessary for medical students to live east of Yonge street in order to be equal distances from the hospital and the University. As a result, the new Y.M.C.A. building will be in a position to meet the social needs of University students. It will be on the highway of a great many of the undergraduates and within easy access of the rest. With all the advantages its full equipment will furnish, it will become of undoubted value to the undergraduate body.

Moreover, from this vantage point the purely spiritual and religious phase of the Association work will become more familiar to the men of the University, and when it is clearly understood that the Young Men's Christian Association stands for all that is vigorous and healthy and manly in college life, and no mere weak, sentimental religiosity, it will be well for us all as undergraduates of the University of Toronto.

PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

The Philosophical Society meets today, at 4 p.m., in room 6, Mr. E. J. Pratt's office, will read "Problems of Second Year Philosophy." Dr. Abbott will lead the discussion.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

On Tuesday afternoon Junior Arts beat first year school in a Jennings Cup match, 6 to 5. Arts led 1 to 1 at half-time. School have protested, but it is not likely their protest will be allowed. Arts line up: Goal, Macfarlane; point, Grass; cover, Caran; rover, Mulholland; centre, Mulholland; right and left, Wood and Reynolds.

In a fourth year English lecture, Mr. Stephenson was lecturing on the "Cenci." He quoted as follows: "As when on a pig," but was interrupted by loud applause from the class. The points gradually dawned on him and he remarked: "Two lean a cage, humor often spoils the appreciation of poetry."

Lent—All work from now on.

Yesterday was the last day for handing in the second installment of economic essays in the Department of Political Science.

Torontomans are practically finished as far as collection of material is concerned. It is the intention of the editor to go to press next week, so that anything for insertion must be handed in to him this week.

The editorial contest was held last evening in Convocation Hall, Wycliffe College.

Mr. L. J. McLaughlin has secured a position in Berlin. He will commence his new duties next Monday.

"The third year held its annual skating party Tuesday evening. After the tenth band, the party adjourned to the new club room of the Arts. There, where, refreshments were served, an informal dance held afterwards. The management of this creditable function was in the hands of Misses J. Starr and M. Barrie, and Messrs. H. Bryce, C. H. McKinnon and R. C. Geddes.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Mr. H. A. Cook, '09, addressed a meeting at the Electrical Club last night on "The Mercury Arc Rectifier," describing fully its construction and to what extent it is used in the conversion of alternating current to direct current.

When asked if he intended to attend the meeting, "Whoo!" replied: "Certainly. It adds tone to the blarney for me to be present."

Mr. R. D. S. Beckett, our author on "Rhinoceros," met with what might have been a serious accident while snowploughing on Saturday last. Becky has the entire sympathy of the weather bureau.

Will the readman who last borrowed Mike Barry's note-book return the same soon as someone else wants to copy a few notes out of it?

The theatre night held on Wednesday last was largely attended, and thoroughly enjoyed. The play was inspiring, the boxes filled, the weather snowy, and the music between acts decidedly dimmished.

The idea of running a gas engine with water has recently occurred to a party in the thermo. lab. The matter created interest, but no publication of results need be expected as the scheme was not approved of. The spark was too weak, John.

The sectional meetings of the Engineering Society were largely attended last evening. Reports of the meetings will be in Tuesday's Varsity.

WYCLIFFE NOIES

Miss Charlotte Swanson held a successful party last Tuesday evening. Miss Swanson looked handsome in a beautiful purple hat-trim, carpet slippers and a Boston hairnet. Among her honored guests were Misses Allena Greene, Roberta Day, Norma Sage, Paulina Harp, and Victoria Hobbs. The merry party dispersed sometime before 1 a.m.

The Capt. seems to be doing some effective work. O. J. N. has been seen about the scarcity of seats for morning chapel.

The adroit and witty M.C.'s appear to have his own peculiar method of recording his personal history. The following is a postscript of a page supposed to have slipped from his diary:

Topic—
"It is not growing like a tree
In bulk doth make men better be."

Chit-Chat—
"Twas Nautilus who the silence broke."
"Miss—, why are you like a tree?"
"Because, because—I'm bored," she spoke.

"Oh, no, because you're wood," said he.

"Why are you like a tree?" she said;
"I have a heart?" he asked in jest.
Her answer made poor "Mackie" red,
"Because you're sappy, don't you know?"

"Once more," she asked, "why are there two answers?"

A tree? "He couldn't quite perceive.
"Trees have sometimes, and make a love."

And you busy also how—and leave."

KNOX COLLEGE

The victory of McMaster in the debate with Victoria on Monday evening leaves the final debate of the D.D.L. series to be contested by Knox and McMaster. It will take place in about two weeks. Knox is out to win and has chosen C. F. Macleod and A. A. Scott to champion her cause.

The Deuts went from Knox in the Jennings' Cup game on Monday, but there was not such a difference in the teams as the score (3-1) would indicate. The game was a tie at half-time, and was hotly contested throughout. However, the better team won.

The "Lit." met on Tuesday evening. The large attendance was due to the fact that Dr. Malcolm Wallace of Varsity had been announced and he is a great favorite with the students there. His paper on "Sir Philip Sydney" was listened to with pleasure and profit.

The semi-annual open meeting of the Students' Missionary Society will take place in the College Convocation Hall next Tuesday evening. The meeting will consist of three addresses, illustrated by lantern views: "British Columbia," by A. A. Scott; "The Pacific," by J. H. Brown; and "Ontario," by Y. A. Ardman. Music will be supplied by the Knox College Quartette and Mr. H. S. Davis.

THE STUDENT CAMPAIGN

An intimation was given in the last issue of The Varsity of a scheme for canvassing the students of the University for contributions toward the erection of a new V.M.C.A. building. The bulk of the money required, it was stated, will be raised among the citizens of Toronto and the province. The students, however, will be given a share in the scheme. The canvass among them will take the form of a ten-day campaign commencing on Tuesday, February 15th, and ending on Friday, the 25th. During these ten days the plans for erecting this new building will be presented to each individual man in the University.

A committee, with Mr. Gordon R. Jones as chairman, has been appointed to have charge of the campaign. The committee is one representative from each college, who will direct the campaign at that college. Under each of these college leaders there are four year leaders whose duty it will be to superintend the work done by the canvassers of each respective year. It is through these canvassers that a personal presentation of the entire scheme will be made to each man in the University.

The purpose of the committee is not to ask the students to make payments at present. Pledges will be taken for amounts to be paid in three yearly instalments. The first payment will be called for on October 1, 1910, the second October 1, 1911, and the third October 1, 1912.

Alarums and Excursions

"What's in a name?" When Juliet made this rather badly-treated remark she probably had very little knowledge of what conditions would exist at the University of Toronto. If she had foreseen the settlement of Queen's Park she would undoubtedly have materially modified her observation. A name means much to one who shortly—the significance of a name—wonders why. He who would telephone a friend in the University residences learns the melancholy result of their being no name at all.

As regards the former matter, it is obviously wrong to speak of University College as "Arts," and thus to arrogate to one college all the "humanities," leaving the Trinity and Victoria the intolerable odium of being divinity schools. It is a tremendous task to change the name of a university, and the oldest of the colleges, and it has also been said that the same institution with the long name can call itself "The College" without giving offence to anyone in Queen's Park or across the Park. This matter is currently under the careful deliberation of the Undergraduates' Parliament, and we would kindly suggest the discussion of it in this solemn diary.

"FOURISH!"

RESULTS OF ELEMENTARY GYM CONTEST

The intercollegiate contest in elementary gymnastics was successfully held on last Friday afternoon in the gymnasium. Some twenty-seven men participated, mainly recruited from D.K. and Arts. The men's representation was in good form, but numerically their squad was as close to zero as we can get without resorting to fractions. It is rather sad case, isn't it, when a faculty showing a roll of credit on to face a team on turn out only one lonely representative to uphold the faculty prestige? It seems the poor lads have to work very hard—bone-grinding, dislocations, etc.—in a round of toil evidently. Our Meds. spend such a lot of time tending this poor human frame to pieces that one can't help thinking it would be desirable for them to give a little attention to constructive anatomy on the gym floor. Education, Victoria, and the rest were not very noticeable either, but they came up to the expectations with which it was made.

The individual work was done in several cases very fine. H. Duke of Arts was to be a valuable acquisition to the senior gym team, as well as Bowman of School, who took second place. H. D. Davidson, Blain, Tilton, and several others are of senior calibre, but hardly had the opportunity of showing it in a junior competition, where the work is elementary and so much depends upon small details of "form." The perpetual dirt, Dixon and Gage, showed up with starling brilliancy and proved that versatile genius need not confine itself to basketball and rugby.

The standing of teams was based upon the marks of their eight best men, which are as follows:
Arts—Duke, 17; Dixon, 16; Patterson, 14; Gage, 9; King, 9; 10-12; Barton, 9; Hartney, 9; Sugarman, 8; Total, 743.

S.P.S.—Downing, 20; Davidson, H. D., 19; Blain, 19; Tilton, 19; Davidson, G. S., 18; 1-2; Sutherland, 18; Rosewell, 17; Goodridge, 10-12. Total, 696.

Medals—38-12.
Judges were J. M. Macleod, Central Y.M.C.A.; C. V. Reid, Meds.; Trol, Williams, and Dr. Barton.

UNIVERSITY MONTHLY

The February number of the University Monthly appeared this week. Among other articles it contains an excellent paper on Canadian Nationalism by Prof. Wrong, and an interesting account of the Student Council at Edinburgh by R. G. Bell, M.A. University College subscribers can obtain their copies at Varsity office.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

The 11th regular meeting of the Modern Language Club was held on Monday, February 7. An unusually large number of members and their friends met in the East Hall to see the presentation of "Le Sorment d'Hector," a French comedy by Henry Bujor. The scene of the play is a Parisian drawing-room. A young widow, Madame de Saintes, has come from the West Indies with her uncle DuRenai, an irascible man, who would like to marry off his niece and return to his plantation. His friend Charvalise has been paying court to her but she does not like him. Monsieur Gerard, a stranger to all three, being given the overcoat of Charvalise by mistake at the theatre, finds in the pocket the memorandum book in which the owner has written the things he is to do the next day. Monsieur Gerard, finding his telegrams, decides to follow the programme of the memorandum book. The item, "Ask for the hand of Madame de Saintes in marriage," leads to a number of amusing scenes, and Monsieur Gerard is finally accepted by the lady and her uncle. The players all acted their parts exceedingly well. Mr. R. L. Campbell and Mr. W. S. Montgomery took the parts of Hector Gerard and Monsieur DuRenai, while those of Madame de Saintes and her uncle, Rose, were acted by Miss A. G. Rothwell and Miss M. J. Campbell.

UNIVERSITY SERMON

Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes of New Haven, Conn., will deliver the University sermon in Convocation Hall on Sunday morning.

WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY

The programme for the next meeting of the Women's Literary Society on Saturday, Feb. 12th, has been arranged by the alumnae, and will be in the form of a reception, followed by an informal and very interesting programme. Short addresses will be given by Miss Charlotte Ross, Miss McMaster, and Miss Grace Hunter—three well-known graduates. There will also be several musical numbers and a recitation by Miss Edith Gordon, B.A. Many of the graduates will be present, and it is hoped that the undergraduates to make this innovation a success.

William James Sidis, the eleven-year-old Harvard student, delivered a lecture Wednesday before the Harvard Mathematical Society. For an hour and a half he ably discussed the difficult and complex subject of "Fourth Dimensional Bodies," treating the subject in a masterly manner, which quite astounded the professors present. Young Sidis spent a year at Tufts College, entering Harvard last fall with the intention of specializing in mathematics. He speaks five languages, and is an intellectual prodigy in all of the varied studies he has undertaken.

UNIVERSITY Y. M. C. A.

As has been announced lately in these columns, the University Y.M.C.A. has planned a campaign among the students to meet the expense of the extension of their work by the erection of a new building. The Y.M.C.A. has long realized that they have outgrown their present building and that they were greatly hampered in their work owing to lack of accommodation adequate for the business and social needs of the Association. They have had, however, to hide their time and await an opportunity when circumstances, financial and otherwise, would warrant the erection of a new and suitable building. Such an opportunity now seems to have arrived, and they are now making an appeal to the students for their help in financing the undertaking. It is for the students' benefit that the work has been undertaken, and the appeal should meet with a willing and generous response.

The Y.M.C.A. has done a great work in this University not only in furthering the moral welfare of the students and in endeavoring to strengthen their religious life, but also in furnishing a means of social instruction. When a freshman comes to the University he is always sure of finding at the Y.M.C.A. friends able and willing to give him advice, and in the days of his loneliness he may drop into their building and feel at home. The Y.M.C.A. conducts the University sermons, and gives the students an opportunity of hearing the best preachers on the continent. These denominational services are of great value for many a student will attend them who will not go to church. The Y.M.C.A. have also promoted Bible study, a work, yet often neglected, factor in a man's life. They have formed many Bible classes which, increasing as they are in number, exercise a good influence on University life.

Such has been the work of the Y.M.C.A. in the University, and so it is the plea for further support based. The Association has done good work in the past, but will do infinitely better in the future, when suitable and adequate equipment is provided. Let every student who responds liberally to the appeal for financial aid.

THE SPRINGS OF ORATORY

Each year the Literary Society of University College holds an oratory contest. This is an annual feature which in many ways answers a laudable purpose—that of giving aspirants to oratorical ability a chance to display their powers. It also serves as an object lesson in public speaking, from which some important deductions may be drawn.

The more we listen to speeches, the more we are convinced that the attempt to deliver an oration must spring primarily from a real feeling for his subject on the part of the speaker. No speech can be either pleasing or effective which does not come from the very heart of him who delivers it. It may be ever so well conceived, the choice of words and expressions may be faultless, the delivery may be smooth and the gestures easy and natural, but if there be not underlying all this a kindling fire which thrills through thought and word and motion and flashes forth the speaker's deepest conviction that what he says is true and worth while, that speech will fail to touch the interest of the audience. All these other qualifications are more or less an outgrowth of this first cardinal requisite. Thus it was that those contestants who last Thursday evening chose subjects for oration which lay next to their hearts, succeeded in impressing their hearers, while those whose themes were picked from a store of others for purposes of display, without a thought as to how deeply the speaker felt their import, remained cold and unconvincing.

It seems questionable, too, whether a really great oration can be delivered apart from some stirring occasion. All notable speeches have been made at a crisis, or when some important issues were at stake. In parliament or on the political platform, statesmen light for great principles, upon the success or failure of which depends the course of a country's government. Marc Antony, orating over the dead body of Caesar, is striving with a definite purpose in view to arouse the passions of his hearers. The political campaigner, likewise, has the situation in a sense prepared for him. His audience knows the facts of the case, their feelings are level to a high pitch, there is either violent opposition or enthusiastic concurrence or a mingling of both. Certain policies are at stake, the fate of a government is trembling in the balance, and the speaker knows he is fighting for something.

But at an oratory contest there is neither opposition nor concurrence on the part of the audience. They are mainly apathetic, with perhaps a mild tendency to be lenient in their judgment. They are there to hear a certain person display his eloquence; they know it, and he knows it. Nothing is at stake—except perhaps a medal, and that would work up enthusiasm over the fate of a medal? It is in this atmosphere of pale indifference that the oratorical aspirant must work, with an audience whose feelings are hard to arouse, and with an absence of any inspiring circumstances.

Taking into consideration these facts, it is plain why so many make a poor list of their speech at an "oratory contest," and why peculiar credit is due to those who succeed in making a truly effective showing on such an occasion—W. C. M.

WYCLIFFE NOTES

The Literary Society held a spirited meeting last Friday evening. It solved, that a republican form of government is preferable to that of a limited monarchy; was the subject of an interesting Cambridge debate. The discussion was keen and both sides brought forward some strong arguments. The decision was given in favor of the negative by a majority vote. Mr. Kingston moved the resolution and it was seconded by Mr. Harford. Rev. Prof. Cotton acted as critic, and his pertinent remarks will prove helpful to those who participated in the debate. Messrs. Day and Bell made the stellar speeches of the evening.

The Sigma Pi hockey team were defeated by the Wycliffe "Invincibles" in a splendid game on Friday afternoon.

Next Friday evening the Literary Society is having an open meeting in the Convocation Hall. The chief attraction of the evening will be an illustrated lecture on Hallway's Comet, by Prof. C. A. Chant, M.A., Ph.D. All interested in this subject are cordially invited to attend.

Junior Arts defeated Pharmacy in a very close and exciting game Friday afternoon by the score of 6-3. This gave Arts their district, only having lost one game. The line-up was—Goal, Barry; point, Grass; cover, Carran; rover, Macdonald; centre, Macdonald; left, Smith, right, Reynolds.

The next time Mr. T. R. Harrison orders apples, we would suggest that he instruct the messenger not to deliver them to a meeting of the faculty. The faculty might be hungry next time.

The sympathy of all Mr. L. C. Moyer's friends was extended to him at the hockey match Friday night. He was seen casting many sad glances at the reserved seat section of the rink, meanwhile trying to console himself with a bunch of hockey sticks in the timekeeper's box.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Mr. D. Neville Sharpe, '10, is leaving for the remainder of the term to take a position in British Columbia on D.L.S. limit work.

At the Alumni dinner: Mr. Moody (upon rising, after taking an unprecedented move forward owing to collapse of chair)—"A smash-up!"

Mr. Watson (who knows little of therapeutics, but who acted as first aid)—"Yes, you eat too much on one side."

At the Engineers' Club on Thursday evening Mr. J. H. Shaler read a paper on "Some Elevator Troubles, and How to Remedy Them." Mr. Watson, '09, provoked a number of interesting smiles and gave some valuable discussion on the subject. Prof. Angus was in the chair.

We heard a good joke about McSney and Flynn being appointed members of some commission or other, but we forgot it, and the editor says it's just as well.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

Mr. Steele is teaching in the Winston High School.

First student—"When do we have a holiday?"

Second student—"Why, don't you know Wednesday is Good Friday?"

The Second Study group spent Saturday evening very enjoyably at Dr. Pakchian's. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pakchian.

Miss Hill, Miss Clark and Mr. Manning were among those who attended the Victoria, '09, reunion on Friday evening at Mr. McClelland's, Scarborough.

Who is she? Mr. Sloan was seen purchasing valentines last week.

Miss Ethel Scott, B.A., left on Saturday to take charge of the Moderns Department in Port Hope High School.

Last Thursday evening instead of the regular Y.V.C.A. meeting, the ladies were entertained to supper by the Foreign Committee of the Dominion Council of Y.V.C.A. in the Y.V.C.A. building. Dr. C. C. Benson was in the chair. During the evening Miss Anderson, B.A., gave an address on the work among the Hindus. Miss Little, B.A., spoke of the present situation in Tokio, Japan.

VICTORIA NOTES

On Saturday morning, at four o'clock, three passed away Robert Beare, the janitor of the college. A young man, thirty-eight years ago, he came out to Canada, where Victoria was still at Cobourg, to fill this position. Never was janitor so beloved and respected as "Robert" by faculty and students, the latter especially. The bereavement will be keenly felt not only by the undergraduates, but by the host of graduates who have in years gone by "passed through his hands" for "Robert" was like unto a father to his many boys. His words of encouragement and praise were ever most inspiring, while mischievous spirits always received his wise admonitions with the utmost grace. Many a time has he addressed the "honourable gentlemen" of Victoria College, and these speeches, truly original compositions of wit and wisdom, will linger in our memory along with the vision of his kind face for many years to come. The large place he has held in the hearts of the students has been manifested in numerous ways—kind among them by that unique function known as the "Bob", dedicated to his honor. The members of the successive "Bob" committees who have been royally entertained and who sumptuously dined with him, will mourn his loss more deeply if possible than the rest. They cannot forget the forty times they had with him and the good stories he told of former college days. There will be a public service in the chapel to-day at 12 o'clock noon.

TRINITY COLLEGE

The Lenten lectures course on "Modern Movements" began on Saturday afternoon with a lecture by the Rev. J. P. D. Ilwyd, D.V.C., rector of the College, who took as his subject, "Promises of the Pacific Coast." A rumor to the effect that the lecturer, attired as an Indian brave, and wearing a wig, and two painted faces, would emerge from a wigwag erected on the dais, proved unfounded. He was introduced in the usual manner by the chairman, who spoke briefly upon the qualifications possessed by Dr. Ilwyd and the other lecturers in the course for dealing with their respective subjects.

The first part of the lecture was taken up with a description of the natural scenic beauties of the West, and especially of the State of Washington, Southern Alaska, and British Columbia.

Passing on from these world pictures, the great migration westward was spoken of as a movement old as the human race. Now, said the lecturer, is this movement to be directed and controlled? What is to be done with the tens of thousands of young men, freed from the restraining influences of home life, who are pouring into the West? This is the first problem presenting itself.

After giving an account of the varied types which can be seen in the West, Dr. Ilwyd discussed the Chinese problem, painting a vivid and most interesting picture of Chinatown as it was found in San Francisco after the earthquake, and as it may yet exist in other western cities.

The need of the West is primarily a religious need, and the answer to the problems there presented to us lies in the East, in the universities. The West has its limitations, its misuses, its weird fads, but it requires that training and culture which at present can be given it only by the East.

The lecture next Saturday, at 3:30 o'clock, will be "Ideals in Contemporary Art," by E. Wylie Greer, R.C.A.

ESSENTIALS OF A FULL GROWN MANHOOD

Mastery Sermon by Rev. Anson PHELPS of Yale in Convocation Hall

The attainment of full-grown manhood was the theme of a clear and forceful address by the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes of Yale University in Convocation Hall on Sunday morning. The speaker based his exposition on the words of St. Paul, found in Ephesians 4:13. "Till we all attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a full-grown man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ."

There were, said the speaker, but two courses in life: progress towards an ideal, or aimless drifting. Most people would concede that we should have an ideal. None greater could be chosen by a man than that of attaining to full-grown manhood, and by following in it him who is its ideal. Our hospitals, prisons, and asylums offered examples of physical, moral and mental imbecility which were heartrending when contrasted with full-grown manhood.

The first essential to the full-grown or what Phillips Brock called the "four-square" man, was that he should be as strong physically as he could be made to be. He had seen an Indian fanatic applying a flint to his face in the belief that by mortifying the flesh he might exalt the soul. A full-grown man, you say, and yet there are men at our universities who, in just as beatific a manner, are playing with fire which will destroy their vitality and burn out their physical powers. The primary requirement for a full-grown man was a physical basis that would not wear out in a few years and leave him stunted. The second requirement was mental strength. One of the greatest needs of to-day is clear thinking in every sphere of life. Reasoning power was given him by the same God who gave him a mind and soul, and it is a duty we owe to Him to develop it. Our need of sympathetic nature also needed development. What a call there was for men of broad sympathies, men who could understand and appreciate differing views. The University was an ideal place for developing this sympathy. "One of the greatest mistakes a student can make is to limit his friendships to men from his own town, or of his own viewpoint or academic course, or belonging to his own group. He should seek to know and understand men of every kind and every opinion." Fourthly, there was the moral and spiritual element. Among the many reform orators the speaker had heard in Convocation Hall, attacking various evils of the day, there was one who he would never forget. "His voice was smooth and his theological views medieval, but he hit the nail on the head when he said 'What this country needs more than any other thing, is religion.' To make a man's heart right towards God, this was the fundamental reform."

This full-grown manhood was exemplified perfectly only in one—Jesus Christ. He had painted had made a trail one in representing as physically the world and hence the taught of the multitude. In His wonderful discourses we have evidence of Christ's supreme mental power. What a breadth of sympathy had He who could embrace all types and all classes in His understanding heart. And how meek and unworldly was the spiritual life of One who had no completely in harmony with the Father that He could say: "I and my Father are one, he that hath seen Me hath seen the Father."

The speaker exhorted his hearers to take as their ideal here at the University that full-grown manhood which is based on the life of Jesus Christ.

Prof. Halliday of Wycliffe conducted the devotional exercises.

Commander Perry, who is an alumnus of Bowdoin College, was the guest of honor at the commencement there.

"Notice the foot note at the bottom of the page," laughed the court fool, as the royal attendant's shoes emitted a squeak.—Ex.

BRILLIANT ORATORS AT WYCLIFFE HALL

A. S. Sibbald wins the Oratorical Contest—Many other Competitors

With an eloquent and forceful speech on "Life's Call to a Young Man," Mr. A. S. Sibbald, '11, carried off the laurels at the annual oratory contest of the University College Ltd., held on Thursday evening in Wycliffe Convocation Hall. The auditorium was comfortably filled with students and their friends, who listened without visible signs of ennui for three hours to the passionate outpourings of the budding orators. A round dozen matched their eloquence in the forensic battle, two hours entered as formal representatives from each of the four years, and the rest taking part as "free lance." The average of style and matter was very high, and it was only after a conference of considerable duration that the judges were able to make the award. The "best" was composed of Chief Justice Falconbridge, Hon. J. J. Lucas, Kirkpatrick, Ph.D., of the Conservatory School of Expression. In presenting the judge's report, Mr. Lucas stated that the result had been attained only by a careful process of elimination. After the candidates for chief honors had been carefully narrowed down to five, it became a difficult matter to decide which of the five had shown the greatest excellence. When the decision was made, however, it had been made by a disinterested voice. The spokesman explained that the award had been made chiefly on the score of style, pointing out that a speech which upon subsequent examination might prove to have very little solid material in it, might nevertheless be a very good oration. So the judges had decided that, while some of the other speakers had perhaps contained more real substance and logic, in point of expression, style, delivery and general rhetorical qualities, the speech of the gentleman "whom he had played the greatest merit."

The fever way in which Mr. Lucas held the name of the successful candidate till the very end of his critical remarks, kept the audience on the highest point of suspense, and when Mr. Sibbald was announced as the victor, applause burst forth like a thunder clap, mingled with the vociferous yell of the jubilant members of the third year. "What the successful orator belongs."

The chair was occupied by Mr. T. K. Russell, B.A., President of the Literary Society, and the speeches were interspersed with violin solos by Miss Grace Evans, recitations by Mrs. E. Evans, and several vocal solos by Miss Ethelwyn Jenkins. While the judges were out, Mr. J. J. Lucas, one of the victors, told the audience by storm with a clever rendering of Dr. W. H. Drimmond's "The Mice That Condemned."

The names of the unsuccessful orators, with the subjects of their orations, are as follows: H. L. Nicholson, '13, "Canadian Civil Service"; J. Cooper, '13, "Gladstone"; A. M. McKay, '13, "The Value of the Study of Poetry for the Students"; E. Morley, '13, "Self-Control"; G. A. Macdonald, '13, "Canada's Ideal"; C. A. McKay, '13, "Success"; W. M. Johnson, '11, "A Canadian Manhood"; C. Davis, '10, "The Canadian West"; W. Mitchell, '12, "Student Government"; J. Cutham, '12, "Abraham Lincoln"; J. A. B. Harrison, "British Dreadnoughts."

DISCUSSION OF FINAL EXAMINATIONS

Letter from Member of the Faculty —Remedies for Present System
Suggested

University College,
Feb. 15th, 1910.

Editor Varsity :

We have waited in vain for the discussion of the question of examinations, which Dr. Davidson's letter and your editorial comments of a few weeks ago might have been expected to call forth. This silence may indicate complete satisfaction with the present system, or indifference to the vital importance of the problem. We venture, however, to support the sentiments already expressed. "Plato's question of higher education, I take it, is as valid to-day as it was in the fourth century. B.C. It may be summed up in a sentence: "Until a man is able to abstract and rationally define his idea, and unless he can run the gamut of all objections, and is ready to meet them, not by appeals to opinion, but to absolute truth, never filtering at any stage of the argument, he cannot do all this, he knows neither that idea nor any other idea. He apprehends only a shadow of an opinion, and not the real science." Such is his idea of teaching and of real knowledge. It is essential that of all examinations, all this, when he says: "There is no knowledge and no assurance of right belief but only him who has the idea, and the opposite opinion and successfully defend his own against confutation." How much of our teaching and learning would stand this test? Our system, focused as it is on the final in May, gives the student an opportunity to do so only once during his course, "to run the gamut of all objections," with the result that many of them are left unexamined, and the importance of the event and the greatness of the stakes may fill the candidate, who is able to rise to the occasion, with a sense of power and a conceit of knowledge, but the educational value of the great test is questionable and the results often fatal.

It may not be possible entirely to dispense with final examinations—present at least—but it is surely possible to eliminate some of their evils and to substitute something which will more adequately meet the aims of real education. A higher value should be placed on the work that is done from day to day. The exercises of the class room should consist to a greater degree of discussion, question and answer, and informal tests. It is only in this way that ideas are clarified and principles grasped. As it is, it is to be feared that ideas go to many when they leave college, unmodified, but jostle one another in hopeless confusion in the brain.

Let a large percentage of the examination marks be assigned to term work. Details should be dealt with, repeated on and tested daily. By this we do not mean that the instructor should stand, pencil in hand, to every student every time he speaks, but we do submit that the teacher, during the year, can arrive at a much truer estimate of the quality of the work of each individual than can be obtained from an examination paper covering the work of the whole session and written under most trying circumstances. Let the final examination consist of questions on broad principles which have been mastered by careful daily preparation and discussion—for by this time many details may, with profit, be forgotten. In this way the strain would be greatly lightened. The examination might be made to conform more to the Oxford type, in which a liberal choice of questions is given and the answers are valued, not according to the number of questions dealt with, but by the knowledge displayed in the answer of a few. As a result the student is able, within certain limits, to follow his own bent and exercise a wise selection of essentials.

It will be objected that the supervision involved in such a method would require a larger staff. It is true that for ideal conditions a large staff is necessary. Yet even with present equipment better results might be had. Another objection is that this policy involves too great restraint upon the student. It gives him too little freedom to do as he pleases, to attend lectures or not. Yet in the choice of subjects we hold him rigidly within certain well-defined lines. Why should we not reserve the right to see that he acquires a reasonable degree of efficiency in these subjects. It is a notorious fact that many students waste a great part of the year, and then, by a process of cram, manage to secure a pass, or even a good standing, thus making our examinations ridiculous. Indeed, this is the best of some. Shall we let such a candidate precede over his more faithful fellow when he has outdistanced him, who has put thought into his work, and has been making hard intellectual muscle? Is it to the advantage of such a student, or in fact, to the advantage of the University, that he should be permitted to do as he pleases? It surely does not make for his moral and intellectual betterment. Our prevalent notion is that it is the most happy thing in the world for a man merely to be able to do as he likes. Our hope is to do when he is thus free enough stress, by all means, but to guard him against the temptation to flatter himself with a wise supervision necessary to give him general efficiency. His very presence at the University implies that he desires supervision and guidance. If we will lessen the number of lectures with which the conscientious student is now overwhelmed—their lecture is flooded by the bad ventilation of our lecture-rooms—and if we will remove the rigidity of our present examinations, we shall be granting a freedom which will be most valuable and much appreciated.

"Thanking you for your space, I am,
W. H. TACKABERRY.

LADIES' HOCKEY

The final hockey game in the intercollegiate series is between University College and St. Hilda's at Varsity rink, on Saturday, February 19, at 11 a.m.

VARSITY DOUBLE T.A.A.C. SCORE

Three-Cornered Tie for the Group [Honors—Team Strengthened
by Intercollegiate Men

Tuesday night's contest between Varsity and the Toronto Amateur Athletic Club was close and exciting, even if the hockey was not of the most brilliant order. A win for T. A. A. C. would have given them the group championship, so they were fully prepared to put up a great struggle. Varsity, in expectation of this, strengthened their O. I. A. team with Evans, Code and Gallie, of the Intercollegiate. T. A. A. C. started off with a rush and scored a goal before Varsity seemed to be fully awake, after four minutes of play. Strone evaded up three minutes later. Varsity were still playing a rather listless game, and in five minutes McArthur put T. A. A. C. in the lead again on a long shot which took an unexpected bound just as it reached Parker. This seemed to bring Varsity to their senses, and they began to put up a much better game, adding two more goals before half-time. Strone doubled the score, both times T. A. A. C. failed to get away. In this period, the half ending with the score 3 to 2 in Varsity's favor.

In the second half Varsity had more of the play, everyone on the third and last goal in thirty seconds of their efforts they were unable to score for fifteen minutes, when Strone succeeded in beating McArthur, and incidentally scoring his fourth goal of the evening. After five minutes more, Cotton, who was playing a magnificent game in this half, put in another for Varsity. T. A. A. C. seeing the game slipping out of their reach, made a last desperate effort, Allan scoring their only goal in thirty seconds. After this they seemed to tire badly, and Varsity easily broke up their attempts to score, while Evans notched one more for his team, on an extremely neat shot, making the final score 6 to 3.

Teams:

T. A. A. C.—Goal, McArthur; point, McEachern; cover, Kidd; rover, At-

NOTES

Parker's attempt to stop the second goal scored by T. A. A. C. looked like a grand stand effort, while in reality it was not. The puck used was a very soft one and it took a bad bound just as it reached him, glancing in off his skate. Parker wanted to have the referee change the puck.

Strone played a very good game at centre, scoring four of Varsity's six goals.

Evans showed what he was capable of doing a few times, though he did not work the way he did on Friday night's game with McGill. However, he studied the forward line a lot.

Cotton did not play particularly well at the start, but he seemed to get better as the game went on. He was the hardest worker on the team. The goal he scored was a very pretty piece of work, and he got a great ovation from the crowd.

Armstrong put up a good steady game, though he did not score any goals. Though a centre-man, he plays the forward line a veteran. He also delighted his friends by being ruled off twice. His only fault has been that he played too clean a game, always clearing interludically athletes.

Code was the most effective man on the ice both on the offensive and defensive. He made some beautiful rushes, and McArthur's fine work in goal was the only thing which prevented his scoring on several of them. The whole T. A. A. C. team showed the greatest respect for his size, shooting from about the centre of the rink as a rule.

Gallie was in a scrappy mood, getting ruled off on several occasions. However, he played a very strong game all through.

Parker, as usual, was the coolest man on the ice. He has made a great hit with the crowd every time he has played at the Mutual Street rink.

The game with Queen's Saturday night is the last home intercollegiate game of the season. Queen's invariably play a great game at the Mutual Street rink, being perfectly at home on it. They have some very good men on their team and may be depended upon to give Varsity a hard struggle. This may be the last chance the student body will have to see a full intercollegiate team perform and everyone should avail themselves of this opportunity.

The winners of the two games go into the finals.

It is rather unfortunate that both the medical teams found it necessary to default all their games. Doubtless their "hairs" and "hairs-ions" interfered with their play, but the regulations allow interludically athletes, but the same reason cannot be advanced as "hair's" excuse for defaulting their series also. What's the trouble with Trinity? They with-drew from the Hockey Cup and the Siltos cup series after the schedule had been drawn up.

Institutions of the higher learning, all over the world, hold before themselves, with greater or less distinctness, several purposes:

(1) making good citizens; (2) training citizens; (3) educating them.

The aim in German universities, the purpose of making scholars is pre-eminent. In English universities, the effort to make gentlemen is dominant. In Canadian universities, the purpose is to produce thinkers. Both English universities and American are able in desiring that undergraduates, whether, primarily, they be gentlemen or thinkers, should also be useful citizens. Emerson says "All goes to the university, England yields as the whole of the national life, a well-educated gentleman." The ideal which Canada specifies as necessarily connected with universities and colleges is the creation of a large-minded and far-seeing citizenry.

It is a large-minded and far-seeing citizenry that the professional or learned, but not business, class. It must not be stated that Canadian colleges do not make gentlemen of their students. They do make men of heart help to so many of our best people. But it is the birth and nurture is so constantly held before the professional heart. Canadian colleges seek rather to make thinkers, while not denying to themselves the privileges of incidentally making gentlemen. While they are willing to believe that while they are seeking to train men to observe correctly, to infer accurately, to interpret soundly, and to reason largely, they are laying the foundations for the creation of excellent gentlemen, they are doing something more, far more conscious to them than that of making what bears no name of special social significance.

There is much to be said in favor of the English University and of their method of achievement. The value of personality in college requires that the student be a person. Although it is great in Canadian universities, we are inclined to believe that it is not so great as it is in England. In a Canadian college of one thousand students, it is far more difficult to secure the advantages arising from the presence of a person in a college of one hundred to five hundred students. In a large college, the individual is in peril of losing himself in the mass. In a small college the student is an individual to whom the professor usually pays attention. One of the problems of making the personal interest of the members of the faculty felt, in the case of large numbers of students, is one of the most serious problems now act before the Canadian universities. Especially the University of Toronto.

In this period of development in our University, it may be ill-advised to advocate a cessation of what may be termed educational prosperity. Yet there is not room in Ontario for the establishment of two or more small colleges in affiliation with the University. The President of the University has been studying this movement being under discussion. The President gave for such a movement the following reasons: "We should bring close to the people, if the college were small, the kind of education that we should have. And this is no minute reason, because untill good would come from the University, we would not have it. While we would refrain from criticizing the success of our present system, we should be cognizant of that danger, common to all educational institutions, which may be the result of the present system. This is a real danger and one which, let us hope, will not be allowed to develop. The University is the only place of higher education in this country. The aims of democracy at this defunct, and the University is the only place of higher education to the greatest possible number of men to think and to act, is shown in the University. The University is the only place to place the college close to the people. The property of the privileged few who may be fortunate enough to enter this college is the

To the Editor of The Varsity
Dear Sir,—As chairman of the committee in charge of the present building campaign of the University Y.M.C.A., I should appreciate the use of sufficient space in your paper to say a final word to the student body before the campaign opens.

It is up to us to have to clearly invest the basis upon which the community of carrying it through. As most of the men are probably aware, the University is planning to build that on the University, are planning to launch building campaign. The University is planning to build a new all C.A. and the Broadview Bostress, which is to become an extension of the University. The University, are all preparing to canvas for funds for the erection of new buildings. The fact that the University is planning to build the city at about the same time led to an agreement between the four institutions. As a result of this agreement, the building campaign and raise a common fund.
This fund, raised between April 28th and May 1st, 1914, was divided among the Central, West, East, University, and East End Associations, in the proportions of one-eighth, one-eighth and one-eighth, respectively.
Since the total amount to be raised was $50,000, the University Association will probably receive about $5,000. This amount shall be determined by the University. The fund may be purchased and the building finished. For the money with which to carry out this part of the understanding, the University will receive the graduates and the friends of the University who live outside the city. It is stipulated that any amount raised shall go directly to the

As can readily be seen, the friends of our Association outside the University, to whom an appeal is to be made later, will wealth with the least the least the least the least which is now lying carried on among the students. It is thus shown that we are really in earnest in asking for new building and are willing to support it. We are willing to support it with our own money, and we are willing to give large amounts will respond gladly to the University of Toronto will build and erect the finest and most up-to-date Y.M.C.A. buildings on the continent.

The needs for such a building have, through your courtesy, been set forth, through the columns of TheVarsity. The need for such a building is so evident. That the students generally will support it is evident. That they are willing to support it liberally, we believe, to be proven without doubt.

The organization for the canvass has been completed. Within the next ten days every man in the University will be waited upon. The lot of the canvasser is never an easy one, and we trust that during the coming campaign there will be such a liberal response and co-operation on the part of the student body generally that those who are promoting this work will, in future days, be able to look back upon it as one of the pleasing experiences of their undergraduate days.

Yours very truly,
GORDON R. JONES

APPLIED SCIENCE

On Saturday morning the Electrical Club will visit the shops of the Canada Foundry Co. in West Toronto.

We are pleased to see Mr. P. F. Wilson around again after his long illness—extending, in fact, over eight weeks. Mr. Wilson will not resume his studies this term.

A spirited game of hockey was played between Senior School and Forestry last week. From the spectator's point of view the game was one of the best in the series. At half-time the score read three all, but at the final whistle, "School" had 5 goals to its credit to Forestry's 4, thus winning the series and thus without a single loss. The lineup for Senior School was as follows:—Goal, Nelson, Macdonald, Campbell, Harvey, McLeod and McLennan.

We are pleased to state that Mr. J. E. Ritchie, '11, who has been ill in Grace Hospital for some time, is improving and expects to be with us soon again.

The University of Toronto branch of New York hold their annual banquet on Saturday evening. Among those who will be present from Toronto are President Falkner, Denn Galbraith, C. E. Francis, R. A. James, W. D. Black and K. A. Macdonald.

Mr. W. E. Murray, '08, is in town from Stratford. Mr. Murray, by the way, is graduates' representative to the Engineering Society.

The petition of Messrs. Black, Rutledge, Dietl, and Sara regarding fourth year honors, has been granted. As a result, the following men in the electrical and mechanical departments of the graduating class, '09, are entitled to honor standing:

R. A. Campbell.
H. A. Goodrich.
J. Hemphill.
H. Irwin.
C. H. Langmuir.
A. S. McCulloch.
L. S. Odell.
C. J. Porter.

From Ottawa comes the sad announcement of the death of L. A. McLean, B.A. Sc., which occurred on Monday afternoon, Feb. 14th. Mr. McLean was a member of the class '08 in the department of Civil Engineering, and later took a post graduate course. He had been in Toronto only a month ago, when he left for Ottawa to engage in governmental work. The many friends and classmates of Mr. McLean are deeply grieved to hear of his death.

The results of the faculty Y.M.C.A. elections are as follows:

Hon. Pres.—H. W. Price.
Pres.—J. H. Billings.
Vice-Pres.—M. Kirkwood.

MEDICAL NOTES

The second year are going to hold a dinner at the St. Charles on Friday night, Feb. 25th. All the year are expected to turn out and everyone has a good time.

The graduating class held their final dinner at the St. Charles on Tuesday night. There was a very large attendance and all the year and everyone had a good time.

Mr. Otton represented the medical students at the Pharmacy dinner on Tuesday night. He thoroughly entertained the students with the idea that Toronto's Medical College is what it is and couldn't help being anything else.

The class of '12 are seriously considering the advisability of giving one of their number a "alien shower" in the near future. Just who the victim is will not be disclosed till a later date.

There should be a good attendance at the "At Home" to be given by the third and fourth years, in the gym.

on Thursday evening, Feb. 24th. Fralick's orchestra will supply the music.

FORESTRY NOTES

A last game of hockey was played on Wednesday afternoon between the team from the first and third years and that from the second and fourth. The former were victors by a score of 5-2 after an exciting struggle. The losers, however, swear revenge, and the return match will be very strenuous. It is proposed that a referee be obtained for the game. The teams were:

First and Third—Tunstall, Parlow, Shanks, Page, Alexander, Mills and Kynock.

Second and Fourth—Greenwood, Edgar, Hill, Irwin, Bryce and Campbell.

Mr. T. W. Dwight left on Wednesday for the Barry Sound district to aid in the location of a proposed logging railroad to be built by the C. N. R. Mr. Dwight's work of last summer with the Turner Lumber Company gives him a superior knowledge of the district. He returns tomorrow.

The committee in charge of the Foresters' Club Dinner is actively engaged in preparation for the event. A brilliant luncheon is anticipated.

There was no meeting of the Foresters' Club last night. The address by Mr. J. F. Whitson, O.L.S., has been postponed until next week.

TRINITY COLLEGE

On Monday the inter-year series of hockey games began with a game between Divinity and '10. In the first half, Divinity held their own but fell to pieces in the second. Individual play was a feature of the game, team work being altogether absent. Four Divinity men were wounded in the fray, but the only serious accident occurred to J. G. Widdifield, whose knee was cut when he skated and required four stitches. The final score was 10-3 in favor of '10. On Tuesday, the third year played the second year in a close game, the score being 2-1 in favor of the second year. It is reported that the victors were much encouraged by the efforts of a quartette of symphonic belonging to '12.

On more than one occasion recently when the sun first lit up the sky, it revealed a novel sight to the men of Trinity. A wonderful hockey team, laboring under the name of Janiagans, was seen on the rink in company with certain ladies from the year '12, who were fulfilling a strange challenge "to chase the puck." Further particulars are not yet available.

Some of the members of the boxing club are preparing themselves to participate in the championship boxing competition at Varsity.

On Monday, the T.C.S.M.A. tried to collect itself for a meeting, but its efforts were nearly frustrated by a skating party given by St. Milda's. However, a quorum was found, and after a lengthy reading of minutes, Mr. E. read an interesting and well prepared paper on the modernization of China. The last address was from Mr. Burns, who gave an account of the diocese of Huan, where he is going.

INDOOR MEET

An indoor meet will be held in the Varsity gym on Friday, March 1st, at 4.30 p.m.

The events are: One mile, quarter-mile, 1/2, 3/4, short put, and running high jump.

All athletes who won a first place in the fall meets are barred, excepting freshmen. A high entry list is expected, so everybody turn out and train.

QUEEN'S HALL

Editor of The Varsity:

Dear Sir,—Kindly insert the following in your important columns.

GRADUATE.

The past five years have seen the University of Toronto act the part of Provincial generosity and good will. New colleges, departments, new professors, and last, but not least, have come residences for men and women. It has long been the regret of many a friend of the University that its students were denied the unpurchased and incomparable advantages of resident life. The acquisition of academic learning has been considered insufficient if untempered by the joys, the friendships and the duties of resident life.

Some years ago the existence of the graduate members of the University resulted in the establishment of a residence for women, and it was thought that a new era had dawned for women students, at least for that favored few fortunate enough to secure admission to the new building. For five years that institution has been looked upon with envious and admiring eyes by the hundreds of women students in attendance at University College, without the pole, and the constant hope has been that the residence also would more widely prevail.

Such an attitude was only correct, for at all universities it is a truism that residence institutions raise the general tone, and if properly conducted, are a source of unalloyed pleasure to the student passing that way but are, nevertheless, institutions in which should rather incur more dear to the mind of the graduate than all the other pictures ranged upon that sacred wall.

In the light of these facts, then, it is regrettable that for the University of Toronto, for its women students, and for its first and only residence for women, that ten of the most representative students from the Hall have seen fit to remove from that institution to the more hospitable shelter of a city boarding-house. Nearly every year is represented in the number who have gone, members of no one class or club, and by two kinds only, that of excellent percentage, and that of aversion to an institution which should have won only love and reverence. If there had been a more familiar, the reason might have been found in personal enmity or wounded vanity. If they had been from one year, the reason might have been found in class spirit or social snobbery. If they had been from the breadth of slight, tainted or real.

Such is, unfortunately, not the case and it is noticeable that these ten students, most of whom have resided in the Hall for four years, should withdraw without any very adequate reason. The dreaded season of examinations is fast approaching, when the student, unacquainted no heavy is too welcome. In the face of this point, argument, however, the loss of these students in the hall, so recently denounced in the Toronto press, have been deemed preferable. Surely the management of Queen's Hall should be carefully investigated, in duty to the University which maintains it, or in duty to the good name of the students who have removed from it, and to their parents.

Removal of varied grievance have penetrated from the coveted interior of Queen's Hall to the unhallowed air of the outside world, and have demanded immediate attention. If they are false, and may such be the case, they are not received into the University authorities a speedy and complete denial. If they be found true, however, if such grievance should be forever removed, Resident life at the University of Toronto is a sacred thing; nothing which places it in jeopardy should be suffered one moment of existence.

KNOX COLLEGE

Applications for mission fields under the K.C.S.M.S. are the order of the day. Already many students have indicated their desire to labor under the auspices of this organization during the coming summer. About forty men will be required in all. Applicants should sign their names on the list in the reading room before March 5th.

The following "Old Boys" have visited us recently: D. S. Dix, R. D. Cochrane, Angus Cameron, George Dix, L. H. Currie and T. M. Wesley. The open meeting of the Missionary Society on Tuesday evening was a great success. In spite of the stormy evening a goodly number were in attendance. Mr. A. K. McNeill was in the chair. The speakers of the evening were A. A. Scott, R. M. Macdonald and T. A. Arthur.

The 1st. meeting of the Tuesday evening Mr. J. K. Harris will read a paper in which he will endeavor to explain to us something about "Psychopathics." Nomination of officers for next year will take place at this meeting.

Y.M.C.A. BUILDING AT LAST

A strenuous programme of Y.M.C.A. activity was outlined at William Restaurant on Monday evening by General Secretary Brecken, who announced the plans in general, and also announced the leaders of the various colleges. Mr. T. H. Billings of Montreal spoke of the relation of the work in the Y.M.C.A. in Toronto University to the world aspect of the student work. Mr. C. McVie Wright, the president of the "Y," presided at the meeting, which numbered about one hundred and fifty canvassers.

President Falconer characterized the movement as "one of the highest ever of the graduates of the University as an upgrader body." In the course of his address he emphasized the fact that only by a strenuous effort could the work be achieved. The Y.M.C.A. has come to be recognized as a powerful and necessary factor in University life, and he would urge the Y.M.C.A. to do so to direct its energies as to meet all the needs of the student body. K. K. Calhoun and Mr. John A. Peterson, K.C., also addressed the gathering. The canvass, which commenced on Tuesday, will continue until Friday, Feb. 18th, when, it is hoped, the $15,000 asked from the students will be subscribed. The graduates will be asked to contribute later on, and in the early spring the students will join forces with the city Y.M.C.A.'s in one general and systematic appeal to the citizens at large, when something over half a million in money is expected to be realized for the extension of the movement in Toronto.

On Wednesday, at 1 p.m., was held the first of a series of midday luncheons, which will continue throughout the campaign. The reports of the active canvassers in the various faculties. At the first report, School of Science had a total subscription of $452. University College is a close second with $447. The amounts subscribed in the other faculties are as follows: Arts and Science, $45; and year, $60; Victoria, $233; Gresham, $1,500.

The second luncheon will be held today at 1 p.m., when a further report is expected. Mr. G. R. Jones is in charge of the canvass.

LIFE SAVING EXAMINATIONS

Those thirty-six men who signed their names for the Life Saving class have either a very poor memory or very little honor. Not one-third of them have shown up. They have still time to report, as the examination will take place on Saturday (tomorrow), at 2 p.m.

QUEEN'S PUT A CRIMP IN VARSITY'S ASPIRATIONS

Win on Saturday in Overtime by 14-13—Varsity Team Off Color—Close Game from Start to Finish—Code Stars Again

Queen's put a decided crimp in Varsity's hockey aspirations on Saturday night by showing a slight superiority. The game was one of the most exciting Varsity has ever participated in, although the brand of hockey was not as good as has been displayed by the Blue and White. The score, 14-13, indicates both the closeness of the play and hard work of each team. The small rink, doubtless, was the great reason for this large score, but, nevertheless, every goal was earned. The ice was very keen and suited the Presbyterians to perfection. It must be admitted that, as a team, Queen's are superior skaters and are faster on the whole than Varsity. B. George and Campbell are very speedy and did the biggest part of the work for Queen's. George, in particular, was also a hard worker, and took the chief hand in what little combination work was displayed by either team.

The better team won on the night's play, but Varsity was certainly off color. Richardson did not show his usual form, although he blocked some hot ones. Gullie was not up to form either. Code was the pick of the defence and displayed some clever stickhandling. Of the forwards, McNeily and Frith were in the line-up. The ice was somewhat of a surprise to the "fans" to see "James Ivan" in the game, and his plucky spirit is certainly worthy of the highest commendation. "Tony" Evans worked hard and did some nice combination work with McNeily and Frith. Stanley's long shots were features, although somewhat ineffectual, as Gilbert in goal for Queen's was right on to them.

Referee Stacey's work was good, although his severity on small offences might be open to criticism. He doubtless had reason for this, save by prohibiting "rough house" from the start, the game could have kept very free from the greater offences. A particularly clean game was played by McNeily and Frith, although some of their efforts, although fast, and the large crowd was highly satisfied. Teams were:

Referee—H. W. Stacey. Varsity had a shade the better of the play at most stages, and in the first half at one time led by 8 to 5. The second half was a close contest, and was necessary at the finish, as each team had scored four more. In the extra play Queen's failed in two to offset the one which the Blue and White procured.

PUCKETS

Both Gilbert and Richardson in their respective goals stopped some seemingly impossible shots, but again allowed easy ones to find their way. Dobson and McNeily put up a great battle on their side of the ice. Neither had much advantage on the other.

Queen's came back with a vengeance for their defeat at Kingston. The difference in the condition of the ice was greatly in their favor.

Varsity has apparently a team of "bad-horses," so to speak, which have been the bane of all its, Queen's would not have been in it.

A defeat for Toronto at McGill next Friday night and the defeat of Lord at Queen's will result in a three-cornered tie between Varsity, McGill and Queen's.

Queen's are essentially a fast team. McGill beat Queen's on slow ice at Kingston, but the Presbyterians trimmed McGill in Montreal on ice ice. Similarly, Varsity beat Queen's on salt ice in Kingston, but were beaten by the same team here on fast ice.

This is Varsity's first defeat this year. The crowd's unanimity with the Eastern offside rule got Referee Stacey into bad grace at times. The fact that Varsity brought him from Kingston for the past two games in Toronto is sufficient proof of his merits as an official.

The crowd's unanimity with the Eastern offside rule got Referee Stacey into bad grace at times. The fact that Varsity brought him from Kingston for the past two games in Toronto is sufficient proof of his merits as an official.

VARSETY THIRDS WON.

Following the Queen's-University of Toronto intercollegiate soccer game at Mutual Street, on Saturday night, a second round game was played between Kingston Collegiate Institute and University of Toronto athletes in the intercollegiate junior series. Varsity won by 6 to 5. The winners led 4 to 1 at half time.

The game was played on a very muddy field, and the play was neither keen playing much combination and bounding on the pick throughout the contest. Referee Stacey of Kingston, who officiated in the senior game, also handled the junior affair. The teams were:

The game was played in twenty-minute halves, no time being taken out of the half-time when the teams merely changed ends.

BASKET BALL

The same closeness of play which characterized the hockey meet between Varsity and Queen's also evinced itself in the basketball game in the afternoon between the respective universities. But in this encounter the Blue and White came out on top by the close margin of one point. The score, 23-22, does not indicate the play, as the combination and team work of the Varsity quartette was much superior to that of the King-stonians. The second half was very fast and furious, and the advantage was on our side as far as good ball was concerned.

Erskine was best for Queen's and has a great eye for foul shots. For Varsity, Dixon and Gage started.

The half-time score was 12-9 in Varsity's favor. The teams were:

Queen's—Lecky, Menies, Erskine, Vansickle, Suter.

Varsity—Dixon, Butters, Gage, Livingston, Wood.

"Tony" Butters worked hard but was unable to follow Doctor Barton's advice "to use his weight more."

Livingston shows up better every time. Bickle of West End Y.M.C.A. refereed.

An "ad" in the Queen's University Journal reads:

R. J. Reid—The lending under-taker. Special discount students.

A LETTER

To the Editor of "Varsity":

Dear Sir,—With a great deal of what you and your correspondents have said on the subject of our examination system I am in agreement, though, in my opinion, some of the new schemes that have been proposed are not without their difficulties.

Times it might be hard to increase the supervision exercised over the students' work and at the same time materially to reduce the number of lectures imposed upon them—unless, indeed, the rate of fewer formal lectures and more "home reading" were adopted.

Again, to replace a single final examination by a series of term examinations would not in itself free us from the evil of cramming. A "cram" on the large scale would be replaced by a series of small "crams," which, even if physically less exhausting, would still have unfortunate effects.

Would not many students be thus encouraged in the notion that they can "get up a subject" in a month and then "clear it out" right at night and out of mind? One cannot but feel that there is a difficulty of this kind attending some of the proposals.

As far as any change of machinery can effect an improvement, I fully agree with the view that the development of the "tutorial" system will paper of which he only answered two questions and a half. (4) Every paper is read by two, sometimes three, examiners independently. Then results are compared, and in the final examination the written work is always supplemented by an "oral" before all the examiners.

By these means the difference between the man who really knows his subject and him who has merely "crammed" it is generally discovered.

(4) (1) There is no order published, the candidates being simply placed in one of four classes. (2) The number of examiners for each year is limited to five for each department. These carefully consider in secret counsel the merits of each candidate, and draw up the class-list accordingly.

It must be admitted that part of what I have just said applies only to the honore examinations at Oxford, but the scheme admits of application to the general course, especially if we shall have it in the new curriculum.

I do not say that the system of teaching and examination that exists at Oxford is above criticism. It is, in fact, being rather vigorously, though not always very intelligently, criticized at the present moment. Nor does it follow that this scheme as a whole, however good it may be, can be transported without modification to our University. But we might well take into consideration

SECOND YEAR WIN FINAL DEBATE

Lit. meets in West Hall—Small attendance—Discussion on Printed Lecture Heads

The Lit. had by its vote its old quarters in the Students' Union for the West Hall on Friday night, the former being required for examination purposes. Perhaps this accounted for the rather slim attendance. Besides its highly artistic guarantees, the members never seem to be so entirely at home in the cavernous interior of West Hall as they do in the more familiar surroundings in the gym.

The Society got down to business early, and it soon looked as if the deck would be cleared for the literary program by half-past eight. A late debate developed, however, over a motion by Messrs. Fleming and Rose, which was worded as follows: "Resolved, that this Society, as representative of the University College of University College, expresses its appreciation of the publication of lecture headings and references by various departments, and urges the further extension of this system; and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Principal of University College." What precipitated the storm was an announcement made by Messrs. Farr and Hartney, as follows: "That the authorities be urged to reconsider the instructions of each department, when it may be deemed advisable, the printing of a schedule (such as that used in the History Department at present), outlining the various topics to be treated, together with the various text-books and references."

It was contended by Mr. J. M. Wood, that the only difference between the motion and the amendment, was in the wording, and Mr. Fleming accused the government of introducing the amendment with a view to obtaining for itself all the credit for the proposed recommendation.

The debate was verging on a passagist-aria between the two parties, when 9 o'clock struck, and in accordance with a previous motion by Mr. Cane, it was necessary to close the debate to make way for the literary program. A motion to continue the question was carried.

After the literary program, was lost, and a vote being taken, the amendment was carried.

A motion by Messrs. Silbahl and McJarry, to the effect that the librarians of the University Library be asked to have the bound volumes of examination papers repaired and renovated, that those bound volumes be sent to the University Library.

The presentation of a signed application, and that a fine be levied for the use of the University Library, was passed by the Society. Recommendations from the executive to the effect that the first vote for the University Library be held on Feb. 25, and that the medal for the winner of the oratory contest be presented on the same date, were also carried.

Mr. Buchanan announced that the final inter-college debate between Knox and McNeister would take place in Convocation Hall on March 4.

The evening's entertainment consisted of the reading of the resolutions of representatives of 1911 and 1912. The subject was, "Resolved, that it is in the interests of the University that it should be an independent nation." The alternative was taken by Messrs. Saywell and Alley of '12, and the negative by Messrs. Coyne and Bristol of '11. The judges, Rev. E. A. McIntyre, Prof. Dewitt, and Mr. H. B. Bell made their decision in favor of the affirmative. The championship of the college in debate this year was won by the affirmative debaters will be entitled to have their names engraved on the Inter-College debating shield.

H. E. Hartney, '11, contributed two oratorical solos to the program. The presence of the new song books, which minimized the view of the singing, W. M. Johnson gave the critic's report.

GEO. WILKIE FOR OLD LIT.

With the decisions of the Literary and Scientific Society of University College more than a month away, the students are already making vigorous preparations. The Old Lit. party announces as its candidate for president, George Wilkie of the legal law of Rowell, Reid, Wilkie, Wood & Gibson.

Mr. Wilkie graduated from the University of Toronto in 1888 at the head of his chosen course, natural science. Since that time he has taken a prominent stand in University affairs, and was a member of the committee of the Alumni Association which maintained the view of that body before the commission on University reorganization.

THE CLASS OF 1910

It will soon be the season of commencement and "the graduating class" again takes an attitude of proud and self-conscious prominence before a sympathetic public. Young men and young women full of enthusiasm and the joy of life are pleasant figures anywhere, and the older members of the community who gather to witness the annual ceremony are commonly the better for it. With a certain good-will and hearty good-will, the public greets the members of each successive class as they step out into the world.

Do the young people ever consider what these occasions mean to the parents? How for them it marks a break in the family circle? They see the son or daughter go out to the world with a clear sense of what it means. They have none of the excitement of unaccustomed work or the formation of new friendships to sustain them. They understand that commencement is not an end, but truly, as the name indicates, a beginning, and they watch with love and anxiety for the tests to which they know the characters of their dear ones must be subjected.

It is easy to forget these things and to lose sight of the years of care and work and self-denial by which alone commencement may have been made a possibility. It is easy to forget, but it is a poor youth who allows himself to forget these things for long. If his education has been worthy the name, his thoughts will turn more and more to those who sit alone back there in the place he has called home, and the frequent letters, full of the little personal matters so precious to him but so welcome to father and mother, the loving messages, the home-coming thought will be among his most sacred duties.

OUR NEW CONTEMPORARY

The long-expected has appeared. The "Our Day" came out last week. The whole board of the publication stood in the restaurant in a compact group, presumably for defensive purposes, and the circulation manager timidly handed us a copy. In all directions could be heard the rattle of the "Arbors" leaves; in fact, it sounded like a dense forest of "Arbors".

It is an excellent number, and all the succeeding numbers come up to the standard, there should be no fears for the success of the publication. The magazine is most attractively gotten up in every respect, with the contents forming a pleasing mixture of serious articles, short stories, discussion of current University questions, seasoned with good verse and humorous sketches. In every way it is a most creditable publication, reflecting great credit on its staff. There is not a serious question which arises. Will it be a permanent feature or not? In other words, will the body of students who now publish it succeed in getting others to take their places, lacking as they do a permanent organization to control the magazine? Time alone can tell this, but meanwhile we can only hope for the best.

The "Arbors" do not seem to have completed its list of college representatives, for up-to-date we have not noticed the names of the representatives for either the Veterinary College or the Faculty of Household Science. Of course, this may be a mere oversight. The editorial in this first issue are on live topics and of general interest to students. Its apology is accepted.

Perched on the top of the "Arbors," we can view "like and plain" and can clearly distinguish with the naked eye "those atmospheric veils of thought which cross continents" although at first sight we had some difficulty in making out "the night movements among nations." However, perhaps the latter will be revealed as the "Arbors," true to its name, grows and flourishes. We welcome its addition to the number of college periodicals, and wish that it may have every success in the future.

Recently there have appeared in these columns, letters and editorials on the examination system at present in use. These were merited to bring about a discussion on the advantages or disadvantages of the final examinations as at present conducted, but no discussion has been forthcoming. If the present system is deemed perfect, such a result is to be expected; but if not, the only way to change it is to expose its defects and suggest remedies. We would welcome any letters on this subject either from the faculty or from the undergraduates.

THE ADVOCATE

Mr. Tackaberry's letter, which was published in the last issue of Varsity, suggests what is virtually a compromise between the two opinions: One, that the final examination system is satisfactory; the other, that it should be abolished entirely. "Except in the case of candidates for honours and prizes," as advocated by Prof. Davidson in a previous letter, Mr. Tackaberry's idea is to retain the final examination, in a modified form, but, at the same time, to give a large percentage of marks for term work. The following plan might be incorporated with this "intermediate" view.

There be three or two sets of examinations, instead of one—the first at Christmas, the second in the spring. Let the former be based on the units covered in the Christmas term; the latter, on the work of the whole session, including a review of the last term. For the Christmas series, allot forty per cent. of the total examination marks of the year, for the spring term give sixty per cent.

It may seem paradoxical in a discussion against the examination system, to propose two tests instead of one as at present. A careful study of the subject, however, will reveal the advantages. There are, of course, some objections to the proposal. At the first place, the addition of another set of examinations would involve a greatly increased amount of work for the examiners and for the registrars' department. In the second place, the loss of this feature, for the Christmas tests would shorten the academic session, which now is more or less long.

In spite of these difficulties, however, there are enough positive advantages in the suggested change to make it worthy of consideration. The chief benefit would be that all students would have to begin working in the last term. At present, there is a strong incentive to work in the first six months. As a result, many undergraduates simply waste their time in frivolous pleasures. Other opportunities for athletic, executive or journalistic training. They become so interested in these non-academic pursuits that they often lose upon studying in of minor importance. If, however, a complete set of examinations had to be tried in December, students would realize that, although they still could waste a little time in frivolity, or still could take a fair share in executive work, they

Messrs. Carson, McCormack and Bob Grass are two of the most lucky ones of the superior sex. In payment of a bet which they won on the St. Andrew's-Upper Canada match they will be the guests of two young ladies at the matinee at the Royal, Thursday next.

The second year will hold their annual skating party next Wednesday night at Aurora. Leo Clark, the third year party was a great success, and since then the energetic sophomore class has decided to outdo them. Prepare for a good time.

Another of the inter-grind hockey games in III. P. & B. was played Saturday morning, when Dr. Scott's Bone Grind defeated Dr. Smith's world's by a score of 10-7. This is the third successive hockey game which Dr. Scott's team has won from the other team, besides defeating them in handball and football.

Mr. E. C. McQuarrie, '10, has returned from a visit to his home in the country, where he was undergoing proper physical training in preparation for the final exams.

Mr. J. I. Duncan and editorial staff of the Arbutus are to be congratulated upon their first number in the new magazine. In the words of Mr. Condliffe, the undertaking "is a masterpiece of heroic self-sacrifice."

We are pleased to see Prof. A. T. Delury is able to be about again after the serious results of slipping "A Regener's Algebra" on his great toe.

APPLIED SCIENCE

We are pleased to learn that Mr. A. S. McArthur, of the fourth year, who has been laid up by sickness for the past couple of weeks, is recovering and will soon be back at work again.

In the absence of Mr. T. R. London, Prof. C. H. C. Wright will take his lectures for the balance of the term. While regretting to lose Mr. London, we are sure the first year men will be pleased to have Professor Wright to instruct them through their difficulties.

The difference between "good nature" and "nerve" has been solved by a member of the second year. When he borrows from his fellow students he calls that "good nature," but when they borrow from any of his goods, he calls that "nerve."

We have never been able to find out why a certain number of the fourth year is so very popular during a Friday morning lecture, that the other fellows crowd around to be near him. Perhaps old William could tell us.

We are glad to see V. McMillan and J. H. Clark in the "Hub" "A" after a couple of weeks' illness.

Quite a number of men from the second, third and fourth years were writing their preliminary D.L.S. exams last week.

We were pleased to see W. J. Bonston, '09, around last week. He just arrived back from D.L.S. work in the West.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

On Saturday evening the regular meeting of the Literary Society was held in room 8, Main Building. The business session of the meeting was short. Miss Hockey was appointed historian, Miss Hope Grey having resigned.

By a unanimous vote it was decided to have the annual "At Home," full control of arrangements being put in the hands of the executive.

The main attraction was a lecture, illustrated by lantern slides, on Halley's Comet, by Prof. Chant. Beginning with the early history of astronomical discoveries, Prof. Chant gave us a full account of the discovery of this famous comet by the man whose name it now bears, and also of the discovery of the laws relating to the movements of comets. Concluding, he assured us that we need have no fear of being "sanitized off" about examination time.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Two hideous and inartistic street lights have been installed in the large or less classical Convocation Hall, which we trust will soon be demolished, or, rather, removed. Electric light has already been used there and we hope that it will soon be permanently installed.

On Saturday, Mr. E. Wylie O'Brien, R.C.A., gave an illustrated lecture on "Ideals in Contemporary Art." He pointed out that the public will not be governed in its taste for art by experts, but prefers to follow the dictates of unscrupulous dealers, who create a demand for whatever style of art (or otherwise) is most profitable for themselves. The slides, which were beautifully executed, depicted many different schools of art.

On Thursday two hockey games were played, besides a victory won by the "Varsity" in the early hours of the morning. The fourth year defeated the third year by 6-0 in an interesting and footless game. The spectators were compensated for their dullness by the excitement of the second game between the first and second years. After the most evenly-contested game of this season, the second year won by 2-0.

At the meeting of the Literary Society on Friday, an interesting discussion was held between the third and first years. The former were represented by Shortt and Abernethy, and the latter by Martin and Brode. The motion was, "Resolved, that municipal ownership of public utilities is advisable." The freshmen were given the decision by the judges, who are Prof. Young and Prof. Routh.

We hear that a small and select party of Trinity men went tobogganing in High Park last week and were nearly arrested by and for damaging a section of the half-way down the slide. The pace was almost killing.

WYCLIFFE NOTES

The College Literary Society held last Friday evening one of the most successful meetings in its annals from the standpoint of the quality and interest of the entertainment provided. The centre of interest lay in the lecture on Halley's Comet by Prof. Chant. The lecture was illustrated throughout by lantern slides and given such a graphic presentation as to bring this difficult subject within the grasp of all present. The nature of comets in general was first portrayed. Then followed an interesting account of the history of Halley's Comet and the origin of its name. The apprehension of danger to the earth from contact with the comet was shown to be merely sensational. The musical part of the programme consisted of well-rendered solos by Messrs. Paris and Bull.

Rev. Joseph Loftinhouse, rector of St. James' Church, Rainy River, is visiting in college for a few days. "Joe" is on his way to England for a few holidays.

Time—Friday, Feb. 18. Place—"Gym" swimming tank. Occasion—Swimming final practice.

Scene—Diving for objects in course of demonstration. Sudden call for a "Wig. Hairer" to the deep end—to the rescue.

Instructor—Come here, T—, and dive quick. Quick dive command. Result—T—brought to the surface part of a Varsity man in the shape of a set of teeth which had become detached.

Finale—Praise thanks and occasion of excitement.

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

Rev. Dr. Graham, educational secretary of the Methodist Church, delivered the college sermon in Convocation Hall Sunday morning, speaking from the story of Jacob's struggle with the angel. Dr. Graham drew certain truths from this old world picture. Power with God, he said, means to prevail with men. The secret of the strong life is not wringing from Jehovah by the tricky wrestler, but by the humble suppliant. To take Him into partnership with us is the way of true success.

The speaker referred to a recent declaration by a public man that there is no place for friendship or for a godly man in business, that the business man must have the selfishness of an Esau. "Let such a man go ahead," Dr. Graham said, "that as surely as those ethics are false there will come a time when he will stand straddled in deepest night, with only enemies behind him and the curses of the wicked behind him. Many wonder why increase of wealth means only increase of sorrow, why there seems to be an unquenchable something against which they strive. That mysterious power may be God, whom they have been casting out of their lives. Peace and comfort come to those who have conformed God by giving up the struggle to Him."

Dr. Graham sounded a note of warning against the tendency towards materialism in a country such as Canada. "The way to gain this wealth," he said, "may be our greatest menace." He emphasized the importance to-day of the University in bringing men back to face with the issue of what their lives should be, in smiling them out, leaders of men, because they have fought God face to face. "If we are not to be in this either-or, sanctify or materialize," he declared, "we must have men as leaders who have seen God face to face. There is nothing that will give such a true sense of values as a consciousness of His nearness and greatness."

"Toronto News, 1916," will appear in a few weeks. All subscriptions must be made this week, as only the exact number signed for and upon which an order has been paid will be deposited.

MILK CHOCOLATE AND MURAL ART

It is rumored that a new chair in the methods of mural design is to be established in University College. The first lecture was delivered to the third year class in political science on Tuesday morning. The professor (whose name could not be ascertained) drizzled into room 19 at the conclusion of an excellent lecture on having put his class in good humor by the administration of milk chocolate, proceeded to denounce the blackboard the principles of mural art. The new member of the faculty set a precedent by lecturing in a droll and overcast instead of a cap and gown, and by varying his lecture with an excellent rendering of Christmas carols when the parent of art began to lag. Other subjects treated of incidentally were the mediocrity of woman and the efforts of universities on draughtsmanship. So entertaining was the new professor's first exposition, that he found no difficulty in disposing of his whole stock of milk chocolate at the close of the lecture. It is believed that he could be having some difficulty in completing arrangements with the learned gentleman, since his relationship to King Edward leads him to demand rather a high salary.

STEALING IN THE HALLS

Every day or two, I happen on some student tearing his hair, stamping his feet and giving vent to the most fluent and fervid flow of invective I have ever been fortunate enough to hear. Out comes the note-book and the nimble reporter jots down the complaint—cardiaca swiped, "kida" pinched, rubbers abused, and so on till the list looks like the petty larceny calendar in a Tenderloin police court.

I have looked on with a sympathetic air while the patient went through the various stages of impassioned invective, futile rage, helpless exasperation, and finally, low rumbling threats of what he would do to that thief if he should catch him. During these little emotional spasms, some of the most brilliant modes of exquisite torture have been evolved—tortures that would make the finest efforts of the inquisition or of the Apaches look like tickling the baby's feet. But what can one expect when even in the churches they sing "Steal away, my love."

The humor of these playful annexations has been brought painfully home to me lately. Two pairs of new gloves taken within a few days. No more for me, the luxurious elegance of the silk-lined kids I pray for spring. My striped, red hands must brave, three months, the snowstorm and the breeze. I regret to say that I lost my gloves. I also lost my temper and my sense of humor. I found, kindly leave at The Varsity office. I went through the various stages as usual, but my expressed opinion of the sweat-thief was couched in the choicest genes, and flowery adjectives culled from the best efforts of previous scribes, whom I had heard. Finally, it was a masterpiece, but what hosts it?

NEMESIS

would have to make all these outside interests secondary, and apply themselves, from the beginning of the year, to the study of their course. This increased activity would not end at Christmas, but would last throughout the year, for the under-privileged who had become accustomed to regular study in the fall would not be likely to lay aside their diligent habits.

Another important advantage of this scheme would be that, in the case of the great majority of students, the severe physical and mental strain accompanying the spring examinations at present, would be lessened. Even for many who find critical tests in any circumstances a tax on their strength, the change would be an improvement, for each separate series would cause a very small amount of stress in comparison with that occasioned now by the one set in the spring. The students, however, who would be benefited especially are those—and they are many, very many—who feel a strain at examination time because they have been attempting to do six or seven months' work in a few weeks. The preparation done during the autumn in studying for the first series of tests, would relieve the pressure in the spring to such an extent that fear of a college would be almost eliminated. If this rearrangement of the examination system would be followed by such good results, if it not only would encourage students to do more work, but also would be of benefit to them in regard to their health, surely it is a change much to be desired.

W. M. J.
N.B.—The following extract from a personal letter received from a prominent ex-editor of "Varsity" is too good to keep:—"The articles on examinations by 'The Advocate' stirred up quite a little discussion, I dare say. I have nothing to say against examinations, myself, save that I think a course of lectures should be given on the psychology of examinations, how to prepare for them and how to write them. Lecturers in all departments, such as English, psychology, hygiene, athletics and religious knowledge, might collaborate in such a course. Mr. Hamilton could give an interesting little talk on 'Aids I have known to the success of examinations' could be dealt with by members of the medical faculty."

Lose Sudden Death Game to Park-dale by 7-5—Varsity Play
Strict O. H. A. Team

Parkdale defeated Varsity's second team in their O.H.A. game Monday night by the score of 7 to 5. The game was lost and exiting after the first few minutes. Varsity hail the larger portion of the play all evening, and it was only hard luck and some good stops by the Parkdale defense which prevented them from winning. Varsity knew they could have their advantage on the forward line, every man on it playing a good combination game and checking back effectively. In Kyle, Parkdale had a better defence man than Cznar or German, but outside of him the Varsity defense was not very good. The game was fairly even in the first half, the score being 2-1 in Parkdale's favor at half-time, and Varsity's supporters were in hopes of seeing their team pull out a victory. The first few minutes of the second half, however, proved disastrous, with German all Varsity's defence, and Code off on the wing, thus allowing Ridpath to go unchecked. Parkdale slammed in three goals within two minutes, giving them a lead which Varsity was unable to overcome. After that the Parkdale team were kept pretty much on the defensive, with Code scoring twice and Stroud and Currier once each for Varsity, while Parkdale added two to their score, making the final count 7 to 5 in their favor. Varsity line-up was as follows:

All the Toronto papers contained the very valuable piece of information that the second team which played Monday night is better than the intercollegiate team. They should send someone down to see a practice some day. It is foolish and childish the way they try to exalt anything pertaining to the O.H.A. above all

Parker played his usual cool game, though he was not quite as sensational as he often is.

German at point divided the honors of the evening with Cotton. These two were Varsity's best men. German not only played well on the defense, but made some very good rushes, and it was only hard luck which prevented his scoring on several of them. His play is very clean, the only time he was put off it was for trying to play "inside home."

Cuzner played a good game on the defensive, but did not manage to break away for any distance in his rushes. He scored his goal on a beautiful shot from about centre.

Strome is a very good centre man and is improving steadily. He scored two goals on Monday night. There is no monkey business about his play. When he gets the puck he takes the shortest route for his opponents' goal.

Caldwell is a very pretty player, but not as effective as he might be. He circles too much with the puck, and on a small rink like the Mutual this generally results in losing it before it is possible to accomplish anything. However, he has the necessary hockey ability and with a little more experience he should make a Code put up a very good exhibition of pluck and endurance. He had in Ridpath the hardest man on the Parkdale team to look after and he did it splendidly. It was only when he was off for a couple of minutes that Ridpath had a chance to shine, during which he shot three goals.

Cotton was the best forward on the ice. He has speed to burn together with good stickhandling ability. He looks good for a place on the firsts next year.

they will be away nearly a week, returning next Wednesday night.

The game with McGill is a most important one. If Varsity win they have the championship, while if they lose there will be a three-cornered tie between McGill, Queen's and Toronto for the championship.

The probable line-up of the Varsity team is Goal, Richardson; point, Frith, cover, Code; rover, Evans; centre, Armstrong; wings, Hanley and McSloy.

At the close of Wednesday night's practice, Caldwell met with a very unfortunate accident. He and McSloy collided, with the result that Caldwell's front teeth were broken.

Prof. John MacNaughton of McGill University has been secured to preach the University sermon on Sunday morning in Convocation Hall. Prof. MacNaughton will be remembered as one of the foremost New Testament scholars of Canada. He has, on two other occasions, preached in the University auditorium.

The eagerness of the students for the $15,000 asked for Y.M.C.A. purposes has been prosecuted zealously by a large force. Each day an added interest and enthusiasm is given to the work by the announcement of returns at the Incheon held daily at 1 p.m. The Y.M.C.A. of the United States, which has been created between University College and the Faculty of Applied Science, since from the beginning of the work these two faculties have been in a close race for first place. The S.P.S., however, has been able to maintain a good lead each day and has been able to secure a lead taken on the second day of the canvass. In individual contributions the highest average comes from Kinnear College, with an average donation of $20. The sophomore year in Victoria comes second with an average of $14.

The report states that the canvass show a steady and consistent increase. Tuesday's report showed a total of $8,337.35, while at Wednesday's luncheon the total subscription of $10,383 was announced. These increases, compared with those of last week, show that the interest in the campaign is being maintained. One of the most important factors is the daily luncheon provided for the workers, where all reports are received and advice given. The men in charge of the work, Mr. Billings and Mr. Colhoun, are enthusiastically satisfied with the progress shown, and both expressed the opinion that the campaign rates to-night will show a total of more than the amount asked. They are confident that the whole of the $15,000 required will be subscribed.

The latest returns up to the time of going to press show an excellent total of $12,178.

Speaks to Engineering Society on its Construction—Nominations Mar. 9.

This, the longest and most remarkable tunnel in the world, that pierces the Alps, connects by a tiny passageway Switzerland and Italy, and forms a portal between the latter country and France, was a subject of intense interest at the meeting of the Engineering Society on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. C. B. Fox, one of the engineers connected with the construction of this world-famous achievement, spoke to some length on the subject, illustrating his lecture by means and stereoscopic views.

After showing its location and explaining the advantages accruing from its use, the direction, Mr. Fox described the machine as a portable, self-contained hydraulic drilling engine that was used, and the successive operations of the machine, in the construction of the tunnel, and the necessary heavy equipment, the difficulties met with and overcome, some of which were great enough to strike discouragement from the minds of the men. The difficulties may be mentioned in the order in which they occurred. That of the high temperature of the air in the tunnel was the first, the temperature amounting to 90 degrees F., the cold springs that gushed from an upper level, and the pressure of 600 pounds per square inch of air, the nearer the centre of the tunnel, the water from which was at a temperature of 100 degrees F. The heated air sufficiently to render it unsuitable for working in. A problem of vital importance was that of the removal of the gas that was played in the tunnel might carry on their work without excessive danger from air full of rock dust or gaseous

As to the method of procedure, two bodies of men began work on opposite sides of the Alps, and gradually progressed towards each other at a maximum rate of 18 feet per day. One day, the extensive machinery, sap, and power stations being at the other opening, the two bodies of men met, during which the party on the Italian side met with almost insurmountable difficulties, and consequently did not progress so favorably as that on the other side, the two excavations met. The fact that they were barely out of alignment speaks much for the skill and ingenuity that accompanied each day's work.

Mr. Bek presided and announced March 9th as the date for nominations to next year's executive and other student offices in the faculty. A special meeting will be called on March 4th to hear Mr. J. A. MacMurchy, chief mechanical draftsman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., East Pittsburgh, who will deliver an address on a new form of reduction gear for transmitting very large powers at high speeds of revolution.

through the University. The University of Toronto enjoyed the distinction of having the first student building of the continent. The Y.M.C.A. building here will now be replaced by one much similar to the one produced above. The students have responded to the proposition nobly, and there is little doubt that Toronto University will have a "Y" building worthy of the institution.

MR. J. G. MERRICK

Mr. Bieck is an honor graduate in political science and of Osgoode Hall. During his University course he was widely known, especially in sporting circles. He was a member of the gymnasium committees which built the gym. For the four years of his course he was a director of the Athletic Association, and reorganized the association to make it representative of all faculties. He designed the present athletic uniform, and the Maple Leaf and 7 crest. In addition he arranged the first dance held in the University, in 1895, at the reception to the Rugby Dominion champions.

To-day, Mr. Merrick is a member of the Advisory Board of the University Athletic Association. He is president of the greatest Canadian athletic association, the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada; and secretary of the Employers' Association of Toronto.

Mr. Merrick is the son of the late J. D. Merrick, sheriff of Prescott and Russell. He is a Toronto man, and is a graduate of the Model School and of Jarvis Street Collegiate.

Mr. Merrick, by reason of his continued active association with the college, his ability and experience in organization work, is considered by the Unionist party as a man peculiarly well qualified to guide the Literary Society through sessions that appear to be growing stormier and more strenuous as years pass. He is being assisted in his candidature by a permanent downtown organization that is hard at work, and that feels confident of its ability to elect a Unionist president for the first time in the history of the society.

Polling takes place on March 18th, and the campaign during the next few weeks promises to be the hottest on record.

The assault-at-arms will be held tonight in the gymnasium. The committee in charge wish to announce that the programme will start at 8 p.m. sharp. The assault proper will be followed by the usual informal dance. Fralick's orchestra.

The annual meeting of the Rugby Club takes place this afternoon at 4.30 in the Gym. Those nominated for secretary-treasurer are Stan Kerr, Donald Richardson and Bert Watts.

AN UN-CALLED FOR ATTACK

In delivering what by courtesy we call a sensational sermon recently, in a city of this province, a clergyman saw fit to make an un-called-for attack on Toronto in general and on this University in particular. In the course of his remarks he stated that "the devil has far more schemes around Toronto University than around other place." We repeat this statement entirely uncalled for and absolutely without foundation. What did the reverend gentleman mean when he put forward such an astonishing assertion? Has he got powers to uphold it, or is it merely his Hamlet's reasoning, "To be, or not to be, that is the question, whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune, or to take arms against a sea of troubles, and by opposing, end them?" We are inclined to believe that it is the latter. The devil may have schemes around this University, but we venture to assert that they do not bring him the desired result here any more than anywhere else. However, that the speaker was hardly in a position to judge correctly of the spiritual and moral well-being of this University as he has but lately returned from China and therefore cannot be in very close touch with the conditions of student life here. He told of a man who sent a son here under the idea that temptation here under this University. This did not exist in this University. This man must have a peculiar conception of the universe if he believes there is any spot where temptation does not exist. What he failed to see was, that it depends on the man himself whether he yields to temptation or not. We fail to understand clearly what the reverend gentleman meant by the term "devil," but to our knowledge there is nothing in the teaching here or in the life of the students to justify the application of such an epithet.

It is men like this who, without a knowledge of the conditions, give the University a bad name by publishing or giving utterance to statements which, to put it mildly, are not correct. If they cannot say any good about the University, the least they should do is to remain silent until they are sure they have found some real cause of complaint.

The issues of Varsity are drawing to a close and the fears of subscribers who failed to pay in advance have been allayed as the contract on Varsity's part has been practically fulfilled, but their part of the contract still remains unsettled. The business manager is becoming this through worry in trying to get subscribers to loosen up with their dollar, but many have not responded to his appeal. We hope that those who have overlooked this matter will pay up as soon as possible and remit their subscription to the Business Manager direct or pay at the post office in the main building.

NEW PHYSICS BUILDING AT IOWA

A new physics building will soon be erected at the University of Iowa. The building will cost $150,000, and will be equipped with all the essentials of a modern laboratory.

Alarms and Excursions

To continue the subject of a few telephones, a friend in the University residences after six o'clock will find that they are quarters-like the buildings in barracks and prisons—Nos. 1, 2 and 3. Whether the numbering begins at the north or at the south is, of course, the question. It is difficult to figure the thing out. If they are numbered according to the advice of civilization, No. 1 should be at the south. On the other hand, according to the principles of things, beginning at the top, No. 1 should be at the north. The locality of No. 2 alone is certain.

Again, if one wishes to send a note to somebody in, say the South House, and if one's sense of direction is not good, the address will probably be something as neat and concise as 388 Blank University Residences. (House nearest corner Hoskwa Ave. and Devonshire St.) and situated in an right hand as one enters viable house.)

The moral of all this let us have something definite to call the new buildings by. Now that we have the "house habitation," let us have the name. If the names of the donors must not be used—and why should they?—let us not come out with an appellation—something with more distinction and definiteness than 1, 2, 3.

EXPLANATION FROM TRINITY

There appeared in the columns of a former issue of "Varsity," an article on the Jennings Cup series, in which the question was asked, "What is the trouble with Trinity?"

Regarding the Jennings Cup series, the schedule appears to have been drawn up without cognizance of the fact that Trinity had already entered a team in the intermediate intercollegiate series with Varsity II, and McMaster. Trinity, therefore, was not eligible to play, this fact being communicated to the authorities.

I am authorized, however, by the captain to say that Trinity would be perfectly willing to play home-coming games with any team in the college group.

Again, Trinity was not eligible to enter the Malook Cup series for the same reason as stated above. Moreover, the college played every game required of her in the Silfion Cup schedule.

In every instance the various schedules were drawn up without Trinity's having an opportunity to say a word in the matter, and we would suggest that in the future, before the college is entered in any series, she may have at least the privilege of assent.

G. W. MORLEY.

THE WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY

Following the usual custom, the next meeting of the Society, Tuesday, March 1st, will take the form of an annual entertainment given for the University College and their wives. The programme, which will be given by the undergraduate women, consists of music and the "Crackers" play. The entertainment is an enjoyable evening in store for the guests. Preparations have been going forward enthusiastically. The spirit continuing will make the evening very pretty.

The meeting is open to friends of members, for whom suitable seats will be obtained extra tickets from the executive.

GOING TO CHICAGO

Mr. P. Gillespie, B.A., Sec., lecturer in Theory of Concretes, left Wednesday to attend the third annual International Cement Show, held in the Coliseum at Chicago. Mr. Gillespie is a member of the Canadian Cement and Concrete Association, and went to deliver a paper before this important gathering on Reinforced Concrete Posts.

AROUND THE HALLS

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

"Christie" has his eagle eye open for all who indulge in a quiet smoke in the corridors of the Main Building. Users of the fragrant weed had better refrain from indulging in the building, at least during Lent, or they will find themselves on the carpet.

The second year skating party was pulled off on Wednesday night, and from all accounts was very successful.

Junior Arts hockey team was put out of the running in the semi-finals by the Deas, who cleaned up on them to the tune of 6 to 2. The Arts team was away off color.

The meeting of the Lit. to-night is a very important one, as changes in the Constitution will be discussed. As the assault and battery is being held in the Gym, the Lit will have to content itself with the West Hall.

Sibbald, '11, was so zealous in his canvassing the other day, that he canvassed a fourth year man in mistake for a freshman. Ask Singer what it feels like to be a freshman again.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Those who were away at the University of Toronto Club banquet in New York and who have returned, with the dust of Broadway still on their brows, report the event as having been most successful, an excellent time having been spent.

In these days when, with an appreciation of something akin to typhoid, we regard the water tap (and other taps, too, this being Lenten weather) as a veritable "victims' hole" for every monster we ever deigned to despise, and thoughts of which stir up an abnormal length of thirty per cent, why is it that the distilled-water vessels also revel in dryness instead of being filled and sparkling as they used to be?

"One who occupies his mind in solving difficult problems" is Mr. Fox's interpretation of the word "engineer," derived, he adds, from the French. As students, we perhaps think that the definition should be enlarged upon and that the President responsible for it should take a course in the Faculty of Applied Science (said course to include passing-back, tappings, and all the other requisites). Perhaps, though, when we have laid a few transcontinental, dug a few Simpson tunnels, slung a Quebec bridge or two, or laid out a Panama canal, we will be glad to confine ourselves to the above definition.

The Canadian Society of Civil Engineers held a meeting in the C. & M. Building last night. Mr. W. S. Kinnear, chief engineer of the Detroit River Tunnel, gave an interesting and illustrative paper on the construction of the Detroit River tunnel.

TRINITY COLLEGE

There being no ice on Monday, the game between the third year and freshmen was played on Tuesday. After commencing on the part of the freshmen resulted in their victory. Score, 6-1. On Wednesday, the second year faced the fourth. The first half was very even and exciting, the score being 1-1, but in the second half the fourth year worked up and finally made the score 4-1. Near the end of the game, Goodland got a slight cut over the eye, which required a stitch.

It is a pity that year teams ever make use of a player who does not belong to their year, for it prevents the game from being a genuine inter-year game, and the victors cannot claim to have won entirely on their own merits. It can always be said, "Things might have gone otherwise had so-and-so not been playing." This quote makes it almost impossible for the captain of an opposing team to object to a certain player, and the plan must certainly be displeasing to those who claim victory for their year.

VICTORIA NOTES

On Saturday evening the open session of the Union Literary Society was held. The "Kid's Korner" was in evidence as usual—rather more than usual—to the delight of all. The literary programme, consisting of an instrumental by H. Holgate, '12, a reading by H. E. Manning, '12, and a vocal solo by Norman Murch, '13, was most enjoyable. The Commission inquiring into the Cook-Perry controversy produced a good deal of matrimony—along with several good local hits. The business session was brisk as usual, but the government went down to defeat sooner than anticipated.

The semi-final game in the Jennings' Cup series between Senior School and Victoria resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 5-3. The ice was hard and fast, and the play close from beginning to end, the score at half-time being 2-2. The "Vic" defence cannot be praised too highly, for repeatedly checking the rushes of Campbell and "Stubby" Keith. The line-up of the winning team was as follows: Goal, McCulloch; point, Gandy; seven up, Jewitt; rover, MacLaren; centre, Birnie; left wing, McCamus; right wing, Kinnabell.

The little daughter of the hostess looked long and inquiringly at the guest who she had been told was a very learned man and a professor. During a lull in the conversation she spoke up, "What do you do in college, please, sir?"

"I am a professor, my dear," was the reply. "If I impart my knowledge to the students."

"Then if you keep on that way," she said soberly, "pretty soon you won't know anything yourself, will you?"—Ex.

He was not very sober and had ridden for an hour or two in the taxicab when the chauffeur stopped.

"How much do I owe you, Driver?" asked the passenger.

"Ten dollars and eighty cents," was the reply. "Well, say, Driver," was the reply, "just look up and keep going back-ward until you come to thirty cents, will you? It's all I've got."—Ex.

and outlines of his subject. Sixty per cent. might be assigned to "term work" and forty to the finals, as The Advocate suggests.

It might be argued that this system would place too great a restriction on the liberty of the student, and would introduce too great an element of supervision. But if the end of an Arts course is to develop what Mr. Tackley only calls "hard intellectual muscle," and to give the student at least a firm grasp of the main outlines of his subjects, and if this end seems hard to obtain (or, rather, easy to avoid), under the present system, then the proposed method is worth trying. It would no doubt involve a radical readjustment in the present relation between academic and other undergraduate pursuits, but this readjustment could be effected with no loss to the undergraduate.

The proposed plan would, of course, entail more work for the faculty and perhaps an increase in their numbers, but it might be pointed out that the decrease in the number of lectures would relieve the staff of many of their present burdens.

Yours truly,

THERE'S SOMETHING IN OUR COLLEGE AFTER ALL

(With apologies to the author of "There's something in the British after all.")

Though our life is full of playings as we near the closing day,
Yet there's something in our College after all.
Though we have to study steadily for the anxious month of May,
Let's review the merry dances of the fall.
They don't have to work and worry like the average man in life,
We have merry times at conversational galore.
And though the lectures and the essays often set our tempers rife,
Yet we hate to see the College close its door.
Though newspapers with their critics exaggerate our sins,
They don't know anything of party strife.
Yet there's something in the student after all.
They angrily our views, our caprices and our whims,
But they quite forget our conquests in this hall.
They don't tell of our meetings where debates and jokes are sprung—
They don't know anything of party strife.
They don't write in their papers how well the Glee Club sang,
They don't know half the fun of College life.
They laugh at half our studies; call them useless—perhaps some are—
They condemn our every subject, great or small.
But since our goals are leaders in this country near and far,
There's something in these studies after all.
They're jealous of our privilege—and rightly are they so—
Though the subjects often make our tempers rife.
For there's not a single training that helps a man to grow
Like the mild, pervasive grind of College life.
So in spite of all the critics in the papers and the crowd,
Our College aids our country in its stride.
It raises up new leaders to deliver every cloud,
Who give to it the best years of their life.
Yes! its grads are ever ready to do the best they can
When they hear the piercing blast of Dray's whistle.
And they'll answer when they're needed, every student to a man—
So there's something in our College after all.

—E. S. F., '11.

Let us ask, "What do you intend doing this summer?" Attention has been called to an exceptional opportunity.

Established 1878, the King-Richardson Company offers you the opportunity to be financially independent throughout your college course, as well as acquiring practical business training, unsurpassed by any other experience in or out of college.

They are rated in Dominion and Bradstreet's as financially superior in every way, thus guaranteeing their agreement.

They spend thousands annually teaching their men scientific salesmanship without extra charge. Every man is thoroughly prepared before entering his field, assuring success if he works as agreed.

Each man is positively guaranteed definite wages and such excellent surplus commissions that his financial returns are most gratifying.

Their work offers novel and healthful change from the confinement of hard study and gives the coveted opportunity to travel.

A large number of Toronto University students earned from $5.00 to $10.00 a day last summer. The company can show hundreds of sworn records of other salesmen who earned even greater sums.

The Company's publications stand pre-eminently alone. "The New Century Book of Facts," edited by twenty-one prominent college presidents and professors, is acknowledged the latest reference book ever published is most highly endorsed by educators everywhere, and is having a tremendous sale. The new Canadian edition is edited by the veteran, J. Mercer Adams. "The Bible Story" is another wonderful work.

Students are often misled by small concerns handling inferior articles. King-Richardson policy is "The best that brains and money can produce." There are only a limited number of vacancies, so if you mean business, you are urged to apply at once at Company's office, 308 Spadina Ave.

CONSTITUTION COMMITTEE REPORTS AT LIT

Opposition Defeat New Constitution —Membership Fee Reduced— —Bristol Prize Vote

Friday was Constitution night at the Lit and that is significant in saying that the meeting was a prolonged and interesting one. The air cleared and while the pro-reformers on both sides was unanimous, both parties were on the qui vive, and more than once heated battles in partisan debate. The news that the Old Lit party would make a last attempt to carry its proposed constitution, brought out the members of both sides in large numbers, and in spite of the several other attractions on the same evening, the attendance at half-past ten was 122. During the early part of the meeting the chair was occupied by Mr. J. H. Macdonald, Mr. John Gibson, Mr. Russell arriving later.

The Constitution Committee brought in its report in three sections. The first part was a series of amendments, which the committee was unanimous in recommending. It recommended the membership fee to $1.00, paid in either term, and a change in the time of annual elections to the week earlier. A motion by Mr. Macdonald to have the latter change go ahead was carried. The second section of the Opposition on the ground that it would upset plans already formed for the coming year. The campaign was declared closed. "If the Opposition think that the holding of the elections one week earlier would spoil their chances of success," returned Mr. Macdonald, "I am quite willing to drop the motion." The amendment was forthwith dropped, but the Committee's report, after a few minor changes, was passed unanimously.

The second section of the Constitution Committee proposals, which was a majority report, was in effect that the Old Lit Constitution proposed a change in the membership fee, making the members of the Cabinet elective instead of being appointed by the student body. The third section of the present constitution. Needless to say, this called for a flood of eloquence and opposition from both sides. The Opposition showed itself just as firmly opposed as ever to the proposed change in the form of government, even with the alterations suggested by the committee, and for three-quarters of an hour the members of both parties kept the stream of oratory flowing, marshalling all the arguments that were advanced recently at the Lit. A frantic effort to delay the closure of the debate until the party whips had secured the earth for every voter who could possibly be got out to fight the old battle over again. At last, when the eagle eyes of the party leaders, scanning the ranks of their followers, noted that the last desperate voter had been routed from his bed and hailed the closing of the arena, the momentous question was put. The vote was 70-57 in favor of the two amendments, which had not been obtained. A wild shriek of victory burst from the opposition ranks, followed by the vigorous applause of the members of the Old Lit.

The minority report of the committee, which their main provision was for a reduction in the size of the executive, with a reduction of their number, was also put. The members were agreed on this point, it passed unanimously.

A demand from the Opposition for the dissolution of the Committee on Compulsory Fees, appointed last session, led to a lively passage between Mr. Lyons and Mr. Lantry, the latter of whom happened to be a member of the committee. When told who were opposed to serve on the committee, Mr. Lyons still persisted in asking, "who are the members of this committee?" I would advise you to be gentlemen," asserted Mr. Lantry, with scathing emphasis, "that the members of this committee are the same persons to whom that they were a year ago." Mr. Lyons interrupted this question on playing the card, and the matter was passed over.

The Opposition also moved to ensure the Executive for having constitution Night conflict with several other University functions, but on explanation from the Government, this was also passed over.

Mr. Lyons, returning for the Committee on Fees, stated that the committee's opinion was that neither of the plays submitted was of such a character as to warrant the prize being awarded, but that the winner was deserving of very high commendation. The report was read from Isaacson Lantry, stating that he would be pleased to comply with the Society's request that the bound examination papers be issued from the address desk, but that owing to the limited supply of copies printed it would be impossible to replace defaced and mutilated copies. The Society voted $14.68 for the Mick Parliament expenses.

The first vote for the Bristol Prize resulted in the selection of the following ten names: Messrs. Macdonald, Smith, Evans, Johnson, Flanagan, Harrison, Lantry, McPherson, Shirley and O'Brien. The final vote of the evening was taken at half-past 11 to 12. As President T. A. Russell has very kindly offered to donate a Bristol Prize to the winner, it was upon to choose two names from the above group.

Next Friday was March Constitution night, and the matter of the University buildings closed at midnight.

Among those who took part in the various discussions during the evening were: Messrs. Macdonald, Flanagan, Johnson, Lyons, Scott, Smith, Shirley, Evans, Morgan, Barr, Gane, Mosher, Hume.

DETROIT RIVER TUNNEL

The meeting of the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, held on Thursday evening at the C. & M. building, was largely attended, both by members of the Society and by School men. Mr. W. Campbell, chairman of the Society, presided. The address of the evening was given by Mr. W. S. Knicker, the designing engineer and engineer in charge of construction of the tunnel.

Mr. Knicker first reviewed briefly the history of this difficult engineering problem, since it was initially conceived in 1865. The idea of the tunnel was done up in 1874, soon to be superseded, however, as no satisfactory progress could be made. In 1876, the idea of a bridge was under consideration, but was then deemed impossible, partly because the railroads interested could not agree upon a proper location. It was then that the introduction of electric traction into railroad construction encouraged the idea of tunneling beneath the river, which idea was actually carried out.

The lecture was illustrated by a large number of slides, showing the construction of the three divisions of the tunnel, the method of excavation, the tunneling principally of retaining walls, then, approach tunnels of two arch construction, and a massive concrete wall, the arches being double, one of concrete and one of steel, with catwalks between, and finally, the ambiguous division. This part of the tunnel was built in a number of sections, consisting of its pair of immense steel tubes with closing diaphragms and center shafts, one on land, and launched, one by one, after the manner of Drums. When above its position in the river, each was lowered to the bottom by replacing the enclosed air with water. It was then sealed in concrete.

Mr. Knicker's discourse included an interesting description of the diving operations, which were of the greatest value, greatest skill and accuracy being required, irrespective of course, of the position of the work, at the lowest point, 83 feet.

The tunnel will be formally opened in a few days, when six electric locomotives will begin their work of conveying traffic under the river to and from Windsor and Detroit.

THREE CORNERED TIE IN INTERCOLLEGIATE

McGill Beats Varsity 9-7 in Montreal—Varsity Defence Too Easily Drawn Out

Before a large crowd of Montreal hockey enthusiasts, McGill defeated Varsity and O'Connell for the intercollegiate championship by beating the former 9-7 on Friday.

The brand of hockey was very fast and the keen ice gave opportunity for some brilliant skating and stick-handling.

McGill, owing to their fine work of their defence, completely kept stopping shots from all angles, while Mosley and Cassels were able to keep Varsity forward line breaking through. Nearly all the shots on McGill's goal were made at long range from the West End. Many of these as the "close-in" article. The Varsity forward line played a better combination game than that of McGill, but they could not get past McGill's defence. Varsity's defence was rather slow, and was easily drawn out by McGill forward line, who took advantage of these openings and nearly all their shots were at close range, from the West End. McGill's defence was quick to take advantage of these openings and nearly all their shots were at close range, from the West End.

At the outset, McGill took the lead, making the puck to Varsity's goal, Sargent scored in one end and half minutes. In seven minutes, Evans tied the score, but McGill came back strong and by School men. McGill's goal again fell when McSloy got ready about Moseley and Cassels and scored. Sargent netted the goal for McGill after a good rush.

McGill now began to draw away and soon had the score 5-1. The last face was put by both scores. Varsity pressed on the Red and White and Varsity began to have the better of the play, netting three goals in short order.

The last game score was 9-7 in favor of McGill, Frith being off when the last goal was scored by Red and White.

SECOND HALF

The second half started at a furious clip and during the whole of this period a great brand of hockey was played by both scores. Varsity pressed on the Red and White and Varsity began to have the better of the play, netting three goals in short order. The last game score was 9-7 in favor of McGill, Frith being off when the last goal was scored by Red and White.

Varsity really had the better of the play in the last half, but McGill's defence was too strong and kept the Red and White from scoring.

The penalty list was unusually small, but Varsity were unfortunate on this end as three goals were scored by the Red and White in short time.

Referee—P. Kavanaugh.

INTERCOLLEGIATE RECORD

Goals	W. L. For Agst.
McGill	4 2 47 32
Toronto	3 2 46 32
Queens	2 2 28 29
Laval	0 6 23 68

The play-off in the hockey series was to be arranged on Sunday in Montreal, which was the first to arrive. One team is to draw a bye and the remaining two teams are to play one on neutral ice. The first of the game will play the team holding the bye, also on neutral ice. A suggestion might be made that the team holding the bye should play in the home town of the winner of the first game. This would offset the advantage of the bye.

LADIES HOCKEY

THE UNIVERSITY College ladies' hockey team are champions of the intercollegiate league for another year. They defeated St. John's a week ago in the score of 5-1, and thereby won the league without a single defeat. The team has remained of the same for two weeks and this fact partly explains this success. The team was defeated in the first game last week, but it was decided to play was played Thursday, the freddie feature the South Lake.

Saturday morning the Juniors played the Seniors. One of the most interesting and best contested games of the season resulted. The seniors won it by the score of 5-0. Near the end of the first half, Mrs. Macdonald scored the goal, right. The defeated team, Mrs. Fairbank was hurt, and Mrs. Fairbank went off to even up. This was the only goal but one goal in this half. The seniors and the juniors, therefore, will play on as soon as possible and the losers of the combined scores will give a laurel to the winners. The lineup:

JUNIOR MEDALS WIN AT BASKETBALL

Junior Medals basketball team is soon class all right. They defeated Junior School in the final of the junior series Tuesday night, 33-20. The following are the players and their scores: Macdonald, 14; Smith, 14; and Finch and Maloney, 13.

Smith is a crack player and knows the game in all its fine points. He will be a valuable asset for any senior team in future years. So will Cooke, who can reach the basket all the time. Chawick is no slouch either. Maloney and Finch played "star" games and were always "on their man." The team comes up again on Friday night. If they don't win, the writer has another thing coming. It's too bad Senior Miss. last, or Senior School after the fine game they put up all the season. But they had an off-day and School pulled thereby. The boys are reminded to be on hand Tuesday afternoon at 4 and see Vie get the best (finishing they ever get).

McGILL WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

McGill won the championship in the intercollegiate basketball by beating Varsity in the final game in Montreal on Friday by the score of 9-7.

The better team won and the score is about half of the relative merits of the two teams on the day's play. The Red and White showed better combination and shooting than Varsity, Macdonald and Cole being very effective. The Blue and White showed good form in spots but could not repeat the performance of last year.

March! White, last year's captain, was greatly missed by the team as he has been out of the game for several weeks and is unable to return.

The teams were: McGill—Caldwell, Forbes, Philips, Macdonald, Cole.

Varsity—Dixon, Brown, Gage, Lantry, Cole.

A RETROSPECT

The issue of Varsity for this year is rapidly drawing to a close, and as the old year, like all other, we feel the shadows of the May examinations darkening over our path. This is the last number which we will edit, as other members of the staff will publish their concluding, and we wish to take this opportunity for a final retrospect over the past year.

The Varsity as a newspaper has passed the experimental stage and is now to stay in its present form. The need for a newspaper has been shown by the fact that although our numbers are increased in one year, more news is turned in than can be published. We have not, however, as yet reached the stage arrived at in the large American colleges of having a daily paper. Under the present conditions of management this would be practically impossible for the amount of editorial work entailed would be utterly incompatible with a successful result in academic work, and, as the latter claims precedence, it would be difficult to find editors endowed with sufficient spirit and initiative. It goes with considerable regret that Varsity left itself forced to give up the purely literary sphere, as this left a lamented gap in the journalism of the University. We feel now, however, that this has been filled, excellently, filled, by the "Arcturion," and we can only hope that it will become a permanent feature of the University life.

It has been our policy this year to make The Varsity as representative as possible of all colleges and faculties, but in some respects this policy has not been attained. In the editorial department there has been a noticeable dearth of news from several colleges. However, the basis of the policy has been laid and we believe that succeeding years will see it strengthened. The claim has been put forward that the Varsity were taken over by the Undergraduates' Parliament. It would tend to become more representative. Theoretically this might be so, but, practically, we do not see that it would make any difference; but the experience will be that of the Undergraduates' Parliament until the Undergraduates' Parliament come to an agreement on the subject.

We have not tried to please everyone for we realized that this was impossible and would only end in pleasing no one. We have stated what we believed to be true, and whether our facts came up for discussion and we do not repeat anything that has been said or done. We have been criticized in some respects, but we received the criticisms in the spirit in which they have been made, for criticism at least indicates interest, and without criticism there is no life.

In conclusion, we wish to thank those contributors and members of the staff who have so materially assisted in rendering this publication possible and in making the editorial clear on every one. To the other members of the staff we extend our regret, and hope that they will not be too much troubled by a guilty conscience.

THE NEW CITIZEN

Citizenship as a name seems to elude many attempts at definition. It is spoken of as that peculiar attitude of mind to the state which allows the individual to separate the essential from the non-essential, and use the one which he has gained for the furtherance of the interests of his country. If this be the case, and we have every reason to believe it is so, then in a peculiar sense it is a civic attitude of mind to be a true citizen. The young University man entering upon his duties of citizenship, holds in his hands the fate of the coming years. With him it rests to decide the future or success of that tremendous experiment which grants to all men equal rights and equal privileges. It devolves upon him to work out the future of the country and to carry on the government planned by the wisdom of great statesmen. Aside from the purely political questions of the day, the citizen's education of a vital, personal nature, because no material prosperity, important though material prosperity may be, will of itself avail it, as a nation, we lose the virile virtues of that regard for character and honor which alone can keep a race united.

And foremost of considerations, appears the relation which a man bears to his fellows. Recognition of what a man owes to his fellow-citizens will be a primary consideration of him who keeps before his eyes his personal duty to the nation of which he forms a part. He must keep himself informed and must think for himself on the great questions of the day in their bearing on the social conditions of men. He must possess an intelligent opinion on the issues that arise, contrasting with those of similar ideas in order to make the weight of his influence felt. He is bound in honor to act disinterestedly and uprightly, he is bound to do his full share of the work of his community. If public men do their work well, then it is reasonable if he does not try to see that they do their work better. He must work for the whole people, and yet he must not hesitate to stand alone if he is convinced that they are wrong. The general welfare of his community and his country will be his one aim in action.

It may be urged that political parties are a menace to the expression of the honest convictions of the individual. But parties are too firmly rooted in our political life to be cast away in a moment, and in a very real sense they are necessary. But whether a man acts within or without party lines is not of very great moment, if only he acts honestly and fearlessly. Without association and organization and the necessary partial subordination of individual preferences, no great work can be done, on the other hand, no man has a right to condone falsehood or to excuse moral shortcomings, or any kind because of alleged party necessity. And in the life of the citizen he will see that all progress during the past year has been achieved by laying the foundation on those basic virtues which lie deep in the character of every nation that really deserves to be called great.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The Electrical Club meets on Thursday evening. Mr. C. E. Schweiger, '09, will give a paper, entitled "Motors in Induction Motors." The meeting was postponed last week on account of the meeting of the Can. Soc. of Civil Engineers.

Percy McQueen, '13, is in St. Michael's with appendicitis. Hughes of the same year, who has been ill in Grace Hospital for some time, is progressing favorably and is expected out soon. Mr. Hughes will not return this term.

Cockburn and Smith, '10, are deluged as to which is the more qualified to fill the position of chief engineer to Zelaya, leader of the insurgents in the South American revolution.

From this distance the lecture to be heard on Friday afternoon, Mar. 4th, will be one of the most interesting of the year, which by the way, is putting it strong. Mr. J. A. Macfarland will describe a new type of reducing gear, designed to transmit very large powers at high speeds. This is a subject of increasing interest and importance owing to the probability of its revolutionizing the marine engine business in the next few years. Mr. Macfarland is a Canadian and a graduate of '06. He is connected with the Westinghouse Machine, Pittsburgh, as mechanical engineer.

Mr. E. R. Lawler, who holds a controlling interest in the Toilekens, has been investigating the advantages of photography, and every one in his year is highly in praise of his excellent achievement.

MEDICAL NOTES

The second year banquet was held at McKenney's on Friday night, and was very successful. There was a fair attendance of the year. President E. Winkler made an efficient toastmaster. Some of the toasts proposed and responded to were: "Can-Adas," "Our Alma Mater," "Athletics," "The Year," and "The Ladies." "Jack" Morgan presided at the piano and was included in the program in a piano solo. McIntyre acted as leader of the class orchestra, which sang a couple of good parodies on "Vive le roi," and "Put on your old gray bonnet." Among the guests present were: Dean Clark, Prof. Macfarland, Prof. Macfarland, Pres. "Boh" Lane of the Medical Society, and Mr. Markay, who sang a couple of pleasing solos. The class is to be congratulated on the success of this banquet, and it is hoped next year's will be as good.

The dance given by the third and fourth years in the Gym on Thursday evening was one of the most successful events of its kind held during the present season. The orchestra was good, so was the floor and the crowd was just right in point of numbers. The committee in charge deserve the warmest congratulations for the success of the evening, and it is a regrettable feature that this one brings the season to a close as far as the medical college is concerned.

Prof. Brodie was given a good reception when he appeared before the Sophs on Monday after a long illness.

TRINITY COLLEGE

On Thursday the fourth year played the freshmen. The game was well contested. The game closed at 3-1 in favor of the fourth year. On the same afternoon, Trinity played the second year. This too was a close game, but the second year had a better defended goal. The score was 4-1.

On Friday, at the Literary Society, Messrs. Hills and Ditchburn maintained in debate that race-track gambling should be abolished. Messrs. W. G. O. Thompson and Jackson up-held the negative and won the vote of the House. An amendment to the constitution was carried to the effect that the leader of the affirmative should have twelve minutes to reply, as is customary in the English universities.

Professor Brett's lecture on Saturday afternoon, on "The Unrest of India," was most interesting, especially as it was first-hand information. The lecturer said, that India subjected to many successive invasions. Each invasion drove former invaders further south, the effect of which is that there is no Indian nation, and, secondly, there are "castes," which really mean "castles." The "unrest" was partly the "awakening" of India and was caused by India's not being united, which caused one party to suspect Britain of supporting the other party. But India is not incapable of unity, for the national and religious differences are being submerged in new common interests.

KNOX COLLEGE

The final debate of the I.C.D.L. series will take place in Convocation Hall on Friday evening. Knox has every confidence in her team. C. F. McIntosh and A. Scott, who are determined to win.

A spirit of revival has struck our theologians during these latter days. It shows itself in a tendency to revive old notes, and in fact everything that pertains to the work of the season. It was caused by the announcement that the annual examinations are to begin on March 22nd, just three weeks hence.

We are glad to announce that J. A. Flock, who has been on the sick list, is recovering.

George Oliver is threatened with pneumonia and will be removed to the hospital to-day.

The annual meeting of the K.C.S. M.S. will be held on Tuesday evening when nominations for next year's executive will take place.

Our graduating class are taking great interest in social affairs these days. Some are receiving calls, others are calling about every Sunday in hopes of receiving one, and it is even reported that a few are calling every evening looking for an opportunity of extending one.

VICTORIA NOTES

Last Thursday evening the Sophs gave their "Farewell Reception" to the College—the latest reception of the year. The programme was given in the Chapel. The class history was pleasantly reminiscent, while the class song was locally interesting. It was replete with very clever hits upon the individual members of the graduating year. The presentation of both the senior stick and the athletic stick was a very entertaining innovation. The senior quartette rendered two excellent numbers.

Last Saturday evening at the last Professor McCullum gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on the origin of life. The lecture was short and brisk, the new government entering upon its term of office most promisingly. A commission was appointed to investigate the "fish."

OPEN MEETING OF MEDICAL SOCIETY

One of the Medical Society's most enjoyable meetings was held on Wednesday night in the 4th year lecture room. Prof. Bruce gave a fine account of a recent tour through the Chateau country in France. His talk was beautifully illustrated with stereoscopic views. There was a fair attendance of students, who enjoyed the talk immensely. Aside from the lecture, a fine musical programme was given by Master Roy McDaniel and his sister. They proved excellent little entertainers, and kept the boys in a happy frame of mind. The diet was real good, and so, too, the song "I love a home," given by Master Roy in a manly manner. A recitation was made by an encore. "And it was I," which certainly was well given. President Lane is to be congratulated on the excellent meeting held this term. May the good work continue.

WYCLIFFE NOTES

On Thursday evening, Rev. Mr. Smith of the Regions Beyond Missionary Union, invited us with a most interesting and instructive lantern lecture on "Firm and Argentina." He held himself impressed upon an mental vision the incriminating picture of untamed wealth and poverty going hand in hand with the sinister and unchristian absence of Christian teaching and ideals among all classes and tribes, with the appalling and degrading social and political evils resulting therefrom. His advice was a powerful apostrophe for Christianity, as well as a commentary upon our shameful stewardship of the Gospel trust.

RUGBY CLUB

The annual meeting of the Rugby Club was held in the Gym on Friday afternoon. There was a large number of student present for there was great excitement over the election of Jas. Pearson presided and gave a review of the work of last fall. The secretary's report was very satisfactory in the extreme and he is to be congratulated for the able and energetic way in which he conducted everything last fall. "Hugh" Ritchie contributed to the enjoyment of the members by rendering a vocal solo, "Stop yer tickle," which, unfortunately the officers elected for next year were—Hon. Pres., Prof. J. T. McCune, Hon. Vice-pres., Jack Newton, Pres., George Kingston; 1st Sec., Fred, Billy Poulidy, Sec. Treas., Bert Watts.

CHESS

The Chess Club held their annual meeting Tuesday afternoon and elected the executive for next year as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Prof. Jas. Mavor.
Pres.—T. L. Tanton.
Sec.—Treas.—E. W. Mosher.
Curator—H. G. Iwells.
Arts Rep.—Paul Goloroth.
Ath. Rep.—J. P. McLaughlin.
S.P.S. Rep.—W. J. Robinson.

The challenge on, donated by recent graduates and emblematic of the senior championship, was presented to Mr. E. G. Jewell, '13, the winner of the University tournament.

Mr. J. L. Duncan, '10, was the former holder of the trophy.

WESTERN CLUB

An enthusiastic meeting of the Western Club was held Wednesday evening, February 22, to elect the executive for 1910-11. The results were as follows:

Hon. Pres. Dr. D. J. Gordon.
Pres.—A. J. Brett, Dental College.
Vice-pres.—L. W. Kargin, Medicine.
Sec.—H. Ostlund, Osgoode Hall.
Treas.—P. G. Buchanan, Victoria.
Councillors—L. E. Christie, W. C. Egbert, University College, A. J. Hall, M. H. Murphy, School of Science, S. I. Alexander, Medicine.

ANNUAL MEETING Y.M.C.A.

The annual meeting of the University of Toronto Y.M.C.A. will be held on Wednesday, at 9 o'clock p.m., to receive reports of officers, and elect officers for next year. A large attendance is expected as matters of importance are to be discussed. The meeting will be held in the Y. Assembly Hall.

HISTORICAL CLUB

The Historical Club held its last regular meeting last night at the residence of Mr. Byron E. Walker, 54 George street. The subject for the evening was "Liberation in the Nineteenth Century," and papers were read by Mr. W. C. Walker, '10, '11, '12, '13, '14, '15, '16, '17, '18, '19, '20, '21, '22, '23, '24, '25, '26, '27, '28, '29, '30, '31, '32, '33, '34, '35, '36, '37, '38, '39, '40, '41, '42, '43, '44, '45, '46, '47, THE CHRIST OF THE FLESH DISOWNED

Remarkably Able Sermon Delivered to Students by Professor MacNaughton

It is doubtful if there has ever been a more learned discourse in the University sermon series than that which delighted the hearers in Convocation Hall on Sunday morning. The sermon was in all respects a masterpiece; the language was apt and well chosen, suiting the personality of the preacher, while the thought was uttered in a fearless manner. The message was peculiar to the man, and held the audience in close attention for fully an hour. The words of St. Paul in 1 Cor. 1:16, which he took as his subject, expressed the thought which he wished to convey.

There is among people a tendency to believe that the Christians of the first century had a much easier task in following Christ than we have today. It is held that the disciples of Christ were placed in accurate and definite tests of truth, to which each one would be obedient. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The facts proclaimed by Jesus were not handed down by properly accredited priests and were not given to any one class of men. If this were so it would relieve us of much doubt, but religious tests would be put off to all other departments of life. Such a religion would be emptied of all life and would be withdrawn from the centre of our restless age, tending to create an ascetic solitude which may be falsely called piety. It is a relief to find that the first disciples were human and thus had a variety of opinion among them. The fact that Paul's opinion is too wide for dogma explains why Paul's life was spent in controversy. Paul refuses to be content with an attempt at the reconstruction of the life of Christ as He lived. Rather he desires not to localize the principles of Jesus, but to deal with the man as he was, and to explain why Jesus would pursue these and now in this complex age. Jesus installed such freedom in James and John that they were not content to live His activity in the flesh, but were bold enough to uproot the limits that restricted life and made the principles of Jesus world-wide in their aspect.

To Paul, the three moments of greatest importance in the life of Jesus were the Birth, Death and Resurrection. He insisted on these three processes rather than on historical facts. The preacher here said that too little credit had been given those who, by their opposition, had brought about the best ideals of Paul's life. They had right on their side, but in the inner balance, Paul's teaching was that which made for the eternal. It is valuable to read the gospels with Paul's freedom, to know not the Christ of the flesh, or the Son of David, but the Son of Man. An exact knowledge of the earthly life of Christ will be of no avail to us unless we seize the Christ according to the Spirit. Life is full of things that pass and no one who detaches the spiritual forces and applies them here and now is useful for his soul and new mission that is eternal.

"I agree with Paul," said Prof. MacNaughton, "and would state that all boldness that Christ had to save us, it can be only by entering into our very being. He could not do so by the death He went in Galilee, and since He took in hand the trouble at His very door, by doing His day's work in Nazareth, so came into the hearts of those around Him that His influence comes down to us today. The heaven began in small details but it had entered into the lump of mankind. Theories pass and give place to others. No one believes in Jesus unless we find ourselves and it requires a violent stretch of the imagination to believe that David wrote the psalms. He lived in an atmosphere wholly unlike our own. His environment is separated from ours by an entire world of difference. But our salvation consists not in reproducing them, but to master and to make our own God's, and the world in which we find ourselves. What He can do for us is not bound up in past traditions, but in distinguishing the Christ of the flesh from the Christ of the Spirit, whom it is life to know and death not to know.

It is the living Christ we are in quest of. The One who lived, or that which happened years ago, is secondary. What we must see is the way He works in men today, and that which concerns us chiefly is the echoes that roll from soul to soul and live forever and forever. The most severe criticism has been passed on that life. While criticism has shown that the gospels are by no means exact photographic films of any eternal process, yet they are portrayals of Jesus just as He came before them. They do not profess to be an implacable record of literal fact based on a material of petrified infallibility, because God wishes to make a strenuous use of man's intellectual powers to find Jesus as He was. They give us the materials of history rather than historical fact itself. Many problems remain unsolved but religion does not attempt to solve all problems, but to teach men to see and understand. Perfect freedom should be open to all men in religious beliefs. The religion of equity should be given to all because the clearest light will be the best. If men have the real faith in the living Christ, matters of creed and belief will be most unimportant. The gospels would be mined more than all other literature. "Leave us the Bible, but burn the rest," said the speaker, "but we must be limited to one book." If the right faith in Christ revealed to us in that book, we grasp what God is and what man should be. He has raised the victory through the sword and strife he has gained harmony, and we learn by faith the secret of that victory which becomes our own. By steadfast loyalty to faith and a life of lovely self-denial, we gain an insight into the heart of God and are united in His aims. Everything Christ did for us was to show us the Father, and he that hath seen Christ by faith, hath seen the Father.

The address closed with a reference to the inadequacy of creeds. They fail to show experience through a historical light. If the Saviour is to live in us, creeds will become of secondary consideration. Christ must be re-interpreted and re-incarnated in the life of each one.

Though Christ a thousand times has been born to men, He is not born in me, my soul is all forlorn.

fects. Is length a higher quality than breadth? There is as much difference between one kind of intellectual effort and another as there is between these two entities.

"Were I so tall to reach the pole,
Or grasp the ocean in my span,
I must be measured by my soul.
The mind's the standard of the man."

Again: "What constitutes an 'honour' student? Is the man who royal road to intellectual attainment through the medium of that esoteric fraternity that is misunderstood with the label 'honour'? As it isn't everyone that wears a sailor hat that can sail a yacht, so it isn't everyone that is 'to the manner born' for classics, philosophy, history or science.

But when students fall in any of these departments, why handicap one course with them? Why degrade one course? One does not wish to be very long acquainted with the ambitious life in this University; with the long lines of staring freshmen, recalcitrant sophomores, saucy juniors and bland seniors that tramp and trail its classic halls to lectures, to feel that there is a kind of stigma attached to the general course.

But you ask: "What is the corrective? What else, in the world, can be done? To these questions we reply: Let each course bear attached to it the onus of its own delinquents. Let those who fall in any course be started in that course. Or let there be one 'starred' or 'sinking' course to which all incompetents will be relegated. As it is, the general course is under a cloud. Let 'men of thought and men of action' clear the mists away.

Yours faithfully,
W. S. MARON.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE FORESTERS' CLUB

Inspiring Address by the Dominion Superintendent of Forestry

The Foresters' Club held a special meeting on Saturday morning last for the purpose of receiving Mr. R. H. Campbell, Dominion Superintendent of Forestry. The presence of such an important person, who, as Mr. Fernow pointed out in introducing the speaker, is the one who has in his hands the shaping of the great part of the future of forestry in the Dominion, called forth the members of the Faculty to a mass.

Mr. Campbell spoke in a general way of the manner in which the Dominion authorities have been carrying out their policy on the timber reserves in the western Provinces. In addition to surveying and estimating on the Riding Mountain Reserve, much important work in ranging, planting and inspecting had been performed in the last year. The patrolling of certain districts particularly susceptible to fire, notably in the vicinity of railroads under course of construction, had been productive of very satisfactory results.

The amount of organization and investigation which still remains to be done is almost overwhelming, said Mr. Campbell. The people of Canada are accustomed to regard the prairie districts as the main portion of the West, but far to the north there is two or three times the amount of territory which must still be brought under a system of management.

Mr. Campbell inspired his hearers with an increased zeal for the grand work which awaits them at the close of their college course. "Not in twenty years can we get enough men to do the work," said the Superintendent. "I wish in closing to impress upon you men who are now going through this school, and to you Canada will look in her fast-approaching time of need, and that on you you will depend almost entirely the future of this great work."

THE GENERAL COURSE

To the Editor of The Varsity:

Dear Sir,—It is common property around the halls that the general course belongs to any old thing that comes along; that it is a fairly safe and easy channel for the delinquents that have failed to weather the pale in an honour course; that it is a dumping-ground for the waifs and strays from that higher caste of college students designated as an 'honour' course; in fine, that it is a kind of intellectual ghettos into which are cast headlong those who have not measured up to the standard in an honour course and have smugled against its 50 per cent. requirements.

Against such sentiment as these we set our face as flint. Is the student who "flows down his head like a waterfall" over his books, dreams, and thoughts, in a general course, any lower in the scale of intelligence than the plodding specialist of an honour course, who makes obedience to and pursue their three or four pet sub-

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The Philosophical Society meets to-day, at 4 p.m., in room 6. Dr. Tracy will give a lecture on "The Philosophy of Herbert Spencer."

Attention is called to the fact that applications for membership in the Historical Club must be in the hands of the secretary, W. C. McLaughlin, by 5 p.m. on Tuesday next. Only members of the incoming third and fourth years are eligible.

APPLIED SCIENCE

Next week is an unusually important week in our faculty—every member of the Engineering Society knows why. Wednesday is the day set for nominations. Between now and then there will be much studying of men, and there cannot be too much, considering the importance and responsibility connected with each office. From the fourth year is chosen a graduates' rep.; from the third year some one to be first vice-president, corresponding secretary, treasurer, and 4th year rep.; from the second year, the three vice-presidents of the different sections and 3rd year rep.; from the first year, librarian, corresponding secretary and 2nd year rep. For and scalar type, to the "Varsity" are chosen from the first and from the second or third years, respectively.

At the Wednesday meeting there will also be some proposed changes in the Constitution of the Society to be discussed, the being already posted on the bulletin boards for consideration.

Mr. E. A. James, '01, editor of the "Canadian Engineer," has been appointed city engineer for North Toronto.

Quite a number of miners and chemists are attending the meetings of the Canadian Mining Institute that are being held at the King Edward Hotel. Many papers of special interest to them are being read both by students and engineers.

The special meeting of the Engineering Society to hear Mr. J. A. MacNurely will be held in room 27, Chemistry and Mining Building, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. A number of downtown engineers who are interested in the subject will be present, it is expected, so there will likely be some valuable discussions after Mr. MacNurely has finished his address.

Mr. C. F. Schweigger, '09, gave a very interesting talk last evening on "Multi-spark in Induction Motors" to the Electrical Club.

Fargoy, '09, has resolved never to attend another varsity show, and his lab. party think he is as justified as firm in his convictions.

MEDICAL NOTES

Vics. "may" have a good basketball team, but when they crossed swords with the Junior Meds., winners of the Junior game, on Tuesday night in the Gym, they received a vital training and attended to the point of 28-12. Never were the Meds. in trouble and they had the big end of the score all the way. They simply played rings around the theologists in the final half of the game, although in the first half Vic. played a fairly good game.

There were a large crowd of students, both Vics. and Meds., on hand to cheer their teams.

The Meds. are now the champion basketball team of Varsity, and are certainly the fastest team in the inter-faculty league. They have played a grand game throughout the season and every man on the team played a star game Tuesday. Smith and Bains as spot; the latter played a great game and simply ran away from his check. He "found" the basket "funny" a time and oft, and it was largely due to his great shooting that the score grew so large. Smith used his weight to advantage and had his check sweating all the time to follow merely his shadow. Cook scored often, too, and is sure a fast one. Both Ditch and Mahoney, as defences, besides running away from their checks whenever they wanted to, played a steady game and kept up their end of the game every minute of the play.

This is the second time the Junior Meds. have won the championship, and there's no reason why Smith, Cook and Bains, as nucleus for a team next year shouldn't lead in first place again.

Only about seven more weeks of lectures and then after a week or so to get up exam. work and a couple of weeks for exams, the term will be finished.

It looks as if the snow will leave the ground before School and Meds. wake up to find that they haven't had a snowfall light since last year. Perhaps on account of the large surface of glass which the School would now have to defrost in their new thermo chimney building, they are afraid to tackle the Meds.

A word about the conduct of the students at the beginning of some of the lectures has not been out of place at the present time. On Friday afternoon, during one of the third year lectures, the fact became apparent that the uproar had been carried a little too far. The professors and lecturers in general don't seem to mind a hearty reception when they enter the lecture room, but there is a limit somewhere and this limit should not go beyond the point where the professor is compelled to leave the room through inability to obtain a hearing.

FORESTRY

A large number of the Faculty attended the public lecture given by Mr. Abraham Kuchel, Dominion Inspector of Forest Reserves, in St. George's Hall on Wednesday evening. An able address, followed by excellent lantern slides, served to give the large audience a clear idea of the importance of the forests and of the work of the men who are to manage them.

Rumour has it that most of the men have already cornered summer jobs. The Dominion Forestry branch are likely to benefit by the efforts of a number of freshmen and sophomores.

WYCLIFFE NOTES

C. O. Pherrill and W. A. Earp have been appointed representatives on the Student Volunteer Union of Toronto.

Rev. Principal O'Meara was in Streetsville on Tuesday, attending the funeral of his classmate, Rev. W. E. Carroll, who died in Thornhill on Saturday. The deceased was an uncle of J. A. Shirley.

The regular monthly high tea was held on Tuesday, March 1. This feature of our college life has proved very beneficial. The contact gained with the thought of the outside world through the speakers at these functions is both educative and broadening.

ON. FOREST RESOURCES

Mr. J. F. Whitson, O.L.S., of Ontario Forestry, Addresses Foresters' Club

Mr. J. F. Whitson, O.L.S., of the Department of Lands, Forests, and Mines of Ontario, was the speaker before the Foresters' Club on Thursday evening. His address was a clear and exhaustive treatment of the subject, "Ontario's Forest Resources."

Mr. Whitson spoke first on the general development of Ontario in the last fifty years. While vast areas of the mineral wealth are as yet comparatively intact, the timber lands of the north country have been very largely cut out and burned over. Of the 50,000,000 acres of Crown lands, 30,000,000 acres have suffered by fire; in fact it is generally said that one-half of Northern Ontario south of the height of land has been burned over during the last sixty years.

Proceeding to a description of some of the largest fires, Mr. Whitson mentioned that of 1883 in the Big Pine district of the Ottawa Valley, that of 1884 on the North Shore, and that of 1885 in Canada, the appalling conflagration of 1872, in which 2,000 square miles of virgin forest fell prey to the flames. The fire in the Parry Sound region in 1897, that on the N.E. coast of the James Bay in 1899, and the disaster of 1893 in Northern Minnesota and Keweenaw River, in which 140 persons lost their lives, have also destroyed immense tracts of timber.

The speaker enumerated the various causes of such great fires. The chief sources of prosperity up to the present time. Since Confederation, her revenue from the sale of timber has amounted to $24,000,000. During the last ten years the annual cut of from 750 to 900 million feet B.M., has brought a yearly return of about $1,500,000.

At the present rate of cutting, a pine famine at the end of twenty years might be expected, unless very thorough management were immediately undertaken.

On the Crown lands and those under license, it is estimated that there is something under 20 billion feet, board measure.

In pulpwood the Province is very rich. On the broad clay belt of the northern part of the Province, Mr. Whitson estimated something like 250 million cords of spruce, poplar, Balsam of Gilead, and jack pine. This quantity should keep 100 mills grinding 250 to 300 tons of pulp per day for 50 years, and require the labor of 100,000 men and teams. The annual increment on the pulpwood areas should be enough to supply the yearly consumption in the United States.

The problem of supplying ties for the railways was represented by the speaker as very serious. Every seven years, 73 million ties are necessary for the railways in Canada. Of these, 23 million are used in Ontario, and the projected railways will swell the number required. As not one-tenth of the forest in the clay belt contains ties timber, the outlook is not bright. It is quite possible that there will be a tie famine in from 10 to 15 years.

Mr. Whitson closed his lecture with a large number of excellent lantern slides, illustrative of the glorious country to the north of us. The photographs of the virgin forest and the immense waterpowers were especially interesting to the members of the club.

(Owing to lack of space in Tuesday's issue, this item was held over.)

BASKETBALL

Before the largest crowd ever seen in the Gym, Junior Meds. defeated Victoria in the final game in the Sultan Cup series. The score, 26-10, is no indication of the relative merits of the teams, as although Meds. had the better team, they did not outclass Victoria as much as the score would show. The game was very fast and the latter team won Junior Meds. also won the championship last year in this League.

For Victoria, Britholpe and Sleeman starred, whereas Smith and Cooke were best for the "Saxons" artists.

Teams were: Victoria—Britholpe, Clary, Eccleston, Goddard, Sleeman; Saxons—Smith, Manning, Cooke, Finch, Butters.

"Dull" Word retired.

WHAT OF THE $16,000?

Sir—Since the recent canvass of students for the Y.M.C.A. was completed, it has been announced that the desired buildings are going to be built—Smith, Manning, Cooke, Finch, Butters. Naturally, the question arises, what is to be done with the sixteen thousand dollars promised by the undergraduates? Two uses are evident: one, the endowing of a permanent Y.M.C.A. secretaryship; the other, the contribution of an organ to the Convocation Hall. The first is perhaps the obvious suggestion; it is unnecessary, for the salary of a permanent secretary can always be furnished by the annual contributions. The other would benefit all students, and indeed the whole city. Sixteen thousand dollars will greatly cover the expense of a thoroughly complete organ, which would not only assist the services in the Hall, but also the Glee Club, perhaps even the Literary Society. Again, this destination for their money would remove all charge of ill-faith which might be made by the students, a charge the other might not equally stifle. I remain,

Yours truly,
M. W.

DEBATES AND JUDGES

In asking a committee of judges to officiate in that capacity in a debate, certain well-known principles should be placed before them. In the first place, as a monitor of form, it might be well to ask them to be impartial. This is a pleasing formality and impresses them duly with the seeming honesty of the situation. No harm will be perpetrated in so doing. At the second place, we might ask them to give constant attention to the arguments placed before them. Apart from the mannerisms of the speaker, that which is of prime importance is the argument presented by the debater. The logical presentation of the material and the degree of mastery exercised in the delivery of the speech will not be matters of secondary importance. It is often felt, by the losers in particular, that very little system along these lines is exercised by those called upon to judge the debate. The number of the staff of judges, who happens to be able to force his opinions upon the others, speaks out convincingly, and the others fall into line as a matter of course.

This, to say the least, is rather an absurd fashion of reaching a decision. Some may deny the truth of such a statement, but recent experience of debates around the University, and with other universities, has taught us to believe that we are subject to the tender mercies of the one particular judge who has laid himself out to one particular idea or fantasy, to the exclusion of reason. We will call to mind the debate of three years ago between University College and Ottawa College, which, we make bold to say, was decided by the ecclesiastical affiliations of two of the judges. On Friday evening, in the debate between MacMaster University and Knox College, the judges, after three minutes' deliberation, brought in a decision which was a distinct surprise to a great many unbiased thinkers who had heard the debate. And yet the gentlemen who spoke for the judges, expressed that hazy-headed elation, "after considerable difficulty and a careful enumeration of the arguments, the judges were unanimous in awarding the decision to the negative, although the affirmative carried in point of style," a gentle sarcasm that has become rather petrified.

Far be it from our intention to cast reflection upon the judges. They are true to their trust as far as the system will allow. The system, owing to its almost unannounced arrival, is itself at fault. In Manitoba College, the judges are asked to sit in the audience a good distance apart, and are required to write out their decision, giving reasons, and hand it to the chairman. The three decisions are compared, and, of course, a majority rules. The advantages of this system are obvious. It does not allow a collaboration of opinion on the part of the judges. Neither does it allow the opinion of any one man to overrule and force a decision. The I. U.

D.L. and the I.C.D.U. would do well to make some advances towards a modification of the present system of judging the debates held under their auspices.

ADDRESS ON "FISH AND GAME IN ONTARIO"

Foresters' Club Hear Splendid Discourse by Mr. A. Kelly Evans

Mr. A. Kelly Evans, of the Ontario Forest, Fish and Game Protective Association, delivered an inspiring address to the members of the Foresters' Club on Thursday evening. He dealt with his subject, "Fish and Game in Ontario," in a truly masterful way, and fascinated his hearers with his clear and eloquent remarks on this most important matter. Mr. Evans did not treat his topic from the standpoint of sentimentalism. Rather, financial considerations and the welfare of the state formed the basis of his argument. Fish and game are of value to the country, firstly, as a source of food and clothing, and secondly, as objects of sport. Both the enhancement of proper game laws, the revenue that can be derived from the creatures of the wild is surprisingly good. As yet the statistics of game trade are not very well known. However, through the introduction, not long ago, by Mr. Evans himself, of a tax on non-resident fishermen, it was found that 9,000 visitors, who left at least $50,000 in the Province, had come into Ontario for the sake of the sport.

In 1866, the state of Maine found itself confronted with a game famine. A commission of investigation reported to the state authorities that the inland fisheries were valuable, that there were absolutely no moose, and that the deer numbered but a few head confined to one particular district. The state of affairs which brought this about can be judged from the fact that the first eight game wardens who were immediately appointed by the government were killed in the discharge of their duties. The authorities persevered, people began to take an interest, and now there are over 4,000 lakes stocked with the best of fish and game of all kinds abound. Further, in 1905, 133,333 visitors, exclusive of those going to the coast resorts, had come into the state for purposes of pleasure and recreation. These people left $1,000,000 in the state. Railway statistics show that in the last year or two, 250,000 people have gone into the interior of the state, spending $25,000,000 on their holiday. The advantages to the state are obvious. Not only do hotels, merchants and manufacturers benefit, but land values increase in the hands of the farmers and settlers. In Maine, guides alone earned $20,000 last year.

Further, general development of the natural resources follows the expeditions of business men on pleasure bent. Quite recently, a two-million-dollar investment was the outcome of a fishing trip by some capitalists to Northern Ontario.

The incentive afforded in the pursuit of game has brought thousands of people to the wilds who would otherwise spend their holidays in the vituperative influence of the conventional summer resort. This has a direct effect upon the general health and happiness of the people. The general spirit and exhilarating effect of a trip to the woods has no equal.

These immensely important results, financial and human, can only be attained through proper game laws and the recognition by all the people in the community of the necessity of conservation of the forest and the life in it. Ignorance and apathy are the great barriers to progress in this matter, and it is the duty of the forester to help dispel them.

At the meeting of the Foresters' Club on Thursday night, Mr. T. C. Tait was announced the winner of the well-contested as a result of a general ballot. The new year goes with a good swing.

Toronto! Toronto!
Arhur, Arhur, Arhur-oh!
Fore-est-est-est!
Ruh! Ruh! Ruh! Fore-est-est!

Mr. Kelly Evans' talk was certainly one of the best ever heard at the club has had. The general tone was most inspiring.

APPLIED SCIENCE

A very interesting paper was given at the special meeting of the Engineering Society on Friday afternoon by Mr. J. R. Macdonald, '96, mechanical engineer of the Westinghouse Machine Co., Pittsburgh, Pa. He described, with illustrations, a new reduction gear for transmitting large powers at high speeds, which holds fair to revolutionize that branch of mechanical engineering. An interesting discussion of the paper given took place at the close of the meeting. President Black presided.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. C. E. Webb, '99, has been up with a severe cold, and is not expected back for a few days yet.

This week is a very important one in this faculty. The elections for the office of the Engineering Society take place, and a number of men are already in the field. There are very few left out for the higher offices, only one candidate for the presidency, as far as we can learn, being in the field, but by Wednesday, the day of nominations, every office will likely have its usual full number of candidates. Every School man should throw himself into these elections, and make the excitement run high by Friday, when the elections take place.

We extend our sincere sympathy to Mr. Kishall, lecturer in hydraulics, in the death of his father, which took place last Friday in England.

MEDICAL NOTES

And scenes of intense excitement, the annual election of officers for the Y.M.C.A. was held in the third year lecture room on Thursday evening. There was a high rush to the polls at 5 p.m., and the deputy returning officer had the task of his life keeping the crowd in line. The officers elected are as follows:—Hon. President, Dr. Hutchinson; President, J. Macdonald, 3rd year (a.c.); Vice-President, R. D. DeWitt, and year; Secretary, W. B. Scott, 2nd year; Treasurer, Mr. Reeds, 1st year. The Medical Y.M.C.A. is in a very flourishing condition just at present and there is a high roll of membership. The new executive are capable men, well experienced in Y.M.C.A. work, and without doubt the coming year will be one of the most successful yet in this branch of the Y.M.C.A.'s history.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

The annual "At Home" will be held on Tuesday evening, March 22. Mr. Hutchinson is supplying for a few weeks in the High School at Lucan.

Mr. Tom Prith was at the college on Saturday. He has charge of the science department in Whithy.

The regular meeting of the Y.M.C.A. was held in the East Hall on Thursday afternoon. Very interesting papers were read by Miss Tappin and Miss Brockton. Next week the meeting will be taken by the women of the General Course.

Friday evening, the third study group met at the home of Dr. Pakenham. The papers were well prepared and the discussions interesting. After refreshments the meeting broke up, all feeling that the evening had been very profitably spent.

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the Literary Society was held in the West Hall on Saturday evening. The women had full charge of the meeting and they are to be congratulated on their success. Miss Beesley acted as secretary and Miss Robinson as secretary. After a short business session, the following programme was rendered:—Chorus, reading; Miss Beauchamp; violin solo; Miss Sparling; vocal duet, Misses Richardson and Robinson; reading; Miss Beauchamp; piano duet, Misses Smith and Lauman; reading of the "Eye-Opener"; Miss Willoughby; chorus. Mr. Archibald acted as critic, owing to the indisposition of the one appointed. The program for the next meeting will be furnished by the men.

KNOX COLLEGE

"It's the weather" and not the strain of exams that accounts for considerable sickness among the boys. Three of our Arts men are on the sick list. J. A. Block is slowly recovering. Geo. Oliver and J. Ironsides are both in the hospital and are quite seriously ill.

Although Knox lost the Kerr shield last Friday evening to McAlister, none can say it was an easy victory. The college, including the faculty, went out to a man to support our debaters, C. Mcintosh and A. A. Scott, who upheld "Old Knox" to the delight and entire satisfaction of all. After a hard battle was the result of a "feed" was given in room 32 in honor of the champions. In the short programme, rendered at this "after-meeting," Geo. McDonald distinguished himself as tragedian, and G. Gonn supplied the vaudeville.

It is reported that one of our graduating class has decided to give his services to the cause of the Dominion Alliance.

TRINITY NOTES

The fourth of the series of Lenten lectures in Trinity Convocation Hall was delivered by Robert Chambers, M.A., M.D., of Toronto University. His subject was "The Turkish Revolution."

The lecturer first dwelt upon the fervent patriotic spirit existing in the schools of Turkey. Turkish students pursuing their work in Paris, formed a secret society, the now famous "Committee of Union and Progress." This society has been notable for its determined opposition to the tyranny of Abdul Hamid, and by its efforts to obtain constitutional government. Army officers and men in high positions of state were members of the committee. Thus when the crisis came, the committee was able to attain its end with comparatively little bloodshed.

The speaker traced the history of the first Turkish parliament and of the counter-revolution which led to the deposition of Abdul Hamid and the accession of the present Sultan. With the success of the committee has come an enthusiastic national spirit, which is shown by the readiness with which Turkey has responded to infringements by neighboring powers, and by the mutual toleration and respect of the opposing sides in parliament.

The speaker concluded by pointing out the great reform introduced by the committee and showing that the problem which now faces the country is the bringing about of peace between the Christians and the Christians in Turkey.

The members of the boxing club are to be congratulated on their success, which is specially creditable since the club has only been formed four months.

"A WINTER'S TALE" MAKES A BIG HIT

As Presented by Women's Dramatic Society of University College on Wednesday Night

"A Winter's Tale" was presented by the Women's Dramatic Society of University College on Wednesday evening, when the hall of the Margaret Eaton School was filled with an interested audience.

The caste was uniformly strong. Miss Rothwell had a different piece of work in the part of Hermione, and her careful rendering of it is deserving of the highest praise. Miss Campbell's interpretation of the part of Paulina charmed every one, particularly as Paulina's character was emphasized on the side of her true-hearted, womanly loyalty to the queen. Miss Buckley made a fascinating Prince Florizel, and Miss Keith as Antiochus, and Miss Moodie as the Clown, were irresistible. Indeed, it is impossible to do more than enumerate, where all of the personages who crowd the stage in this drama were so well represented. Leontes and Polixenes displayed all the dignity of their royal offices. Mamillius was an amusing young prince. Camillo proved himself to be a master of the art of gesture; and the simple dignity of the old shepherd was particularly well represented. The only part that inspired the audience with the unexpected wrath was that of the second act. Perhaps the actor was too young to be convincing.

The caste was as follows:

Leontes, King of Sicilia—Miss McNeely.
Mamillius, young Prince of Sicilia—Miss Carter.
Camillo—Miss Farley.
Antiochus—Miss C. Reidon.
Polixenes—Miss Todd.
Dion—Miss Beldou.
Polixenes, King of Bohemia—Miss Sims.
Florizel, Prince of Bohemia—Miss Buckley.
Old Shepherd, reputed father of Perdita—Miss Dickson.
Clown, his son—Miss Moodie.
Antiochus, a rogue—Miss Allison.
A Goadler—Miss Playle.
An Officer—Miss Unghart.
A Lord—Miss Bonnar.
A Gentleman—Miss Blain.
A Messenger—Miss Crews.
Time—The Chorus—Miss Beldou.
Hermione, Queen to Leontes—Miss Rothwell.
Perdita, daughter to Leontes—Miss Keith.
Paulina, wife to Antigonus—Miss Campbell.
Emilia, a lady attending on Hermione—Miss Barrie.
First Lady, attending on Hermione—Miss Menzies.
Second Lady, attending on Hermione—Miss Connel.
Mopsa, a shepherdess—Miss Bain.
Dorcas, a shepherdess—Miss Mason.

The elections for the executive of the recently-constituted University College Athletic Association took place on Wednesday, with the following result: President, C. B. Henderson; vice-president, R. E. Grass (aet.); secretary-treasurer, E. Bris- (aet.); 3rd year councillor, J. S. Allen; 4th year councillor, A. R. Ramsay; (aet.); 1st year councillor, E. E. Kern.

A FRENCH EVENING

The Modern Language Club held its last French meeting on Monday in room 11, at 4 p.m. Essays on French-Canadian poets and poetry were read by Miss Keils, Miss Russell and Miss Nicholson. Miss Kirby and Mr. Jeanneret read some French-Canadian poems. The French choral class gave several selections, and Miss Nelson and Miss Dickson rendered, in a very charming manner, two of the popular songs.

Next Monday evening, March 14, at 8 p.m., in East Hall, an Italian play, "Un Carosso Accidente," by Goldoni, will be presented under the auspices of the club.

MISS DAWSON IS PRESIDENT

The elections for the executive of the Women's Literary Society of Victoria College were held on Wednesday. The offices were filled as follows: Hon. Pres., Miss N. Lewis; President, Miss Mural Dawson, '12; Recording Sec., Miss E. Kelly, '12; Corresponding Sec., Miss E. Brown, '13; Critic, Miss E. Gibson, '11; Assistant Critic, Miss E. M. Baker, '13; Aet. Victoria representatives: Literary Editor, Miss Helen Doherty, '11; Locals, Miss Hazel Farley, '12.

MARCH MONTHLY

The March number of the University Monthly came out on Wednesday and is one of the best issued this year. Mr. W. H. White, K.C.B., LL.D., contributes an article on "The Imperial College of Science and Technology." Prof. Squair gives some notes on his recent visit to Switzerland, and Principal Hutton, who is at present in Paris, gives a series of French impressions. There are also articles by Dr. Morley Currie, M.P., and Prof. McGregor Young. Miss Helen M. Merrill, the Canadian poetess, is represented by a poem, "When the Bluebirds Sing." A review of Dean Fernow's new History of Forestry, by Mr. S. A. Cullum, and several timely editorials round off an especially good number. Mr. Kyle, the present editor, is to be congratulated on the generally interesting and valuable character of the Monthly during the past year.

VARSITY STANDS PAT ON THE HOCKEY DECISION

Athletes to Compete in First Dominion Championships—The Lacrosse Program

The hockey situation remains practically unchanged as far as Varsity is concerned. After the strenuous objection of the Blue and White to the action of the executive in ordering them to play McGill in Ottawa without a draw, they were again ordered to play this game. No attention was paid to this, however. McGill played Queen's in Ottawa recently, being easily beaten by the score of 8-2. Queen's now claim to be intercollegiate champions. What will develop next season is a question. It seems impossible for the league to exist without Varsity, and a break-up seems quite probable.

LACROSSE TEAM WILL TOUR.

The Varsity Lacrosse Club will make their usual New York trip, leaving here about the 14th of May. Tom Hanley will manage the team and Frank Park will be captain. Among the players who are expected to tour out are Saunders, Gundy, McSloy, Hanley, Frank Hinds and W. Powers. Thompson, the football player, intends to try for the team.

The games arranged are—
May 25—Yohart University, Geneva, N.Y.

May 26—Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.
May 28 and 31—Crescent A. C., Brooklyn, N.Y.

June 4 and 5—Johns Hopkins Alumni, Baltimore.

AN INNOVATION

Varsity is sending twelve men to Quebec on Friday to compete in the first championships ever held by the Canadian colleges in boxing, wrestling and fencing.

The event will take place at Kingston Friday afternoon and evening. Varsity, Queen's and McGill taking part. It is expected that it will become a fixture in intercollegiate athletics.

The Varsity learners going are Gouding, 19th winner, and Duncan, this year's champion.

The wrestlers are the winners in the recent tourney here, and are: R. A. MacKenzie, 135-pound class; W. M. Davidson, 135-pound class; G. A. Keith, 145 pounds; O. S. Elliott, 158 pounds; A. McKenzie, heavy-weight.

G. ALLAN KEITH

Winner of University Middleweight Wrestling Championship.

The boxers are the winners in the Varsity tourney, as follows: R. F. Davidson, 125 pounds; W. Jarvis, 135 pounds; G. M. Morgan, 145 pounds; W. A. Willison, 158 pounds; E. C. Gage, heavyweight. There is to be no 145 pound class.

DIRECTORATE ELECTIONS

The University Athletic Directorate elections are held for Tuesday, March 14th, in the gym. There is considerable interest being taken in them and the candidates are working hard. The nominations so far are as follows:

Wm. Foulds, Science, Jas. Bell, Arts; S. C. S. Kerr, Arts; Frank Park, Meds.; Tom Hanley, Meds.; Otis Wright, School; Frank Halban, Arts; Lou Sebert, Meds.

Owing to the illness of Prof. Eland, who was to have preached the University sermon on March 13th, there will be no service in Convocation Hall on Sunday morning. When it was learned that Prof. Eland was ill, repeated efforts were made to fill the vacancy, but it has been impossible to secure a speaker for the occasion. A WORD FOR TENNIS

As the snow lies gradually away into drifts, straggling stretch, and the grass begins to show fresh and green on campus and boulevard, thoughts of approaching exams press more heavily upon the minds of toiling undergraduates. That depressing article, the "Blue Paper," harbinger of woe—has made its appearance with the returning courts, and has cast a somber tinge over the acid distance. Not a few, however, are looking wistfully beyond the darksome period of "storm and stress" to the opening of a more welcome season. To many, the balmy air and the faint, green bloom creeping timidly up to the edges of the last streaks of snow on the tennis courts, bring thoughts of hours to be spent with the racket and the flying ball.

Tennis is a game which is detected by popular at the University. All classes, more or less, indulge in it to some extent. The fairly rugged player finds it a welcome change from the sterner struggles of the gridiron, a sport which calls for less sheer avoirdupois, and at the same time demands all the skill and quickness developed in the more strenuous game. The hockey player takes naturally to a sport which requires the exercise of just those qualities of precision and quickness which are the graces of success in Canada's most popular game. The gymnast and the indoor athlete turn eagerly to tennis as a practical application of that suppleness and nicely-calculated dexterity which the gymnast develops. And the man who has no particular hobby and who the other sports make tedious, the instrument of an all-round physical development. This latter class is not a small one, and one has only to visit the tennis courts in the fall, when the tournament is in progress, to see what a large and devoted following the game has at the University.

Despite the popularity of the game, the accommodation hitherto provided for its devotees has been extremely poor. A series of four courts for a University of 4,000 students is ridiculously inadequate. And when we add to this that these four courts are usually in very poor condition—in such poor condition, indeed, as to render really first-class play impossible—it must be evident that the tennis players at the University have cause for grievance.

The poorness of the accommodation is, of course, most keenly felt when the tournament is in progress. It necessitates spending the tournament over such a long period that quite frequently the bad weather sets in before the events can be played off. It may be urged that there are sufficient courts now to accommodate those who play during the summer and early fall. But if there were more and better courts, students would be able to play tennis at the University who are now prevented from doing so or are forced to join outside clubs.

Now that the new buildings are to be erected in the south of and adjacent to the gymnasium, most of the present tennis grounds, which as it is, will be hit out, and courts will have to be provided elsewhere. This is a favorable time to undertake the building of really first-class courts, such as will be a source of pride and not a disgrace to the University as the present ones are. The authorities have the matter in consideration, and promise that steps will be taken to provide proper accommodation. The space at the rear of Wylie College, the ravine to the south of the gymnasium, and the quadrangle of the University residences, are suggested sites. We should have at least six or seven courts, and these should be prepared in a manner which will make them permanent. There is no reason why we should have clay or either courts as well as grass. In view of the fact that the excavation for the new buildings will likely commence about the beginning of July, and that the present courts will therefore be rendered useless for this summer and the coming fall, immediate action would be appreciated by all those who intend playing tennis in the near future, who are in need of the examinations have melted from the landscape.

SECOND OR FIRST

It is the season of annual meetings and elections of officers for next year's work. With a feeling of relief the present graduating years pass on the chief officers of societies to the junior years. A new set of men will be in charge of affairs next year and things will go on much in the same manner as in past years. But societies should not be satisfied with an executive that is content to tread the well-beaten path of yearly routine. Rather, should they seek to elect such a body to the chief offices that some advance will be witnessed in such society. Men of high calibre are needed and it should be the responsibility of every man to cast about so that men of the first rank may be induced to undertake the work. It may be argued that the comparative unimportance of a society makes it hardly worth the trouble, but if any organization is of so little importance, is that not a very excellent argument for its discontinuance?

Every student has some place to fill in college life. In the varied activities we can all have our part to play and it is not a small thing if we fail to play our part. We are lesser men if carelessness or lack of moral courage causes us to turn away from what we could have done and ought to have done. Sometimes it is in football, sometimes in social life, sometimes in literary society, sometimes in curriculum that a man sees before him a thing that was his and his alone to do. That the college and our college mates have lacked something they have had is a great loss. Though the service may have seemed small, it is to be remembered that all human beings have a defective sense of ultimate value. But one thing is sure: the character of the man has suffered. It at best means average where it might have meant excellent. In such a way there is a clear duty for us in our larger life in the world. One man's duty cannot be done by another. Those who release their task at the very most can only be average men, and only a second place is left for them.

On Friday night the Glee Club conducted a function to give a concert. The concert was to have been given last Friday evening, but owing to a hitch in the arrangements for the hall, the event had to be postponed. As it was impossible to secure a hall for this evening, the concert had to be carried over for two weeks. The chorus leaves Toronto late Friday afternoon and will not be back till after midnight, and as the University College I.L. elections take place on that day, arrangements had to be made to have the home halls open longer than usual to enable the University College members of the Glee Club to cast their votes. The polling will take place in the gymnasium building

ELECTION TIME IS DRAWING NEAR

Both the Engineering Society and the Lit. are in Midst of Campaign

Electrons are in the air, and at least two of the autonomous groups which go to make up the University will be cast into turmoil in the near future. Tonight the Engineering Society elections take place in the Engineering Building, and all good "School" men will cast work and worry to the winds for at least one night to make sure that their particular candidate receives his due support and incidentally to let loose the pent-up stores of high spirits. This is the Big Night in the School, man's calendar, and for the women, exams are forgotten. After it is over, every one settles down to steady plugging. That the elections do not go tamely by acclamation will be seen by the list of nominations in another column of this section.

The election campaign at University College is also nearing its final stage. Both Unionists and Old Lit. followers are straining every nerve to secure the last wavering freshman, and wildly argumentative parliaments with formalistic platform, and around the halls. At present the parties are busily coming over their list of possible candidates for office. There are so many offices allotted to each year, and the candidates for these are chosen at the last of the year. The last of these will be held today, the last party tickets will be announced at the general convocation, and tonight the formal nominations will take place at the last regular meeting of the Society. Early next week a public meeting will be held by arrangement between the two parties, when the platforms and past records of the respective parties will be subjected to all the criticisms that can be mustered. Many of the freshmen want to hear the arguments advanced at this time before finally deciding their party allegiance. Next Friday evening the elections will take place, the graduates voting for president at the downtown polls, and undergraduates voting on the whole ticket in the gymnasium during the evening. Polls will also be opened at noon for the benefit of Jewish members of the Society, and members of the City Club going to Hamilton that evening.

With such important occasions in undergraduate life, the hearing of a crisis, it is small wonder if the library and study are being sparsely patronized just at present.

School Men had a Big Night on Friday—Full Results of Elections

Election night—long will it be remembered by the "School" men, being in it is the last, the very last, of his list of social functions for the 1909-10 college year. It was his conception of what society circles should consist of as ideal for "the younger set," and moreover he was right at home, dressed to suit the occasion. Much credit is due those whose painstaking endeavours rendered the event so entertaining.

THAT $16,200

To the Editor of "Varsity":
Dear Sir,—Owing to the princely generosity of the trustees of the estate of the late Hart A. Massey, a new University V.M.C.A. building is to be erected and completely equipped and the money which was so freely subscribed by the students will, therefore, not be needed for that purpose. The question as to what arrangements shall be made regarding these subscriptions is accordingly raised. We believe that the money due to the estate to another use which will appeal even more strongly to the generosity of the men than that of providing a building for their own use. We refer to the establishment of a University settlement.

The state of affairs in the downtown district of our city demands most imperatively that something be done to improve the conditions among the people living there. Not only is this the case, but the establishment of a settlement would afford an excellent channel through which the students of all faculties could do most effective work and carry on extremely interesting and instructive investigations. The work would consist largely of educational classes, physical training, and teaching along social, moral and religious lines. The fact that the work in such an institution is primarily of the nature of a preventative rather than a cure insures much more permanent results than are obtained in a mission.

The details in connection with this project are by no means complete as yet. We wish, however, to take this last opportunity of intimating through the columns of the Varsity that those who have contributed to the V.M.C.A. building fund will be asked to transfer their subscriptions to the support of this new project. When the definite appeal is presented to them, we are confident that they will show their appreciation of the magnificent gift which they have received by allowing their subscriptions to be used in extending the University work to a field where it is so much needed.

I thank you for the opportunity of drawing the attention of your readers to this matter.

Most sincerely,
PAUL R. BRECKEN.

HISTORICAL CLUB

At the annual meeting of the Historical Club last Thursday, the election of the executive for next year resulted as follows:—Hon. Pres., Prof. Wrong; Pres., M. M. Hart; Vice-Pres., E. M. Wong; Sec.-Treas., T. L. Armstrong; Councilors, Prof. E. J. Kyrie, K. H. McCrimmon.

A HONEST DEBT

In this our last issue we make a final appeal to those of our subscribers who have hitherto turned a deaf ear to the appeal of the business manager. We are not now asking it as a "special favor," but as the payment of an honest debt. No one has been put on the list without being notified to return a marked copy if he desired to discontinue his subscription. Our part of the contract has now been fulfilled, and we now look to the fulfillment of the subscriber's half.

GLEE CLUB

A full attendance of members of the Glee Club is requested at the practice Thursday, March 17th, at 5 p.m., in the Medical Building. At this practice, membership cards will be distributed to all the members, entitling them to free transportation and all the privileges to be enjoyed by members of the club. Any person not a member of the club may obtain transportation at the reduced fare of $1.20 return by notifying the secretary, H. D. Lee, 42 Wood street, and presenting themselves at the station. The special train carrying the Glee Club will leave the Union Station, Toronto, at 5:45 p.m., Friday, March 18th, leaving Hamilton at 11 a.m. Saturday for the return.

A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

To the Editor of Varsity:

My dear Sir,—Your request that I should address a few words to the readers of "Varsity," in the last issue of the year, makes me realize how much of the session already lies behind us. Although each day taken by itself may have seemed to produce little definite result, a survey of the past months would show that a great deal has been accomplished within the University, and I have no doubt that our annual intellectual stock-taking at examination time will prove that the real life of the University has during the past winter been prosperous.

Unquestionably, the most outstanding feature of the term has been the splendid offer made to the University by the executors of the Massey estate in memory of the late Hart A. Massey. This gift, worthy in conception and munificent in spirit, will meet the most pressing need of the University at present. In stately and commodious buildings, which will lighten the self-respect of every student who will use them, all the interests and activities of the men, outside the classroom and laboratory, will be given ample scope within a definite area on the grounds. I have no doubt that the possession of such buildings will dignify the life of the undergraduate and foster the development of a strong University spirit.

I wish also to congratulate those who are interested in the work of the V.M.C.A. on the sum of $16,200 which they have had subscribed for the equipment of their new building. Apart from the interest thus manifested in this particular student organization, it is a proof of what may be done by well-directed effort on the part of students for any University object which may appeal to them. Efforts of this sort increase the spirit of loyalty, and I hope that we may continue to receive permanent memorials of the good-will of the graduating classes, or of the whole body of students at any one time.

It is early yet to write any farewell words for the session, but I hope that we may accomplish with success what remains to be done in the academic year. Yours,

R. A. FAICOMER.

CANDIDATES ARE NOW IN THE FIELD

Friday was Nomination Night at the Lit.—War-circles Much in Evidence

With the announcement of the rival candidates on Friday evening, the University College Lit. election campaign came to a head, and since then enthusiasm has been gaining greater headway each day. The Unionists were the first in the field. They had their nomination caucuses about the middle of the week, and on Friday morning, a large placard, bearing their full list of candidates, made its appearance in the rounds. The Old Lit. caucuses were held on Friday afternoon, and by four o'clock there was no doubt about who were to be the rivals for the respective offices. The recent change in the constitution, reducing the number of executive offices, made the choosing of candidates a simpler matter than in former years, and while the meagre list of seven names is a big contrast to the imposing list of seventeen candidates which used to be presented to the electors, both parties are agreed that the quality of the candidates is of paramount importance. The respective presidential candidates, of course, have been announced, but the formal election, even nomination of these gentlemen, will come along with the undergraduate nomination on Friday night.

A large number of students went to the nomination meeting, which is the last regular meeting of the Society's year, and the enthusiasm and party spirit ran high. As the evening comes but once a year, President Russell was somewhat lenient in his ruling, and the noise at times was of that peculiar character that heralds coming elections. The Unionists had prepared a number of parodies, introduced a number of songs to the facing matrons' references to the character and fate of the Old Lit. party, and had given an opportunity to monopolize the vociferousness, and only snatches of the songs were audible above the yells and party war-cries of the Old Lit. men.

This being the final meeting, there was little business transacted, beyond the presentation of reports by officers and committees. A motion by Mr. Fleming, to have the University College representatives to the Undergraduate Parliament elected by individual voters instead of by the Literary Society as a body, raised a small cloud of oratorical dust. After Messrs. Fleming, Mcarty, Sibbald, Scott, Ramsden, Park and Holmes had landed words and figures for some time, the motion was carried by a small majority. It was decided to lend the newly-formed Athletic Association the sum of $25.00 with which to enable them to get things started. The model for the oratory contest was presented to the winner, Mr. A. S. Sibbald.

Then came nominations, Old Lit. and Unionist candidates being nominated alternately. The following is the Old Lit. ticket:

President—Geo. Wilkie, B.A.
Vice-President—F. P. Varcoe.
Secretary—B. H. Scott.
Treasurer—B. R. Allen.
Assistant Sec'y.—G. F. Saywell.
Councilors—W. V. Hearst, H. L. Nicholson.

The Unionist ticket is as follows:
President—C. M. Morris.
Vice-President—A. S. Sibbald.
Secretary—W. M. McNally.
Treasurer—A. P. Park.
Assistant Sec'y.—W. J. Reilly.
Councilors—F. D. Housier, D. S. Hallford.

WHEN WILL IT BE?

Varsity have been trying for some time to arrange a game for the championship with St. Michael's College, the present holders of the title. The night was first proposed on a suitable date, then St. Michael's asked that it be postponed till Wednesday. Now comes the announcement that St. Michael's and Queen's will play for the Allan Cup on that night. It begins to look as if St. Michael's are deliberately trying to sidestep Varsity's challenge.

A. D. CAMPBELL, President-elect Engineering Society.

The hobo band was a charming feature. Do you want some more music? asked a member. "No—no more music; just play something." Paper fights and handball boxing were most amusing numbers, Jimmie Merton helping us the fun by his unique refereeing. A wrestling bout between Hastings and Alexander was very interesting and exciting. The basketball game between Junior and Senior School resulted in a win for the former. It was lively to the extreme, and was in fact a good exhibition of the game. The tag-of-war brought tears to the eyes of those holding down the distinctive tables, and the silence was broken as victory was gradually induced to settle upon the men under the ban of the unlucky number. In the second struggle it was anybody's rope until Mike Barry calmly picked up an end, executed a finger flick, and cheered on by Jimmie Stewart, pulled both sides to defeat.

Distinguished spectators there were, members of the Engineering alumni, who dropped in after their downtown dinner; also Mr. L. C. Moyer. Upon the platform, everybody was a member of the change number and everyone else a cotton king, and great fun was had by all.

The voters, everyone, reached the polling booth through the equivalent of life and were voted as they thought best, and withdrew (as others thought best), cherishing a couple of apples and oranges, picked up en route. With a view to evaporating spontaneously accumulated moisture, each proceeded to hide his person in the cloud of gray from the eora-rob, similar to the one which aided grace and hearing to the contestants of everybody else.

Soon the returns began to mount the stairs, arm in arm with Dolly Black. Each voter, in his turn, bore upon the shoulders of increased enthusiasm and hilarity to a table most different of access, from whence he endeavoured, first to descend, second, to rain clouds of thanks upon ears already deafened from within. Then, filling up the pipes once more, we meekly and peaceably pushed them homeward.

The following is a full list of the election results:—

President, Angus D. Campbell; 1st Vice-Pres., Ross L. Dobbin; 2nd Vice-Pres.—Civil and Arch., H. M. Murphy; Chem. and Mining, E. A. Freeman; Elec. and Mech., F. H. Down-

A SETTLEMENT

In another column of this issue is published a statement by the general secretary of the University Y.M.C.A., announcing that the fund subscribed by undergraduates for the furnishing of the new Y.M.C.A. building is to be devoted instead to the founding of a University settlement. The diversion of this sum of $16,000 to another purpose has been occasioned by the recent gift of the Massey estate, which includes a handsome building for the Y.M.C.A. The announcement of this generous action came just after the undergraduates of the University had subscribed the sum of $16,000 for the furnishing of a new building, which was expected to erect with the aid of graduates and friends of the University. The managers of the Y.M.C.A. were at first uncertain whether the generous offer of the Massey estate made provision for the furnishing and equipment of the new building, the expense of which they were still prepared to meet with the amount subscribed by the undergraduates. Now comes the announcement, however, that the new buildings are to be furnished and equipped throughout by the donors. The Y.M.C.A. has therefore decided to employ the $16,000 in founding a University settlement, providing this meets with the approval of the subscribers.

That such a settlement would be an immense force for good in the life of our University city is undoubted. A well-organized social settlement with facilities for promoting the physical, mental and spiritual welfare of the vast neglected and degraded portion of Toronto's population, would give the undergraduates of this University an opportunity for social service which would be of incalculable benefit. No better form of University "extension work" could be entered into. Students are often accused of living in isolated selfishness, and of cultivating a disdainful aloofness from the crying social problems around them. This accusation is not always just. University life necessarily implies and demands a certain withdrawal from the busy-boddy of civic affairs. But there are some things which we could do while at the University to help diminish the ignorance, vice and stultification around us. A University settlement would provide the means for such service.

The form and detail of the project might be a subject for difference of opinion. The organization, however, should undoubtedly be carried on by the Y.M.C.A., through which those who found time or inclination to participate in the work would come into touch with it. The decision of the Y.M.C.A. management to devote the money subscribed to this purpose, now that it is no longer required for furnishing the new building, will, we believe, meet with the approval of the undergraduate body. No one, we are sure, could object to his subscription being employed in such a work.

NUMBER FORTY

This is number forty and the last issue of The Varsity for this academic year. There are two reasons why Varsity is compelled to cease publication so long before the actual close of the term. In the first place it is necessary that the editors and staff be given an opportunity to get into a mood for the coming pageant of exams, and to exchange their journalistic style for one more acceptable to the arbiters of their academic fate. If professors would accept of a few issues of Varsity in lieu of the customary examination papers, such a course might not be necessary—but, alas, it cannot be. The hard-working and self-sacrificing editors must also present themselves before the dread tribunal along with the common throng, and so Varsity must fall to the fair.

The other reason is that even with the above difficulty removed, it is doubtful if it would be possible for The Varsity to fill its columns between now and examination time. This conservative and respectable journal might have to resort to the methods of such sensational contemporaries as "The Evening Blast" to give its readers something for their money. At present, there is no dearth of news, but in a few days elections will be over and the undergraduate body will be dead to the world. The "School" is already plunged in stulticulous oblivion; for some time the Meds. have been strangers to the election cigarette; and Arts will shortly be in the same state of pre-examination absorption. Since this condition of things gives rise to little news, it would be difficult to keep the compositor supplied with "copy." So Varsity must put up its shutters till next fall.

This issue is being shared before the public gaze by an associate, the editors-in-chief having already harvested their journalistic quills for eye-shades and midnight oil, and sent in their "blue-papers" to the registrar. To their unselfish and loving labor is due the high character of The Varsity during the last year. They have de-

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

The third year are holding their final class meeting for this term, on Wednesday, March 27, at 4 p.m., in East Hall, when the reports of the officers, the class poem, prophecy, history, etc., will be read and a good musical program presented. The executive will recommend that next year the class substitute something more unique for the usual year "at home." The size of the executive will also be discussed. All "twenty-winners" are urged to be present.

The fourth year deeply sympathize with Mr. A. Fry in the loss sustained in the death of his father some days ago.

A freshman has at last decided the real difference between the two parties at the l.i.t. This difference was made manifest in his speech Friday evening, beginning, "Mr. Chairman, Unionists and gentlemen."

Mr. Charles Brookfield Henderson, '14, has made two valuable inventions, and is at present spending his time in the reference library, looking over the list of patents to see if no other ingenious person has already patented them.

Mr. A. L. Fleming told us Friday evening that J. G. Merrick was the man most instrumental in having the foundation of the old gymnasium torn out of the rear campus. He is no sort of man to have round whom the authorities are planning the erection of so many new buildings.

APPLIED SCIENCE

The third year class in mining held a dinner at McCabey's on Thursday evening. Professors Hamilton and Coleman were among the guests of the evening. The latter responded to the toast, "The Faculty," and the former to "The Mining Profession." Brief speeches were made by Messrs. Matthews, Gordon, Green, and Hopkins. Mr. J. L. King acted as toastmaster.

At the dinner of the Engineering Alumni Association, held at the St. Charles on Friday evening, the matter of scholarships was openly discussed and several good suggestions and favorable criticisms from Messrs. Oliver, Bieble, Dupuis, Prof. Hamilton and Dr. Galbreath were the result. President Richards acted as chairman. After the election of officers for next year's executive, the meeting adjourned early to attend the Engineering Society elections.

The meeting of the Electrical Club to have been held on the 10th was postponed until Thursday next. A paper will be read by Mr. W. P. Dobson, '10. This being the last meeting of the year, the election of officers will take place. A good attendance is therefore expected between the second, third and fourth years.

Mr. J. C. Street, '09, is in town at present and attended the elections on Friday evening. Messrs. Sara, Spence and Macintosh, also of '09, were likewise among the visitors. Mr. Macintosh has secured a position in town with the New Fenelon Elevator Co.

One heartless voice that was made conspicuous by its absence on Friday night was that of J. C. Harper, who sends his regrets from Pittsburgh, Mass.

MEDICAL NOTES

Although several weeks have elapsed since the death occurred in Vancouver of Mrs. Dr. Acheson, comparatively few of the medical students have heard of her demise. Mrs. Acheson, formerly Miss Armour, was for several years a housekeeper in Dr. Prinsor's office in the medical college, and was one of the most popular young ladies that the students have ever known. A remarkable gift of Mrs. Acheson's was her facility for remembering names and faces. Although there were some two hundred new students every year and a total number of over 300 all the time, Mrs. Acheson could name each student individually the moment she caught sight of his face. A little over a year ago Miss Armour became the wife of Dr. Acheson, a recent graduate who went west and commenced practice in Vancouver, B.C.

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

The "At Home" will be held in the East Hall, Main Building, on Friday, the 18th, instead of the 22nd, as previously announced.

Discussion before Mathematics exam.

Mr. Barkholder—"Where is the absurdity?"

Mr. Stephen (who stands opposite)—"The absurdity is right in front of you?"

The program for the next meeting of the Literary Society will be furnished by the men.

Mr. Barkholder is busily engaged organizing a mock parliament, in which he desires to play the part of a sceptic. All agree that he understands the matter thoroughly.

During the past week much dissatisfaction has been felt by the majority of students. One of the facts that a few took possession of the mathematics tests belonging to the office of the Dean says, the only consolation is that they came back, but in this case not until after the exam. Next year it is to be hoped there will be a system similar to the University library.

TRINITY NOTES

On Wednesday last the message of Ericson was read by the scribble—J. D. Baxley.

A general meeting of the Athletic Association was held on Thursday to discuss nominations for next year's officers.

Friday saw a similar meeting of the Literary Society. The program before the students came up consisted in a debate between the fourth year and the first year on the subject of education. The Reverend the Dean, Rev. F. B. Frothingham and Mr. J. N. Woolcock acted as judges. The award was given to the fourth year entirely on the merits of style. The judges considered the subject unsuitable except for experts familiar with its technicalities.

A College meeting was held on Saturday, at which much business of very divergent kinds was brought up. The item of interest was the announcement that the Song Book would be published in October.

The Glee Club will hold their annual concert on Thursday, the 31st of March. Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell and Mr. Henry Such will be the assisting artists and a farewell concert is assured. Mr. W. S. Blyth is secretary.

On Saturday afternoon, Dr. W. A. Kirkwood lectured on "Recent Archaeological Research in Greek Lands." The lecture, which was most interesting, was illustrated by many slides, which depicted a wonderfully advanced art and civilization though belonging to a pre-hellenic age. The site of the Oracle palace, where the excavations were made, has been inhabited since about seven thousand years, B.C.

The last lecture will be given on the 19th inst., by Dr. Albert Han, on "Modern Music" (illustrated).

A LETTER

The Historical Club of the University of Toronto is composed of an organization whose membership is drawn from among the best and most representative men in the University. It is confined to no one college, far less to any one class or section of undergraduates, and the character of its membership is ostensibly sound scholarship and evidenced ability. The proceedings and transactions of such a body would be expected to be characterized by broad-mindedness and to be free from any taint of unscrupulousness. It is somewhat surprising, therefore, to find what took place at its recent elections.

What is specially referred to is the election for President. The writer nominated for the office a gentleman who during the past year has taken an active part in the meetings of the Club, and whom a large number had signified their intention of supporting. Another gentleman was nominated against whom the writer has no personal objection whatever. A third gentleman, however, then rose to his feet, and nominated the writer of this letter for the office, stating that he thought it was only right that the gentleman who had filled the Secretary-Treasurership during the past year should be elected to the presidency. The writer requested several times, and finally insisted that the nomination be withdrawn. The gentleman, however, firmly refused to do so, and the writer's name, in spite of his protest, was left on the ballot. The writer's nominee was defeated, and several votes were cast for the writer himself.

After the meeting, the gentleman who had nominated the writer, was asked for an explanation, and stated with surprising frankness, that his motives had been entirely different from the ones stated at the meeting, namely that he had wanted to split the vote in an endeavor to split the party for the writer's nominee. There had been a desire, he said, to see a person who had been elected to certain political views which he held. The political views of a candidate opposed on these grounds, it is to be regretted that such suspicious electioneering methods should be resorted to in the anxiety to exclude him from office.

KNOX COLLEGE

The annual meeting of the "Lit." was held last Tuesday evening. The officers for the session 1940-41 are as follows:—President, E. R. McLean, B.A., 1st Vice-Pres., D. J. Lane, B.A., 2nd Vice-Pres., J. D. Barnaville, B.A., critic, B. N. Matheson, B.A., Rec.-Sec., R. M. Campbell, B.A., Cor. Sec., H. A. Boyd, B.A., Treas., J. A. Tuer, B.A., Sec. of Com., J. M. Swatt, B.A., Convener, H. J. McFarlane, Councilors, M. Staphes, J. M. Pritchard, H. S. Clouston.

The elections for the Missionary Society will take place on Tuesday of this week. The society are sending forty men in mission fields this spring and the applicants will be made in a few days.

Last Saturday two of our professors, Dr. Kilpatrick and Prof. Macleay, delivered their closing lectures for the session to the senior class. It was the last for the term for both of them, and, it is feared, the last in the college for one of them. After the farewell words of each, the election and appreciation of the class was briefly expressed by one of its members, and three more and nearly thirty were given for these men who have been teachers and friends to all of us.

The year is drawing to a close. Lectures end on Wednesday of this week. The programme of the examinations extends from March 23rd to April 2nd, and the date of convocation is fixed for April 6th.

Perhaps we will be glad when the strain of exams is over, but we are loath to see such a pleasant college year come to an end. The session has been an especially happy one. The House Committee, under the strong hand of "Bill" Cameron, has maintained peace and order, the "grub" has been very satisfactory, and the Missionary and Literary Societies, under W. Scott and "Bishop" Dickson, have contributed their share of interest and efficiency.

WOMAN'S LIT. ELECTIONS

The annual elections of the Women's Literary Society of University College were held on Saturday, December 1st. It was decided that the Lit. should send two delegates to the conference at Elgin House this year, these delegates to be the president and a representative from the incoming third year. The retiring president then announced that the membership of the Women's Lit. had this year reached the record figures of one hundred and fifty-one, and the treasurer reported a large surplus.

The elections resulted as follows:—Hon. Pres., Mrs. Addison, President; Miss A. McLean, '41, Vice-Pres., Miss J. Irving, '41, 4th year, Miss J. Starr, '41, critic, Miss G. Macleay, '42, treasurer, Miss M. Ford, '42, 3rd year rep., Miss B. Russell, '42, Rec.-Sec., Miss R. Kirby, '42, Cor.-Sec., Miss J. Rourke, '43, and year rep., Miss M. Darrach, '43. Varsity Board:—4th year rep., Miss B. Macleay, '42, 3rd year rep., Miss B. Kilpatrick, '42.
